Dates from this port are to the 19th Sept.; the Pacific mail steamer, with advices from New York to the 24th July, arrived out on the 28th Aug., and the P. and O. mail, with London dates 15th July, on the 7th Sept.; telegrams from London had been received to the 1st Sept. The following items of intelligence are from the Hiogo News:—

Messrs. E. O. Kirby and Co. have imported a fresh boat from America, which is intended to run between here and Osaka. She is called the Kinshimaru, and only draws two feet of water. She has accommodation for about 300 passengers, and, now that the Budjimar is soon to pass into Japanese hands, she will, we are sure, prove a favourite with those whom business or pleasure call to travel between these ports.

The Chamber of Commerce, having under consideration the subject of the revision of the treaties, regulations of trade, &c., invite communications, in writing, before the 15th Oct., from those who are not members of the Chamber, with regard to any changes which they think are required. We need hardly point out the importance of fortifying the position of the Chamber.

By advices received from Tosa we learn that the first crop of rice was gathered nearly three weeks ago. Here it is only just come into flower, and two crops of rice is a thing unheard of. We are sorry to hear that a considerable amount of distress prevails amongst the people of Tosa, but cannot wonder thereat when we hear that the unfortunate inhabitants of that country are burdened with a paper currency so fearfully depreciated that it requires about 400 rios' worth to purchase 100 rios' worth of the kinsatz of the Imperial Government.

Amongst other ceremonies observed during the festival of Bon, which is now being celebrated, not the least curious is the fact that on the second day all prisoners in Osaka are released from close confinement, and are allowed to wander about and amuse themselves in the grounds of the Yaahiki in which their prison is situated. The Government finds them better food than their usual fare, and they are allowed to smoke—the use of the weed being strictly forbidden while in prison.

At a meeting of the board of trustees of the International Hospital of Hiogo, held at the hospital, Sept. 4th, a letter from the hon. secretary, on behalf of trustees, in reply to the communication of the Governor regarding the site for a new small-pox hospital, was read; and, as nothing further had been heard from Mr. Nakayama on this subject, it was decided to address him again, urging the necessity of prompt action in the matter.

Two hundred and fifty-three Mexican dollars being the sum contributed by the cabin passengers of the steamer China for the families of the crew of the Japanese junk met at sea, disabled, in June last, have been received from San Francisco. The crew originally numbered sixteen, of whom five only remain alive, and return by the China. But it was the desire of the contributors that the families of all should participate proportionally in the amount subscribed. The junk belonged to Kobe, and the five survivors will probably be sent there—through them you will be able to ascertain the names and residences of those lost.

At a general meeting of the Chamber of Commerce attention was drawn to the growing native settlement on the Ikuta road, and also to the obstructed state of the Eastern Camber.

NAGASAKI.

NAGASAKI, Sept. 15, via SAN FRANCISCO.

By the last mail via San Francisco, which left here on the 5th instant, I despatched my usual letter to you. Yesterday morning the English mail of the 28th July arrived here by the P. M. steamer New York, from Shanghai, forty-eight days from London. The movements of the vessels of war have been confined to the departure of the Danish frigate Tordenskjold, on the 6th instant for Foochow, and the arrival of H. B. M. transport Adventure from Yokohama on the same day, and left again on the 11th idem for Hong Kong. Men-of-war in harbour: Alaska and Ocean.

The chief event since my last is the occurrence of a fire in the native town, which, although not remarkable by reason of a large amount of property being destroyed, tends to illustrate the good feeling existing between the Japanese and the naval officers stationed here. The fire broke out early on Friday morning last, commencing in a small outhouse in the rear of the Omura Taski, situated in West Hamano-machi, and spread very rapidly on both sides of the street, and quickly destroyed some twenty-five houses. To what extent it would have extended had not part of the crew belonging to H.B.M.S. Ocean been landed to extinguish the flames is difficult to form an opinion, but the general impression is that there would have been a repetition of the disaster which occurred here in 1868, when several hundred houses were destroyed, had the natives been left to their own resources. The occasion afforded both the cosmopolitan community and the natives an opportunity of witnessing the discipline kept up on board vessels in the English navy, and the effect it is likely to have on the latter I am sure will be very great, as it formed the subject of their conversation for several days afterwards. The calm determined manner in which the marines went to work to pull down or prepare for blowing up the surrounding houses which appeared likely to take fire, elicited the praise of every one present. The Governor of Nagasaki on horseback, accompanied by about two hundred men armed with rifles, arrived at the fire, together with the native officials belonging to every department of the service, who came, amid much noise and tomfoolery, dressed in their picturesque but useless fire dresses. These nonentities did little more than become admiring spectators of the operations carried on by the men from the Ocean, and it is to be hoped that, after the lesson taught them, they will be at least a little less ready to make a better impression upon their own people when the next fire breaks out. The destructive nature of a Japanese fire is owing to the native houses being constructed chiefly of wood, and from their being built in rows, which leaves but little chance of saving the entire block when a fire commences; so that on these occasions the inhabitants get completely panic-struck, and it is a very common occurrence to see people whose dwellings are at least a quarter of a mile distant from a conflagration making preparations for carrying off their household goods—a precaution not entirely unnecessary at times. I believe that the Governor has thanked the captain and officers of the Ocean for the services rendered. Presents of pumpkins and seaweed have been made to the men, and although these are not costly the fact of their being sent is sufficient to show that a good feeling towards them exists.

I learn from the Nagasaki Express that a murrain has broken out amongst the cattle in the neighbouring district, which has destroyed over 150 head very recently. A number of foreign pigs which were recently purchased and taken to Simabara have all died from the same complaint. In the Tomatz valley, where four oxen have been lost daily, disease has also broken out amongst the poultry, and has carried off a great number of fowls, geese, and ducks.

The past week, so far as it has gone, has not been wanting in amusements. On Tuesday a picnic on Pappenburg was given, to which a large number of invitations were issued. On Wednesday evening theatricals on board the Ocean entertained numbers of the community; while the Chinese festival, which takes place at this time of the year, has afforded a certain amount of satisfaction to new arrivals and those persons who desire to make themselves acquainted with Chinese customs.

The reported export of coals from the 1st to 6th inst. is—Takasima, 514 tons; Karatz and other kinds, 1,568 tons; total, 2,082 tons.

An active business is now being done in tea, tobacco, and wax, the two latter articles for shipment per Zohrab. Freight and exchange unchanged. Nebus 355 to 390 per $100.

CHINA.

SHANGHAI.

Our advices from this port extend to the 22nd Sept.; the French mail, with London dates to the 4th August, arrived out on the 17th Sept. The following summary of news is from the North China Herald:—

The weather has been intensely hot during the fortnight, the thermometer ranging nearly to 80 deg. by night and over 90 deg. by day—still 10 deg. over last year. The only consolation is that it cannot last much longer; indeed a heavy rainstorm on the 1st Sept. has already cooled the atmosphere somewhat, and the activity in preparations for autumn sport has not been relaxed.

Mr. R. A. Mowat has returned from leave and taken up his appointment as law secretary; and Mr. G. Jamieson, who has been acting for the past two years in that capacity, has taken his turn for furlough. Mr. Solbe, of Chefoo, has been ordered to Ningpo, and Mr. C. W. Everard, now stationed at that port, is to replace Mr. Solbe. We hear that Mr. A. S. Harvey, who has been attached to the Shanghai Consulate for the last four years, is under orders for Newchwang; he will be replaced by Mr. Margary. Mr. Ford, who has now for twelve months been acting as shipping clerk, leaves at once for Canton. We cannot allow Mr. Ford to leave Shanghai without expressing our high opinion of the manner in which he has discharged the duties of what is no doubt a difficult post.

The Peking Gazette of August 30th mentions the appointment of the Shanghai Taoutai to be Judge of Hunan, and the transfer to Shanghai, in his stead, of Shen Ping-cheng, late Taoutai of Chinkeang.

The agent of the Messageries Maritimes announces that the company has inaugurated regular and direct service between Marseilles and London, and vice versa, in connection with the Shanghai line. The departure from Marseilles for London will take place immediately after the arrival of the China mail; and steamers will leave London in due time, to connect with the steamer from Marseilles for Shanghai.

The French mail steamer last week carried away one of our oldest residents—Mr. Thomas Hanbury, who, we believe, leaves us this time “for good and aye.” The occasion was taken by the Chinese to make a demonstration of respect and esteem which must have been very gratifying to its recipient. The Kung-ping compound and garden—profusely illuminated—were crowded by Chinese coming to say good-bye, amid constant discharges of Chinese fireworks, which culminated in a grand effort at the moment of Mr. Hanbury's departure, when Nanking-road fairly resounded to the explosion of crackers. Mr. Hanbury has been identified in many ways with the career of the settlement, his name is associated with many public undertakings, and he leaves behind him a record of much good work done.

It is said a little apprehension is felt in Peking as to the design of the Indian Government in trying to establish commercial relations with the Mahomedans in Yunnan; it is feared such an alliance would strengthen the latter. If so, the Chinese Government had better take steps to restore order in Yunnan, and open commercial relations themselves. One quarter of the large army which Li has in Chihli, for no conceivable purpose unless a possible foreign war, and one quarter of the funds annually lavished on arsenals, would re-conquer Yunnan in a year.

Our Tientsin correspondent writes that more heavy rain has fallen from the 11th to the 17th, and the water in the plains has risen considerably in consequence. The thermometer, too, has fallen to 50 deg., and the suffering of the country people who have sought refuge in Tientsin, and who are housed simply in matsheds, has been thus greatly increased. The price of maize, millet and other ordinary food has already risen considerably, and the villagers are selling their cattle to be slaughtered, having no means of feeding them; so that another element of distress is preparing. By-and-by they will have no cattle to use for ploughing. All this prospective distress is painful enough in itself, but there is the further danger of it causing brigandage. There has been a serious disturbance at Tientsin between French and German sailors. Some of the crew of a German ship got into an altercation in a grog-shop with two sailors of the Coulevre, and a number of men from the latter vessel subsequently got ashore—without, of course, the knowledge of their officers; the fact of vessels lying alongside the bund enables such evasion—and attacked several Germans, whom they wounded badly.

We mentioned, a few weeks ago, the arrival of a portion of the Cochin Chinese Embassy at Wuchang, and the deplorable death of one of the “tribute” elephants. The Viceroy now reports that the Ambassador himself has arrived, been entertained according to his rank and to ancient custom, and started for Peking, carrying with him the bones and skin of the deceased mammoth.

The case of one Mr. Augustus Broom, who was fined $10, and bound over with two sureties to keep the peace, in consequence of an assault on an “unfortunate female,” occupies considerably more space than we should have expected our contemporary, the Herald, to bestow on such a revolting subject. A column of this stuff in such a place seems so extraordinary that we can only attribute it to inadvertence on the part of the editor.

HONG KONG.

Dates from this port are down to the 28th Sept.; the London mail of the 18th August arrived on the 26th Sept., per Messageries steamer Alphee.

With reference to the movement initiated by the Hon. P. Ryrie to amend the unsatisfactory condition of the police, a meeting on which subject was reported in our issue of the 30th ult., another meeting was held on Sept. 25, which was attended by more than three hundred persons, being the largest assemblage ever collected to discuss any public question in the chair. The Hon. Mr. Ryrie was enthusiastically voted to the chair, and the feeling of the meeting was unanimous throughout. Resolutions condemnatory of the inefficiency and the high cost of the police, urging a strict investigation into the facts complained of, and expressing indignation at the inertness of the local Executive, were then passed; and a memorial to the Government was agreed to, praying for the granting of a Royal Commission to inquire into the whole facts. A vote of thanks to Mr. Ryrie and his brother justices for their prompt action in this matter was enthusiastically carried.

The Baron de Meritens has addressed a letter to the Chairman of the Chamber of Commerce respecting the cruising around, or blockade of this colony by Chinese vessels. The Baron says:—“All that it is now permitted me to say is, that my common sense refused to recognise the stoppage of vessels on the high seas under pretext of obliging them to pay a tax for importation, which at this moment is assuredly non-leviable. If this were done by a private ship, it would be called by its right name—an act of piracy. Is it not, nowadays, in fact, admitted on all hands that import duties are due only after goods have been imported? I shall pass over export duties in silence, only remarking that Hong Kong is a free port, and that in consequence there are no Customs duties payable thence. But even admitting this supposition to be erroneous, it certainly seems at first sight that any duties payable should go to the Colonial Treasury. I do not touch more at length in a letter so short upon the grave question of the freedom of the port, which in actual fact exists no longer save in the shape of a speculative theory.”

The last of the Jesuit priests of San José College at Macao, the Rev. Thomas Cahill, has left in the Sunshine for Manila, en route to Australia. Before leaving Macao the reverend gentleman received a complimentary letter from the Loyal Senate.

The report of the Union Insurance Company, for which Messrs. Dent, Palmer, and Co. are London agents, shows the nett premium for the half-year to be $288,302, or an increase of $17,000 on the previous half-year. Mr. Wm. Lamann and Mr. P. Ryrie have been elected directors in room of H. B. Lemann and G. J. Helland, resigned.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

—o— SINGAPORE.

Dates by this opportunity extend to the 7th Oct. On the 25th Sept. the P. and O. mail of 25th Aug. arrived; and on the 2nd Oct. the French mail came in, with London letters to 1st Sept.

The following is from the summary of the Strait Times—

The question of the Government steamers does not appear to be at all palatable to the Legislative Council, since its discussion has been further postponed. The difference of opinion existing between the committee appointed by the Administrator and Sir Harry Ord, regarding the sort of vessel required, has apparently disturbed all the plans in train; the greater portion of the community, however, think that unless a little economy is practised in the use of the Government vessels, constant employment would be found here for two, and even for three or four steamers, provided the Secretary of State could be induced to sanction the expenditure; and the balance of public opinion is strongly against the projected new vessel altogether, fearing that she will be kept constantly on the go, as well as the Pluto, which is allowed little or no rest. The opposition of Earl Kimberley is viewed with general favour by the community, and it is gratifying to observe that he keeps a careful watch over the local expenditure.

The Criminal Session of the Supreme Court opened on Oct. 2nd, before Sir William Hackett, Acting Chief Justice, and closed on the 6th. There were no cases of any great importance.

The Pluto recently made a visit to Salangore, taking down police inspector Barnum for the purpose of obtaining evidence against the pirates who robbed and killed the crew of the junk from Penang, and were the cause of the attack on the Pluto and the Rinaldo's men at Salangore, which led to the demolition of the forts and destruction of the town by the latter vessel. The pirates, however, did their horrid work so completely, having murdered no less than thirty-four men in the junk, that difficulty has been found in obtaining sufficient evidence to convict them. The helmsman, whose life is said to have been spared so that he might pilot the vessel to Salangore, is the only surviving witness of the tragedy, and it would have been running a serious risk to allow a case of such importance to go to a jury depending mainly on the testimony of a single Chinese witness. The inspector, we understand, succeeded in obtaining further evidence, and the case will probably be tried at the next Penang criminal session.

Six of the shipwrecked company of H.M.S. Megara have been brought to Java by the Dutch ship Jan van Brakel, Capt. de Roe-ver, which might have taken off more of them had not bad weather prevented. The names of those brought away are—Lieutenants Roxby and Haslewood, Assistant Paymaster H. A. Cummins, Boatswain H. Chambers, and F. Barnes (seaman). From Java we learn of a violent volcanic eruption of the Ternate mountain, on the island of that name, lasting about twelve days, and destroying a great number of houses and plantations. The inhabitants fled in terror to the neighbouring islands.

PENANG.

Dates are to the 9th Oct.; the P. and O. mail of 8th Sept. arrived out on the 7th Oct. The following items are from the Argus—

We understand that although the return of Sir Harry Ord has for several months past been reported as certain, it is not even probable that he will come among us again. We are informed that Sir Harry will spend October, November, and December, on the Continent, and that he has no intention of returning to England before January next, when the question of his re-assuming the reins of this Government will be considered. In the event of his returning to these Settlements, he will doubtless require some explanation from those who are at the helm of the Administration for sundry pitchforking operations of proteges into nice square holes, to the detriment of the public service, and no little discredit of a Government which, until Sir Harry Ord left the colony was acknowledged to be, in spite of errors, shortcomings, and offences, the very best Government these Settlements had ever seen.

On dit that his Excellency the Administrator intends paying Penang a visit.

Mr. Knight came up from Singapore by the Arabia, and has been engaged since in auditing the Government accounts. Mr. Knight has inspected the books of the magistrate's office at Butterworth.

In consequence of the resignation of Mr. Clark, the appointment of head master of the Free School has been given to Mr. Griffin, who arrived here in the steamer Japan, via Singapore.

The appointment of Mr. Paul P. de Oliveira as deputy inspector of police has, we believe, been made by Captain Speedy.

Commercial Report.

—o— IMPORTS.

YOKOHAMA.—A fair demand had continued for Grey Shirtings, but at the close the dealers were offering rather lower prices, which checked business to some extent. Moderate sales of Cotton Yarn had taken place, and at the close the market was firm. Taffachelass had been in better request, and a fair business continued to be done in Black Velvets. The market for Black Alpacas, Lastings, and Blankets showed some improvement. Quotations were as follows:—GE Grey Shirtings, 7½ lbs., $2.15 to 2.20 per piece; ditto, 8½ to 8½ lbs., $2.50 to 2.57½; ditto, 9 to 9½ lbs., $2.82 to 2.87½; GE White Shirtings, 56 to 60 reed, $2.65 to 2.85; ditto, 64 to 72 reed, $2.90 to 3.05; T-Cloths, 6 to 7 lbs., $1.70 to 2; Turkey Red Shirtings, $2.60 to 2.70; Taffachelass, double welt, $2.85 to 3.10; ditto, single, $2.30 to 2.70; Black Velvet, $8 to 9.25; Cotton Yarn, Nos. 16 to 24, $38 to 38.50; ditto, Nos. 28 to 32, $42 to 43; ditto, Nos. 38 to 42, $40 to 41; Woollens and Mixtures—Alpaca, 42 yards, $7.40 to 7.85; Camlets, S and BBB, $13.50 to 14.50; ditto, SS, $12 to 13; ditto, SSS, $9 to 10; Cloth, medium and broad, $1 to 1.75 per yard; Lastings, $10.25 to 11.25 per piece; Long Ells, assorted, $6 to 6.50; Orleans and Lustres, plain, $3.75 to 4.25; ditto, figured, $4.50 to 5; Lead, $5.50 to 6 per picul; Iron, Nail Rod, $2.60 to 3.20; Bars, $3.50 to 4.

HONGKONG.—Business was suspended for some days towards the end of August for the half-yearly native holiday, since which time there had been a small demand for Fancy Cottons and Woollens—staple goods being comparatively neglected. Cotton Yarn: The demand had been limited, and former rates were barely maintained. Grey Shirtings: These goods had also been less inquired for, and at closing current quotations could only with difficulty be obtained. Black Velvets were readily saleable at advancing rates. A small amount of business had been done in Turkey Red and Assorted Chintzes. Victoria Lawns were unsaleable. Camlets: Scarlet were asked for at a slight advance. Black Lustres continued saleable at former rates. Mousselines de Laine had been sold to a somewhat larger extent, and the value of suitable goods was fairly maintained. Blankets were somewhat higher, although no sales of importance had taken place. Quotations:—Cotton Yarn: Nos. 16 to 24, $118 to 120 per bale; 28 to 32, $128 to 130; 38 to 42, $118 to 120. Cotton Piece Goods: GE Grey Shirtings, 7 lbs., $2.20 to 2.25 per piece; 8½ to 8½ lbs., $2.52 to 2.55; 9 lbs., $2.85 to 2.90. GE White Shirtings, $2.40 to 2.70; T-Cloths, 6 to 7 lbs., $1.75 to 2; Drills, Dutch, 40 yds., $3.50; Brocades and Spots, $2.50 to 2.75; Dyed, $2.90 to 3.10; Chintz, assorted, 24 yds. 30-in., $1.50 to 2.50; Turkey Red, $2.50 to 3; Turkey Red Cambrics, 3 lbs., $2.45 to 2.55; Velvets, black, $7.75 to 8; Victoria Lawns, $1.10; Taffachelass, double warp, $2.50 to 2.67; single, $2.20 to 2.50; Camlets, SS, scarlet, $16.50 to 17.

HANKOW.—There had been a fair amount of business done, and for Grey Shirtings and Drills better rates had been obtained, but there was little animation, and a slight advance asked by holders of former goods had checked further sales. Grey Shirtings: Prices were Tls. 1.71 to 1.75 for 7 lbs., and Tls. 1.90 to 1.98 for 8½ lbs., with fair demand, but an advance generally asked; 9½ lbs. quoted Tls. 2.40 to 2.55 per piece. White Shirtings quiet, and quoted as before. T-Cloths: Common and ordinary 6 and 7 lbs. inquired after, and sales at Tls. 1.20 to 1.25, and Tls. 1.40 to 1.45 respectively. In Mexicans nothing done. Drills;

Good demand for English and Dutch freely met by holders at Tls. 2.95 to 3 for ordinary, Tls. 3.05 to 3.10 for good, and a few of the very best up to Tls. 3.15. Jeans, a small quantity of good English taken at Tls. 2.30 to 2.35. Fancy Cottons: Trifling business. Woollens and Worsteds quiet and prices a little easier. Camlets, a good assortment of CPH realised Tls. 13.55 per piece. Lead quoted higher, but demand limited, owing to the Tea season being nearly closed. Quicksilver: A sale of 20 flasks at Tls. 70.00 per picul.

SHANGHAI.—The import market had been more active in transactions, and prices had rather improved. Grey Shirtings: Price of 8½ lb. best Eagle reached Tls. 2.00, and Red Pheasant chop 1.95, showing an advance; 7 lb sold to some extent at Tls. 1.74 for Eagle chop. Ordinary chops, had brought, comparatively, higher rates, say Tls. 1.69 to 1.73; 9 to 10 lb. unsaleable. White Shirtings: Favourite chop of 64-Reed still saleable at Tls. 2.15; ordinary barely maintained former quotations. Slight demand for 60 reeds at Tls. 1.88 to 1.94. T-Cloths: 6 lb. and 7 lb., good business at better prices. 6 lbs. Tls. 1.20 to 1.23, 7 lbs. Tls. 1.40 to 1.50. Mexicans not sought after; but moderate transactions at Tls. 1.40 to 1.47, for 6 lbs., Tls. 1.55 to 1.62 for 7 lbs.; 8½ lb. 36-inch dull, and easier at Tls. 1.85. Drills: Small stocks and active market had led to further advance, best 15 lbs. English Tls. 3.17 per piece, lighter makes showing corresponding rise; best 15 lbs. English to arrive, Tls. 3.18. Dutch and American fully one mace higher. Jeans: Advanced, closing rates for best English 8 lbs. Tls. 2.33 to 2.35. Dutch show a rise of 3 candareens, second class of American asked for at Tls. 2.38, being an improvement of 3 candareens. Sheetings: Again lower, Tls. 3.50 to 3.62 ruling rates for ordinary to good English, best worth Tls. 3.68 to 3.73. Fancy Cottons: Unchanged. Woollens: Dull market; small sales of Camlets good chops and assortments at Tls. 13.70 to 14.00, but less favourite parcels difficult to place at considerably lower rates. Medium, and Broad Cloths, and Spanish Stripes a shade higher.

HONG KONG.—But a trifling business had been transacted during the fortnight, at prices showing little variation from those previously current. Prices of Woollens were fairly supported at previous quotations, but transactions had been on a very meagre scale. Cotton Yarn: Inquiry and sales small, at a decline in price. Good 16-24's, $115 to 116; best, $120; Nos. 28 to 32 showed a decline of $2½, $115 to 122½ being the nominal value; 38-42's $136 per bale for the very best Eagle Chop, but inferior neglected, and $125 not easily obtained. Grey Shirtings: Business restricted by high demands of importers; small sales at $2.52½ for best makes of 8½ lbs.; 7 lbs. are nominally worth $2.15 to 2.17½, but not sought after. White Shirtings: Slight advance in qualities ranging from 60 to 72 reeds, but sales small. T-Cloths: 6 lbs. 32-inch quoted about 2½c. lower, viz., $1.57½ to 1.60, with only moderate inquiry; 7 lbs. also quiet, best quality quoted $1.87½; Mexicans perfectly stagnant. Grey Twills: English in good request at an advance of 50c.; Dutch also show a slight advance; American, unchanged. Dyed and Fancy Cottons and Woollens unchanged. Metals: Nail Rod Iron not actually improved in value, but holders encouraged to hold by the tenor of advices from England, showing diminished shipments and great advance in cost. Bar Iron been actively inquired after, probably for shipment to the North, at $2.45 to 3.70; Hoop advanced 10c. Quicksilver advanced $2 to 3. Lead, no alteration, demand very limited.

MANILA.—The market for Piece Goods had been very quiet, and the business done during the fortnight had been very limited. There was little alteration in values, most holders being unwilling to make any concession, and for some staples higher rates were asked, although little progress had been made at advanced prices. White Shirtings: 33-36-in. x 40 yds. demand very moderate at about late rates; sales small, some importers holding for an advance. Grey Shirtings, 39 yds.: Very low prices accepted for 6 lbs., of which a fair quantity had been disposed of; 8½ lbs. firm at quotations:—6 lbs. at $2.18½ to 2.25; 7 lbs. at $2.62½; 8½ lbs. at $3.12½. Grey Long Cloths, 36-39-in. 36 yds.: Inquiry very poor and few sales made. Grey T-Cloths: Demand somewhat improved during the fortnight, sales made to a fair extent at—6 lbs., $2.12½; 7 lbs., $2.37½ to 2.50 per 24 yds.

BATAVIA.—Madapollams: English White, seldom inquired for; Grey in slight demand. Shirtings: Dutch White, sales; English White 36 and 40-inch, saleable at a decline, 45-inch weaker in value. Grey: 7 lbs. occasionally wanted at low prices. Cambrics: No. 15/16 good quite saleable. Drills: Both Dutch and English in very little demand, and offered at low prices. Jaconets: Little demand. T. R. Cloth: Without improvement. Muile Twist: Stocks excessive.

SINGAPORE.—We are indebted to Messrs. Boustead and Co. for the following:—39-inch Grey Shirtings; demand during the fortnight light, sales small at $2.50 for 8½ lbs., $2.12½ for 7 lbs., and $1.80 for 6 lbs. 45-inch: 9 lbs. inquired for at $2.85 to 2.87½; 8 lbs. limited inquiry at $2.45 to 2.47½, other weights dull. 32 inch Grey T-Cloths unchanged in value, but only best qualities are saleable. Grey Madapollams: Some inquiry for 2½ lbs.; small transactions in 3 lbs. at $18 to 18.50. Grey Supers: Moderate inquiry for No. 1 at $1.95 to 1.97½, little doing in No. 2 at $2.05 to 2.07½, No. 3 very dull at $2.15. White Shirtings: Fair business in medium and fine qualities at last rates, low dull. 45-inch: Inquiry very limited at $3.45 to 3.47½ for 64 reed. Woollen Goods: No transactions reported in Camlets; 12 lbs. Scarlet Long Ells held for $7.50, but no buyers. Spanish Stripes only saleable at low rates; Brocade Lustres neglected; Lastings very dull; 5 lbs. Scarlet Bombazettes out of demand, and quoted nominally $2.95 to 3. Grey Yarn: Moderate sales of 40's at $113 to 115, but dealers making lower offers; 30's held firmly at $109; 18-24's dull at $92½ to 95. Govan Flat Bar Iron: None here; Round and Square in small inquiry. Nail-roads: A sale at $2.50; stocks moderate. Hoop is inquired for, but holders asking higher prices, which stops business. Lead improved; L. B. sold for $5.45 cash.

PENANG.—The import market was extremely dull. Stocks had been largely increased. Owing to an almost entire absence of demand it was impossible to effect sales. Quotations were nominally unaltered.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

YOKOHAMA.—A large business had been done since our last report, and settlements from the 6th Sept. to date amounted to 9,000 piculs, making the total for the month about 16,000 piculs; these latter settlements had been made at slightly easier prices for Common and Medium grades, but all Fine leaf being scarce, maintained its value; at the close for this mail there seemed to be a firmness on the part of holders, but as supplies still came forward freely, it was not expected that any decided advance in prices could be maintained; stocks were slightly reduced and consisted principally of Common and Medium leaf. The Arizona took 543,621 lbs. for New York, and 61,075 lbs. for San Francisco; the Naworth Castle and Gaucho had sailed for San Francisco with 130,017 lbs. and 135,096 lbs. respectively, and the Flying Spur for New York with 330,099 lbs. from this port, and 116,000 lbs. from Hio-go. The Fiery Cross, Black Prince, and Mikado, were loading for New York, and the Devana, 795 tons, was offered for the same port. Quotations were:—Common $19.00 to 22.00 per picul, Good Common $23.00 to 25.00, Medium $26.00 to 30.00, Good Medium $31.00 to 33.00, Fine $35.00 to 40.00, Finest $42.00 to 50.00, Choice $52.00 upwards.

HIOGO.—Prices had declined steadily during the month, and quotations showed a large difference as compared with those published in our last report. Settlements had amounted to 4,200 to 4,300 piculs, leaving an estimated stock of 5,000 to 6,000 piculs. The British barque Adriatic, about 500 tons, was engaged full for New York. Quotations:—Common, $18 to 21 per picul; good common, $22 to 25; medium, $26 to 30; good medium, $31 to 35; fine, $36 to 43; finest, $44 to 49; choice, $50 to 55; choicest, $56 and upwards.

HANKOW.—Arrivals for the fortnight, though moderate, were nearly up to the former seasons at the corresponding period. A larger business than for some time past must be noted, owing to Russian buyers taking everything over common Congou at a slight advance; Tls. 15 to 16 still remained a favourite price, and the bulk of the business had been done at these rates. Transactions for the fortnight:—Settlements, 10,200, chests; shipments, 10,000 chests; Stock, 3,000 chests. Quotations were:—Oopacks, common to fair, Tls. 14½ to 16½; Oonams, common, to fair, Tls. 9 to 12½.

KIUKIANG.—Black Teas: Prices slightly lower, but only four chops settled. Thirty-two chops forwarded to Shanghai on native account. Green Teas: No settlements, but liberal shipments forwarded to Shanghai for realisation there.

SHANGHAI.—Black Teas: Early in the fortnight there was a good inquiry for the better kinds of Oopack and Ningchow, rather free settlements being made at former rates; but as these became scarce there was less doing, and any chops with character above the average of those on offer became saleable at better rates for sellers. In the lower grades of Ningchows and Hlohows there had not been much doing, but about 18 to 20 chops Shuntain-packed Tea had been settled towards the close at 9½d. to 10½d., showing a lower quotation by Tl. 1 per picul, which was, however, reduced by inferiority of quality. Export to date showed the same excess as in our last report, viz., about 12,000,000 lbs., with a stock of 25,000 chests, against 85,000 chests same time last year, and as supplies were coming forward in but small quantities, this increase would probably be considerably diminished. Prices.—The only material change had been for Shuntain-packed Teas, which were quoted, Tls. 0.5 to 1 lower. Common Hohows taken to a limited extent at Tls. 16 to 17. Common to fair Oopack and Ningchows Tls. 17.5 to 18.5, and fair to medium Tls. 19 to 21, a few of better quality bringing Tls. 21.5 to 23, and Oonams, common to fair Tls. 17.75 to 19, medium Tls. 20 to 21. Closing transactions showed a light advance on last mail's rates for all except commonest kinds. Green Teas: Considerable transactions effected, although not quite so heavy as during the previous fortnight; settlements, 44,500 half-chests and 18,000 boxes; principal demand had been for finest kinds for the American market, and prices had, in consequence, been fully maintained. Pingsueys and medium Fychows had not been in such request, and settlements could be made on more favourable terms. Pingsueys had ranged from Tls. 25.75 to 53.50, Fychows Tls. 32 to 48. Teenkai and Moyuncs Tls. 40 to 49.50, and one chop Shanghai packed had been sold at Tls. 37.50 proportion.

FOOCHOW.—As teamen had evinced some desire to realise their stocks of Congous at the quotations ruling for last mail, rather large transactions had resulted, and at the close there was a somewhat brisk demand. Common descriptions had not altered in value, and were less inquired for. Neither Souchongs nor Scented Teas showed any change in quotations. Of Oolongs the settlements of about 28,000 half-chests at irregular prices was reported, and in some cases a reduction of two taels from last quotations had been noticeable, whilst other purchases showed no alteration; two or three fine strings recently settled had been secured at fully the decline named, but these Teas contained a very considerable percentage of dust, which, of course, greatly detracts from their value. Teamen exhibited great firmness on their part. The total supply for the season was estimated at not less than 200,000 half-chests. Settlements had been:—Congou, 27,646 chests—Tls. 6.8 to 11.8 o.b. for dust to broken leaf, Tls. 12 to 15.3 o.b. for leafy to ordinary, Tls. 15.5 to 17.8 o.b. for fair to good common, Tls. 18.8 to 24.3 o.b. for flavour to medium. Souchong, 3,848 chests—Tls. 16.8 to 22.3 o.b. for common to medium, Tls. 22.3 to 27.8 o.b. for good medium. Oolong, 27,990 half-chests—Tls. 18.5 o.b. for very inferior common, Tls. 19.3 to 21.3 o.b. for common to fair cargo, Tls. 22.8 to 26.3 o.b. for good cargo, Tls. 27.8 to 30.8 o.b. for superior cargo, Tls. 33.8 to 41.8 o.b. for fine to finest, Tls. 46.8 to 53.8 o.b. for choice to choicest, Tls. 62.8 o.b. for extra choicest. Scented Teas, 3,200 boxes—Tls. 19.3 to 21.8 o.b. for common to medium. Flowery Pekoe, 532 chests, at Tls. 25.8 to 38.8 o.b.

AMOY.—The market had been very quiet with no business doing in Oolongs; settlements of these Teas during the fortnight had been small, and as all immediate wants had been supplied lower prices were expected to rule, although Teamen had displayed no disposition to make concessions. The Star of China had sailed, and the Ching-too was expected to leave shortly.

CANTON.—There had been a fair business in progress in Scented kinds, induced to a great extent by the moderate ideas of holders. Scented Orange Pekoes had been settled at a decline of Tl. 1 per picul, and the principal purchases had been in medium grades of long leaf, at Tls. 20 to 23 per picul. Scented Capers showed a similar reduction for fair to medium quality, which, with the exception of 4,000 to 5,000 boxes of very low spurious character bought at Tls. 10½, comprised the settlements. Canton Greens: Gunpowders and Imperials had realised rates on a par with those previously current, and a portion of the settlements were reported for the Continent.

SILK.

YOKOHAMA.—The market had been much quieter since the date of our last report; settlements were estimated at about 600 bales. No change had taken place in prices, with the exception of Oshus, best classes of which were rather firmer. Dealers were very anxious to get rid of inferior Hanks, but best classes, being very scarce, still commanded full rates. Silkworms' Eggs: Total arrivals about 1,500,000 cards, of which 250,000 had been purchased. Prices $2 to 2.50 for the best cards, and $1.50 to 2 for No. 2 quality. Quotations:—Oshu, best, 30s. 3d. to 32s.; medium, 26s. 9d. to 28s. 3d.; inferior, 24s. 3d. to 25s. 9d.

HIOGO.—Supplies had been brought forward to a moderate extent during the month, and settlements to the amount of 125 bales of 80 catties had been made. Dealers had been very firm and had endeavoured to establish an advance, but the bulk of settlements had been made on a parity with last quotations. At the close, higher prices were demanded, but without resulting in business. Quotations are those actually paid, viz.: Idah (Bricks)—Fair, $640 to 660; Sodai, medium, $600 to 620; Nagahama, medium to common, $500 to 560; Tamba and Tasima, medium to fine, $550 to 580 per picul.

SHANGHAI.—Messrs. C. J. Skeggs and Co. report as follows: The French mail of the 16th Sept. took only 355 bales (268 for the Continent and 87 for England) and the then tenor of home news led to the hope of lower prices being established here; later on, however, public telegrams gave London quotations a shade better, and the consequence has been renewed activity during the last few days, resulting in the settlement of about 1,500 bales at prices showing fully 10 to 15 taels advance on those current a fortnight ago. Chops have been in more request and have been taken at from 5 to 10 taels higher, and a considerable quantity of re-reels go forward at the parity of 28s. to 29s. The following are a few of the leading quotations, and the market closes very firm, stocks being much reduced:—Koon-fong-sing and Chooping for No. 3, with usual assortment, 29s. 10d.; "Tae Ho" Changling, 29s. 10d.; Dragon for No. 3, with usual assortment, 29s. 10d.; Cock and Worm, 29s. 7d.; Gold Lion, No. 1 and 2, 28s. and 27s.; Kukce Chin Jan held for 27s. 3d.; Blue Elephant, 26s. 6d. to 26s. 9d.; Red Peacock, 26s. 3d. to 26s. 6d.

CANTON.—The market has been firm during the fortnight at former quotations. The bulk of the stock on offer consisted of medium classes of Tealee, and there was but a small proportion of so called market No. 1. Fine silk, of both long and short reels, continued very scarce. The settlements for the season already amounted to 7,760 bales, so that, notwithstanding the partial failure of the fifth crop, the total export may be expected to exceed 12,000 bales.

JAVA AND STRAITS PRODUCE.

BATAVIA.—Arrack: f.97.50 per leagueur, sales. Mace: f.275 to f.280 per picul, arrivals and sales. Gum Damar: f.35.50 per picul, sales. India-rubber: f.110 to f.120 per picul, scarce. Gutta Percha: f.70 to f.150 per picul, best quality in demand. Hides: Cow, f.35 to f.45; Buffalo, f.22 to f.28 per lb., sales. Indigo: f.4.50 to f.4.70, in demand; first quality scarce. Coffee: f.35 to f.38, sales according to quality. Cloves: f.30 per picul, nominal. Nutmegs: f.170 to f.225 per picul, sales. Pepper: Black, f.30 per picul, scarce. Rice: No stocks. Sugar: The Government sale on Sept. 27 averaged 150,000 piculs at f.15.61. Tin: Billiton, an auction of 7,800 piculs advertised for Oct. 6.

SINGAPORE.—Tin had been in less demand since last mail and was easier to buy. Gambler had advanced very considerably owing to better advices from Europe. Black Pepper continued in great request, but there was none procurable. Bontyne Coffee sold at a high figure and the market was cleared. Sago Flour in brisk demand and prices advanced 10 to 15c. per picul. Buffalo Hides of best quality in demand. India and Borneo Rubber higher. Gutta Percha without change. Nutmegs and Mace again placed at an advance on former prices.

PRESTON.—On the 28th Aug., at Kobe, John William Preston, aged 14 years.

RITCHIE.—On the 6th Nov., at 3, Stanley-terrace, Brighton-street, Seacombe, Cheshire, Henry Ritchie, Esq., late of Colombo, Ceylon, aged 58. Friends will kindly accept this intimation.

TULLIS.—On the 2nd Sept., at Yokohama, of disease of the heart, Charles M. Tullis late master of s.s. Attalante.

THE SUEZ CANAL.—The receipts of the Suez Canal during the nine months, January to October, 1871, amounted to 7,736,000*fr.*, against 4,446,000*fr.* for the same period last year. These receipts must, however, be doubled to cover the expense of working and maintenance, and the interest on the obligations.

THE ODESSA STEAMERS.—The new Russian line of steamers from Odessa to India and China are beginning to attract considerable attention at Calcutta. The only difficulty, it is said, is the return cargo; and then, with a railway from Odessa northward, Russia, so far as the India and China trade is concerned, may be independent of the long routes by Siberia and Central Asia. There does not appear in India to be any spirit of opposition to the new trade, but rather a wish to see it take firm root and grow.

The amount of bullion by the P. and O. Company's steamer Nyanza, from Southampton, on the 11th inst., was, in gold, to Alexandria, £43,000; to Galle, £805; to Bombay, £31,800; to Madras, £16,573; to Calcutta, £5,000; in silver, to Bombay, £62,500; to Calcutta, £108,300; to Penang, £22,500; to Singapore, £20,000; to Hong Kong, £50,477; to Shanghai, £30,800; total, in gold, £97,178; in silver, £294,577.

THE RUSSIAN BANK.—The Russian Bank for Foreign Trade, constituted by Imperial ukase, with a capital of seven and a-half million roubles, has opened its London branch at 6, Nicholas-lane. The council is composed of merchants of the first standing in St. Petersburg, Moscow, and Odessa, and the members of the Board in London are Messrs. B. W. Currie, A. J. Eden, Charles Magniac, M.P., and J. U. Truninger.

The steamer Hong Kong, from Foochow, has just completed another voyage. The outward passage to Hong Kong was accomplished in forty-eight days; homeward in fifty-three. She left Foochow on the 14th Sept, Singapore 25th, Penang 27th, Suez 19th Oct., and arrived off the Isle of Wight on Nov. 7.

MR. ROBERTSON'S REPORT ON JAPAN SILK.

We have received Mr. Consul Robertson's report of his journey to investigate the causes of the growing deterioration in Japanese silk, and the best remedies for it. Mr. Robertson was accompanied by Messrs. Jaquemot, Strachan, and Walter. Mr. Jaquemot has been for many years in the silk trade, and was mainly concerned in drawing up the report of the committee of the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Strachan is an extensive shipper of silk; and Mr. Walter is the Yokohama silk inspector of Messrs. Jardine, Matheson, and Co.

Mr. Robertson estimates the ground gone over at 222 miles, from which he would give the distances from place to place as follows:—

	Miles.
Yedo to Kawagoye ...	30
Kawagoye to Ogawa ...	23
Ogawa to Kogano ...	25
Kogano to Shimokogoye ...	30
Shimokogoye to Shimonita ...	21
Shimonita to Tomioka ...	9
Tomioka to Annaka ...	6
Annaka to Maebashi ..	15
Maebashi to Shimamura ...	28
Shimamura to Yedo ...	35

It was gratifying everywhere to find the willingness with which any remark on their industry was listened to by the natives, and the apparent readiness to adopt any plan suggested with a view of insuring their own profits; but this apparent readiness on the part of the Japanese is often only on the surface, and although good advice may be willingly if not eagerly listened to, it has been pretty well the experience of foreigners all over Japan that a good practical lesson in the way of diminished profits is the best way of appealing to the native common sense.

It was satisfactory to learn that the attention of Japanese is drawn far more than formerly to care in the cultivation of the mulberry, and that instead, as they were wont to do, of exhausting the mulberry by using the one tree for thirty, forty, or even fifty years, the tree is now discarded after being only twenty years in use.

The majority of the Japanese believe that the "uji" is beyond the skill of human treatment, and that unless the percentage in any one year is excessive, its presence in the worm is not of much moment.

"Given," said Mr. Robertson's informant, "70 per cent. as a fair average of 'uji,' it was rarely that more than 25 per cent. of the worms were set apart for seed, and the freedom of this percentage from 'uji' could be counted on. True, in a few instances the 'uji' almost defied detection; but the loss on that account did not amount to 2 per cent., while of the 75 per cent. set aside for reeling, the 'uji' was killed simultaneously with the chrysalide in the drying process, and its presence did not deteriorate the quality of the silk."

To the native mind the "uji" scarcely comes under the category of diseases. The natives persist in attributing its presence in the body of the worm to the latter having eaten bad leaves, and yet they cannot account for the second crop of bivoltini fed on the same leaves being almost invariably free from the parasite.

For the production of one card of eggs, 80 "me" (Japanese weight) of cocoons are required, giving in numbers 260 moths male and female. 160 "me" go to the catty, the catty being equal to 1½ lbs. avoirdupois. It would seem that the cultivation of the mulberry in Japan has increased 25 per cent. since the Treaties of 1859, which is interesting to note as showing how foreign intercourse has stimulated the silk trade.

The market had already opened, prices commencing at 32 "me" (Japanese weight). In their transactions amongst themselves Japanese make the "rio" their basis, and silk is bought or sold at the weight that the "rio" may command. Thus, a Japanese will never speak of silk being at so many dollars or "bus," but will say that silk is 32 "me," 37 or 40 "me," as the case may be. Thirty-two "me" would be equal to about $500 a picul, which, with charges, would lay down at Yokohama at about $550.

Mr. Robertson found the merchants fully alive to the advantages to be derived from carrying out the suggestions comprised in the pamphlet sent out from the Chamber of Commerce, and of which several copies had already found their way direct from Yokohama through native sources, and 2,000 copies were distributed by him.

The advantage of machinery over hand labour for reeling did not impress them very strongly. It seems that two hanks—the one reeled by hand, the other by machinery—had already been tested in Yokohama; and although that reeled by machinery was found to have more nerve, it was, on the whole, inferior to that reeled by hand. But this is easily accounted for in that the machinery in use at Maebashi is of the crudest kind, while the hank reeled off by hand was probably the work of the most skilful reellers procurable.

Mr. Robertson received the greatest courtesy and kindness from the Japanese officials, and the result of his inquiries is that the gradual deterioration of silk in Japan that has now been going on for some time past is mainly attributable to the almost unlimited export of annual seed.

MR. LAY, THE EX-INSPECTOR-GENERAL OF CUSTOMS, ON OUR PRESENT POSITION.

AMONGST a great deal that is obscure, and much that is not accurate, the letter of Mr. LAY to the Editor of The Times (which we published in our last issue) contains many thoughtful reflections, and perhaps conveys as truthful a view of the situation in China as (bearing in mind the source of its inspiration) could be found anywhere. It is, of course, a palpable piece of inconsistency for Mr. LAY to write now in opposition to our support of the Government of China, seeing that at the time when he was Inspector-General of Customs he, in concert with Captain SHERARD OSBORN, organised a flotilla for the defence of the Manchu dynasty; but Mr. LAY's slight obliviousness on this part of his subject does not by any means lessen the effect of his testimony to the fact that "we are on the verge of difficulties with China, and that the cost of our success in overcoming them must necessarily depend on the course we pursue at the present juncture. It is to be feared that nothing short of a massacre upon a gigantic scale will open the eyes of those to whom the direction of our affairs in China is entrusted." We must confess that we share this fear, but only so far as the Government is concerned. We feel certain that the great body of the English public is heart and soul with the missionary movement; and that, if any such terrible event as "a massacre on a gigantic scale" were perpetrated among foreigners in China, the crime of having caused it would be at once charged, not against the bigots of the Far East, but against the ignorant and apathetic Ministers of the West—the men who are now paltering with the great question of the revival of our treaties, and the men who, we fear, are watching with sympathy not unalloyed with interest, the tentative articles and letters just begun to be published in The Times.

It is always more painful than difficult to reason with an opponent in the press who will admit into his columns only one side of an argument. Audi alteram partem is a precept which our countrymen are never likely to see violated without as much suspicion as indignation. It is, therefore, with peculiar regret that we feel called upon to allude to the significant phrase, "refused admittance into The Times," which we find in the letter of our correspondent "M. N." (published in our last issue). The truth is, that "M. N.'s" rejected letter completely demolished the sophisms of The Times. The influence of The Times may not be what it was—in fact, we know it is not—but still it is considerable, and with the present CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER in power, it possesses a weight not always thrown into the right scale. It becomes, therefore, the duty of every Englishman, who has the honour of his country at heart, to watch any manœuvres that may be made by the "leading journal" in the "silly season" with jealous interest. Merchants and missionaries may have different and sometimes incompatible interests; but the duty of all true-hearted Englishmen as Christians is clear. It is not possible for us without forfeiture of honour, and abnegation of future progress, to abandon one tittle of the treaty rights it has cost us so much to acquire; nor is it compatible with the dignity of our country to listen with patience to the tentative maunderings of The Times, or the Delphic utterances of Mr. LAY. Our only course is action—and that action a full and immediate renewal of the Treaty of Tientsin. This will of course be shuffled off on the old excuse of the minority of the EMPEROR. If it is urged on by us at once it will, however, be the guarantee of peace and safety; if it be put off, it will be the no less certain forerunner of war. In mere consideration for the Chinese Government itself the question ought to be brought to a settlement without loss of time. We on our side have nothing to fear but from delay.

THE NEW CUSTOMS TARIFF FOR JAVA.

AFTER considerable delay the Dutch Colonial Minister has at last laid before the members of the Dutch Parliament a Bill, in which some important changes are effected in the Customs tariff for Java, the protective stipulations of which have always been a subject of complaint, on the part both of foreign traders and the natives, who were compelled to pay for the protection of Dutch industry—which, as the Minister remarks, can do without such protection. With regard to the differential duties on exports, there were reasons for maintaining them up to this time, but these have now vanished, and even the Dutch Trading Company advocates their abolition. The revision of the Customs Bill is based upon the following alterations:—1. The differential import and export duties are abolished. 2. The minimum duty of the existing tariff is maintained upon imports, whilst the duty on spirits is raised very considerably. 3. The tariff of export duties as fixed in 1866 is maintained, except as regards coffee and on sugar. 4. The duty-free admissions afforded by the present tariff are continued. 5. The existing free ports are maintained. The original plan—that of a former Minister—was to institute a general reduced tariff on all imports and exports, and at the same time to abolish all free ports. But there were so many objections raised that the present Minister, Mr. VAN BOSSE, preferred a revision on the bases which we have described.

The proposed measure will be far from injurious to the Dutch Treasury. The abolition of the differential duties will cause—if we take the average figures of 1869-70—a diminution of the receipts to the extent of f.1,116,647, but on the other side the increased tax on spirits will realise f.280,000 more than it produces now, while the export duty on sugar will return an annual revenue of f.483,824, giving a total amount of f.763,824, thus leaving an unfavourable balance of f.350,000. This amount will, as the Dutch Minister states, easily be covered by a consumption-tax on spirits manufactured in Dutch possessions. A general—not differential—export duty will be levied on the following articles, which are already taxed, viz.:—Hides, 2 per cent. on value; indigo, not prepared for the home market, 10c. per kilogram; tobacco, not prepared for the home market, f.1 per 100 kilograms; tin, f.3.50 per 100 kilograms; birds' nests, 6 per cent. on value; sugar, 30c. per 100 kilograms; coffee, f.3 per 100 kilograms. Great opposition, however, prevails against the duties on the two last-named articles; and, notwithstanding that the Minister defends his proposal with the excuse that in colonies belonging to other nations such duties are levied, he states at the same time that, if the Treasury could do without these taxes, he should be glad to abolish them. This acknowledgment can have but one meaning, which is that these duties impose a burden upon producers. The complaints with regard to the duty on coffee may perhaps be somewhat exaggerated; a duty of f.3 per 100 kilograms has always been paid on the exports to Holland, but in another form, viz., 6 per cent. of the value. The only change is the withdrawal of the differential duty. The exports to foreign countries are now charged 9 per cent., and they will henceforward have to pay f.3 per 100 kilograms, about equivalent to 6 per cent. of the value. But the export of sugar to Holland is now free, whilst for the future all sugars exported from Java will be subject to duty of 30c. per 100 kilograms. This is certainly a trifling sum, but beetroot sugar is now a great competitor with the colonial production, and it is scarcely equitable to burden colonial industry with a tax which will make this competition more difficult. We hope that Mr. VAN BOSSE, who at first intended to levy a duty of 50c., but reduced it to 30c. in deference to complaints from every side, will, in the interest of the producers, leave the export of sugar wholly untrammelled by taxation. In another column we produce a complete list of the proposed new duties.

THE Russian Government has been officially informed that a serious insurrection has broken out in Chinese Mongolia. The post between Kiachta and Peking has been suspended in consequence.

MR. FRANCIS SNOWDEN, a barrister of 1854, lately on the Western Circuit, has been appointed Senior Magistrate of the Straits Settlements, in place of Mr. OWEN, deceased.

BURMAH AND WESTERN CHINA.

Captain Bowers has addressed a long letter to the Shipping and Mercantile Gazette, advocating the reinstatement of Major Sladen as Political Agent at Mandalay. Captain Bowers suggests that another appointment be made, not less important, and that is a small, handy, light draught gunboat or two, as it will not be long before they will be necessary. The return of Major Sladen to his post at the capital means, in plain English, the restoration of law and order, revived trade, security to property, and fair dealing—events to be looked forward to with dismay, not only by the King and his Ministers, but by a large majority of the Burmese. He says:—"In attempting to delineate the real position of the King you will realise to some extent his power over the border chieftains who occupy the elevated regions between Burmah and China. These Kachen chiefs, living in a semi-independent state, and holding an equivocal allegiance to him, are at all times ready to do the will of his Majesty, especially where murder and plunder was the object, and it was to the tender mercies of these men that—full of faith on the King's promise of protection—we entered on our expedition, in 1868, for the purpose of reopening the old trade routes to Western China through Upper Burmah. The first obstacle thrown in our way was a communication from the Palace that the river was unnavigable between Mandalay and Bhamo, and so full of rapids that no boat could pass up; this intimation effectually precluded the obtaining boats from any Burman at his peril. This difficulty was got over by the agent of the Irrawadi and Burmese Steam Navigation Company generously placing their steamer, the Nerbudda, at the disposal of Major Sladen and his party. This becoming known at the Palace, the greatest excitement prevailed. The idea of a foreign steamer going up the sacred Irrawadi, passing the large towns on its banks, and showing its hated English ensign to his priests and people, was an idea so monstrous as not to be entertained for a moment; and, sooner than that should take place, he would give one of his own steamers, even the most powerful, to take the party, which was done, and which was paraded to our Indian Government as an act of generosity of the King."

"The King thought, however, that, in encouraging the expedition, he would be instrumental in advancing a power that would not only curtail his revenues, but weaken his influence among his priests and his people. The Chinese Guild saw in it the breakdown of a monopoly that had existed from the earliest time, and hence they thought it a matter of vitality to them to oppose the scheme by every means in their power, and these means were unfortunately too readily obtained, and of that unscrupulous character that neither Burmese nor Chinese hesitate to adopt, including robbery, and even several attempts at the assassination of this party. Twice Major Sladen was fired at deliberately in his tent, but took no notice of it; and at one more than usual noisy scene, where there were half a dozen chiefs assembled, and three or four hundred of their followers with their "elabs" out, and spears brandishing and shot firing in all directions, Major Sladen told them that he would complain to his friend the King of Burmah of their obstructions. They shouted in derisive laughter. "Your friend, the King of Burmah!" exclaimed the old Seray Isawbwa; "why, it is he who has sent us presents, and orders to kill you all," and treated the matter of Major Sladen applying to the King as an excellent joke. This assertion of Seray Isawbwa was afterwards corroborated. When the facts of the vast storehouses of tea and silk, and silver and gold in Yunnan and Szechuan are once known to the public, and when this great field for outlets for our cotton manufactures becomes an established fact, the perilous adventures of the first pioneers in this great undertaking will be more thought of, and, perhaps, better appreciated. One more instance of Buddhist Jesuitry is the appearance of the Paden Woon (so called) in this country. The King of Burmah having exhausted every effort and failed in corrupting the integrity of Major Sladen, and afraid that he would use his influence against him during his two years' leave of absence, sent the Paden Woon to find out what real power Sladen possessed with the Government, and to counteract any influence that might be brought to bear on the Burmese Government. This is borne out by his leaving Burmah immediately after Major Sladen, and his carefully keeping aloof from him while in England."

THE CLAUSE IN THE TREATY.

MR. DONALD MATHESON, writing to a contemporary on the subject of The Times leader, given in our last, says:—

A very dangerous step in our relations with China has just been suggested to our Government by The Times. It is that the clause which provides for the toleration of Christianity should be cancelled.

As the suggestion is based on a misapprehension of the bearing of that clause, it is earnestly to be hoped that the Government will not for a moment entertain so fatal a proposal. In the leading article which discusses it, it is taken for granted that the clause in the Treaty provides specially for the protection of foreign missionaries in their work of preaching the Gospel, and, as this is believed to be the cause of all the irritation on the part of the Chinese, the withdrawal of this special privilege in favour of missionaries will be an act of justice which will in time lead to more peaceful relations. One is amazed at such a proposal on the part of a leading journal.

In the first place the missionaries possess no special privileges beyond those enjoyed by all foreigners, and if the clause referred to were withdrawn, they would remain exactly as they were. Not so the Chinese who profess or teach the Christian religion. The withdrawal of the clause of toleration would inevitably stamp it with a significance in the eyes of the Chinese which it does not now possess, for the nation is not fanatical like a Hindoo or Mahomedan people, but singularly tolerant; nevertheless, in the present temper of the people, lashed into a blind rage by a few wicked literati and Government officials, the withdrawal of the clause would be nothing less than an invitation on the part of a Christian nation to exterminate the native Church. God forbid that Great Britain should be guilty of such an atrocity!

STEAMERS FOR THE SUEZ CANAL TRADE.

We lately gave a notice of the extraordinary number of steamers building on the Clyde. The subject has since been noticed by The Times and other papers. One shipowner writes that the accounts of his first venture in "Steam to Calcutta via the Suez Canal" left him a loser of some £2,500, and that his vessel loaded at much higher rates than those now current. The following article is from the Shipping and Mercantile Gazette:—

It will have been seen, from the several articles we have lately published on the progress of Maritime Commerce in different quarters, that Steam Navigation is making immense strides. The opening of the Suez Canal has given an extraordinary impetus to the building of steamships. Our columns supply, every day, ample evidence of the rapid increase of this class of vessel to the East. A new route to the Eastern seas created a demand for steam shipping, and the supply has been abundantly met. From a summary before us of British steamships, to sail on a given day, via Suez, to ports beyond the Red Sea, and those announced to follow, we find that the actual tonnage of the vessels whose names are given amounts to 104,986 tons. To this gross tonnage we add the burthen of those ships, and, from a careful calculation, we make the grand total of 147,986 tons. The employment of such a large amount of steam tonnage must completely revolutionise the Eastern trade. But to the British steam-vessels of 147,986 tons should be added the tonnage of foreign vessels built expressly in consequence of the piercing of the Isthmus, and, if we place that at 50,000 tons, which is a fair estimate, it will be found that over 200,000 tons of steam shipping is employed, under different European flags, in steam navigation to the East. This is a result scarcely to have been anticipated two years ago, and the enormous augmentation of steam tonnage thus shown is the most convincing proof of the practical success of the Suez Canal, as a means of expediting Commerce between Europe and Asia. Taking the value of our own vessels at £25 per ton, on an average, it gives an estimated expenditure of capital of £3,699,650. What effect will ultimately ensue from the extension of steam navigation to the East remains to be proved, but, considering that so few sailing ships are being built to fill the void left by wrecks and breaking up, this increase of steamships, in point of aggregate tonnage, is not, perhaps, disproportionate to the merchandise to be conveyed. The old East Indian sailing ships averaged about 1,000 tons, so that the new British steam tonnage, as regards register, is equal to 148 sailing vessels. By the rapidity of their voyages and the saving of time in distance the increased steam tonnage is equal to about 370 sailing ships of 1,000 tons each. The decrease in sailing tonnage and the increase of commerce might, perhaps, be considered to justify this additional steam tonnage, without unduly depreciating freight. Steamships, however, costing so much more than sailing vessels, require to be despatched quickly, and if they are likely to be kept very long on the berth, low freights are accepted in order to meet the requirement. With good crops in India freights should be sustained; but if they are depressed below remunerative rates, as we believe they now are, the cause must be looked for in excessive competition, and this competition, it should be remembered, is in a very few hands, and ought to be susceptible of fair adjustment. Wherever steam navigation has been inaugurated commerce has created the demand for such tonnage, and this must and will be the case in the Eastern trade. The day has gone by, as a matter of course, when £20 per ton could be obtained in the overland route, but faster and cheaper worked ships can afford to take lower rates. In the outward trade, it is said, Manchester goods are conveyed at a through rate, including railway to London, of 35s. and 10 per cent. This, no doubt, is a rate ruinous to steam shipowners, unless passengers can be secured, and a good freight obtained homewards. Competition is the soul of trade, but it may be carried too far, and when it is so in regard to shipping, it necessitates reasonable agreements, or combination, among shipowners.

Recent returns from the commercial building yards of the United Kingdom show that there are 450,000 tons of steam shipping now on the stocks, or on order, all of which, it is said, is to be floated between this and March next. The value of this tonnage now building, or ready for floating, calculated upon the same moderate estimate as that which we have referred to as engaged in our Eastern trade, would amount to the large sum of £11,250,000,—a further proof of the characteristic enterprise and commercial wealth of the country. All this tonnage will not figure on the register for 1871, but, even if it did, there is, we presume, a corresponding decrease in sailing tonnage. We will not say that the steam tonnage under construction is excessive, though if a panic or adverse times were to set in it would certainly turn out to be so. During a period of prosperity there should be not only tonnage enough built or building to supply the annual displacement, but sufficient also to keep pace with the growing trade of the world.

THE UTILITY OF OUR MINISTER AT PEKING.

(GLOBE.)

Although the unavoidable circumstances of the case debar a British representative in Peking from effecting any direct good, it might still be held that he fulfils the useful function of furnishing his Government with important information. So far, however, from this being the case, it has been abundantly demonstrated by the recent official correspondence that no one is so ignorant of what is going on in China as the British Minister there. Take as an instance the frightful occurrence of June, 1870, called the Tientsin Massacre, in which twenty Europeans were put to a cruel death for no offence whatever. This calamity did not fall "like a thunderbolt out of a cloudless sky;" on the contrary, there was ample warning for those who had eyes to see and ears to hear. But was the British Minister the first to foresee danger, or take precautions against it? Not at all. Did he even comprehend the situation after the crime had been consummated? By no means. Indeed, it required so many months before he could convince himself, even imperfectly, of the gravity of what had taken place, that supposing his ideas to continue developing at the same slow rate, a century at least would elapse before the Minister could reach the simple, commonsense conclusion that a diabolical crime had been committed from motives of unmitigated baseness, and that exemplary punishment ought to have been awarded to the instigators of it.

Again: a matter of great importance transpired a few years ago in China concerning which Her Majesty's Government needed the best and the earliest information. We refer to the mission which the Peking Government despatched to foreign countries, under charge of the till then American Minister, Mr. Burlingame. Was any notice of the preparation of this adventure sent from the English Legation? And was the character of the mission, when organised, understood by the British Minister? To both questions—no. On the 31st December, 1867, Sir Rutherford Alcock wrote that on the 15th November, "no one in Peking knew that the Chinese were on the eve of a resolution which," &c. Yet the whole arrangements of the Burlingame mission, including the appointment as secretary of a member of Sir Rutherford's own staff, were officially announced as complete on November 21st. So much for early and accurate information. In estimating the merits of the mission, still more lamentable inefficiency was shown by the Legation. The mission set out with the warmest sympathies of Sir Rutherford Alcock, who regarded it as a step "full of promise." By his unqualified approval the British Government at the beginning of its career was induced to put itself unreservedly into the hands of Mr. Burlingame, to the no small prejudice of the national interests. But no sooner had the mission commenced operations in America than its true character flashed on Sir Rutherford Alcock at Peking, who began forthwith, but all too late, to cry out lustily against its proceedings. The Minister's time, on his own showing, appears thenceforth to have been mainly occupied in futile endeavours to "counteract the adverse influence of Mr. Burlingame's acts." Whence it appears that had the British Legation not existed, Lord Clarendon might possibly have escaped making the country ridiculous with Mr. Burlingame, and we might have been spared the diminution of our prestige in the East which was the direct result of the gushing correspondence that passed between the Foreign Secretary and the Chinese Envoy.

Were the incumbent of the office of British Minister in a position to give effect to his ideas, it would be a serious detriment to our national interests to have the views of one on some vital question openly and flatly contradicted by his successor. As it is, such a phenomenon is but another illustration of the vagaries that grow out of the general confusion that characterises everything about the Peking Legation. It was deemed by Lord Elgin of importance to give British merchants the right of compounding for inland taxes on merchandise by making one fixed payment, on which, to quote the treaty, "a certificate shall be issued exempting the goods from all farther inland charges whatever." "Nothing," observes Sir R. Alcock, commenting on this clause, "can be more certain than the open violation of this stipulation, first by duties levied at the ports under the head of lekim taxes and town dues; and secondly, by numerous transit and inland taxes en route." And again, the transit duty of 2½ per cent. ad valorem has been fixed, "to the exclusion of all other taxation." Mr. Wade, however, happens to be of a totally different way of thinking, and while yet a subordinate of Sir R. Alcock, he recorded his opinion very strongly, "that the treaty will not help us against the lekim," in other words, the levy of lekim taxes on British certificated goods is no violation of treaty. Mr. Wade being now himself the supreme interpreter of the treaty on behalf of British interests, the Chinese have only to take him at his word, and nullify the labours of Sir Rutherford Alcock for the freedom of trade.

The eccentric dispositions of the staff of our Chinese Legation which sometimes occur without apparently affecting the efficiency of the establishment amply attest the farcical character of the whole affair. Next to the Minister nominally, but before him really, in importance, is the Secretary of Legation, especially when that functionary happens to be a profound Chinese scholar, and the chief of all the interpreting department. Such was Mr. Wade when in 1867 he obtained leave of absence. As one of his most promising pupils was placed in charge of the secretary's duties, it was thought that the Legation, though crippled, might manage to keep afloat for a short time. But Mr. Wade's back was hardly turned when his locum tenens took service with the Burlingame Mission, thus leaving the British Legation without either Secretary or Acting Secretary. The ceremony of getting permission from his superior before entering the service of an alien Power must have been dispensed with by Mr. McLeavy Brown, for it is morally certain that he had concluded his bargain with the Chinese before Sir Rutherford Alcock so much as suspected the existence of the Burlingame Mission. But, then, it all happened in Peking, which exempts itself from the common laws of conduct. So far, however, from the Legation collapsing from the loss of its two most essential props, all the hard work that it ever did was done in the years immediately following. The largest Blue-book on China ever published—it contains over four hundred pages—is devoted to the arduous, though barren operations of the Legation during the two years succeeding the departure of Mr. Wade and the defection of his substitute.

Though absent from their post, however, neither of those functionaries was idle. Mr. Wade was in England recruiting his health, and having hotly espoused the Burlingame scheme, threw his energy into the cause and was mainly instrumental in securing its ill-omened success in England. Whatever there might be to be said in favour of this course, it concerns us now chiefly to observe the paradoxical position of the parties as the natural product of that fertile parent of monstrosities, the Legation at Peking. Here was the secretary on furlough industriously building up what his chief at his post was taxing all his powers to pull down. Rightly or wrongly, Sir Rutherford Alcock convinced himself that the Burlingame Mission was most inimical to the interests of Great Britain; rightly or wrongly, Mr. Wade was at the same time fighting like a Crusader in support of the Mission and its projects.

HOLLAND.

ROTTERDAM, Nov. 9.

In the last sitting of our Chamber of Commerce a communication from the Minister of Foreign Affairs was read, stating that the Japanese Government has the intention to urge the necessity of revising the treaty of Aug. 18, 1858. He further stated that the claims of the said Government were not yet known with any certainty. One of the members, however, said that they will be the following, viz.: 1st. That a treaty of the same tenor shall be concluded with all foreign Powers. 2nd. That the existing fixed navigation duty shall be replaced by tariff for tonnage and beaconage. 3rd. That the circulation of foreign coins shall be forbidden, and 4th, that the right of the Damios to trade with foreigners shall be restricted. The Minister wished to hear the opinion of the Chamber upon these matters, and he desired at the same time to be informed whether it was thought necessary that new ports should be opened in Japan to foreign trade. The commission appointed to report upon these questions advises a reply to the following effect—That the Chamber has no objection to a treaty being concluded with all foreign Powers, if Holland is maintained on the same footing as the most favoured nation; they also find no fault with the proposition that the existing navigation duty should be replaced by a moderate tariff for tonnage and beaconage. They are further of opinion that the harbours open to foreign trade cannot be too large in number, and it was approved of that the right of the Damios to trade with foreigners should be restricted, because then trade would become completely free.

The Chamber of Commerce has also discussed the question whether it was desirable that, according to the proposal of the Dutch Consul at Akyab, a treaty should be concluded between Holland and the King of the independent State of Burmah, so that our commerce could be extended to Western China. The Ministers of Finance and the Colonies, and likewise the Dutch Trading Company, do not think it advisable at present to conclude a treaty with Burmah, our trade with that country being of no importance. The Amsterdam Chamber is, however, opposed to this opinion. The members urge the necessity of concluding, as England and Italy have done, a treaty with the country. The Commission of the Rotterdam Chamber appointed to examine this question agreed with the Ministers, but the members did not harmonise with their Commission, and they approved, by 13 against 4 votes, the conclusion of a treaty. A fair trade is now done with Akyab and Rangoon, they said, and there is no reason why our relations should not be extended to Burmah.

The meeting of shareholders in the Dutch Trading Company was held yesterday at Amsterdam. By 357 against 7 votes it was decided to continue operations for another term of twenty-five years. One of the commissaries—he, however, spoke as a private person—protested against the project of investing money in undertakings in Java and Japan, because this has already given bad results. He alluded to the half million which the Company lent to Mr. Glover of Nagasaki, who has since failed, indebted to the Company for that amount. The President maintained that the statements were exaggerated, and Mr. Polona, once the agent of the Company in Japan, contended that there was nothing against the investment of money in that country.

At last the Minister of the Colonial Department has published the draft of a new Customs tariff for the Dutch East India Possessions. Notwithstanding the duties are not so low as was generally thought they would be, it is so far liberal that it abolishes the last remnant of our protective policy in Java. The differential duties, so hurtful to foreign trade, and so costly for the natives, will cease to exist. No general tax will be levied on exports, but merely a duty on the export of a few articles. These last stipulations will undoubtedly form the bases of any opposition which may be raised against this tariff.

The steamer Prins Hendrik, of the Nederland Company, will sail on the 18th inst. for Java, via the Suez Canal. I hear that the complaints made by the Batavia traders, about the troublesome formalities attending the unloading of the Prins van Oranje, have induced the managers to make some necessary alterations. The vehement tone of the complaints has created much astonishment here. The Batavia houses seem to forget that this is a new undertaking, and that everyone connected with it has something to learn.

The Colonial Report of 1871 has at last been published. The delay is excusable, the documents being very voluminous. They contain very valuable items about our East India colonies, of the greatest use for the history of our possessions.

Some days ago a general meeting of workmen was held in Utrecht. After some boisterous and rather nonsensical discussion it was decided that our workmen will not join the "Internationale," but that they will form a union of their own to promote their interests.

The weather has become unusually cold and frosty for this period of the season.

Mr. London, the newly appointed Governor General of Java, left the Hague yesterday en route for Batavia.

Monetary and Commercial.

The Oberon, from Shanghai, reported off Deal on the 10th, is the vessel which conveyed stores to the island of St. Paul's for the crew of the lost Megara. She was once known as a steamer, but on this passage she took freight as a sailing vessel. She left Woosung on the 8th July, 125 days out. Other vessels sailing at the same time have not yet arrived; there is therefore no equitable ground for loss of market. The extra insurance to cover risk of calling at St. Paul's will of course be made good to the shippers.

We understand that underwriters have declined taking any further risks on The Caliph, 900 tons, from London to Shanghai with a general cargo. The last rate at which business was done was seventy guineas. The Geraint, belonging to Messrs. John McCunn and Co., London to China, is also given up.

The liquidators of the Commercial Bank of India have been compelled to make a call of £4 per share, making £14 in all since the stoppage. The house and landed property taken over by some of the shareholders is being realised by the agents, Messrs. David Sassoon, Sons, and Co.

It is stated that, in consequence of the complaints in the English press of the condition of the port and town of Brindisi, and of the obstacles that interfere with the regular transmission of the Eastern mails, the Minister of Public Works has appointed a Commission to inquire into the subject.

The export of shirtings to Hong Kong during September was as follows:—Grey, 7,516,000 yards; white, 301,000. To Shanghai: Grey, 24,976,000; white, 2,085,000. In October, to Hong Kong: Grey, 4,355,000; white, 271,000. To Shanghai: Grey, 21,086,000; white, 826,000.

Mexican dollars of the old coinage, the supply of which has been almost entirely absorbed by the demand for China, have advanced to 5s. 0½d.; the new coinage is firm at 4s. 1½d. Bar silver has been in demand for shipment to the East; the quotation is 5s. 0½d. to 5s. 1d.

BOARD OF TRADE RETURNS.

The Board of Trade returns for the month and ten months ending the 31st October were issued on the 7th inst. They again show a remarkable development of our trade—the total declared value of the exports for last month being £19,947,873, against £17,550,799 in October, 1870, and £16,454,896 in October, 1869. For the ten months the amounts are—£159,162,432, £166,284,990, and £183,538,265, in 1869, 1870, and 1871 respectively. With the exception of cotton yarn, which figures for a decrease of 7 per cent. in value and 9 per cent. in quantity, every article of importance is largely on the favourable side. Thus the increase has been 41 per cent. in coal, 14 per cent. in earthenware, 26 per cent. in haberdashery, 24 per cent. in hardware, 28 per cent. in iron and steel, 25 per cent. in linen yarn, 15 per cent. in linen manufactures, 19 per cent. in woollen yarn, and 35 per cent. in woollen manufactures. The total imports for last month were valued at £32,810,514, against £25,372,027 in October last year; and for the ten months £272,704,422, against £239,570,874 in 1870. The import of raw cotton shows an augmentation of fully 50 per cent., due mainly to heavier shipments from British India. The consumption of duty-paid articles maintains the same rate of improvement which has already told so favourably on the Customs revenue. Compared with October last year there have been increased deliveries of coffee, fruit, spirits, refined sugar, molasses, tea, tobacco, and wine, while there is a falling off in cocoa and unrefined sugar, the latter only to a trifling extent.

The following is an extract from these Returns of those figures which relate to our Export trade with China and other countries in the Far East:—

TEA.

The market although quiet is firm, and a fair amount of business has been done privately during the past week at previous rates. At a public sale, on the 7th inst., 5,811 packages were offered, of which 4,662 packages catalogued without reserve were sold, the remainder offered with reserve being bought in or withdrawn; 182 chests new season's black-leaf sold at 1s. 4½d. to 1s. 5d.; 1,784 half-chests very common new season's uncoloured Japan sold at 7½d. to 7¾d., being some decline; the remainder consisted chiefly of old season's and second hand parcels, which were disposed of at previous rates.

On the 9th instant at public sale 2,660 packages new season's China, chiefly Green, per steamer Pera (via Suez Canal), were all sold without reserve. 283 chests new black-leaf Congou sold at prices equal to those obtainable by private contract, viz., at 1s. 4½d. to 1s. 5d. 501 half-chests 1,876 boxes Green sold; the bulk consisted of common qualities, which sold steadily, but an invoice of coarse Pingsuey sold at rather easy rates; common Moyone Young Hyson sold at 10½d. to 1s. 2d., medium Pingsuey ditto at 1s. 5½d. to 1s. 9d., Pingsuey Gunpowder 1s. 3½d. to 1s. 5¾d.

The next auction is advertised for this day, when 1,747 packages new season's Kaisow, per steamer Hong Kong, will be offered.

SILK.

There has been but little doing in the market, and as the quality of the China Silk now arriving is even more unfavourable than earlier shipments, there is no inducement for consumers to buy in advance of immediate wants; prices, however, remain steady, the stock, although large, not being excessive, when it is remembered that the next few arrivals will go far to complete the estimated supplies for the present season. Japans have been difficult to sell, the only existing demand is for the very best descriptions, which are correspondingly scarce. Cantons have sold steadily, and the low prices of ordinary Tsatlee reels contrasting favourably with competing qualities, cause the deliveries to be continued upon a fair scale; but the large importation during the past month has increased the stock, which is now unusually large. Deliveries from Nov. 1 to 7 inclusive:—Bengal, 63 bales; China, &c., 875 bales; Japan, 133 bales.

COFFEE.

The supplies at auction during the past week, consisting exclusively of Plantation Ceylon, have been light, and a fair demand having been manifested the downward course of the market, noticed in our last report, has been arrested, and prices are firm. The latest rates paid have been triage 57s. 6d. to 60s., small grey 65s. 6d. to 68s., low middling mixed gray 69s. 6d. to 71s., bold do. 72s. to 74s., middling 70s. 6d. to 73s. 6d., good middling bold 80s., peaberry 82s. 6d. to 83s. The business done in Native Ceylon has been entirely by private contract; ordinary quality has realised 63s. 6d. to 64s., and fine bold Ouvah 68s. 6d. to 70s.; for arrival, 3,000 bags have been sold at 65s., and 2,500 bags, guaranteed good ordinary, at 66s. per cwt., and further floating sales have been effected, but particulars are not reported.

SUGAR.

A good steady demand has prevailed; firm prices have been paid for all qualities of brown, and firmer rates for crystallised. The following are the details of the week's transactions:—

Penang.—At auction 390 bags were bought in at 29s. to 31s. 6d. By private contract 550 bags soft to good yellow have been sold at 31s. to 33s. 6d.

Manila.—There has been no business in public sale. By private contract 7,000 bags taal unclayed have been sold at 22s. to 22s. 6d., 6,000 bags Zebu at 23s., and 3,500 bags good old clayed (duty 4s. 9d.) at 28s. The floating cargo, per Ogir, 875 tons, Ilo Ilo unclayed late August sailing, has been sold at 20s., floating terms for Liverpool.

Java and China.—Private sales are reported of 8,200 bags common brown China at 23s., and 1,000 baskets fine strong Java (duty 5s. 8d.) at 36s. 6d.

COCOA NUT OIL.—Ceylon is in moderate request at £38 10s. on the spot and £38 afloat. In public sale of 404 casks offered, 76 pipes good to fine sold at £38 10s. £38 15s., 11 puncheons good at £38 10s., and 14 hogsheds yellow at £38 15s., the remainder being withdrawn or bought in at £38 10s. to £39, also 52 casks yellow Penang at £37 10s.

COIR GOODS.—At the last sales a scanty supply was disposed of at steady rates; 30 tons Ceylon Yarn sold—common, £27 5s. to £28 5s.; good common to middling, £29 10s. to £32 15s.; and 20 bales low Zanzibar at £17 15s.

GALLS.—Offers of 189 cases China were bought in at 53s., except the first lot, which sold thereat.

GAMBER.—In auction 1,093 bales just arrived met a brisk competition, and sold at 17s. to 17s. 6d., chiefly at 17s. 8d., and 3¼ tons broken at 16s. 6d. to 16s. 9d. For arrival 150 tons have been sold at 17s. to 17s. 3d. ex ship, all faults, and subsequently 400 tons at 17s. 6d. ex ship all faults.

HEMP.—At the public sales, at which 2,709 bales Manila were offered, the demand was moderate, and the bulk was bought in, good (B B and Co. 1,590 bales) at £52, brown and mixed (800 bales R R) at £45 to £47, only 350 bales being disposed of, mixed roping at £46, sea-damaged brown first class £41 5s. to £43.

PEPPER.—Black: The market is quiet, and at auction supplies went off flatly and were chiefly bought in, Singapore sold at 7½d., brown Siam at 7d. to 7½d., Penang at 6½d. White: The offers have met more demand, and have been sold at an irregular advance at 1s. 3d. to 1s. 3½d.

RICE.—The market on the spot has been very quiet, but in floating cargoes more activity has been shown, and business has been done at a slight advance. Bengal of all qualities is dull, and transactions are suspended. On the spot old Rangoon has been sold at 10s., Ballam at 9s. 6d. to 10s. 6d., Moulmein at 10s. 3d., ex quay. The following floating cargoes have found buyers:—The cargo per Neversink, 615 tons Rangoon, August sailing, at 11s., for the Continent, damaged at valuation; the Abergeldie, 865 tons Rangoon, late August sailing, at 10s. 10½d., E contract, for the Continent; the Peruvian Congress, 1,720 tons Necransie Arracan, at 10s. 6d., for the Continent; the Amy, 850 tons Rangoon, early October sailing, at 10s. 10½d., damaged at valuation, for the Continent.

TIN.—There has again been a large speculative demand at advancing prices. On the 16th inst. 250 tons Straits, more or less, will be offered for sale by public tender. In Holland business has been done at 84 florins spot, 83½ florins, ex spring sale. The current rates here are:—Straits, on the spot, £142; afloat, £142; Banca, £143; Billiton, £142 per ton.

FREIGHTS AND CHARTERS.

The aggregate steam tonnage now loading for the Eastern Ports being considerable, there is but little animation in berth freights; the rates for coal, however, are firmly maintained, and in some cases have advanced.

Current Rates of Freight for Vessels on the Berth.

Per STEAMERS VIA SUEZ CANAL.—To Yokohama: 90s. meat. To Shanghai: 60s. meat. To Hong Kong: 60s. meat. To Singapore: 50s. to 60s. meat. To Ceylon: 50s. meat, 40s. weight.

The Admiralty have invited tenders for the conveyance of 21 tons stores to Shanghai, and of 150 to Hong Kong.

CASUALTIES.

In our last issue it was stated that the Titania, for Shanghai, had put into Brixham, very leaky. It appears that it was a small coasting vessel, and not the celebrated China clipper. We regret that our shipping reporter should have made this error.

The William Miller (str.), Nyberg, which arrived at New York, Oct. 22, from Amoy, via S. C., burst both feed pumps, Oct. 7, and made the rest of the voyage with a small donkey pump as a feeder, and under canvas.

Advices from Capetown, dated Oct. 5, state the Aldeboran (Dutch ship), Meyboom, from Batavia to New York, which vessel put into Simon's Bay, Sept. 8, leaky, had discharged 4,000 packets of sugar all more or less damaged, which would be sold, Oct. 6, at the last mentioned place.

The Elizabeth Ann, Coates, which sailed from Newcastle, Oct. 24, for Singapore, put into Falmouth, Nov. 4, with loss of anchor and chain, and damage to windlass.

The Zadkia, from Glasgow, to Yokohama and Hiogo, which had been aground off Dumbarton, is expected to sail to-day.

On the 4th inst. there was launched from the building yard of Messrs. Caird and Co. a handsome screw steamer of 350 tons, which was named the Ananda. The new steamer has been specially constructed for the Burmah trade, and is intended to ply betwixt Rangoon and the Andaman Islands, &c. Her dimensions are as follows:—Length, 150 feet, depth, 16 feet, and breadth of beam, 22 feet. She will be propelled by compound engines of 75-horse power. The Ananda will be commanded by Captain Alex. Bowers, R.N.R., and is advertised to sail for Rangoon direct early next week.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

AND PILLS.—RHEUMATISM AND GOUT.—These purifying and soothing remedies demand the earnest attention of all persons liable to rheumatism, gout, sciatica, or other painful affections of the muscles, nerves, or joints. The Ointment should be applied after the affected parts have been patiently fomented with warm water, when the unguent should be diligently rubbed upon the adjacent skin, unless the friction should cause pain. Holloway's Pills should be simultaneously taken to reduce inflammation, and to purify the blood. This treatment abates the violence, and lessens the frequency, of gout, rheumatism, and all spasmodic diseases which spring from hereditary predisposition, or from any accidental weakness of constitution. The Ointment checks the local malady, the Pills restore the vital powers.

SINGAPORE DOCKS.

THE PATENT SLIP AND DOCK COMPANY execute SHIPS' REPAIRS of all descriptions in the most efficient manner under the supervision of European Engineers and Shipwrights.

There are TWO DRY DOCKS, each capable of admitting two vessels at the same time, being over 400 feet in length, with depth of water ranging to 20 feet.

Adjoining the above there is extensive WHARF WAREHOUSE, and other accommodation, including every convenience for coaling Steamers, discharging cargo, and storing goods, together with ample MACHINERY and appliances for repairing iron steamers, &c.

Apply at the offices of Messrs. PATERSON, SIMONS and Co., Singapore, or 21, St. Swithin's-lane, Cannon-street, London, E.C.

WM. CLOUGHTON, Managing Director.
New Harbour, Singapore, January, 1870.

PORT OF AMOY.

SHIPOWNERS, AGENTS, and COMMANDERS are informed that the Dock Company's establishments at the above port afford every facility, at moderate charges, for REPAIRING and SPARRING VESSELS, cleaning and painting iron ships and steamers.

Their large Granite Dock has 286 feet length on the blocks, and at average spring tides can receive vessels of 16 to 17 feet draught. It has a caisson-gate and a powerful centrifugal steam pump, and an engineer's workshop fitted with lathes and tools, driven by steam; iron and brass foundries, boiler-makers' shop, a large smithy and carpenters and boat-builders' sheds. All superintended by resident Europeans.

Their two smaller GRANITE DOCKS can receive, at spring tides, vessels drawing 12 feet.

Spars, timber, and other Dockyard material kept in stock.
Quarters for officers and a DRY GODOWN for stores of vessels under repair.

THE MAILS, &c.

The French mail, bringing the above dates, was delivered, via Marseilles, on Friday, the 17th inst., two days in advance of its due date. The next inward mail (P. and O.), with dates, Shanghai Oct. 12, Hong Kong Oct. 18, Singapore Oct. 25, is due, via Brindisi, on Saturday next, the 25th inst.

Telegrams by the China Submarine and Red Sea Telegraph Lines, dated 18th inst., were received on the same day, having occupied, allowing for difference of time, about five and a-half hours in transmission. Notice is given that the Great Northern Telegraph Company's cable between Shanghai and Nagasaki is interrupted, and that until further notice messages for Japan should be directed "Post Hong Kong."

Summary of News from the Far East.

CHINA.

SHANGHAI.

Dates extend to the 4th Oct. The P. and O. mail of the 11th Aug. arrived on the 1st Oct.—five days behind contract time, the P. and O. steamer Emeu having been compelled by bad weather to put into Amoy. The French mail of Aug. 18 arrived on the following day. The following is from the North China Herald :—

The change of the monsoon has been accompanied by very heavy weather on the coast. The last English mail was nine days on the voyage from Hong Kong, arriving five days beyond contract time. The Suwonada, which left nearly at the same time, arrived only one day before her. Both met with furious northerly gales, and were compelled to run for shelter—the former into Amoy, the latter into Ping-ki bay. The force of the wind is spoken of as equalling that of a cyclone; neither ship was able to make headway against it, and the Emeu was actually losing ground when she determined to run for Amoy. The Etha Rickmers also suffered badly in a typhoon off Formosa on Sept. 12.

A Peking correspondent writes that the much-vexed audience question is really likely to come up for serious discussion before many months are over. The Foreign Powers have determined to press it; and Chunghow's inactivity in Europe, and Mr. Lemaire's late return to France, are attributable to this resolve. There is no doubt that the Emperor's marriage was put off this year in order to defer the evil day; but this cannot be repeated indefinitely; nor are foreigners content to wait indefinitely. Sooner or later the knot must come up for solution, and there is reason to believe it will be sooner. Will the Chinese yield or fight? There is no doubt what they would like to do; but are they ready? and how much more time are we going to allow them for preparation?

The fifth ordinary meeting of the North China Insurance Company was held on the 2nd Oct., Mr. Lavers in the chair. The working account for the half-year yields a surplus of Tls. 127,828.39, which is carried forward, making a total credit balance of Tls. 843,610.60, on the above date, over and above the paid-up capital, Tls. 300,000, and after the distribution of the first and second dividends, representing Tls. 225,000. The losses and claims paid (Tls. 227,498.57) during the six months, January to June, 1871, principally arise on policies issued in 1870, all which risks have now terminated, subject to averages not yet adjusted and ascertained; subsequent settlements amount to Tls. 10,450.98; and as the casualties to vessels, at present known, in which the company is interested are not expected to involve heavy claims, the business of the present year promises favourable results. The amount of profit, they would observe, up to the 30th June was Tls. 1,068,610, against, at the corresponding period, Tls. 751,000, showing a satisfactory increase. The report was unanimously adopted, and a dividend for 1870 of Tls. 100 declared.

After rather a burst of law proceedings we have had a quiet week. The only pending case, an action by the S.S.N. Co., for damages sustained by their steamer Kiangsi through collision with Messrs. Jardine Matheson's steamer Kiushu, has been postponed from the difficulty of finding a British assessor among the captains of steamers just now coming to the port, unconnected with the parties interested.

In the application made respectively by the trustee on the estate of William Hargreaves and the trustees under Mr. Hargreaves' marriage settlement, for a fund in Court, the proceeds of furniture, amounting to Tls. 10,037, judgment is for the trustees under the marriage settlement for furniture in possession of the bankrupt before 1867, the precise amount of the award to be fixed after inquiry in chambers. In the Hiogo appeal case, Gandaubert v. Hart and Smedley, the finding of the Court below is sustained, being for defendants and respondents.

The British brig Matilda has been wrecked in Chefoo harbour. She was left with only the boatswain on board, dragged her anchor, and drifted on the rocks at the foot of Yentai hill—the second anchor was let go too late to save her. The Court severely censured the master, and suspended the mate's certificate.

The new rule has not, we believe, been officially promulgated yet in Shanghai; and we may be sure that, so long as the present Taotai remains in office, every obstacle will be offered to it. At Ningpo, we are told, the Taotai has officially informed the Consuls of the change. Care will now have to be taken that the provincial authorities respect the transit pass; and we shall not be surprised to find that the natives yet find it desirable that the pass should be taken out in a foreign name.

Advantage was taken of the cool weather and a moonlight night to call a parade of the S. V. C., which was fairly attended, and went off, on the whole, well. The design was that the force should assemble, as on former occasions, along the line of the Honan-road—No. 2 company with one gun at the junction of the Honan and Peking roads; the Miholoongs at the foot of the Maloo; No. 3 at the foot of the Foochow road; and No. 1 with one gun on the Yang-king-pang—and at the signal of a rocket from the Maloo, swing, left backwards and right forwards, to face an attack from the city. The new base of operations was the Foochow Road, and a great deal of fighting was gone through by each company in the streets and on the open ground between this and the Yang-king-pang. Eventually, the enemy being repelled at all points, the whole force reassembled at the Parsee Cemetery and marched back, headed by the band, to the Bund, where the order to dismiss was given at eleven p.m.

Feng, the mandarin who has long held the post of Superintendent at the Shanghai Arsenal, was very recently surprised by the arrival of a young mandarin named Chai-Sz'-bao, with letters from the Futai appointing him to the post and requesting an acknowledgment of his arrival. Instead of replying, Feng at once started in his new steam yacht for Soochow, to interview the Futai; and from thence, it appears, went on to Nanking to see Tseng-kwo-fan, who is said to ignore altogether the appointment of Chai-Sz'-bao, and to regard him merely as appointed by the Futai to be an additional manager at the Arsenal. The new official, we hear, has lately arrived from Peking, where he held a post in the Tsung-li Yamen. Ostensibly his appointment emanates from the Futai; but his arrival from Peking looks very much as if higher influences were at work. He seems to have studied somewhat of foreign matters, and says he is specially instructed to enquire whether Chinese arsenals cannot begin to derive their supplies of iron and coal from Chinese sources, instead of relying on foreign imports. We hear that a Prussian drill-instructor has been brought out, to teach the use of Krupp's guns to a class of lads at the Arsenal, who are being taught German at that comprehensive establishment.

The Shanghai Courier of Oct. 3 contains the following paragraph, which narrates the occurrence of an incident very unusual among journalists in the East. It will be seen that our contemporary does not pledge itself to the complete accuracy of its statement, and we trust, for the sake of the "sink of iniquity," that it is much exaggerated. Our contemporary says:—Last night about half-past five, as we are told, M. Beer, editor of the Nouvel-Liste, met M. Lepissier, editor of the Progress, in the Rue du Consulat, and struck him on the head with a walking-stick or hand-whip, on which M. Lepissier drew a revolver and fired on M. Beer wounding him in the arm. It appears that M. Beer had sent a letter to M. Lepissier referring to some controversy between the two journals which the latter refused to insert in the Progress. Learning that there was a conspiracy in certain quarters to fasten a quarrel upon him, M. Lepissier notified the Consul General of the fact some days ago, and said he would fire on the first man who dared attack him. M. Beer, on meeting him last evening, demanded why he had not inserted his note. He replied that he owed M. Beer no explanation, on which the above encounter took place. M. Lepissier, after firing, walked straight to the French Consulate and gave himself into custody. He was released this morning on bail. M. Beer's wound is not serious. We relate the bare facts as we have received them, refraining from comment for the present.

The Japan Herald says:—The Japanese mission to the North to settle the Saghalien affair has returned without doing anything; it appears that the Nitsin proceeded as far as Hakodadi, but finding no Russian-men-of-war there to escort her, as promised, the commissioner waited a month, and then returned.

HONG KONG.

Dates by this opportunity extend to the 11th Oct. The outward P. and O. mail of Aug. 25 arrived on the 4th Oct.

The following account, duly certified, of the average amount of bank-notes in circulation in Hong Kong during the month ending the 30th September, 1871, is published in the Gazette:—

Banks.	Average amount.	Specie in reserve.
Oriental Corporation...	$477,644	$250,000
Chartered Mercantile of India, London, and China ...	559,834	200,000
Chartered of India, Australia, and China ...	290,150	100,000
Hong Kong and Shanghai ...	1,782,235	700,000
Total ...	$3,109,863	$1,250,000

The following items are from the China Mail:—

The Hong Kong Pier and Godown Company (Limited), has at length commenced operations. The contract for the erection of the godowns has been let to the contractor who is building the new German Club, and he has commenced clearing the site. The pier will probably be finished in about nine months.

There is, we understand, a possibility that the new German Club will be ready for opening by the middle of December next.

A most interesting collection is in process of formation at the City Hall Museum, for which the public are indebted to the liberality and enterprise of the head of the leading German house in this colony. It will comprise when completed a specimen of each article of Chinese production or manufacture passing through business hands in Hong Kong. Canes, matting, fans, ink, carvings, mineral productions, seeds, and a hundred other articles, find place in the list.

A Canton correspondent writes:—M. Blancheton, French Consul at Canton, has obtained from the Viceroy an indemnity for the Catholic chapels and other property destroyed at Shek-Lung and Tung-koon in the recent disturbances. It is to be hoped that the chapels will be soon restored, and that the native Christians of those places, who have been obliged to take refuge at the Catholic mission at Canton, will be able to go back to their district and rebuild their houses.

The news from Macao is to the effect that the Peruvian coolie trade is as brisk as ever it was. Thirteen vessels of various nationalities—Portuguese, Peruvian, Russian, Spanish, and French—are said to be fitting up at the present moment to carry coolies for Peru. The trade is further stated to be carried on under a different system. For the sake of humanity and civilisation, we trust that this may be so.

We are glad to learn that Mr. Tomlin has at length returned to his duty. He went to the office for the first time yesterday. Who knocked him down?

The Hon. Mrs. Yelverton will give a public reading in the City Hall on Oct. 26. This lady, as is well known, has been driven to literary labour for a livelihood by circumstances too well known to require detail here; and for many years her readings and recitations have given great satisfaction, both at home and in America. The London Times, after commenting favourably on the several portions of the programme represented at the Hanover-square Rooms, London, characterised her "reading as a complete success," spoke of Mrs. Yelverton as "one of the very best readers of our best poets," and hoped it was "an augury of a successful and happy future that has begun to dawn upon her." We trust that Mrs. Yelverton may not have to regret her journey to the East, or at least to Hong-kong.

The Japan Herald has, we hear, been bought by its editor, Mr. Brooke, for $4,000. The Hiogo News does not seem to think highly of the investment, and makes some disrespectful remarks about "a lame duck." [When will our contemporaries in the Far East learn how to practice the "amenities of literature," and recognise the truth that there is no weapon so deadly to a writer's reputation as the pen in his hands, if it be not worthily employed? Such an instance of bad taste as the above might be expected of a carcass-butcher disappointed of a bargain, or a Jew broker at a "knock out"—but it is certainly out of place in the "fourth estate"—at least according to Western ideas.—Ed. L. & C. T.]

"It is an evil wind that blows nobody any good" is an old saying, and must have forcibly appeared in the minds of at least two persons lately. Through the detention of the Yottung by the late typhoon the City of Aberdeen drifted into her course in a disabled condition, and was brought into this harbour, the result being that $2,000 will have to pass from the owner of the latter to the owner of the former for towing services.

The great East Point institution, the Sepoy Guard, is, we hear, to be given up, and to be forwarded to Calcutta by the next steamer leaving for that port, their place being taken by a number of Chinese watchmen of good character and one head man, the engagement of whom, we understand, has been entrusted to an experienced police officer.

Captain O'Hagan, of the British barque Lizzie and Rosa, reports that on the voyage from San Francisco to this port, he stopped a few hours on the lee side of the Island of Seypan, one of the Marinas where the people promptly supplied the ship with poultry, fruit, vegetables, &c., &c., at a very moderate price. The Governor of the island and the Padre were exceedingly kind, and both speak very good English. Captain O'Hagan would strongly recommend his fellow ship-masters, if passing near and in want of fresh provisions, to call at the island, as they will be sure to receive a hearty reception, and have their wants immediately attended to.

The Eureka Company, who are old favourites in Hong Kong, performed for the first time since their return from Calcutta.

Miss Nellie Hosmer, and Mr. Joseph Small, well known to the Hong Kong public, were rapturously applauded. The new members of the company, Miss Fanny Wiseman and Mr. W. South, may be said to have been on their trial, and capitally they acquitted themselves. Mr. Alfred Singer presided at the pianoforte with brilliancy and tact.

Dates extend to the 16th Oct. The chief item is the report of the Finance Committee appointed by the Governor to provide for the extraordinary expenses of the year. They recommend a loan of fifteen million francs, guaranteed by the State, to be raised in three years and redeemed in twenty. No difficulty is anticipated in the negotiation of the loan. We have much pleasure in observing that the French Government are about to adopt the simple and sensible expedient of a loan, which, it will be remembered, we suggested, when the best means of raising money were first canvassed, as being far preferable to the narrow policy of strangling the growing trade of the colony with monopolies and licence taxes.

SIAM.

BANGKOK.

The departure of the King for Calcutta has not yet taken place.

The following items are from the Weekly Advertiser :—

The great event of last week was the demonstration shown by the Siamese, in commemoration of the birthday of his Majesty, Somdet Chulalongkorn, the First King of Siam. This sovereign was born Sept. 21, 1853, and was crowned King of Siam Nov. 11, 1868. The Royal birthday seems to have been celebrated with great magnificence.

We learn that his Excellency Nai Naitre, the Governor of Paknam, is to be the bearer of despatches to the Netherlands East India Government at Batavia, and that he will have in charge the decorations which his Majesty the King of Siam has conferred upon the prominent gentlemen of that island.

The export of rice from Siam last year was greater than in any previous year, and amounted only to 2,533,302 piculs, and this is much less than the exports from Saigon from Jan. 1st to Aug. 12th, 1871, which amounted to 3,758,657 piculs. Why this great difference? Has not Siam the capacity to yield much more than Saigon? Would not investments to multiply canals, roads, and facilitate transit, irrigation, and production, enable the fertile plains of Siam to yield an abundance, and at rates that would defy the competition of any other Asiatic country?

We learn casually that P'raya Rat may be appointed Governor of Rahaang, and be invested with especial powers to adjudicate cases in the Northern provinces, where foreigners may be one of the parties of a suit.

It is whispered about that ere long an Austrian Embassy will visit Siam to exchange the ratified copies of the Treaty which was negotiated May 1869, by his Excellency, Baron de Petz. Le Chevalier Calice, now Consul General for China and Japan, it is expected will be the Ambassador to execute this important service. This gentleman was one of the suite of the Embassy of which Baron de Petz was Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary.

His Excellency Chow Phya Bhanuwongse, the Minister for Foreign Affairs, entertained officers of the Foreign Consulates at a ball which took place on his birthday.

Dates from this port are to the 19th Oct. The P. and O. mail of Sept. 8 arrived on the 9th Oct., and the French mail of 15th Sept. on the 16th Oct.

The Legislative Council met on the 16th Oct., but the proceedings were merely formal.

The following items are from the Daily Times :—

The manager of the telegraph companies here informs us that the telegraph steamer Investigator has just reached Anjer. She will lay a short cable across the Straits of Sunda to join Java with Sumatra, then proceed to join the other steamships at Port Darwin. It is expected the work of laying the Australian cable will be completed by the middle of December. The land lines across the Australian Continent are being proceeded with rapidly, and it is hoped will be finished by the end of the year. The following telegram has been received at the telegraph-office :—

Anjer, Oct. 10th.—“Captain Halpin lays Telok Betong shore end to-day and hopes to complete line by 13th.”

The captain and eleven of the crew of the Taeeping, whose loss we reported a few weeks since on Ladd Reef, were (Oct. 16th) still at Saigon.

It was generally anticipated in the colony that Mr. Trotter, of Ceylon, would be appointed Postmaster-General of the Straits.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

Some few months ago you had an article about the coffee enterprise in this Island. It is true coffee is king in Ceylon, for in our yearly exports it amounts to about four-fifths of the whole produce shipped from the island. Still, coffee is not our only enterprise. We have cinnamon, plumbago, and the proceeds of the cocoa-nut palm in its many and varied forms, besides numerous other small matters. Just peruse the Governor's able and exhaustive speech at the opening of this, the last session of the Legislative Council, at which he will preside, and you will see with what giant strides trade and commerce of every kind have increased within the last fifteen years. During that period imports and exports together have increased in average annual value by 60 per cent., and now stand at about £8,300,000. Shipping tonnage has increased from 640,893 tons to 1,294,795 tons, being an increase of 100 per cent. The estimated number of acres in cultivation has increased from 766,717 to 1,526,583, being just about doubled in the fifteen years. Coffee has risen from 414,377 cwt. to 993,478 cwt., being an increase of 140 per cent.; while cinnamon, which was long neglected, has increased 280 per cent., having risen from 823,721 lbs. to 2,311,059 lbs. Plumbago, however, tops everything in the extent of the rise, for it has gone up from 14,385 cwt. to 150,824 cwt., being an increase of over 800 per cent. Coconut oil has gone on steadily increasing, but its value has only risen 33 per cent. in the above period, while tobacco has gone up 58 per cent.

What may be the measure of the island's progress during the next fifteen years it would be difficult to predict. But if the new harbour and the Paumben Passage be then accomplished facts—if the above interests continue to expand as they have been doing—if the Government continues to expend money judiciously in reproductive works, such as roads, railways, canals, &c.—if the irrigation schemes be a success, by increasing and cheapening the food of the people—if the education schemes lately launched have the effect anticipated, of not only enlightening the masses, but of diminishing crime and the cost of its repression, Ceylon ought to present to the reviewer of that period a very flourishing condition. Indeed, one can hardly estimate the extent of the benefits that will be conferred on the island by the successful completion of those great works—the harbour, with its docks, lifts, or slips for repairing the vast amount of eastward-bound shipping that will call to coal, for cargo or repairs—and the Paumben Passage, shortening and facilitating the route to Bengal.

Besides these, however, which are works of national, rather than merely local, interest, there is no reason why our exports should be restricted to the few articles above quoted. There are other industries that would suit the vast tracts of unbroken land lying on the south, east, and north of the island. Let anyone stand on the top of Tottapellagalla and cast his eye over the vast tracts of waving forest extending in one direction to the Pattenas of Bogawantalawa, Bopatalawa, and Agra, and in another to Ballangodde and Hapopotella; if these be too elevated for coffee, would they not make splendid tea and chinchona gardens? The lands in question are probably at an average altitude of 6,000 feet. The lays of the land are perfection, the soil is excellent, and the climate most bracing. And what a fine pursuit would be that cultivation in an almost European climate! It only wants a beginning—some enterprising capitalist or company should start it, others would soon follow, and the field would be occupied. Take again this extensive tract of untouched land in the Binteune country and between that and Batticaloa, fine land almost dead level, in a dry and hot district—would not these be well adapted for cotton? The extensive tracts of jungle in the Northern Province, too, would suit for the same purpose or for silk culture, or tobacco, or grain, or maize. When the effects of the last commercial crisis, followed as it has been by European wars, shall have fairly blown over, when commerce shall assert her supremacy, and enterprise be once more unfettered, there need be little doubt that the industries above indicated will attract the attention of capitalists and settlers to the various new and old outlets for money and labour in a healthy country, easily reached, “where Europe amid Asia smiles.”

IMPORTS.

SHANGHAI.—Grey Cottons had been in very trifling demand since the departure of last mail, and although prices had not experienced any appreciable decline, the market had been weak throughout, and buyers anticipated a concession by sellers before business was actively resumed. Quotations were all more or less nominal. Woollens generally had improved considerably in value, and amongst them Camlets and Cape Lastings were the most noticeable, both of which articles had advanced in value one-half to three-quarters of a tael per piece, and continued in demand. Figured Orleans, although more wanted, were very little higher in value, but Spanish Stripes were quoted 2c. per yard better, and sales of Long Ells established an advance of 5c. per pieces. Scarlet CPH having changed hands at Tls. 5.85. For Lastings and Crape Lustres, however, there was scarcely any inquiry, and sales were somewhat difficult to be made at quotations. Tientsin and Hankow market advices continue unfavourable in the extreme. Quotations were as follows:—Camlets, SS, Tls. 14 to 14.75; GG, Tls. 14.5; SSG, Tls. 14.4. Spanish Stripes, Tls. 0.58 to 0.61 per yard; T.T.-B., Tls. 0.61. Long Ells, Scarlet CPH, Tls. 5.85; Assorted, HH, Tls. 5.5, CPH, Tls. 5.35 to 5.45, GG, Tls. 5.5. Lastings, 30 yds., Tls. 9.1 to 11.5. Crape Lastings, 30 yds., Tls. 7 to 7.5. Crape Lustres, Tls. 3.6 to 3.9. Orleans, Figured, 30 yds., Tls. 3.9 to 4.1. Metals.—Lead: A few sales effected at Tls. 4.55 to 4.60. News from Hankow of an improved market at that port had caused holders to assume a firmer tone and ask for an advance of 1 to 2 mace per picul upon last quotations. Nail Rod Iron: Offers freely made on last mail's terms, but holders were very firm, and require an advance. Coal: With but few arrivals, supplies were held for higher rates.

POOCHOW.—The following sales were reported:—500 pieces 8½ lbs. Grey Shirtings, at $2.70 per piece. Lead 1,500 pigs at $6.50 to 6.75. Quotations are:—Grey Shirtings, 7 lbs., at $2.35 to 2.40; T-Cloths, 7 lbs., at $2.10 to 2.30; 6 lbs. at $1.80 to 1.82½; Lead at $6.75 per picul.

HONG KONG.—The import market had been subjected to little or no alteration since last mail.

SAIGON.—Transactions had been on a very moderate scale, and our quotations remain unchanged, viz.:—Grey Shirtings: 8½ lbs., $2.52½ per piece; do., 7 lbs., $2.15. Irish Linen: No. 150, $1.70 to 1.75 per piece; do., No. 120, $1.65. T-Cloths: 7 lbs., $1.80 to 1.85 per piece; do., 6 lbs., $1.75; do., 5 lbs., $1.37½ to 1.40; do., 4½ lbs., $1.25 to 1.25; do., 4 lbs., $1.10 to 1.15.

SINGAPORE.—The following were the latest market quotations:—Gambier, $3.25; Black Pepper, $12½; White Pepper, $21; Sago Flour: Singapore, $2.70; do. Borneo, $2.77½; Pearl Sago, $3.15; Tin, $34.50; 40s Mule Twist, $114 to 115; 8½ lbs. Shirtings, $2.50 to 2.47½; 7 lbs. do., $2.15; 5 lbs. T-Cloths, $1.35; 6 lbs. do., $1.65; 7 lbs. do., $1.82½ to 1.85.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

SHANGHAI.—The market for Black Teas had been very firm, and almost all Teas above low common kinds were bought up as soon as shown. Teamen had asked and obtained a further advance in prices. Settlements 18,000 chests. Stock 17,000 chests against 50,000 last year. In Green great activity had been displayed, and all desirable chops were taken up on arrival. Many settlements showed a rise of Tls. 10½ per picul. Stock was very small, and comprised but few fine Teas. Settlements 51,000 ½-chests; stock, 19,000 ½-chests, against 70,000 last year.

POOCHOW.—A quieter feeling had prevailed during the interval, and although purchases had amounted to over 16,000 chests of Congou, a large portion of this had been taken for the Continent. The buying for England appeared to have been comparatively small. Settlements of Oolong for America had been on a much more moderate scale, only amounting to 5,000 half-chests. For the Colonies, a small business was in progress. Daily arrivals from the country continued on about the same scale as last reported, and stock was diminished to 41,000 chests Congou. The demand had existed for nearly all grades, but had chiefly run on the strong brisk kinds, varying from Tls. 15 to 17½. Teamen still held anything above this range very firmly. But little had been done in Souchong; purchases had been made in the grades ranging from Tls. 15½ to 20 short, whilst two or three chops of boxes had realised from Tls. 28 to 36. In Oolong only two strings had been settled at Tls. 22½ and 23 short respectively. These prices showed a slight decline. In Flowery Pekoe nothing had been done. In Scented Teas there is not much to note; a few settlements had taken place at prices ranging from Tls. 16 to 21 short. The Teas on offer of this description were of very inferior description, and were much mixed.

COCHIN CHINA PRODUCE.

The following is Messrs. Kaltenbach, Eugler and Co.'s report, dated Saigon, 16th October:—

RICE.—We have to report a further and very considerable advance on our rates current a month ago. When prices at Hong Kong had rapidly gone up to about $2.50 the excitement on our place was great, and it became nearly impossible to contract for any larger quantity. Europeans then kept entirely out of the market, but Chinese continued to secure the smallest lots at almost any rate, paying in some instances an advance of over twenty cents from one day to the other, and higher prices than seen for a long time, say fully $2.25 and 2.30 have been established. Since the beginning of the present month a more quiet tone was prevailing, and prices had at one moment declined to about $2.05 and 2.10, but the following days already the market was again firmer and rates were varying since between $2.10 and 2.20. At the latter prices a lot of 10,000 piculs round has been contracted by Europeans, and afterwards, when the market became easier, the same quantity at $2.15. Our present quotations are, round $2.15 and long 2.10. Paddy: A report is current that high waters in some districts have damaged a good deal of the old stock; prices are nominal.

HIDES.—Buffalo are rather neglected, and lower prices would be accepted. Cowhides on the contrary are in great demand for export to Singapore, and difficult to be got. We quote Buffalo $7.75, and Cowhides $12.25.

HORNS.—Several lots have been bought at lower prices, say from $8 to 8.25, according to size.

COCOA-NUT OIL.—There is not much offered, and prices remain unchanged at $8 per picul.

GAMBOGE is scarce at higher prices. For middling quality $59 to 60 are asked.

TEA.

The demand for all descriptions has been rather light since our last report, recent purchases having pretty well supplied the trade. Holders, however, are not disposed to press sales, and full rates are maintained. Stocks of all kinds are moderate.

COFFEE.—The latest advices from Rio Janeiro confirm previous reports of a short crop in Brazil, and light receipts at Rio. These accounts have wrought a change for the better in the tone of this market, inasmuch as there now seems to be some disposition to resume purchases to a moderate extent; holders remain firm, still offering their small stocks sparingly. The market for East India descriptions has been unsettled, owing to the almost entire suspension of operations noticed in our report of a fortnight since. The following have been the transactions (which were chiefly entered into early in the interval):—12,476 mats Java, per Alexander; 10,000 mats to arrive, per Enoch Train, due at the close of the year; 25,191 to arrive, per Jane Sprott, daily expected, and 1,300 bags native Ceylon, all on private terms. The jobbing prices of East India remain as before, say 21c. to 22c. for pale and brown Singapore, and 25½c. to 27c. for pale to extreme brown Java, all gold. The stock of Java here and in Boston is now only about 25,000 mats, held in few hands, who also control the supplies till the end of this and the beginning of next year.

CORDAGE is steady at previous rates—say 21c. to 22c. for Marila, 20½c. for Tarred Manila, and 19c. to 20c. for Sisal Rope.

CAMPBOR.—China is quoted 14c. gold (in bond).

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Aniseed is quoted $3; Cassia, $2.10 gold (duty paid).

FIRE CRACKERS are very quiet; we quote extra No. 1 nominally $3 to 3.10 usual terms.

HEMP.—The market for Manila continues very quiet, manufacturers being well supplied, and the small stock in hand being firmly held; the current quotation is still 13½c. gold. The only sales of the fortnight have been 250 bales fine quality, per H. Harris, at 13½c. gold, and 4,400 bales, per S. G. Glover (before arrival), on private terms.

INDIGO.—The market is dull, and prices are to a great extent nominal; Manila rules at $1.05 to 1.15, Madras at $1.15, currency.

PRESERVED GINGER.—China is quoted $8.50 currency (duty paid).

RHUBARB.—The quotation for China is 50c. to 60c. currency (duty free).

RICE.—Carolina has been in excessive supply, and prices gradually receded until a few days prior to the close, when, the receipts becoming more moderate and stocks falling off, the market recovered. Rangoon has been inactive throughout the interval at low prices; the sales have been about 1,500 bags, at $6.87½ to 7 currency, and 1,600 bags in bond, at $3.25 to 3.30 gold.

SUGAR.—The market is very dull, owing to the absence of country buyers and the absorbing interest attached to the choice of legislative and judicial officers. The dullness has been quite marked, business having been brought almost to a stand. The only sales of East India have been 15,994 bags Manila, per Great Admiral, at 8½c., and two invoices Manila, comprising 33,234 bags, on private terms.

SPICES.—In Nutmegs there has been a large movement in parcels on the spot and afloat, the purchases embracing the bulk of the stock and the supply known to be afloat, on private terms, but at full prices. Operators are sanguine that from the position of this spice in the markets abroad higher quotations must rule here for some time to come. In Pepper there have been sales of two cargoes Sumatra and Singapore, to arrive, say about 6,000 piculs, on private terms, which embraces about all expected here the remainder of the year. The trade demand continues good, and prices generally are firm. Cassia is no higher, but is well supported. Mace, Nutmegs, and Cloves stiffen; the latter have been quite active, and the market, as a whole, has a healthy tone. For trade lots there is a moderate demand, though the market is not as active as for some weeks past. We notice sales in a jobbing way of Mace at $1.45 to 1.50; Nutmegs, $1 to 1.02½; China Cassia, 36c. to 37c.; Batavia, 34c.; Cloves, mostly in bond, 6½c. to 7c.; duty paid, 12c.; Pepper, 18c. to 18½c. for Sumatra, and 19½c. to 20c. for Singapore; White Pepper, 40c.

TIN.—There is still an absence of demand, and prices rule lower; large lots could not be placed, except at a considerable reduction in quotations. Banca may be quoted nominally at 41c. to 41½c., and Straits 36c. to 36½c., gold.

JAPANESE REFORMS.

A letter from Yedo, dated the 10th of September, in the Allgemeine Zeitung gives some curious particulars as to the reforms which are now being effected in Japan. "If all the plans of the Government are carried out," he says, "Japan will enter on a political and social reformation of the highest importance. It is a fact that all the princes have—though as yet only nominally—abdicated the royal dignities, and that after the ninth month of the Japanese year—i.e., about the end of October—they will take up their residence as private citizens in Yedo. They are to retain a tenth of the revenues of their former estates, the remaining nine-tenths being appropriated to the Central Government at Yedo; and new provincial governors will be appointed who will be merely officials subject to the central authority. . . . In connection with this political reorganisation there is to be a social reform which will perhaps prove even more important. Within the next five years all the samurai (bearers of two swords) who have hitherto been the dependants of the princes and other grandees, are to be dismissed and cast on their own resources, to seek employment as artisans, merchants, or civil servants. Further, civil appointments are to be thrown open to all classes, and a sort of general liability to military service to be introduced after the Prussian model." The correspondent doubts, however, whether it will be possible really to carry out all these reforms. "Class distinctions have been as strong in Japan as anywhere else; the history of the country up to the establishment of the Yaeonate presents an almost uninterrupted series of civil wars; and recent events have shown that even now such wars are not impossible. It is difficult to believe, too, that the privileged class which has hitherto alone disposed of the revenues of the provinces should give up all these advantages without resistance, and out of sheer patriotic disinterestedness. It is true that an order from the Mikado is almost regarded as a message from Heaven; but this has never prevented a prince from making war on the Government under the pretext that the Mikado has fallen into the hands of his enemies, and is not a free agent. On the other hand, it cannot be denied that the difficulty of uniting the Japanese provinces under a central government would be much less than that of forming the German Empire has been. The princes were always nominally the Mikado's vassals; they obtained their titles from him, and consequently did not, as the German princes do, enjoy the prestige of sovereignty. . . . Several princes would be very contented with their new position, for they would be able to live much more comfortably on their reduced incomes than they can now. As for the more powerful princes, such as Kanga and Mito, their clans are so split up into factions that no resistance is to be feared from them. The most formidable clans—those of Satsuma, Hizen, Tosa, and Tchiotchin—have for the time the whole power of the Government in their hands. . . . But even if these grandees should not quarrel, and no material alteration were made in their position, the central Government would still acquire an enormous increase of power by the abolition of a crowd of small principalities." The correspondent adds that the Government is about to open the fertile island of Jesso to foreign colonists, and that two Americans have been sent there to introduce the system of agriculture adopted in the United States.

MISSIONARIES IN CHINA IN 1820.

The following curious extract from the Diario di Roma of 1822 is taken from the London Literary Gazette, in which it was reprinted in 1823:—

"Gin-Song, the Sovereign of this great kingdom the Empire of An-nam (which includes provinces of Tonquin, Cochinchina, Chiampa, Camboja, and Laos-ur-Tac Tho, and contains 23,000,000 inhabitants) died in the beginning of 1820, in the seventieth year of his age. During his reign of eighteen years he constantly protected the Catholic religion and esteemed the European missionaries, whom he honoured with his entire confidence. It was feared that after his death there would arise a persecution against this faith, because the Crown Prince some years ago seemed to be ill-inclined towards the missionaries, and even threatened to banish them all out of the kingdom as soon as he ascended the Throne. But He who sways the hearts of Princes disposed otherwise in his infinite mercy. Gin Song, a short time before his death, called the Prince to his sick bed, and gave him many counsels which he desired him to observe; among others, he most urgently exhorted him not to disturb in the least the professors of the Catholic religion, if he would not, like the tyrant Tau-Jou—who prohibited the exercise of the Catholic faith in this kingdom in 1793, and was soon after deposed and murdered—lose both his Throne and life. The new Sovereign, who calls himself Mink-Mauh and is thirty years old, punctually followed this paternal advice. The Catholic religion is in the most flourishing condition in Tonquin as well as in Cochinchina, and several mandarins show themselves as well disposed to it as in the lifetime of the late Emperor. Mink-Mauh has signalled his accession, which happened exactly on the Tonquinese New Year (our 14th of February) also by other acts beneficial for his people—released them, by an edict issued that day, from all their debts to the Imperial Treasury; diminished the taxes, which were very heavy under the Government of his father; recalled exiles; and pardoned criminals sentenced to death and other prisoners."

THE POISONING OF THE CREW OF THE "AUDAX."

With reference to the poisoning of the officers and crew of the American vessel Audax, the Shipping and Mercantile Gazette says:—We have no desire to magnify the importance of this case, or, of course, in any way to distort the facts as they have reached us. But it comes to this, that in the British Port of Hong Kong a coroner's jury have found that a murder by poisoning has been committed on board a merchant vessel lying there, and, of course, if the jury are right, there was more than one victim aimed at by the assassin. It would seem that what happened on board the Audax might occur to any vessel against the officers or crews of which a Chinese or Malay sailor might have a grudge. We are aware of the difficulty of meeting attempts at this peculiar species of assassination in the Chinese ports, but at Hong Kong there ought to be no such difficulty. The port and all its belongings are subjected to British control and supervision, and there is, consequently, infinitely less opportunity than there would be higher up the coast for the perpetration of such atrocities. The misfortune in the present case is, that although the coroner's jury have found a verdict of wilful murder, it is an open verdict, and fixes on no one. In the East the criminal population are only impressed by exemplary punishment. Had the prisoner Allee been given in charge to a jury, and tried by British law, it is quite possible there might have been evidence sufficient to have ensured his conviction. As it is, though the officer of an American ship in the British port of Hong Kong has met his death by foul means, the victim of an attempt to murder the whole ship's company, the executive there cannot reach the murderer who, so far as appearances to the contrary, is at this moment at large, and no doubt emboldened by impunity. This state of things is assuredly not calculated to create confidence in the vigilance or astuteness of the executive of Hong Kong.

DIVING APPARATUS FOR THE YANGTZE.—We understand that Messrs Siebe and Gorman, the well-known submarine engineers, are preparing a diving apparatus and other submarine gear for use in the Yangtze, where, it will be remembered, the treasure on board the Hamilla Mitchell was recovered by their patent diving apparatus, last year. The new work has all the latest improvements attached; the air pumps are on an improved principle; two divers can work from the same pump; it is fitted with an indicator to denote the depth at which the diver is working; the cylinders are surrounded by a water apparatus to keep them cool, which is very necessary in a hot climate; and with this apparatus a diver can work to the depth of 160 feet with the greatest ease; and by the use of the submarine electric light they can see equally well in thick water or by night. Two experienced divers from Messrs. Siebe and Gorman's establishment work the above apparatus, which is expected to be ready in a few weeks.

MISSIONS IN MONGOLIA.—The Rev. J. T. Gulick, missionary in North China, now in America, advocates the immediate establishment of a mission to the Mongols, a population of from 3,000,000 to 6,000,000, lying outside of and north from China proper. Methodist missionaries in China are looking in the same direction. I. N. Wheeler, Superintendent of Methodist Missions at Peking, dating at Kalgan, a city of 100,000 inhabitants, says: "I hope we will be reinforced in such numbers as soon to be able to set apart two men for the work in Mongolia and Manchuria. We must occupy this vast territory, for the door of entrance is wide open. The American Board have a station in Kalgan, and the brethren here are beginning to see the first fruits of their labours." Seven native Chinese preachers will be admitted into the several conferences of the current conference year, among the Methodists in the United States; four have already been, and three more are to be, admitted—one each in the Vermont, Black River, and Baltimore Conferences.

HAMBURG, Nov. 14.

New joint-stock companies are springing up all over Germany like mushrooms, absorbing so many millions of dollars that the wonder is where all the money comes from. Here, at Hamburg, no less than four such have been launched with great success since my last letter; they are the Anglo-German Bank of Hamburg, with a capital of five million thalers; the Brokers' Bank, capital a million thalers, and two industrial undertakings—a Railway-carriage Building Company, with a million thalers capital, and the Hamburg and South American Steamship Company, with a capital of a million and a quarter. The first named of these is chiefly formed for the purpose of facilitating financial operations between Germany and the Far East, and Herr W. Nissen, a partner in the house of Messrs. Siemssen and Co., is one of the directors. The shares, which were issued at par, are thought so favourably of, that very large quantities daily change hands, and command already a premium of 17 per cent.

The King of Denmark has appointed Herr H. A. Petersen to be Danish Consul at Amoy, and Herr H. Polano to be Danish Consul at Hiogo, in Japan, vice Herr L. Polano, resigned.

COMMERCIAL.

There is a good consumptive business doing in Tea, with steady prices; some 1,500 chests of Congou and Souchong were sold by importers. Cleaned rice is in great favour and higher; at first the improvement was confined to low qualities, but it now extends to the finer descriptions. A cargo of 7,600 bags Rangoon to hand, per Lucerne, was sold prior to arrival, and no further sales of rough grain are reported. Cassia Ligna is still much inquired for at 11½ to 11¾ sch. beo., and Flores at 16 to 16½ sch. beo. Black Pepper is also in request, Singapore fetching 7½ to 7¾ sch. beo.; White sells at 16 to 16½ sch. beo. Nothing done in Spelter, nominal price 12½ mks. beo.

HOLLAND.

ROTTERDAM, Nov. 15.

The Minister of the Colonial Department, Mr. van Bosse, has laid before Parliament a most important Bill for providing Java with a railway net. He proposes the construction of the following lines by the State:—1. A line from the railway Batavia-Biutenzorg, in the direction of Gibaroessa and Gipadalarang, to Bandung. 2. From Djocjocarta, in the direction of Poerworedjo, Keboemen, and Banjoemaas, to Gilatjap. 3. From Pa-arouan, in the direction of Gempol, Sido-ardjo, Alodjokerto, Poerwodadi, and Ngawi, and joining the Samarang-Principality Railway. 4. From Sourabaya, in the direction of Sido-ardjo and Gempol, to Malang. The construction of these lines will commence at the same moment. It will be hereafter determined in which direction the communication will be made between Western and Central Java. The cost of these lines, which comprise altogether a length of 712 kilometres, is valued at 49,900,000 florins. The cost per kilometre varies from f.60,000 to f.100,000. It is of the greatest urgency, the Minister says, that the means of communication in Java should be improved. They are requisite, not only for trade, but for defence. Last year Messrs. Kool and Henkel published an important report upon railways in Java, and proposed a system by which the lines should cut through the whole island from Batavia to Passarouan. The Minister, however, thought it necessary that this plan should be further examined, and a commission was appointed, composed of Messrs. Kool, Henkel, de Bordes, van Kappen, Mullemeister and d'Aulnis de Bourouill. The survey led to the conviction that it is necessary to construct a main line to cross Java from the east to the west, with branch lines to Sourabaya and Malang. From the centre of Java two routes were left for selection; the one to run along the southern coast, and is a continuation of the Samarang Principality line, crossing the residencies of Bagelen and Banjoemaas, and being in direct communication with Samarang, the other to continue the Samarang Principality Railway, from Ambawa to Tjilatjap, crossing the residency of Kadoe and the most northern part of the residencies of Bagelen and Banjoemaas. The first-named direction was preferred, the district which the latter would have to cross being too mountainous. It was still more difficult to select a district in the west to establish a communication between Eastern and Western Java. An examination held in 1864 in reference to the construction of a railway to the Preanger regencies, showed that in the West there were many difficulties to overcome, but in the eastern districts of these regencies these difficulties were still greater. It was thought possible to construct a railway from Bandung via Soemedang to the Plain of Cheribon, but the engineers do not yet know the precise condition of the ground to be traversed. There was great difference of opinion about this point amongst the members of the Commission; the majority preferred a line via Preanger to Tjilatjap; the minority advocated the construction of one from Depok, via Tjibaroessa through the residencies Krawang and Cheribon, Tagal, and Pekalongan to Samarang. Communication between Batavia and Bandung the latter said could be obtained by the construction of a line from Bandung to the plain of Cheribon, where this line could join the Batavia-Cheribon Railway. Where so great a diversity of opinion prevailed, the Minister thought it desirable not to decide the question as to the communication between Western and Central Java. Whilst this matter is under consideration the communication between Batavia and Bandung approved of by the whole Commission can be established.

The Minister would have preferred that these railways should have been constructed by private industry, but he feared that the capital could not be raised in view of the last financial disasters in Java and the difficulties experienced by the shareholders of the East India Railway Company. The Minister is of opinion that for the year 1872 a sum of two millions will be sufficient to cover the cost of surveying and construction. He therefore asks a credit to that amount, and further states that the whole sum wanted for the construction of these railways exists—as balances of former India budgets—in cash. He is, however, of opinion that instead of retaining this money only for the construction of the railways, there is no objection to the proposal to spend it on behalf of the mother country, and to raise loans as required for the railways. As I stated before, the cost of the lines projected by the Minister would be f.49,900,000, whilst the expense of the railways advocated by the majority of the commission would be f.73,225,000, and those of the minority f.86,275,000.

The members of the Second Chamber have finished their general discussions upon the Budget for 1872. I told you that much acrimony was displayed in the documents which were exchanged between the Ministry and the Chamber. Of course every one thought that this would be perceptible in the debate, but such was not the case. The President had even much trouble to find speakers—I do not say orators. The only fact worth notice is the demand of Mr. Jonckbloet to the Minister of the War Department to disclose his plans for the reorganisation of the army, to which Mr. Thorbecke, after many endeavours to retraite, replied that the Minister of War will give an explanation before the members deal with his Budget, in which he now asks f.200,000 less than at first. The new Budget is now under examination in the sections. His policy is generally condemned, even by the Liberal press, and I should much wonder if his Budget is carried. I think the Chamber will compel him to resign, and he can then once more fill the place of director of the Military Academy at Breda, which he left vacant, perhaps in view of such a catastrophe. This Minister has also made a very bad impression by a Bill which he laid before the Members of Parliament, to alter the law of 1851, concerning the appointment and resignation of military officers. The measure proposes, however, to abolish the penalties to which officers are subjected who marry without the consent of his Majesty. Mr. Dunbar has proposed an amendment to decrease the Budget of Foreign Affairs by f.8,000, which amount was asked for by the Minister for the Ambassador at the Papal Court.

At last a Royal commissary for the province of South Holland is definitively appointed. As it was anticipated, it is Mr. C. Fock, the former Home Minister, who is selected to fill the place of Mr. London.

The Society to Promote the Welfare of the Javanese, will publish a bi-monthly paper.

His Majesty has approved the appointment of Mr. H. Schellenbaum, as Consul at Batavia for Switzerland.

The vessel Noach I. is chartered to convey troops from Holland to Batavia.

Her Majesty will return to-morrow from her trip to Italy.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

Although the tone of our Produce market has remained firm for most of the leading articles, business transactions have upon the whole been on a limited scale. The late advance of Tin has made further progress, and large sales have continued to be effected.

COFFEE has resumed a firmer appearance, but the reservedness of holders does not permit of much business being done. Good ordinary Malang sells at 41c. Sales of the following small shipments of private importation have been closed, viz., 410 bags Java, W. I. cured, and 106 bags ditto, ex Robertus Hendrikus, 2,000 bags Java, ex the same vessel, at 46c.; 980 b. Macassar, ex Batavia; 1,667 b. Coshin, ex Constance; 1,455 b. Java, ex Maria Diederika; 1,300 b. Java, ex Insulinde and Robertus Hendrikus. The Trading Company's November sale, by which the series of their public sales this year will close, has been advertised to be held on the 22nd inst., and to comprise about 83,700 bags Java, Padang, Macassar, and Rio.

RAW SUGAR keeps very firm, and an advance of f.1 over September is offered in vain. There is very little on offer. The brokers have issued the following valuations of the Dutch standard, in view of the Trading Company's public sale, taking place next week, viz.:—

Standard.	No. 5	46 Bkts.	Valuation.	Standard.	No. 13	2,355 Bkts.	Valuation.

TIN.—Great buoyancy has characterised the business done in this article throughout last week, and large sales have been making at gradually advancing rates, viz.:—Banca public sales prompt at f.82½ to f.84½; for delivery ex the coming spring sale at f.82½ to f.85. Billiton, spot, at f.82½, afloat at f.83 to f.84.

LITERATURE.

Adam's Peak—Legendary, Traditional, and Historic Notices of the Samanala and Sri-pada. By William Skeen. London: E. Stanford.—The title of this work is in itself a full explanation of its contents. Adam's Peak and the impression of a gigantic foot-step, which is venerated by Buddhists, Hindus, and Mohammedans as being that of Buddha, have frequently been referred to in records of travel in the East, but we believe this is the first time that a complete work has been devoted to the subject. The author, after an introductory chapter or two on the three religions, Buddhism, Mohammedanism, and the Hindu faith, proceeds to detail in picturesque language and pleasing style the events of a pilgrimage to the holy mountain made by himself and three companions. The shrine which encloses the "Shri-pada," and the sacred foot-print itself are thus described:—

The pinnacle or apex of the Peak is of an irregular pyramidal form, considerably steeper to the south and west than to the north and east. Its base is about one hundred and twenty feet in circumference, its greatest length being about forty, and its breadth about thirty feet. The Temple is a small quadrangular building, twelve feet by ten, and is, in fact, nothing more than a tiled canopy supported on pillars, between each of which is a small balustrade, neither the one nor the other at all improved by being carved over with the names and initials of visitors and pilgrims. The roof was ceiled with white cloth, and similar cloths were stretched between some of the pillars.

The author continues, with reference to the actual object of veneration:—

The indentation of the footprint is to the west of the centre of the interior. The heel is much higher than the toes, and the artificiality of the whole is palpable. A thick raised edging of cement marks the rude outline of a foot, five feet seven inches long and two feet seven inches broad at the point where the heel begins to curve. The interstices between the toes are also formed of cement, and the whole of the marking of the foot every now and then need repair. The inner portion of the heel and instep are the only parts that are clearly natural rock. But, as there are none so blind as those who will not see, the marks of the artificer's hands are invisible to the thousands who come to worship the venerated relic. . . . It was pointed out to an attendant priest by a visitor some years ago that as there is a hollow under the instep of a man's foot so there should be a corresponding height in any impression made by that member of the body upon any yielding non-elastic substance; and that in a foot sixty-seven inches long there should be a proportionate rise in the centre of the footmark which is not the case in the Sri-pada. The priest admitted that ordinarily it should be so; but that the ascent to the top of the peak was in places over soft and sticky soil, and that the hollow of Buddha's foot had been clogged with mud or clay as he came up, so that such a rise could not be shown when the yielding rock was moulded by the pedal pressure of the All-Supreme.

Extracts of equal interest with the foregoing could be multiplied ad infinitum, but that the limits of our space forbid. In conclusion, we may remark that what may be termed the narrative portion of the work is supplemented by copious notes and appendices referring to the early history of the religions the members of which regard the Peak as a hallowed spot. These are of immense value to the historian and antiquarian, and prove that the author is no idle member of the Royal Asiatic Society. The volume is embellished with a map showing the route to the Peak from the adjacent country, and by several wood-cuts of interesting objects encountered by Mr. Skeen in the course of his pilgrimage.

Mountain Life and Coffee Cultivation in Ceylon. A poem, by William Skeen. London: Ed. Stamford.—If Mr. Skeen can calmly take up this volume and review a single page of it with satisfaction, we can only say that he possesses a very enviable temper. More arrant nonsense has seldom been "penned" (as the author very accurately describes his writing) than the following random extract from this "poem" about Coffee, Capital, Commerce, and Cash, in which there is nothing capital except the C's:—

Estates, plantations, side by side
Absorb the District's domain wide.
Commerce on all hath laid her hand,
Hath under tribute brought the land;
Hath Capital invested; traced
Her boundaries; her agents placed;
Imported labour; built abodes;
Erected stores; constructed roads;
And seek by skilled scintial (!) aid
Profits, returns, for Cash outlaid.

Inconceivable as it may appear, the whole volume abounds in nonsense of this sort. But we must confess to having been considerably amused by it, and, moreover, we also admit that its publication must have done more good than harm if it has, as the author tells us, "served the useful purpose of helping to train up some lads" in the Government Printing-office. We hope their experience will be exercised to more purpose for the future; and in order that our own printers may be better employed than in reproducing such twaddle, we will resist the temptation of pillorying any more of Mr. Skeen's verses, and "peaceful as any sleeping bear" (sic, see page 157), lay down his book.

The third number of Puck is very welcome, and reflects the highest credit on the taste and judgment of its conductors. It is, moreover, exceedingly witty and well illustrated. We cannot resist the temptation to transfer the following neat bit of ironical truth to our pages:—

INTERVIEW BETWEEN MR. MEDHURST AND EARL GRANVILLE.
"Mr. Melhurst, British Consul at Shanghai, had an interview on Wednesday with Earl Granville at the Foreign-office."—L. & C. Express.

The following is, we believe, what passed on the occasion:—

Earl Granville: How are you, Mr. Medhurst? How are you? I suppose you are glad to get out of that "sink of iniquity," as Somerset calls it. Good idea that of Somerset's! ha-ha-ha!

Mr. Medhurst: Well, yes, my lord; I am happy to have an opportunity of seeing my friends here again. I would like to defend Shanghai, though. I do not think it is exactly a sink—

Earl G.: Yes, yes, just so! and how are Mrs. Medhurst and the family?

Mr. M.: Thank you, they are all well, I am happy to say; although the excitement of last year was not—

Earl G.: Exactly, frightened them a little. Ah, well! its all over now.

Mr. M.: I am not so sure about that—

Earl G.: Exactly, exactly; and what kind of a passage had you?

Mr. M.: Very pleasant, thank you, but it would have been much more pleasant if that Tientsin affair—

Earl G.: Yes, you were a sick, I suppose.

Mr. M.: No, my lord, a little only at first, but my uneasiness was more mental. I am not at all comfortable about the state of affairs in China.

Earl G.: Oh! there's no fear there; that's all right. I suppose you find great changes since you were home last.

Scraps of Knowledge. By Janet Byrne. Cassell, Petter, and Galpin, London.—This is one of the most charming books we have seen for young children, and throughout admirably sustains the intention of the author. While entertaining the young mind, to convey to it knowledge adapted to its first awakening powers is to confer a boon on both the teacher and the taught. To meet judiciously the wonder-waking inquiries, and natural opening intelligence of the first seven years of the human mind is neither an easy nor a light task, and to gratify and instruct at one and the same time is to accomplish a good thing. Variety is the leading feature of this little work, and what with the description of things "Near Home" and "Far Off," and very attractive illustrations and exterior, it has only to be known to become a favourite.

Eastern Experiences. By L. Bowring, C.S.I., late Chief Commissioner of Mysore and Coorg. London, H. S. King and Co.—This handsome volume contains a series of sketches of two provinces which are little understood by the general public, and with which Mr. Bowring's personal experience gave him peculiar opportunities of making himself acquainted. The information which Mr. Bowring collected in the course of several tours he communicates in a light, unaffected, but interesting manner. The book is, therefore, very agreeable reading, and, being illustrated by some valuable maps and diagrams, has the advantage of impressing its information on the reader's memory.

Western India Before and During the Mutinies. By Major-General Sir George Le Grand Jacob, K.C.S.I., C.B., late Special Political Commissioner, Southern Mahratta Country, &c. London: H. S. King and Co.—This is more than an interesting book—it is an enthralling one. We are unable to do justice to its contents this week, but we shall return to it in a future issue. In the meantime the high reputation of General Jacob, as well as the honoured name he bears, will no doubt induce many readers to peruse the "partial record of a trying public life" which, in touching terms, the "blind and infirm old man" who dictated it inscribes to his niece and adopted daughter.

The European in India; or, Anglo-Indian's Vade Mecum. By E. C. P. Hall; to which is added A Medical Guide for Anglo-Indians. By R. S. Mair, M.D., late Deputy Coroner of Madras. London: H. S. King and Co.—This is a useful volume, which no doubt contains a great deal of information which will be very acceptable to persons who may be thinking of going to India for the first time. "Anglo-Indians" will, we fancy, not be able to learn much from the book before us, seeing that two-thirds of them know nearly all that it contains, and would hardly accept some part of its contents except cum grano salis.

The People's Magazine still exhibits all the elements which constitute a "popular" periodical in the widest sense of the word. A list of contents embracing a more extensive range of subjects than those treated in the number for the present month would be difficult to compile.

PROPOSED TELEGRAPHS ON THE PACIFIC TO JAPAN AND CHINA.

MR. CYRUS FIELD, the eminent telegraphic engineer, has put forward a scheme for a new line of communication to China, which, as our readers know, is already provided for by two lines. We are unable to agree with Mr. FIELD in thinking that there is room for a triplicate service in this direction; nevertheless, we have pleasure in giving publicity to his present proposition. According to Mr. FIELD's idea, "the 'missing link' in the chain of telegraphic intercommunication is a line from Victoria, the capital of Vancouver's Island, to Hakodadi, in Japan, and from thence to the Russian naval station on the coast of Asia, where, across the steppes of Siberia, the telegraphic wire penetrates to Siberia, and is united with every part of the great European system." The new line, which is estimated at 4,370 miles, is to touch at Atcha, one of the Aleutian Islands. A second route is also projected by Mr. FIELD, only differing from the former in its progress from Yokohama to Shanghai, a further distance of 1,010 miles. A third route starts from San Francisco, through the North Pacific, to Yokohama—a total distance of 5,573 miles. All these three schemes are calculated to terminate at Possiette, 1,480 miles from Yokohama. It is understood that the Russian and American Governments take a warm interest in Mr. FIELD's proposition; and it is also said to be in contemplation to lay a cable between Honolulu and the Australian colonies, thus establishing direct intercourse between Melbourne and San Francisco. This line would require about 8,000 nautical miles of cable. Sydney, Melbourne, and Adelaide are in connection with Port Darwin, from which port a submarine cable is now being laid to Java, to connect with the Indian lines through to London.

THE HONG KONG LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

THE second reading of the Hong Kong Estimates—which we gave approximately in a recent issue, and which, now that the exact figures are before us, we republish in another column—was, we regret to observe, made the occasion of such a prolonged dispute—for it did not deserve the name of debate—as can hardly raise the reputation of the Legislative Council. The revenue and expenditure of Hong Kong are matters of far too serious interest for their discussion to be interrupted by the merely personal altercations of two members, both of whom are responsible for them, more or less, and to different parties. But the discussion of the 22nd September appears to have been conducted with such acrimony, such petty feeling, such trumpery retorts, and such contemptible triumphs, in the long passage of words, in which Mr. GARDINER AUSTIN, the Colonial Secretary, Mr. RYRIE, and Mr. SMITH, were the principal combatants, that six columns of the China Mail are filled with this kind of snip-snap without any other result than the passing of several items with but slight modification—an amount of work which might easily have been reported in half a column, if the hon. members above referred to had laid aside personal feeling for the time, for the sake of expediting public business and maintaining the dignity of the Council; or if the Editor of the China Mail had not reproduced it with such terrible accuracy. We must, however, expostulate with our contemporary on the part of those whose duty it is to look through his columns in the hope of finding something interesting. Such a mass of platitudes and personalities as are reported verbatim (even down to Mr. SMITH's "warmth" and ejaculations, and the COLONIAL SECRETARY's unconscious reflection that "Certain persons would choose to make remarks about things which they did not understand") is as tiresome in itself in a journal like the China Mail as it is provoking to those who expect something better. We trust that such unseemly squabbles as the one under notice will not be repeated—in fact, we are surprised that the LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR did not interpose his authority and put an end to it; but, if such scenes are to be repeated, we beg our contemporary to spare us the infliction of a full report. It would be far more considerate in him to take the course mildly suggested by his EXCELLENCY when, in the course of the dispute, he said to the heated members of Council, "If you please, we'll drop the subject."

"OPIUM AND MISSIONARIES."

EVEN if they cannot expect to establish a standpoint, it is reckoned a great success, by shallow arguers all the world over, to give utterance to a plausible excuse for an unreasonable proceeding. These people know perfectly well that the plausible sophisms they enunciate would never obtain even momentary attention, unless they were "dressed with the forms of rhetoric." The very provocation of their impudence puts the sincere part of the community to a kind of defence, which is very pardonable under the circumstances, but which appears, notwithstanding, sometimes very ill-judged. It is utterly beneath the dignity of the ministers of revealed religion to admit that they, or their converts, have any share or part in representing a people whose creed it is to combine the explanation of the True Faith with the traffic in injurious drugs. No true-hearted or "thorough" missionary ever defended the opium trade with China; and therefore the strange allegation contained in Sir RUTHERFORD ALCOCK's evidence before the Select Committee on Indian Finance falls to the ground. It is well, however, that we should be aware of the pitfalls that are opened before us, concealed by false allies and exaggerated by unreal friends; and we therefore draw particular attention to Sir RUTHERFORD ALCOCK's statement that Prince KUNG said to him—"If you could only relieve us of missionaries and opium, there need be no more trouble in China."

What Sir RUTHERFORD ALCOCK said in reply to this extraordinary speech, or whether he replied to it at all, are matters of which we have no information. As we read the anecdote, it seems that Prince KUNG "shook Sir RUTHERFORD's hand very cordially" while giving utterance to this parting bit of spasmodic antithetical insult to Her MAJESTY's representative. Whether Sir RUTHERFORD ALCOCK returned the cordial shake of the hand which accompanied this outrage on diplomatic decency lies between that gentleman and his conscience. That he did not return the decisive reply that he ought to have given—so as to contradict once for all and finally the tentative tactics of the astute Chinese—we fear we must take for granted, inasmuch as it is scarcely possible for an English minister to report an affront on his Government without also reporting his instant repudiation of it in unmeasured terms—if he had supported the honour of the British Crown by any such prompt rejoinder as the case demanded.

Sir RUTHERFORD ALCOCK must know perfectly well that it is not in his power—it is not even in the power of his Imperial mistress—to withdraw either opium or missionaries from China, or any other foreign country where they have long been welcomed by the people, and protected by treaty. It was not therefore in listening to the proposition that Sir RUTHERFORD made his most false step; it was in submitting to a comparison, obviously designed in a spirit of ribaldry, being poured into his ear by a personage who was "shaking his hand cordially" at the very time he uttered it. Such a proceeding "tops the infinite of insult;" and we cannot but admire the complacency with which Sir RUTHERFORD ALCOCK records his acquiescence in it. It would do Sir RUTHERFORD good to read the life of Sir WALTER RALEIGH, and other such men as have worthily represented their Government before despotic and presumptuous Powers.

As for his foolish remark that "it would be difficult to say which the Chinese hate most—missionaries or "opium"—it strikes us as being a complete reversal of the truth. "Which do the Chinese love most?" would be a far apter question. Not only do they not relax in their consumption of our Indian drug, but they are growing it for themselves on a larger and larger scale every year. And not only are the people joining the ranks of our converts in greater numbers every year, but their native missionaries increase in even greater proportion than the converts. It is a natural law that every one is anxious to preach the truth of which he has become persuaded. To borrow one of the great Lord DALHOUSIE's phrases, "it is as certain as that the sun rises in the East" that the English missionary cause in China will flourish, in exact proportion as the English opium trade loses its importance. Both events are mere matters of calculation of time; it is the comparison of them which is offensive; and the listening to such a comparison, with his hand locked in that of his insulter, is an adventure for which Sir RUTHERFORD ALCOCK would not have escaped censure if the PALMERSTON Government, and not the GLADSTONE Ministry, had been in office at the time.

THE DUTCH TRADING COMPANY.

By a very large majority the shareholders of the Dutch Trading Company have decided that the association, expiring in 1874, shall be continued for another term of twenty-five years. This result was anticipated, notwithstanding the fact that the "Consignment Contract" between the Dutch Government and the Company will shortly be annulled. By this contract the Government is bound, until December, 1874, to send no produce from Java to Holland for sale, except through the agency of the Company. The system now in vogue is, however, to sell large quantities of Java produce in the colony, so that, even should this contract be renewed, the revenue to the Company would never again reach the amount of past years. The Company has realised under this contract one million and a third guilders per annum, which covered not only losses resulting from its private business, but left a favourable balance available for an annual dividend. "Can any such result be obtained in future?" is now the question. It is quite true that it is of great value to Holland to have a large associated capital available for business purposes, which if the company should break up would probably be invested in other channels, the Dutch being averse to placing their money in commercial enterprises. And as regards the Dutch colonies it is of great importance that a large capital which has been employed in promoting their commercial and agricultural enterprises should not be diverted from that object.

It having been decided to continue operations under the new order of things, it remains to be seen what are the prospects of success. Many among our readers will remember ADAM SMITH's recapitulation of the qualifications which are necessary to ensure success in mercantile pursuits. "To buy in one market," says this authority, "in order to sell with profit in another, when there are many competitors in both; to watch over not only the occasional variations in the demand, but the much greater and more frequent variations in the competition, or in the supply which that demand is likely to get from other people, and to suit with dexterity and judgment both the quantity and the quality of each assortment of goods in all these circumstances, is a species of warfare of which the operations are continually changing." This warfare can scarcely ever be conducted successfully without such an unremitting exertion of vigilance and attention as cannot be expected from the directors of a joint-stock company. So much is certain, that hitherto this company has never been very lucky in private business, and we fear that with the lapse of the Government contract the days of high dividends have departed.

We regret to find by the late telegrams that something like a panic prevails in the Share market in Shanghai. We hope, however, that its effects will be confined to some concerns which have nothing in common with the legitimate business of the settlement, and that the present occurrence will lead the heads of mercantile houses to take steps to put down these unnecessary speculations before they assume such dimensions as brought on the great crash in Bombay a few years ago.

We are glad to observe the public spirit and unanimity which characterised the meeting at Hong Kong (reported by last mail) in order to strengthen the hands of the Hon. P. RYRIE in his spirited endeavour to reform the police. The condition of this force has long been a reproach to the settlement, and the inactivity of the local Government has been only equalled by its insulting indifference in the face of repeated remonstrances. Notwithstanding all the representations made from time to time, the evils have gone on increasing. In such a state of confusion between an ill-regulated police and an insouciant Executive, matters must have come to a dead lock but for the public spirit of Mr. RYRIE and his friends, who have shown by their memorial that they will not allow the Government or the officials to blink the question any longer. We understand that Mr. MAGNIAC, M.P., is in correspondence with the Colonial-office on the subject, but, owing to the absence of Lord KIMBERLEY from town, the matter must stand over for a fortnight.

OUR Rotterdam correspondent sends us the details of a proposed railway system for Java, which will, if carried out, provide every part of the island with this means of communication. A measure now before the Dutch Chambers shows that a credit of nearly 50,000,000 florins is required for the construction of the several lines, which it is intended to carry out entirely at the expense of the State.

THE DETERIORATION OF JAPAN SILK.

A second pamphlet has been issued, in continuation of Mr. Robertson's report on this subject, noticed in our last issue. The present publication consists of despatches from Mr. Adams, H.M.'s Secretary of Legation at Yedo, and some enclosures, of which the following is a summary. Under date June 12 of this year, Mr. Adams wrote to Lord Granville, enclosing the Report of the Yokohama Chamber of Commerce of the previous April, which designated as one of the causes of the growing deterioration of Japanese silk, the excessive export of silkworms' eggs; it also enumerated other causes, such as bad and hasty reeling, reeling too fine, reeling foul silk and silk from double cocoons, &c., and proposed a series of recommendations which should be adopted by the native reelers and silk-dealers, in order to restore the quality of the silk to its former excellence. The Report states that it is beyond question that the consumption of fine Japan silk by the European manufacturers has been gradually decreasing for the last two or three years, but specially for the last eight or ten months past, and is now unable to keep pace with the shipments from this side or with the production in the country. Therefore the stocks in London and other places in Europe are becoming very heavy, and exporters will suffer serious losses. The late war in Europe has had but little to do with it. It is true that the consumption of silk was considerably checked in France, but on the other hand it became, during the war, far more active in England, Switzerland, and Prussia than it had been previously.

The silk buyers of Yokohama, in public meeting assembled, resolved on making one more effort to draw the serious attention of the native reelers and traders to the absolute necessity of mending their ways. They warn them that unless the above recommendations are earnestly carried into effect, the markets of Europe will soon be shut against them; less and less Japan Silk will be shipped to foreign parts, and that trade, which ought to be a source of profit and wealth to the Japanese as well as to the foreigners, will gradually come to ruin and extinction.

On the 8th May last a letter appeared in L'Echo du Japon, signed by M. Gravier, in which the writer demurs to the Report of the Chamber, and says that its own circulars show that in 1867-68 these silks rose from $780 to $800, the opening prices, to $955; in 1868-69 from $770 to $850 to $1,070; in 1869-70 from $795 to $820; in 1870-71 the opening price was from $800 to $850. Here we have figures which show that there has been an increase of price each year, and this, after the most unqualified recognition that each year the silk has become worse.

On the 12th June Mr. Adams sent to Lord Granville a copy of a letter from Mr. Jaquemot to Mr. Marshall, describing the practices by which good hank silk is eased and adulterated by the introduction of silk obtained from double cocoons. This nefarious practice began, or at least was first noticed, about five or six years ago at Hachioji. The coarse silk from that district, originally made up in bundles (shimada ito), had enjoyed great favour on the European markets, on account of its generally clean and wiry nature. But on a sudden it was found that the inside of many of the skeins was eased with a foul and extremely inferior description of silk, viz., doppione (tama ito), whereas the outside of the skeins continued to present the same clean appearance. The easing of the silk was effected in so ingenious a manner, that it was only by cutting up the bundles, by taking them to pieces, and turning the skeins inside out that the fraud could be discovered. Before the evil was found out here by the unsuspecting or inattentive buyers, it increased to such an extent, that the consumers in Europe declined to buy any more of that kind of silk, and it has in consequence ceased to be exported. A similar thing has occurred with the silk from Ida, which at one time was in great request, and used to fetch fancy prices in England for the Nottingham lace manufacturers. The silk was originally made up in square bundles bound up extremely tight, which rendered it very difficult for the buyer to inspect the silk thoroughly, unless by cutting the bundles open, whereby its appearance was much impaired. The Japanese dealers, taking advantage of this circumstance, introduced gradually into the interior of the bundles other kinds of silk of so inferior a nature that, in the course of three or four years, it became impossible to sell that article in Europe in its original shape. In an education of silkworms there is always a greater or less quantity of the worms which at the time of forming the cocoons find themselves too weak or too lazy to spin single-handed; under these circumstances two or sometimes three worms unite their efforts and spin together a cocoon which contains the chrysalides, and in the regular course of things two or three moths come out of the cocoon. These cocoons are generally in the shape of an irregular ball, hence their Japanese name, tama; but they are occasionally of all imaginable shapes, even that of a pyramid. But cocoons formed under such an association present a considerable difficulty in reeling. The threads spun by the associates are so interwoven together that it has been found hitherto impossible to reel them off into a clean and even thread. The silk made with double cocoons can only be used in Europe for inferior purposes, as sewing silk, "passementerie," galloons, or such like, and is totally unfit for the use of ribbon, satin, taffetas, or other broad goods manufactures.

It is hardly necessary to state that Mr. Jaquemot is a very high authority on this subject, having been for thirty-one years a dealer in silk only, during all which time he testifies to the considerable and gradual improvement in the produce of all countries in which silk is grown. Greece, Turkey, Syria, Asia Minor, Persia, and India have all made wonderful progress, and gather yearly the fruits of their industry and perseverance in the enhanced rates of their produce on the European markets. Even China, which is proverbially stationary, and consequently retrograde, has understood that it will not do to lag behind the age, and has made within the last two or three years efforts which have been justly rewarded by the demand which most kinds of silk from that quarter enjoy now in Europe. On the contrary, Japan has gone back every year, and the fault lies solely and entirely at the door of the Japanese reellers.

THE "SHAN-SIN-FAN" TROUBLES.

(To the Editor of the London and China Telegraph.)

SIR,—By last accounts the Shan-sin-fan excitement was gradually subsiding, and the apologists of the Chinese Government are praising the "good conduct" of the mandarins. But the rapidity with which these demonstrations have subsided on the appearance of a few gentle proclamations is really one of the many proofs of the fact that the whole affair was encouraged, if not originated, by the mandarins and litterati. As the facts are scattered through several numbers of the Telegraph, I have thought it might be well to bring several of them together for mutual corroboration. The name Shan-sin-fan, I may remark in passing, is the Canton sound and spelling for the mandarin Shên-sien-fen, or "Powder of Spirits and Genii."

The object of those who raised or fomented the excitement does not seem to have been any immediate outbreak (the time not being ripe for that) but these three aims. 1. To verify the warnings or threats of the famous "Circular," by making it appear that the people were hostile to foreign intercourse, so as to strengthen the arguments for restricting the liberty of merchants, missionaries, and travellers in the interior, by the pretence that the people were hard to restrain from "flying at the throats" of the outsiders, as The Times has it. 2. To exhibit the wonderful "loyalty" of the Chinese Government (to borrow again a fitting word from The Times), so as to throw dust in the eyes of the Western statesmen and the press. 3. To sow the seeds of hatred among the people, the dragon's teeth that in due time might yield a harvest of armed men ready for deeds of cruelty and blood. In some places the wires have been pulled very skillfully. But at Amoy our soi-disant protectors have shown their hand more freely. At first the Canton rumours and placards excited comparatively little attention there; and the cause of the great excitement at Amoy was the first proclamation of the Hai-fang, which endorsed the rumours of poisoning, and by carefully avoiding any exculpation of foreigners, made the people believe that foreigners were guilty, as commonly reported. It was that proclamation which made the people afraid to enter the Hong of the British merchants. And the "loyal" mandarins never moved a finger to allay the excitement till the United States Consul held out the idea that an American force might be needed. This was the cause of the second Amoy proclamation, the one which in some measure exculpated foreigners, and which was but scantily posted up.

Meantime the first Amoy proclamation had borne its fruit in the Foo city of Chin-chew, crowded with litterati, which was immediately full of placards, some of which were even printed with the printer's name. And there ten or eleven days elapsed after the mandarins were applied to before they issued a proclamation.

But the proclamations and execution at Chang-chew-foo crown the edifice. A poor sick beggar procures some medicine, and goes to a well to get a little water to mix with it. Some one, having heard the rumours from Amoy, raises the cry that he is poisoning the well; the people beat him, but on listening to his story they desist, and are letting him off (mark this, the people see the absurdity of the calumny); but one of the litterati, Oh'en Hia (in colloquial Tan Ha), a head man in the neighbourhood, insists that he be dragged before a mandarin. On the way he is told to say that he got poison from foreigners, and all would be well. Sick, beaten, terrified, he says what he is told, and is immediately condemned. Sent to the superior mandarin, and awakened to his danger, he retracts, and tells the simple truth. Sent back to the original mandarin, and beaten half dead, he is forced to make an incoherent confession, full of absurdities. But enough—he has said that he was sent by foreigners to poison the wells, and he is speedily executed. Dead men tell no tales—and his blood attests the crimes of the barbarians. And the civil and military authorities of Chang-chew-foo issue a series of proclamations, reciting the beggar's confession, stating that it agrees with their own inquiries, proclaiming that he and three others were sent by the Macao merchants (or as the mandarin calls us "the devils") to poison the wells all through the country, telling the people to abstain from well water, to clean out and guard the wells, and to apply to the authorities for antidotes. And this with great energy over and over. Not a single word about rebels or secret societies, or missionaries or chapels, or religion, in the whole affair; but all about foreign merchants poisoning wells, and a man beheaded on this charge (which requires the consent of the highest mandarins in the city), and published far and wide by the authority of the civil and military officials.

Is it possible to conceive that these mandarins could have acted thus, unless they had well known that their superiors, up to the very steps of the throne, would be pleased to have the people excited against foreigners by such horrible charges? Very probably the superiors are not at all pleased at the awkward open way that the Changchow mandarins have carried out the plan; but even if they should censure or punish them, it is impossible now to wipe out the fact, written with the blood of that poor beggar and attested by the seals of the Changchow mandarins, that the men who misgovern China delight to brand the barbarians with the awful name of secret poisoners.—Yours truly,

Ayr, Nov. 11, 1871.

CARSTAIRS DOUGLAS.

Monetary and Commercial.

A general meeting of the China Submarine Telegraph Company will be held on the 22nd inst., when the following report of the directors will be presented:—

"The directors submit the balance-sheet of the company on the 30th of September, 1871, showing receipts and payments on account of capital. The amounts received and paid on account of revenue, being unadjusted, are included in balances due by the company. The share capital issued to the public has been called up and fully paid. This company's cable was successfully laid to Hong Kong, and opened for traffic on the 8th June last. On account of the state of affairs in France it was not possible to arrange with the Government at that time any conditions for effecting a landing at Saigon, and the cable was, in the first instance, laid direct to Hong Kong. Subsequently, the French Government applied to this company to form an office at Saigon; the terms proposed by the directors, of entire freedom of action, being agreed to, the connection was made on the 31st July, 1871. The cable between Hong Kong and Shanghai was laid by the Great Northern China and Japan Extension Company on the 18th April last under the terms of the agreement entered into with this company, the working of which has proved satisfactory. An arrangement has been made with the British-Indian Extension Telegraph Company for the joint purchase of the steam ship Agnes, which is fully fitted as a cable ship. The purchase has been completed for the sum of £19,300, of which this company's share has been paid by the issue of debentures to the amount of £9,600, bearing interest at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum.

"From the opening of the line, in June last, the gross receipts of the company up to the 4th November amount to £26,895, and the estimated expenses to £6,550. The directors therefore anticipate that they will be able, on the 1st January next, to declare an interim dividend of 6 per cent. per annum, free of income-tax, for the half-year terminating on that date. The early completion of the Australian line gives promise of a further increase of traffic. The directors have to announce the resignation of his seat at their board of Mr. H. N. Lay. They do not, however, for the present, propose to fill up the vacancy thus occasioned."

The report of the Falmouth, Gibraltar, and Malta Telegraph Company (Limited), to be presented on the 23rd inst., recommends a dividend for the half-year at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, which will absorb £23,576, and leave £8,897 to be carried to reserve.

The report of the British Indian Submarine Telegraph Company (Limited), to be presented on the 24th inst., shows an available total of £44,823, and recommends a dividend for the half-year of 6s. per share, which will absorb £35,625, and, with £1,578 balance from the last account, leave £10,777 to be carried forward.

The report of the West India and Panama Telegraph Company is more interesting than such documents usually are. After detailing their failures the directors state that they accidentally discovered that Sir Charles Bright, their advising engineer, had been engaged as sub-contractor for the laying of their cables, and that this enhanced their difficulties. It is quite evident that the directors have attempted here to make Sir Charles the scapegoat & but there are generally two sides to a question, and we understand that Sir Charles repudiates entirely this and other statements in the report. It seems that the quarrel of the directors was with the India Rubber, Gutta Percha, and Telegraph Works Company, and that the directors had really terminated their engagement with Sir Charles on the completion of the manufacture of the cable. If Sir Charles Bright has failed in his engagement with the company, either professionally or otherwise, the directors are entitled to complain, and can obtain redress, but they are not entitled to throw out such serious aspersions on his conduct.

Bar Silver remains as last quoted; considerable amounts have been purchased during the week for India, and fine qualities, suitable for the East, have been taken to some extent at 61d. per oz. standard. Mexican Dollars, amounting to about £230,000 in value, have been sold at an increased rate, the old coinage realising 61d. per oz., the new 59½d. per oz.; the demand for China has been very active, and the supply of the old coinage is almost exhausted.

The London agents to the South Italian Railway (Messrs Lebeau and Co.) issue a time-table of a new route to Brindisi; through the Mont Cenis Tunnel, by which passengers leaving London on Saturday morning can overtake at Bologna the mail (which is sent by the Brenner Pass), and embark on Tuesday morning on the Peninsular and Oriental Company's steamer. It is expected that this route will effect a saving of twenty-four hours:

EXPORT OF COTTON GOODS TO THE FAR EAST.

The following is a summary of Mr. Sam Mendel's Tables for the present month, containing details of the quantities of Cotton Manufactures and Yarn shipped from the ports of London, Liverpool, Southampton, and the Clyde, to Hong Kong, Shanghai, Japan, Singapore, Batavia, Manila, and Ceylon, during the month and twelve months ended 16th Nov., 1871, compared with the corresponding periods of the two preceding years:—

HONG KONG AND WHAMPOA.

PLAIN COTTONS.—Export for the month ended 16th Nov., 1871, 9,536,932 yards; for the twelve months, 113,418,183 yards; for the twelve months 1870, 70,494,464 yards; for the twelve months 1869, 38,028,912 yards. Increase for 1871 against 1870, 42,923,719 yards.

COLOURED COTTONS.—Export for the month ended 16th Nov., 1871, 127,243 yards; for the twelve months, 10,702,060 yards; for the twelve months 1870, 7,750,308 yards; for the twelve months 1869, 1,489,359 yards. Increase for 1871 against 1870, 2,951,752 yards.

PRINTED COTTONS.—Export for the month ended 16th Nov., 1871, 281,360 yards; for the twelve months, 2,628,687 yards; for the twelve months 1870, 2,253,890 yards; for the twelve months 1869, 963,821 yards. Increase for 1871 against 1870, 374,797 yards.

COTTON YARN.—Export for the month ended 16th Nov., 1871, 968,400 lbs.; for the twelve months, 10,115,304 lbs.; for the twelve months 1870, 10,890,855 lbs.; for the twelve months 1869, 3,419,490 lbs. Decrease for 1871 against 1870, 775,551 lbs.

SHANGHAI.

PLAIN COTTONS.—Export for the month ended 16th Nov., 1871, 24,332,677 yards; for the twelve months, 387,389,009 yards; for the twelve months 1870, 260,396,366 yards; for the twelve months 1869, 211,832,830 yards. Increase for 1871 against 1870, 126,992,643 yards.

COLOURED COTTONS.—Export for the month ended 16th Nov., 1871, 429,648 yards; for the twelve months, 8,420,562 yards; for the twelve months 1870, 13,701,375 yards; for the twelve months 1869, 13,019,517 yards. Decrease for 1871 against 1870, 5,280,813 yards.

PRINTED COTTONS.—Export for the month ended 16th Nov., 1871, 921,675 yards; for the twelve months, 6,061,238 yards; for the twelve months 1870, 4,997,919 yards; for the twelve months 1869, 4,888,270 yards. Increase for 1871 against 1870, 1,063,319 yards.

COTTON YARN.—Export for the month ended 16th Nov., 1871, 64,200 lbs.; for the twelve months, 578,262 lbs.; for the twelve months 1870, 677,530 lbs.; for the twelve months 1869, 276,063 lbs. Decrease for 1871 against 1870, 99,268 lbs.

JAPAN.

PLAIN COTTONS.—Export for the month ended 16th Nov., 1871, 2,258,344 yards; for the twelve months, 42,157,758 yards; for the twelve months 1870, 28,341,603 yards; for the twelve months 1869, 16,130,774 yards. Increase for 1871 against 1870, 13,816,155 yards.

COLOURED COTTONS.—Export for the month ended 16th Nov., 1871, 65,243 yards; for the twelve months, 1,981,224 yards; for the twelve months 1870, 8,274,079 yards; for the twelve months 1869, 1,576,402 yards. Decrease for 1871 against 1870, 1,292,855 yards.

PRINTED COTTONS.—Export for the month ended 16th Nov., 1871, 118,091 yards; for the twelve months, 1,037,847 yards; for the twelve months 1870, 1,158,701 yards; for the twelve months 1869, 797,992 yards. Decrease for 1871 against 1870, 120,854 yards.

COTTON YARN.—Export for the month ended 16th Nov., 1871, 1,178,820 lbs.; for the twelve months, 9,887,605 lbs.; for the twelve months 1870, 11,583,539 lbs.; for the twelve months 1869, 4,992,198 lbs. Decrease for 1871 against 1870, 1,695,934 lbs.

SINGAPORE AND PENANG.

PLAIN COTTONS.—Export for the month ended 16th Nov., 1871, 4,520,905 yards; for the twelve months, 65,474,155 yards; for the twelve months 1870, 77,743,064 yards; for the twelve months 1869, 49,348,764 yards. Decrease for 1871 against 1870, 12,263,909 yards.

TEA.

The market has been fairly supported, though during the last day or two there has been less doing in Foochow Teas, ranging from 1s. 4d. to 1s. 6d., of which there have been large arrivals, and which the trade seem unwilling to buy except at a reduction in price; the finer grades, from their comparative scarcity, have been better maintained. Black-leaf kinds: The fair to good medium kinds, of which the supply on offer is still limited, have been in good demand. The finer kinds, in the absence of export orders, have been less inquired for. Low descriptions show no improvement either in price or demand.

Red-leaf Congous: Siftings, old season's remain dull of sale; a few new season's, recently arrived, have sold at fair prices. Broken-leaf kinds have sold from 9d. to 10½d. per lb., being former rates. Fair to good common have been steady at 11d. to 11½d. per lb. Fair to good Kaisows, owing to recent heavy arrivals, have been less saleable at a decline of ½d. to 1d. per lb. Fine have sold 1d. per lb. lower. In finest there is no change to notice. Pak Lin kinds: Fair to good have been saleable at rather lower prices; fine to finest show no change. Black-leaf kinds: Low qualities remain much depressed. Fair to good common, of old import, have been sold from 9½d. to 10d. per lb., new season's about 11½d. per lb. Fair to good medium kinds have commanded fully former prices. Fine have been less in request, and prices must be quoted rather lower. Finest remain as before. Amoy kinds: Transactions have been limited at about previous prices. New-make Canton kinds have been sold to some extent, fair quality from 1s. 1½d. to 1s. 2d. Good kinds have been in request. Oolongs have been in demand for export to America, and full prices have been paid for most qualities. Souchongs: Fine kinds have been saleable from 1s. 10d. to 2s. 4d. Fair to good at previous prices. In Flowery Pekoes but little has been done. Scented Teas: Canton Capers have sold at about previous prices. Foochow kinds rather lower. Orange Pekoes—Canton kinds—new-make have sold from 1s. 2d. to 1s. 2½d., being former prices; the long-leaf kinds from 1s. 5d. to 1s. 8d. for good to fine quality; a few finest have sold at very high prices. Foochow kinds have sold from 1s. 5d. to 1s. 6½d. for fair to good quality, being again rather lower rates. Uncoloured Japans, some of low quality, sold at public sale at about 7½d. per lb., showing a decline of fully 1d. per lb.; good to fine remain much as before. Green Teas: There has been some revival of demand for export to the United States, and prices in some cases have somewhat improved. The great bulk of the arrivals are still sold at public sale without reserve. Uncoloured Japan: Yokohama skinny leaf has sold at auction without reserve at 7d. to 8½d., good common at 10d., and medium at 1s. to 1s. 0½d., and these low rates should stimulate demand.

The following is from Messrs. Shepard and Co.'s Circular:—During the early part of the past fortnight business was restricted for want of supplies, but with a change of wind several ships have arrived, bringing about 3,500,000 lbs. of China and 1,500,000 lbs. of Indian growth. This large assortment has been on offer the past few days, and a considerable business has been transacted, special attention being given to red leaf at 1s. 2d. to 1s. 5d. per lb. Indian Tea has met with quick sale at full rates, supplies being of desirable quality, and this has somewhat interfered with the sale of black leaf at 1s. 9d. to 2s. per lb., which must be quoted ½d. to 1d. per lb. lower. Telegrams from Foochow state the market active and advancing; from Shanghai supplies much in excess of last season, but of low quality. Exchange advanced to 6s. 3d., and this may tend to stop further shipments of low common Congou. For export the demand has ceased for the Continent, and to Canada buying has been smaller than for a long time past.

SILK.

The market continues very quiet at unaltered prices, and the interval has passed with very limited enquiry and small business; deliveries are satisfactory of all but Bengal Silk, which still remains a dead letter. Cantons continue to arrive in large quantities, but the high cost prevents their being freely offered, and importers generally decline to sell at the current market price of 16s. for ordinary Tsatlee reel. In Japans everything is quiet, and there is nothing new to report. Deliveries from 1st to 15th inst. have been as follows: China, 1,296 bales; Canton, 481 bales; Japan, 286 bales; Bengal, 191 bales; total, 2,254 bales.

COFFEE.

The supplies at the public sales during the past week have again been moderate in extent, and have consisted almost wholly of the commoner descriptions of Plantation Ceylon. For these a good demand has been shown, and firm prices realised; the last rates paid were—Triage, 60s. to 64s. 6d.; small grey to coloury, 66s. to 70s.; low middling grey kinds, 70s. 6d. to 72s.; bold ditto, 72s. 6d. to 74s.; middling dull to coloury, 72s. 6d. to 77s.; bold coloury, 84s.; pea berry, 82s. 6d. to 85s. There has again been an absence of Native Ceylon at the sales, and no business is reported, but privately transactions have been effected to the extent of 640 bags on the spot at 64s., 3,000 bags afloat at 66s. 6d. to 67s., quality guaranteed 65s., without guarantee and 150 tons also afloat (but near at hand) at 67s., guaranteed good ord. The only sale of other kinds has been 300 bags good ordinary pale Java from Cape Town at 68s. 6d., first class sea damaged at 68s. per cwt.

The Dutch Trading Company announce their next public sale for the 22nd inst., when only 83,000 bags Java, &c., and 5,000 bags Rio will be offered.

SUGAR.

There has been an active demand, both for consumption and speculation, and prices of all descriptions may be quoted 3d. higher than at date of our last report. The following are the details of the week's transactions:—

Penang.—In auction 1,806 bags good to fine coloury (duties 5s. 3d. and 5s. 8d.) sold at 38s. to 34s. 6d., also 200 baskets pasty date

(duty 4s.) at 24s., two lots 22s. 6d. to 24s. 6d. Private sales reported of 600 baskets date at 21s. 6d. to 24s. 9d.

Manila.—There has again been a large amount of business; by private contract considerable transactions have been entered into, comprising about 40,000 good clayed (duty 4s.) at 26s. to 27s., 11,800 bags (350 tons) unclayed Taal at 22s. 9d., 3,000 bags do. of old import at 23s. 6d., 15,700 bags fine do. of recent import at 23s. 4½d. to 23s. 9d., 6,500 bags Ilo Ilo unclayed at 23s. 6d. to 24s.; 13,310 bags common clayed (duty 4s.) at 25s. to 25s. 9d.; also for arrival a cargo of about 750 tons Ilo Ilo unclayed, distant shipment, at 20s. 6d. floating terms for the United Kingdom; the floating cargo per Ystavat, 1,000 tons unclayed Cebu, July sailing, at 24s. landed terms for London; the cargo of 750 tons Ilo Ilo unclayed at 24s. 9d. landed terms for London; and 200 tons Cebu unclayed, vessel not named, at 23s. 6d. In auction of 11,457 bags clayed of fresh import 900 bags superior strong dry brown (duty 4s. 9d.) sold at 30s., the remainder, good (duty 4s.), being bought in above the value at 28s.

China, &c.—Privately 10,800 bags low soft China have been quitted at 23s. 3d. per cwt.

CAMPOR.—The market is steady; about 350 cases China have been sold at 67s. 6d. landing, 70s. reweight; 70 cases bought in thereat in public sale.

CARDAMOMS.—Prices again higher; 14 cases good Aleppce realised 10s. 4d. to 16s. 6d.; mixed and brown, 9s. 11d. to 10s. 1d.; 5 bags good Madras 10s. 1d.; pickings, 3s. 7d. Ceylon scarce and in request.

COPRA.—There is still an absence of supply of Penang.

CHINA ROOT.—The stock is small, and prices rule higher; no public sales, and particulars of private transactions not reported.

COLOMBO ROOT.—Firm and scarce: no business done.

COCOA NUT OIL.—There is little demand, and Ceylon is offered at £38 10s. without finding buyers; holders are however firm, and are not at present inclined to quote a lower rate. At public sale of 91 pipes Ceylon offered 85 pipes sold, yellow to fine, £38 to £38 10s.; one lot £38 15s.; brownish £37 5s.; one lot £37 10s.; of 124 hogsheds 65 hogsheds sold, yellow to good at £38 10s. to £38 15s. per ton.

COIR GOODS.—The auctions have again been light, Yarn met a steady demand, and the greater part in dholls brought full rates, but the portion in bales was chiefly bought in. 170 bales Ceylon bought in at £40 to £45; 113 ditto in dholla all sold, common to good common, £27 10s. to £29 15s.; middling, £31 to £32 5s.; good middling, £33 15s. to £36 5s. Of Fibre 991 ballots (3 tons) Ceylon sold at £17 10s. to £17 15s.; 180 bundles ditto brush at £34 10s. to £34 15s.; and 146 coils low Ceylon Rope chiefly sold, 2½ to 4½-inch at £17 to £17 15s. per ton.

CURCH has sold slowly at prices in favour of the buyer. At auction 568 boxes 500 bags Pegu were taken out. Privately fine has sold in small lots at 24s. per cwt.

CUBES.—Prices rule lower; 310 bags sold at auction at 21s. 6d. to 23s.; superior at 27s.

DRAGONS' BLOOD.—Good quality continues scarce; no business to report.

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Anniseed has been firmly held; business has been done at 11s., and there are no sellers at that figure. Cassia has been more inquired for; 4s. 6d. has been paid for 60 cases, and there is little now offering at that price. Nutmeg scarce. Cinnamon very scarce and wanted; 3 cases middling brought 2s. 6d. to 3s. Citronelle steady; 38 cases at auction sold at 1½d. for good. Lemon Grass steady, and 73 cases offered; part sold at 2½d. to 2½d. per oz. for good.

EBONY.—No change; fine figured Ceylon in request at high quotations.

GAMBIER.—The speculative demand for this article continues, and prices have further risen 3d. to 6d. per cwt.; the transactions have been principally for arrival. At auction 1,093 bales block sold at 17s. 3d. to 17s. 6d. per cwt. Privately on the spot about 1,000 bales have been sold at 17s. 6d. to 17s. 9d.; and for arrival about 1,000 tons chiefly at 17s. 4½d. to 17s. 6d., ex ship, all faults.

GUMS.—Benjamin: Sumatra is quiet; in public sale 16 cases 2nd's sold—middling brownish at £7 10s. to £7 15s.; ordinary TT & Co.'s 3rds bought in at 70s.; 100 cases dull Palembang at 70s.; 2 cases Siam sold steadily, bold almond £25 10s., rather smaller clean block £21 15s. Copal dull again; 700 cases all bought in at 33s. to 37s. for middling and fair; and fine Singapore, part sold since at 39s. Gamboge held for higher rates, and 50 cases mostly retired at £14; a few good sold at £13 5s.; drossy pickings £10 15s. to £11. Damar quite neglected, and of 120 cases Batavia offered part sold at 60s. to 61s.; 3,600 bags dust retired.

GALLS.—Market firm although arrivals have been considerable; 189 cases China at public sale were bought in at 53s. but have since been sold at that price. No business in Japan.

GUTTA-PERCHA.—Prices rule lower, and some parcels have been quitted at a serious decline. Of 1,120 packages at auction, one-third was disposed of, fair at 1s. 9d. to 1s. 11d.; mixed, 1s. 4d. to 1s. 7d.; common white, 8d. to 1s. 1d.; reboiled inferior and fair, 8d. to 1s. 3d.; sale reported of a good parcel privately at 2s. 5d.

HEMP.—The market for Manila has been very quiet; at auction 2,700 bales offered have been for the most part bought in; privately, a limited business has been done at £51 10s. for good roping, £50 for fair roping, and £46 5s. for mixed.

HIDES.—At the fortnightly sales on the 16th, a moderate quantity of East India kips was brought forward, and went off at irregular prices, ranging from those of the previous auction to 4½d., and in some instances ½d. per lb. decline. Tanned sold steadily. Buffalo were in moderate demand at late rates. Penang: 707 hides sold, heavy 10½ lbs. at 8½d., extra 14½ lbs. at 9½d., thirds 6½ lbs. at 7½d. Of 1,036 Java 229 light sold, 10½ lbs. at 6½d.; of 6,291 Singapore and Penang, 1,867 sold, light 11 to 14 lbs. at 6½d. to 7½d. heavy 10½ to 31½ lbs. at 4½d. to 6d.; 1,170 Manila withdrawn.

HORNS.—Slightly advanced; 67 tons at auction were quitted at 37s. to 40s. 6d. per cwt.

ISINGLASS.—Market steady for fine, which is wanted.

neglected, and 170 packages mostly retired; a few lots Leaf realised 2s. 10d. to 3s. 10d. for ordinary and fine; Tongue (most bought in), 2s. 6d. to 3s. 2d. inferior and good.

INDIA-RUBBER.—Without change; no business done.

JAPAN WAX.—Market dull, and only retail sales are effected for the absolute requirements of purchasers; in public sale offers of 319 cases medium and fine saucers were bought in at £4 15s. to £5 5s. per cwt.

MUSK.—Market firm; 17 caddies sold in auction, fine at 33s. 6d. to 35s.; rough bally 17s. 6d. to 18s.; and 8 tins fine grain at 55s.

PEPPER.—Black continued very quiet till the 15th inst., when 9,633 bags were offered and about 2,000 bags sold; fine Singapore 6½d.; Penang 6½d. to 6½d.; market closes dull, with sellers at these quotations. Large sales afloat reported by the speculators, but not generally credited, and this week the same operators have offered to sell 10,000 bags, delivery December and January, at 5½d. Market is evidently very unsettled. White early in the interval was sold at 1s. 1d. to 1s. 2d. (about 600 bags), and since then 300 bags at 1s. 3d., the same figure being paid in auction for 90 bags.

PLUMBAGO.—The inquiry remains inactive, and of 1,094 barrels brought to auction, barely one-third was disposed of, middling to good fair lump 21s. to 22s. 6d., common dull lump 14s., chips 14s. 9d. to 17s., dust 7s. 6d. to 9s. 9d. per cwt.

RICE.—A good demand has prevailed for soft grain sorts, especially for arrival, in which position sales have been effected in both the present and the new crop at very full rates. White Bengal has been more inquired for, and has sold at steady rates—ordinary 10s. 9d., good and fine 12s. to 13s. Basen has sold at 10s. 1½d., Necransie at 10s. 3d. to 10s. 4½d. ex quay, Madras at 10s. 3d. The first sales of the new Burmah, crop 1872, have been effected for arrival, consisting of about 6,000 tons Rangoon, early shipment, on the basis of 10s. 6d. for the Continent, or 10s. 3d. ex ship London. The floating cargo per Summer Cloud, 920 tons Moulmein, October shipment, has been sold at 10s. 9d. for the Continent, heated and damaged at valuation. The floating cargo per Connemara, 1,700 tons Rangoon, October sailing, has been resold at 10s. 6d., ex ship for London.

RHUBARB.—Market for China dull, and the recent large supplies being mostly very wormy, are very difficult to sell; of 288 cases offered, one-third sold—fine bold fair colour, 2s. 6d. to 2s. 10d.; selected paler and wormy, 2s. 4d. to 2s. 10d.; middling fair root, 1s. 7d. to 1s. 10d.; ditto very wormy fair fracture, 1s. to 1s. 3d.; rough dark inferior, 3½d. to 4½d.

RATTANS.—Market firm at last quoted rates; about 34,000 bundles quitted during the interval.

SHELLS.—The periodical sales were held on the 14th inst. with the following results:—Tortoise: An active demand prevailed, and for shell the extreme rates of the last sales to a still further advance was established; hoof also sold readily at slightly higher rates; 35 cases (2,413 lbs.) Singapore nearly all sold, good mottle 21s. to 22s. 6d., a small lot 24s. 6d., middling and inferior 15s. 6d. to 20s.; 1 case (108 lbs.) Penang sold at 13s. 6d. Turtle: Of 22 cases (2,984 lbs.) Singapore 8 cases sold at 2s. to 2s. 3d., 3 cases (303 lbs.) Manila chiefly sold at 2s. to 2s. 9d. per lb. Mother-of-Pearl: No offers of either China or Manila were made. Other Shells: Of 170 baskets and 6,300 loose Green Snail 90 baskets sold, bold 4½d. to 5½d., medium 3½d. to 4d., small 2d. each; 30 tons Japan Green Ear were bought in at 15s. to 25s.

SPICES.—Cassia Lignea: Scarce, and held for high prices; retail sales of unworked at 112s. to 115s. Vera high; sales at 70s. to 80s. of good fresh. Bulls more inquired for. Cloves: Of Penang, 35 cases in sale were bought in at 1s. 1d. Cinnamon: Market for Ceylon quiet, but steady. In auction 28 bales were sold, 1sts 2s. 11d. to 3s. 1d.; 2nds 2s. 9d. to 2s. 10d.; 3rds 2s. 8d.; 4ths 2s. 4d. to 2s. 5d. Part of 332 bags chips, fine 8½d.; middling 4½d.; common neglected. Mace commands further extreme rates, and 26 cases middling red realised 4s. 2d. Nutmegs brought about former rates, but are barely so active; one-third of 189 cases sold 68s. 3s. 9d. to 3s. 10d.; 72s. to 74s. 3s. 7d.; 115s. 3s. to 3s. 1d.

SOY.—Steady at last quoted rates.

SAGO.—Prices are about 6d. higher, and a good deal has been done at 16s. 3d. to 16s. 6d. afloat, for good small; of 2,400 bags in auction, one-third sold at 16s. to 16s. 9d. fair and fine small; large 17s. 6d. to 18s. Flour quieter: Of 3,200 bags Singapore offered part sold at 16s. 1½d.; and 50 tons afloat at 16s. 3d.

SAPANWOOD.—Manila and Stam: A good inquiry prevails, and very little offers at auction, 15 tons were bought in at £10 10s. Ceylon continues scarce, and there are no transactions to report.

STICKLAC.—Siam continues scarce and high; private sales to small extent at £3 15s.; at auction 383 cases retired at £4 per cwt.

STAR ANNISEEDS.—China are still scarce, and private sales continue to be effected at £6 12s. 6d.; no transactions at auction.

TIN.—The consumptive demand during the past week has been but small, but values have been increased by speculative buying, as high as £145 having been paid for Straits on the spot. The closing quotations are:—Straits, on the spot, £144 10s. to £145; afloat, £143 10s. to £144; Banca, £144 10s. to £145; Billiton, £144. Offers of 250 tons Straits by tender, on the 15th inst., realised as follows:—82 tons £142 10s., 60 tons £143, 25 tons £143 1s., 10 tons £143 5s., 10 tons £143 10s., 10 tons £143 15s., 50 tons £144, 5 tons £144 5s.; as yet it is not known who are the buyers. There is no doubt that stocks have seriously diminished. One authority states that the whole of the Banca Tin in Holland amounts to 3,760 tons, contrasted with 5,842 tons at this time last year. Another authority states that all the metallic Tin in Holland, London, and afloat does not exceed 6,070 tons, as compared with 8,367 tons last year, while another states the quantity to be 6,058 tons, compared with 8,373 tons. The deliveries for the last month were nearly 1,500 tons. Von Daelen and North intimate that the present is the smallest stock they can remember, and that the reduction month by month is assuming a grave importance.

TAPIOCA.—Market less active; in auction 1,814 bags were chiefly bought in—fine and superior white 2½d. to 2½d.; fair Malacca sort sold at 2d. to 2½d. Flour higher: 500 bags sold at 1½d., and 946 bags held in sale for 2½d. Pearl steady.

TURMERIC.—Market dull; Java unsaleable.

VERMILION.—No stock, and consequently no transactions to report.

CASUALTIES.

The Antipodes, Dobson, from Ilo Ilo, arrived at Falmouth, Nov. 11, with rudder-head sprung and loss of main topgallantmast, bulwarks, &c.

Advices from Portsmouth, dated Nov. 15, state that the Teviot (str.), Nisbit, which left London, 11th inst., for Singapore, China, &c. (via S.C.), has put into Spithead with machinery disabled.

The Assyrian, Funister, which arrived at Falmouth, Nov. 10, from Ilo Ilo, reported that on Aug. 26 she experienced a strong gale from N.W., which carried away bobstays, stanchions, and bulwarks on the port side; she also encountered a strong N. gale from 28th to 31st Oct.

Advices from Malta, dated Oct. 27, state that the Batara Bayon Sree (str.), Pinkham, from Glasgow to Singapore, put in there, Oct. 19, with circulating pump broken and shaft twisted, but proceeded for her destination on the 30th after repairing the same.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A telegram from Batavia, dated Nov. 14, states as follows:—The Veronica (barque), from Canton to London, has put in here, with crew mutinous, master ironed; Consul holds court.

NOTICES TO MARINERS.

WEST COAST OF KOREA.

The following information relating to the Sir James Hall group of islands, off the west coast of Korea, was obtained during a brief visit in H.M.S. Ringdove, in 1871, by Navigating Lieutenant James Cole, R.N.:—

The Sir James Hall group consists of three principal islands, lying nearly north and south, and were sighted by the Ringdove at a distance of 30 miles. The native names of the group were ascertained to be, Southern island, Soo-cheng-tao; Middle island, Ta-cheng-tao; and Northern, Peh-leng-tao.

Soo-Cheng-tao, or Ringdove Island, has off its south-west point a dangerous reef (with some of the rocks always uncovered), extending in a south-west direction for about a mile; 19 fathoms, sand and mud, was obtained at a distance of nearly 2 miles off the south-west point of the island. The south-east point of the island is remarkable from its being fronted with white cliffs. A sharp conical rock lies about a quarter of a mile to the east-south-east of the point. Detached rocks as also the appearance of shoal water extend for half a mile from the east side of the island; soundings in from 10 to 13 fathoms were obtained at a distance of about 1½ miles from the shore. The Ringdove anchored in a bay, in which are two villages, on the south side of the island, in 9 fathoms, sand. This bay affords shelter from W.S.W. round by north, to E. by N., but is entirely open to the southward. Vessels on entering this bay from the westward should not approach the south-west point of the island nearer than two miles until the centre of the bay bears N.N.W., when they may steer in, and anchor in 8 fathoms. With the conical rock off the south-east point of the island bearing E. by N., and the centre of the western village N.W. ½ N., there is a depth of 7 fathoms.

Ta-cheng-tao, or Hertha Island, is the middle island of the group; it has a conspicuous hill or peak about 900 feet high, with a conical form when seen from the westward. A small islet, 170 feet high, lies about one mile off the west side. On the south-east side of the island is a bay with a shingle beach, in which the Ringdove anchored in 8 fathoms, sand, off a small village, with the east point of the bay bearing N. by E. ½ E., and centre of village S.W. by W. ½ W. The anchorage is protected from S.S.W. round by west to N. by E.; Ringdove Island affords further shelter from heavy seas from the southward; it is therefore preferable to the anchorage in the south bay of that island.

Peh-leng-tao, or Ocean Island, is the northern and largest of the group. The north-west point of the island is fronted by bold perpendicular cliffs about 300 feet high. Off the extreme point is a needle or finger-shaped rock about 150 feet high. Along the north-west side of the island a few detached rocks extend a cable off shore. Off the south point of the island, there is a remarkable rocky islet, with a large wedge-shaped hole through its north side. About 1½ miles to the southward of this perforated islet is a sharp rock 50 feet in height, with a ledge of rocks extending one-third of a mile from its north side; two of these rocks are always uncovered. At a quarter of a mile south of the 50 feet rock is broken water, having the appearance of a rock nearly awash at low water. About three quarters of a mile to the east south east of the perforated islet are some detached rocks, the outermost of which is 20 feet high. Between these rocks and the ledge of rocks to the north of the 50 feet rock is a channel carrying from 7 to 8 fathoms in it. The Ringdove anchored off a small village in a bay near the south-west point of the island, about three quarters of a mile from the shore, in 12 fathoms hard mud. From the anchorage, the perforated islet, which is off the east point of the bay (south point of Ocean island), bore E. by S. ½ S.; the 50 feet rock S.S.E. ½ E.; and a clump of trees in the valley behind the village N. ½ E. The hills at the back are smooth-topped and covered with grass, and can easily be distinguished when standing in from the south-eastward. In the channel between Hertha and Ocean islands broken water was seen in several places, particularly off the north side of Hertha island; in many cases this appearance was probably occasioned by the tide, but from soundings having been struck in 7 fathoms suddenly after a depth of 13 fathoms shows there is an irregular bottom, and that caution is necessary in using the channel.

Tides.—Between the islands the flood-stream sets to the west, and the ebb-stream to the east. Off the west side of Ocean (the north) island the flood-stream sets north, and the ebb-stream south, from 1½ to 2 knots an hour. Off the north-west point of Ocean island the time of high water at full and change was approximately considered to be 4h. 30m.

Hydrographic Office, Admiralty, London, 23th October, 1871.

SARAWAK RIVER, COAST OF BORNEO.

The following information relative to a sunken rock in the Mor-tabas entrance of the Sarawak river has been received from Commander W. Chimmo, R.N., of H.M. Surveying Vessel, Nassau, 1871.

The barque Otter, on her way down from Quop anchorage, struck and remained some hours on a pinnacle rock, with only 3 feet on it at low water springs, and deep water all round. The rock lies nearly in the middle of the river, 1½ miles within the entrance points, and E.N.E. about 9 cables from the Belcher rock. The pilots and small steamers navigating the river always pass to the southward of the rock.

Commander Chimmo further gives notice of the following beacons near the town of Sarawak:—The "Rocks—lug this shore" beacon, abreast of Samarang rocks, has been blown down. A beacon, "keep mid river," is placed in the water nearly opposite the Sago factory, and W. ½ S. about 4½ cables from the western Samarang rock. This direction beacon is to clear a ledge of rocks running off the southern shore, having only 9 feet at low water.

The following has also been received from Commander Chimmo: Viola Rock.—A coral patch, having only 4 feet on it at low water, on which the Spanish vessel Viola struck and remained twenty-three hours, lies about 40 miles east of Balabac Island. There is no doubt as to the existence of this danger, and from information received, its probable position is in lat. 7 deg. 50 min. N., and long. 117 deg. 40 min. 50 sec. E.

Hydrographic Office, Admiralty, London, 10th November, 1871.

TRIAL TRIP OF THE P. AND O. STEAMER "PEKIN."—On the 11th inst. the P. and O. steamer Pekin was taken to Stokes Bay, under the command of Captain Woolcott, where she underwent an official trial at the measured mile, having a large party of the directors, Government, and company officials, and other gentlemen on board. The results of four runs at the mile were as under:—First run, 4min. 30sec., or 13.333 knots per hour; second, 4min. 5sec., or 14.694 knots; third, 4min. 38sec., or 12.950 knots; fourth, 4min. 5sec., or 14.694 knots; the true mean speed being 13.918 knots per hour. Average steam, 46lb.; vacuum, 26; revolutions of engines, 62 per minute. She had a total weight of coals, water, and stores on board of 904 tons, and the vessel's draught of water was 17ft. forward and 18ft. 2in. aft., the mean draught being 17ft. 7in. The wind at the time was N.N.E., with a force of 3, and smooth sea. The Pekin is fitted with compound engines of 600-horse power, nominal, indicating 3,078 during the trial; diameter of cylinders, 62 and 104 inches; length of stroke 54 inches; heating surface of boilers, 11,720 square feet; firegrate surface, 3168 square feet; condensing surface, 6,059 square feet; diameter of screw, 17ft. 6in.; with a pitch of 22½ft., increasing to 24ft. The dimensions of the vessel are as follows:—Length between perpendiculars, 378ft. lin.; length over all, 490ft.; breadth of beam, 42ft. 5in.; depth, from top of floor to spar deck, 33ft. 2in.; register tonnage, 2,093.56; gross tonnage, 3,777.37. The Pekin has accommodation for 180 first and fifty-six second class passengers, and the whole of the fittings of the spacious saloon, state-rooms, bath-rooms, &c., are of the best character, while all the latest improvements are introduced for ventilating and other purposes. The vessel behaved admirably during the trial, and Admiral Sir William Hall, one of the directors, who presided at the dejeuner, warmly complimented Mr. Caird, who was on board, on the manner in which his firm had turned the vessel out. The Pekin is appointed to leave Southampton on Wednesday, the 22nd inst., for Shanghai, via the Suez Canal.

THE HOLLAND-JAVA LINE OF STEAMERS.—On the 14th inst. Messrs. John Elder and Co. launched from their shipbuilding yard at Nairfield, Clyde, an iron screw steamship of 3,000 tons gross register and 400 horse power nominal for the Stoomvaart Nederland Company. The vessel has been designed and constructed for the company's service between Holland and Java via the Suez Canal, and is of the following dimensions:—Length between perpendiculars, 350 feet; breadth, 39 feet; depth moulded, 31 feet. In her construction and equipment she has been fitted with all the latest improvements; her state-rooms are capacious, light, and well aired, and she has ample accommodation for 100 first, 50 second, and a number of third-class passengers. The engines, which are being supplied by the same firm, are upon their compound principle, with all recent improvements. As the vessel glided off the ways she was named the Courad. This is the fourth steamer Messrs. Elder and Co. have launched this year for the Nederland Company.

LAUNCH OF A STEAMER FOR JAPAN.—Messrs. Thomas Wingate and Co., Whiteinch, on Clyde, have just completed a very beautiful twin screw steamer of about 200 tons B.M., of very light draft, for the navigation of shallow rivers in Japan. This vessel is very handsomely fitted up with large plate-glass windows all round; her engines, of 40-horse power, are fitted with all the latest improvements for economy of fuel. It has been found necessary to despatch the vessel in pieces, as her shallow draft precludes the possibility of her sailing out. She will be put together at the port of Hiogo, and will be named the "Kobu." She has, we believe, been constructed for Messrs. Kaifler and Co., and superintended by Mr. F. W. Allan, of Glasgow.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

DEPRESSION OF SPIRITS—DEBILITY.—Some defect in digestion is generally the cause of mental depression; on rectifying the disordered stomach the long list of gloomy thoughts retires, and is succeeded by more hopeful and more happy feelings. Holloway's Pills have been renowned far and wide for effecting this desirable change without inconveniencing the morbidly sensitive or most delicate organism. They remove all obstructions, regulate all secretions, and correct depraved humours by purifying the blood and invigorating the stomach. Their medicinal virtues reach, relieve, and stimulate every organ and gland in the body, whereby the entire system is renovated. No medicine ever before discovered acts so beneficially upon the blood and circulation as Holloway's celebrated Pills.

Summary of News from the Far East.

JAPAN. YOKOHAMA.

Dates extend to the 8th Oct. The outward mail of Aug. 18 (French) arrived on the 5th Oct.

The Gazette says the political affairs of the country are so quiet that there is not a single new feature to report. There are changes among the local officials in various places. Ito, who was recently in the United States, inquiring into their fiscal system and everything else, has been appointed head of the Mint at Osaka.

The steamship Ocean Queen was disposed of by Messrs. Bourne and Co., on the 23rd Sept., for $30,000, to Messrs. Favre Brandt.

The Japan Herald newspaper was sold on Oct. 2, by auction, by Messrs. Bourne and Co. The plant and goodwill of the paper and the lease of the premises fell to Mr. J. H. Brooks for $5,200.

The U.S.S. frigate Colorado is in dock at Yokoska. She is found to have suffered very little damage.

On Oct. 4, as the British steamer Roma was leaving the harbour for Kobe, the chief engineer, Mr. Henry Blackwood, was going down the ladder into the engine-room, when he suddenly slipped and fell a distance of about 4½ to 5 feet, dying instantly. There was no outward mark of any hurt on his body. The deceased was a native of Glasgow, Scotland, and had been on the coast for more than ten years.

The Herald says:—The misunderstanding that we mentioned as having arisen between the Custom House officers and merchants respecting the rate at which the new coins, and likewise kinsats, should be received at the Custom House, has had the attention of the foreign representatives, and the native government; after several conferences held in Yedo between them, it was decided that the position the Custom House officials assumed on the issue of the new coin should be abandoned, and to the end of this year duties will be received as before.

In reference to the new coinage, the yen is already at three per cent. premium over the Mexican dollar; the supply of new coin and the twenty cent pieces is anything but equal to the demand.

The erection of more lights on the principal points of the coast is being brought under the consideration of the Government.

The railroad from here to Yedo is further advanced. Trial trips from Yokohama to a short distance from Kanagawa have taken place. It is said that in another few days it will be opened as far as Kawasaki, this being nearly half the length of the line.

The land sale in the foreign settlement at Yedo has taken place, but great repugnance to purchasing was exhibited, only about six lots being bought.

The American scientific mission that lately arrived, consisting of General Horace Capron and staff, has had an audience of the Mikado, and has been otherwise entertained at the capital. A portion of the staff is shortly to start for the north for mineral and agricultural survey, to develop the resources of Yesso.

Some difficulty seemed to present itself at the latter end of last month respecting the purchase of silkworms' eggs. It appears that the natives, led away by the high prices they obtained last year for their eggs, rejoiced in the idea that foreign buyers would give the same rates this year; they accordingly produced cards in great quantity; when, however, only about half the number of buyers of last year made their appearance this season, and would not purchase at the high demands made by holders, the native dealers were in a state of great consternation, holding meetings among themselves, and resolving to burn half the cards that had already appeared in the market, thereby thinking that by so doing it would enhance the value of the remaining half; but beyond an infinity of talk, nothing seems really to have been done.

The following paragraphs are from the Weekly Mail :—

Admiral Kellet with a party of French naval officers visited the railway works on Friday, on the invitation of the engineer-in-chief, and proceeded in the working train as far as Ko-ashi.

A grave discussion is going on at Yedo as to whether the railway extension should be towards the north or west first. The former is looked upon as of great commercial moment, the latter as of equal political and commercial importance, and strong argument is adduced on both sides. The union of the west coast with Osaka is also a prominent subject, and the preliminary work is already well advanced.

We have good authority for believing that his Majesty the Mikado purposes visiting Yokohama in a few days. It is not his intention to wait until the railway is finished to Sinagawa. He will travel from Kawasaki by the line, which is already so far completed.

A German, a native of Strasburg, Johan Zimmerman by name, arrived from Shanghai in August last, seeking employment as a photographer. He went to Yedo, and while there engaged a boat to take him to a ship lying in Yedo harbour. One of the Japanese, of whom there were two in the boat, was shot by Zimmerman, the remaining sendo jumping overboard and swimming ashore. This man asserts that his companion was shot purposely by the German, who, on the other hand, affirms that he shot at a duck with a revolver, but at the same time admits that the bullet might have hit the sendo, who was between the duck and himself, and steering the boat. Zimmerman was arrested by the Japanese authorities, and handed over to Mr. Zappe, Acting Consul-General for Germany, who has already commenced the preliminary inquiry.

A somewhat cleverly-written parody on the "Battle of Dorking" has been published by the Herald, yecept "The Battle of the Bluff," wherein it is shown how the "loafers" of California, China, and Japan take Yokohama. It is a well-deserved skit on the disgraceful state of municipal matters here. Through America news of the death of Dr. Dunwoodie, R.N., for some time in charge of the British naval hospital here, has reached us; the P.M.S.S. Company has resumed the Avic's monthly trip to Hakodadi; H.M.S. Hornet has sailed for Nagasaki; Mr. Lawrence, from the Washington Legation, has joined the British Legation here as second secretary, that post being vacant through Mr. Mitford's transferral to St. Petersburg; the Colorado has gone into dock at Yokoska. The following ships of war are in harbour:—English—Barossa, Salamis; French—Alma, Segond, Linois; American—Idaho.

NAGASAKI.

The following items are from the Nagasaki Express :—

The work of reorganisation in Japan appears to be carried on in Iliogo as stringently as it can possibly be in any part of the Empire. The number of retainers in the district has been reduced to considerably less than a tenth. The priests have also been reduced in a similar manner, even those hitherto specially retained in the Prince's service to perform the periodical ancestral worship. The whole of the idols dedicated to Buddha and placed in numerous joss houses, have either been removed or are in the course of removal to the temples—only those appertaining to the Shintoo religion being allowed to remain in public. From outward appearances the majority of the towns-people seem quite indifferent about their removal, but the rural population view the new order of things in the light of religious intolerance. The order issued commanding the whole of the officials having intercourse with foreigners to wear their hair dressed in the simple style customary amongst the latter is in the course of being carried out, and we hear that the Governor of Nagasaki underwent his tonsorial preparation a few days since.

It is the intention to establish schools for teaching English at Iliogo. Our informant visited Rionoske, a brother of the reigning Prince, whom he found residing in a mansion furnished in European style; he will shortly leave for a visit to Europe, which will be of about three years' duration.

The complimentary dinner to Mr. Consul Annesley, given at the Occidental Hotel, must cause that gentleman to carry away with him some exceedingly pleasant reminiscences of the esteem in which he is held by his fellow countrymen.

H.B.M.'s steamer Salamis is daily expected at this port from Yokohama, &c., and will leave after a short stay here for Hong Kong, conveying Vice-Admiral Sir Henry Kellett, K.C.B., to meet his successor.

CHINA.

TIENTSIN.

A correspondent of the North China Herald writes that the place has been much excited by the arrival from Honan, by the Grand Canal, of a snake said to be the spirit of a god who can control the waters; it is called Kin-lungsze Ta wang. 'All the mandarins, from Li-hung-chang down, have been to the temple where it is kept, to worship.

Mr. Wade, accompanied by his family, left this place yesterday afternoon in boats for Peking. After his arrival there all the Foreign Ministers will be at their posts in Peking, the others, who were out at the hills and at Chefoo having previously returned.

It is under agitation to call a meeting of the residents to take into consideration our position during the coming winter, and to ask the Foreign Ministers to take steps to keep a strong naval force here for the protection of foreign life and property; as it is to be apprehended that, owing to want of food by the population, brigandage will exist to a large extent in this region.

There was a severe storm here on Oct. 4. It rained and hailed nearly till night, blowing strongly all the time from the east. The waters are now higher than they have ever yet been in the plains.

SHANGHAI.

Dates extend to the 11th Oct. The P. and O. mail of Aug. 11th arrived on the 1st Oct. (having been detained by heavy weather); and the French mail of Aug. 18th came in on the following day.

We hear that the new rule allowing transit passes to be taken out by the Chinese has been recognised in Shanghai. Applications for passes sent in by Chinese merchants have been granted by the Taoutai.

Considerable space in the papers to hand by this opportunity is naturally devoted to the account of the death of Mr. Consul Markham, which has been already recorded in our columns. Mr. Markham's name was a household word in Shanghai, and the sorrow at his loss is intense and universal. A public funeral was a natural mark of respect to a gentleman holding the official position which Mr. Markham has done; but there was much more than a formal display in the assembly of the great number of foreign residents who formed the funeral procession and thronged the grounds of the cemetery.

Mr. Markham was an old volunteer—captain of the Shanghai Mounted Rangers. He had, since his return, renewed his connection with the corps, this time by joining the ranks of the artillery.

A general muster of the Volunteers attended the funeral, and the Artillery were also present with a gun-carriage, draped with black velvet. The members of the Municipal Council, the Consular body, the Chinese magistrate of the Mixed Court, and a vast concourse of other persons also attended. The flags of the several consulates of all the ships in the harbour were hoisted half-mast high. The offices of H.B.M. Consulate and Supreme Court were closed.

We take the above from the North China Herald, to which we are also indebted for the following :—

We have also to record the sudden death of Mr. J. M. Lloyd, who has for nearly nine years filled the post of accountant and assistant-secretary to the Municipal Council, from the rupture of a blood-vessel in the heart.

The third ordinary meeting of the China and Japan Insurance Company was held on the 6th Oct., Mr. J. B. Robertson in the chair. The accounts, after providing for interest and all other liabilities, showed a balance of Tls. 93,159 to be carried forward to credit of working account. The net premia for the past three months were estimated at Tls. 85,000, against Tls. 64,462 for corresponding period of 1870.

Our Newchwang Correspondent writes, with reference to the flood some weeks ago, that over 1,000 persons were then drowned, and the distress caused among the remainder has been very great. Some $300 were collected in Newchwang, and distributed among the sufferers, and this timely charity seems to have created a favourable impression towards foreigners among the natives. The weather has already been pretty cold—48 deg. Fahr.; and when the next north wind comes on, frost will soon follow. Mr. James Hart has been appointed acting Commissioner, vice Mr. Luzon, who has resigned, and who goes home with the best wishes of everyone.

A meeting of the creditors of the firm of Mackellar and Co., who became bankrupt in June, 1867, was held at the British Consulate on the 6th, at which a dividend of $\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. was declared, and Mr. Gordon, partner in the firm, applied for his conditional discharge. The creditors' assignees handed round their accounts, which showed that the total liabilities of the firm were over Tls. 420,000, and that the total assets had realised about Tls. 9,000, of which nearly Tls. 6,000 consisted of proceeds of furniture, stores, and wines.

A Chinkeang correspondent writes that Mr. Gardner, who has been lately in H.M. Consulate at Chinkeang, has been appointed Interpreter at Hankow, and is to be relieved by Mr. J. G. Murray, late acting Vice-Consul at Pagoda Anchorage, Foochow.

HONG KONG.

Dates from this port reach to Oct. 18; the French mail, with London dates Sept. 1, arrived out on the 11th, and the following P. and O. mail of Sept. 8 on Oct. 16. The following items are from the China Mail.—

The discussion which arose at the Legislative Council on the establishment of a Chinese Custom House in the Colony, has raised a question of considerable moment. The Colonial Secretary thought fit to write a note to the Hon. Mr. Ryrie, requesting him to substantiate the "charge" which he brought against the Registrar-General. Mr. Ryrie did not bring any charge whatever, but simply asked whether a report generally current, to the effect that information had been conveyed from the Registrar-General's Department to the Chinese authorities at Canton, were true. The information has got into the hands of the native authorities, there appears to be no question. However, the Colonial Secretary having taken up the matter out of the Council Room, the question is raised whether members of the Council can be called upon in this manner to explain what they say in their seats.

The missionary body in Hong Kong have sent to the Colonial Secretary a reply to a memorandum by the Hon. Mr. Smith, Registrar-General, on the memorial sent by the native community on the gambling question. That official took upon himself to state that the memorial in question did not represent native opinion, and that it was got up mainly by the missionaries. It is understood that in their reply they point out that they had very little connection with the movement which fairly represented the view of the Chinese community.

A matter concerning coolie emigration has attracted some attention. A gentleman made arrangements for a number of coolies to proceed by the Pacific Mail steamer to the United States, on the understanding that they would there enter into a contract. The nature of the matter was explained to the Colonial Secretary, who at first said that there was no objection to it, but subsequently a report reaching him through the Registrar-General to whom it was sent by the Chinese constituting the Board of the Etze, or native hospital, to the effect that the men were being kidnapped, the Colonial Secretary sent orders to the emigration officer to allow no more coolies to be shipped. It transpired in the course of the affair that a native in the Registrar-General's Department had offered to make an arrangement for shipping a portion of the coolies, but had been thrown over on account of his not finding proper security. The Colonial Secretary stated as his reason for putting a veto on the business that instructions had been received from the Secretary of State, such as prohibited all emigration of coolies, either under implied or actual contract. It is justly objected, however, that no such instructions have been made public.

An elaborate memorandum has been published by the Government, showing the number of criminal cases brought up for trial at the Supreme Court since 1861. They give painful evidence of the defects in the administration. While in 1861 there were 119 criminals brought to trial, in 1870 there were only 68; and as it is known that crime has been on the increase, but no one has been brought to trial, it is clear that it is now much easier than formerly for criminals to escape. We learn that Mr. Creagh is likely to return shortly to the Colony. So long as the Sikhs form a portion of our police we require his services.

We are glad to learn that the Benevolent Society at Canton has received great support from the people of that city. Amongst the principal annual subscribers are:—The opium merchants, who contribute in proportion to the magnitude of their business, viz., a mace of silver on every 100 catties' weight of opium. Altogether the people have responded most readily to appeals in this matter, and they have shown greater liberality than the Hong Kong Chinamen.

Much anxiety is felt concerning the fate of the ship Helen Black, which left this port shortly after the late typhoon, bound for Foochow, and has not been heard of since.

The annual dinner of the cricket club was held at the Hong Kong Club on the 2nd. The chair was taken by James Greig, Esq., of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

—o—
SINGAPORE.

Dates extend to Oct. 25. The P. and O. mail arrived on the 24th with letters to Sept. 22.

We take the following from the Straits Times:—

On the night of Oct. 23 a quarrel broke out between the Teo Cho and Hokien sections of the Chinese population, which resulted in a riot that has put a stop to all business ever since, and the town has been the constant scene of street fights, high-handed robbery and loot, assault and murder, by the contending factions. The military have been called out, nearly all the Europeans in the place have been enrolled as special constables, the Rindolo's men are placed at the disposal of the Government, the Settlement has been proclaimed to be under the provisions of the Preservation of the Peace Ordinance, additional justices of the peace and magistrates have been specially appointed, and every endeavour is being made to prevent the accumulation of arms and offensive weapons by the Chinese. Entire blocks of buildings have been searched by the justices, and a large quantity of spears, pointed poles, stones, broken bottles, and missiles of every description, have been secured and carted off to the police stations.

We understand that the bayonets of the soldiers had to be used once or twice to disperse the crowds engaged in fighting and looting. It is impossible to estimate with any degree of accuracy the number of killed and wounded in the encounters that have occurred, as they carry off their own dead whenever practicable. The police and soldiers are at work clearing out a cluster of attap huts on the Singapore river, by the River Valley-road, which is a perfect nest of vagabonds, thieves, and fighting men attached to the secret societies. Finding it impossible to carry out their designs safely in town, the fighting is now transferred to the country, where large parties of armed men have literally fortified themselves in strong positions and obstructed all the approaches to their fastnesses, by felling large trees over the most difficult portions of the paths. The bazaars and shops are closed, and all Chinese who sell provisions or vegetables are in danger of assault, it being evidently the object of those already engaged to make the riots and the suffering as general as possible. Stronger measures than have yet been taken will have to be made use of before we can hope for a cessation of hostilities and the return of the combatants to their peaceful avocations.

We learn of a sad occurrence at Deli, Sumatra. This place, from the productiveness of the soil, has attracted capital and settlers from Singapore, who engage in planting tobacco and other staple products. A short time ago, two residents of this place, Messrs. Hermann Kung and Theodor Meyer, went down to Deli, and set to work at a place fifteen or sixteen miles further inland than the previous European settlers. These young men had lately received some specie from Singapore, and their coolies, being aware of this, determined to possess themselves of it. Accordingly, on the morning of the 10th, they attacked Mr. Meyer with an axe, severing his head from his shoulders. Mr. Kung, hearing some disturbance, ran to learn the cause, when he, too, was cut down, cleaving his skull in two. Nothing was known of the murder until some two days after, when some of their friends, going to see them, found their murdered bodies. After committing the brutal and shocking murder, we are told the coolies resumed their work as if nothing had happened. The rajah, we hear, has arrested seventeen of the coolies, who will be tried for the crime according to the native custom.

By the last French mail His Excellency John Pope Hennessy, late Governor of Labuan, took his departure for Europe, to take up his new appointment in the Bahama Islands.

The police at all three Settlements are being provided with Snider Enfield rifles, to replace the old muskets hitherto kept at the stations.

A serious accident occurred on board the Rinaldo the day before she reached Singapore from St. Paul's. A gun was being fired for practice, when it exploded, severely burning Lieutenant Stopford (in the face), Mr. Preston, gunner's mate, and leading seaman Snooks. The two latter are doing well, but Lieutenant Stopford was more seriously injured, and it was feared might lose his eyesight altogether.

LORD KIMBERLEY'S DESPATCH.

The following is from the Straits Times of Oct. 12:—

The despatch of Earl Kimberley, Secretary of State for the Colonies, in giving his approval to the estimates and supply ordinance for the present year, is a document that will be read with great interest. It conveys in most unmistakable terms his lordship's disapprobation of the increased and still increasing expenditure of this Colony, without any public works of importance being carried on to warrant it. It cannot fail to be highly gratifying to the community at large to observe that the items of our expenditure are so closely watched at home, notwithstanding they are not objected to by the unofficial members of Council, who fall in for a share of the general condemnation. The remark of his lordship that increased revenue was no just excuse for increased expenditure, was by no means uncalled for; the argument that the revenue was amply sufficient, or would prove to exceed the estimate, has more than once been used when seeking to pass through Council a vote for some extraordinary item. To those who have viewed with apprehension the increasing cost of administering the Government this despatch will prove especially pleasing, as it shows how carefully every item is gone into. Whatever may be the faults of the Colonial system, economy is evidently one of its leading traits; and the minute precision that marks every paragraph of this despatch affords ample evidence that the Colonial office not only compares and audits the accounts of the various colonies, but that the Secretary of State personally gives the business of his office very close attention and is gifted with a keen memory.

His lordship lays down the principle, which is a very proper one, that "the Government—and in no case an unofficial member—is the proper authority to introduce to the Council every specific vote." He explains, however, that an unofficial member may in general terms make a motion involving expenditure, but the proper form in such a case is, he tells us, for the member to move that the Governor in Executive Council be requested to consider whether it is expedient to place this sum upon the estimates, and observes, "it is to be borne in mind that the Government, if it acquiesces in such a resolution, is in no way relieved from its responsibility as to the expenditure by the fact that it was moved by an unofficial member;" a very forcible and truthful view of the matter, though not the view that has always been taken in the Council here.

ROMAN CATHOLIC MISSIONARIES.

It is difficult to see what could have prompted the following letter, certainly not Christian charity. It is pretty well known by every resident in China that the Roman Catholic missionaries have gone into the interior, in the heart of China, and encountered much greater risks and hardships than Protestant missionaries. Their prudence or wisdom in so doing is open to question, but the "appropriations" of the Roman Catholics in China has nothing to do with the self-denial of their missionaries. We cannot see the drift of the letter.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "ENGLISH INDEPENDENT."

SIR,—We frequently hear of the limited incomes of Roman Catholic missionaries, as if they were able to live upon a mere pittance, and to carry on their work without expense. For the sake of those who do not know the circumstances, it may be well to suggest that there are two sides to the question.

The small sum set down as the salary of the Roman Catholic missionary in China may be all he receives from home, but it certainly does not represent his income. What of—

1. Rents and revenues from the large property held by the Roman Catholics which has been reclaimed from the Chinese Government as having belonged to the Church two hundred years ago? As the French have no mercantile houses in China, the entire occupation of the French Legation in Peking since 1860 has been the recovery of such property, and the furtherance of Romish interests in other ways. Some of the properties reclaimed may have been unoccupied ground two hundred years ago, but now are occupied by busy streets. Is the rents of these streets of houses to count for nothing? Moreover, in places of security the Roman Catholics make a point of acquiring land and building houses to be rented out; at Hong Kong, for instance, a large amount of property belongs to them.

2. What, also, of immense indemnities as at Tientsin?—for buildings between £30,000 and £40,000, and similarly enormous indemnities at Formosa, Yangchow, and Schun.

3. The amount reported in Europe as the outlay of Romish missions in China would not cover the annual expense being incurred for some years past in building the cathedrals at Canton and Peking. This expense is often said to be borne by converts, which, we presume, means that it is borne by the rent of property reclaimed as Church property, by the French Legation.

In reference to the hard life of Roman Catholic missionaries, I have the testimony of three independent witnesses in different positions of influence, and residing at different ports, to the effect that Roman Catholic missionaries live at least as comfortably as their Protestant brethren. It is proper that these statistics of Romish missions should be understood in England.—I am, yours truly, B. Amoy, Sept. 19.

Commercial Report.

IMPORTS.

YOKOHAMA.—Shirtings and Yarns were about the only imports that had attracted any attention. At the close, Shirtings exhibited a slight tendency to decline, but Yarns fully maintained their figure, with, perhaps, a slight inclination to advance. A good enquiry at better rates had arisen for Black Velvets, and a fair business had been done. T-Cloths had ruled firm, and exhibited signs to advance. Alpacas had demanded some little attention, and an improvement was noted. No business in Coals.

HANKOW.—The business in Piece Goods had been unsatisfactory, as there had been much difficulty in quitting Plain Cottons, in consequence of the usual autumn holidays and the outbreak of an insurrection in Honan, which at one time threatened to become formidable. Sales of both Cottons and Woollens had been unimportant. Prices of Camlets had advanced under the combined firmness of holders, but these were the only Woollens affected by strong home advices. The market for Plain Cottons closed dull, and prices were weak.

SHANGHAI.—The market for Cottons had been dull, but some little activity amongst speculators in Grey Shirtings was apparent at the close; ordinary makes of T-Cloths had met with some inquiry. White Shirtings were dull of sale. Drills had been in request. There had been moderate inquiry for Jeans. Sheetings dull. Fancy Cottons in very small demand. Woollens: An improved tone was evident in these goods, Camlets and Long Ells especially being dealt in at advanced rates. Quotations:—G.E. Grey Shirtings, 38½ yds. 39 in., 7 lbs., Tls. 1.7.0 to 1.7.5; 8½ to 8½ lbs., Tls. 1.8.6 to 1.9.7; 9 lbs., 2.1.5 to 2.5.0. G.E. White Shirtings, Tls. 1.7.5 to 2.5.0. American Drills, Tls. 3.3.0 to 3.3.5. Jeans, Tls. 2.3.8 to 2.5.5. English Drills, Tls. 3.0.5 to 3.1.0. Jeans, Tls. 2.3.0 to 2.3.5. Dutch Drills, Tls. 3.0.0 to 3.1.5. Jeans, Tls. 2.3.5 to 2.4.3. T-Cloths, 6 lbs., Ordinary, Tls. 1.1.8 to 1.2.5; 7 lbs., do., Tls. 1.4.0 to 1.4.7; 6 lbs., Mexican, Tls. 1.4.0 to 1.4.6.

HONG KONG.—The interval had been one of extreme dullness, but prospects for the future were improving. Importers had been rendered firmer by encouraging telegrams from Manchester. Cotton Yarn: No quotable change in value, and condition of the market most unsatisfactory, demand being limited and uncertain. Grey Shirtings: Although inquiry was still very weak and limited, an advance of 2½c. to 5c. per piece had been established. Best makes had been sold up to $2.23½ per piece for 7 lbs., and $2.57½ per piece for 8½ lbs. White Shirtings: Lower qualities had advanced 10c. per piece. T-Cloths: Very limited business done at prices showing no advance on previous quotations. Grey Twills: English and Dutch in fair request at about last quotations. Stocks very moderate. Dyed and Fancy Cottons: Inferior qualities of Dyed Spots quoted 10c. lower, but fine maintained their value; Dyed Brocades slightly easier; Dyed Damasks saleable at former quotations; Turkey Red Cambrics in small request, unchanged in value. Velvets firmly held, but Velveteens quoted a shade lower. Spanish Stripes: No sales reported, quotations unchanged. Blankets: In some request at previous rates. Long Ells: Scarlet 10c. lower; assorted quoted 20c. higher, owing to scarcity of one or two colours. Camlets: Quotation 25c. per piece higher all round, sales 600 pieces. Lastings: No change, 200 pieces common quality sold at $14 per piece. Metals: Nail Rod Iron firmer, but quotation still very low; Bar Iron slightly easier, but hoop showed a rise of 20c. per picul; Steel is not inquired for; Iron Wire: About 240 piculs taken at former prices; Lead: Improving slowly, L. B. sold at $5.65 per picul, W. B. nominally quoted at $5.90 to 6.

MANILA.—The Piece Goods Market had been dull during the fortnight, and the business transacted had been small. Values were without much alteration, but, as importations of plain staples had been very limited, importers held their stocks of them more firmly than at date of our last report.

SINGAPORE.—In imports there had not been much change during the fortnight, and, except for 6 lb. T-Cloth, fine qualities 36-inch White Shirtings and 15/16s White Cambrics, demand had been limited. 39-inch Grey Shirtings: Placed to limited extent at $2.50 to 2.47½; 7 lb. quiet at $2.12½ to 2.15; 6 lb. in better demand at $1.85. 45-inch: 8 lb. quoted $2.50; 9 lb. wanted at $2.87½; other weights in no request. 36-inch Grey Supers: In no demand; quotations nominal. 36-inch White Shirtings: Fine qualities in good demand for Siam, and fair sales at an advance of 5 to 10 cents for favourite descriptions; medium quiet, and low qualities very dull. 45-inch: Trifling demand at $3.47½ for 64 reed. 36-inch White Spots: Nominally worth $2.50 for 14 x 15, no demand. White Cambrics: Good enquiry for 15/16s at advancing prices, sales at $30½; No. 24s in heavy stock, low qualities offered at $16½ to 17. 30-inch Madapollams: Very dull; small sales at $17½ to 17¾. 32-inch Grey T-Cloths: 6 lbs. in most request, fair sales at $1.62½ to 1.65, price at the close rather weaker; 5 lbs. and 7 lbs. quiet at $1.32½ and $1.82½. Madapollams: Small business in 3 lbs. at $13½ to 18½, some inquiry for 2½ lbs. at $17½, but no stocks. Grey Yarn: All counts in limited request; 40's $114 to 115, 30's $106 to 107, 18-24 $87½ to 92½; holders asking an advance. Coloured Yarns quiet. Turkey Red, Glasgow dye, 12 lbs., $135 to 137½; 10 lbs., 127½ to 130; no demand for German dye. Imperial Red $67 to 68. Dark Green $78 to 80. Woollens generally very dull. Metals: Iron is still inquired for. Lead: Small sale of common at $5.60 cash. Coals: No transactions reported, market less firm; Cardiff worth $9½, and West Hartley $9.

PENANG.—There had been a somewhat improved inquiry during the interval for all imports except 8½ lbs. Grey Shirtings and Turkey Red Cambrics. Prices had undergone no alteration.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

YOKOHAMA.—Advices from America being anything but encouraging, a cessation of operations had taken place, and settlements had been but small; prices remained unaltered with but few purchases. Supplies had found their way in fair degree, and stocks, consisting chiefly of common sorts, had somewhat increased. The Fiery Cross had sailed for New York with 677,101 lbs., and the Black Prince and Mikado were loading for that port.

HANKOW.—Messrs. Drysdale, Ringer, and Co.'s Report is as follows.—Only a small business transacted, settlements aggregating 4,916 chests 2,513 half-chests at Tls. 9.10 to 10 for Shuntam kinds, to Tls. 13.50 to 15.25 for clean fairly even made Oopack Teas, say, 9½d. to 10½d., and 1s. 0½d. to 1s. 1½d. respectively—prices altogether beyond current rates in London. The Teas are, however, intended chiefly for the Russian market. Tea is now coming down so slowly from the country, and the quality is so inferior, that the season may almost be considered closed, although nearly a month earlier than last year. The export of Hankow tea has now reached 53,437,000 lbs., showing to date an excess over the total for last year of 3,469,000 lbs. Of the above, 267,302 chests 154,628 half-chests were settled here, 73,252 half-chests being Ningchow leaf, and 205,449 chests and 69,352 half-chests have been shipped to Shanghai for sale on native account. So many steamers having loaded here at the commencement of the season, a much larger quantity of Tea has been settled in Hankow, and this has further increased through the superior quality of the second and third crop Teas having given confidence to buyers. Higher prices being paid for these descriptions, the Teamen were encouraged to prepare a much larger quantity, which, from the absence of an unusually high flood this year, was enabled to come down from the country without interruption. Hence the unfavourable comparison of statistics throughout the season, and hence also its much earlier close. The quantity of leaf still likely to come forward depends entirely upon the course of the Shanghai market, but under any circumstances we think it cannot exceed 20,000 chests, thus making the total export for the season 55,000,000 lbs. It must be remembered, too, that any further arrivals will scarcely rank as common Tea.

SHANGHAI.—Black: During the three weeks since last English mail there had been a steady business doing, but the quantity settled had been 5,000 chests and 17,000 half-chests less than the quantity reported for the previous fortnight. Nearly three-fourths of the settlements had been of fair to medium Ningchow, Oopack, and Oonfas, buyers still giving preference to the better grades; there had been little Hohow Tea on offer; and Shuntam-packed, although taken to a moderate extent, had not been in general request. The stock was 20,700 chests—nearly half being below the grade of good common—against 61,291 chests same time last year; whilst export figures gives an excess of 12,500,000 lbs. Congou as compared with corresponding mail in 1870. Shuntam-packed Teas had been settled at Tls. 12.7.5 to 14, giving same tael quotations for slightly inferior quality. Common Hohows and Oonams at Tls. 15 to 17, being an advance of Tls. 0.5.0 to 1. Fair to medium Ningchows, Oopacks, and Oonfas at Tls. 18 to 23, quite Tls. 1 to 2 higher than rates last quoted, and fully Tls. 3 above the lowest point touched this season. Green: There had been an active market, all parcels with quality being eagerly competed for on arrival, and prices for fine and finest had thus been fully maintained. Medium grades were relatively cheaper, being less in request for America, but were nevertheless realising more than home value. Pingsueys had been nearly all taken; the quality was very inferior, and tael price on lower scale.

FOOCHOW.—There had been an active market, settlements averaging 4,500 chests. There had been a pretty general demand for all descriptions, but an undue proportion of the settlements consisted of dust and low broken leaf kinds, which had advanced to the extent of half a tael; other descriptions had sold irregularly at quotations as undernoted. The commoner kinds of Souchong had slightly declined. Scented Teas unaltered in price. In Ooolongs large business reported, at, on the whole, about last quotations. There were very few fine Teas remaining unsold, and these, belonging principally to one Teaman, were rather firmly held. Settlements:—Congou, 60,989 chests, at Tls. 6.8 to 11.8 o.b. for dust to broken leaf, Tls. 12.3 to 15.3 o.b. for leafy to ordinary, Tls. 15.5 to 17.8 o.b. for fair to good common, Tls. 18.3 to 23.3 o.b. for flavory to medium, and Tls. 26.8 to 28.8 o.b. for good medium in boxes. Souchong, 4,592 chests, at Tls. 16.8 to 21.3 o.b. for common to medium, Tls. 22.3 to 25.8 o.b. for good medium, Tls. 28.8 to 32.8 o.b. for good medium to fine, and Tls. 38.8 o.b. for a parcel of choice in boxes. Ooolong, 21,799 half-chests, at Tls. 18.8 to 21.3 o.b. for common to fair cargo, Tls. 21.8 to 25.8 o.b. for good cargo, Tls. 27.3 to 29.8 for superior cargo, Tls. 31.8 to 39.8 o.b. for fine to finest, and Tls. 40.8 to 50.8 o.b. for choice to choicest. Scented Teas, 7,566 boxes, at Tls. 17.8 to 21.3 o.b. for common to medium. Flowery Pekoe, 276 chests, at Tls. 27.8 to 58.8 o.b.

AMOV.—Market for Ooolongs very quiet during the earlier part of the interval, and buying was not fairly recommenced until the 2nd October, when several parties began to operate; since that date a large business had been done, and prices had ruled gradually easier, a fall of $1.00 per picul on grades up to fine being noticeable, while extra fine and choice qualities were unchanged in value. The first arrivals of Autumn Teas were of undesirable quality, owing probably to the admixture of coarse summer leaf, but later receipts had proved more satisfactory, and the bulk of the crop so far at hand was regarded above the average quality. Settlements of Ooolongs—31,970 half-chests at $20 to 22 for fair, $23 to 24 for good, $26 to 29 for superior, $31 to 35 for fine, and $36 to 42 for extra fine cargo. Lubra and Emperor were loading for New York.

CANTON.—Import transactions to good extent, and all descriptions more or less dealt in. Scented and Green Teas have shown no change in value, but prices paid for Canton District Congous were extreme, taking into consideration the quality of the Tea and the state of home markets. The Green Teas bought were chiefly for Continental and American markets. Settlements, 2,000 boxes Canton District Congou, 8,000 boxes Scented Orange Pekoe, 6,000 boxes Scented Capar and 4,200 boxes Greens.

SILK.

YOKOHAMA.—But few purchases had been made in this staple, and prices were unchanged. Some 780 bales went forward by the last (French) mail. Settlements were estimated at 500 bales, and stocks at 1,300 bales. Silk worms' Eggs: Prices ruled low, buyers not giving way to the high prices demanded by holders. Settlements amount to about 300,000 cards, and arrivals 1,600,000.

SHANGHAI.—The following is from Messrs. Skeggs and Co.'s Circular:—The French Mail left this on Oct. 5 with 111 bales for Marseilles, 10 bales for St. Etienne, 14 bales for Milan, 204 bales for Lyons, and 175 bales for London. During the nineteen days under review we have had a fairly active market, the high prices paid by Continental and American buyers having so strengthened the hands of holders that they have been enabled to obtain Tls. 5 to 10 advance on all chops and re-reeled Silks, whilst medium and other descriptions remain as last quoted; it has further stimulated them to send supplies forward more freely, so that our stock is not reduced. We give the following as a few of the prices paid:—Dragon for No. 3 with usual assortment, 30s. to 30s. 3d.; Cock and Worm, do., 30s.; Cat and Bee Powlings, do., 29s. 9d.; Blue Flag, 28s.; Kukee Chin Jan, 27s. 6d. to 27s. 9d.; Blue Elephant, 27s. 3d. to 27s. 6d.; Red Peacock, 26s. 11d.; Yok Wha, 26s. 11d. to 27s. 3d.; Green Elephant, 26s. 2d.; medium, 4 to 4½ tsatlee, 25s. 5d. to 25s. 11d.; common and 5 tsatlee, 24s. 8d. to 25s. 2d.

STRAITS PRODUCE.

SINGAPORE.—Tin: About 4,400 piculs sold, at $34.37½ to 34.75; stocks small, and held for the higher quotation. Gambier: Large business at $3.25 to 3.28 per picul, and dealers refused to sell under $3.30. Black Pepper nominally worth $13.75; none obtainable. White Pepper: Small sales at $20.87½ to 21.12½; market cleared. Pearl Sago: About 1,000 piculs contracted for at $3.15 for small grain, and $3.20 for medium. Flour: Sales of Sarawak at $2.75 to 2.77½. Tapioca: Flake in good demand, at $4.12½ to 4.25. Coffee: 600 piculs Bontyne held for $17 per picul, buyers offering $16.75. Buffalo Hides: Best quality worth $11½ per picul. Cow Hides: Sales at $16 to 16½ per picul.

Mr. C. C. Rainbow and Mr. E. R. Holberton have formed a co-partnership under the style or firm of Rainbow, Holberton, and Co., as merchants and commission agents in London.

THE LOSS OF THE P. & O. STEAMER "RANGOON."

By this mail we have received particulars of the cause of the wreck of this magnificent steamer, while making her way out of the harbour of Galle. It is clearly explained that no other blame attaches to the pilot or the commander than that which is always inseparable from a too great disposition to oblige in presence of circumstances of danger. The wreck was virtually caused by the Post-office. Time was up, and the Rangoon had got under way without the mails when, as she was steaming out, the mails were despatched in a boat. The engines were stopped, the current caught her, and she struck on the rocks before she could be steamed off. We hope that this terrible example will not be lost, and that for the future no pilot or captain will allow the vessels under their jurisdiction to be stopped in going out or into Galle harbour.

THE BRITISH INDIAN TELEGRAPH COMPANY.

At the meeting of this company the shareholders, amongst many ungenerous remarks, said that the directors, with their fees, were in a very complacent humour, while the shareholders, with a return of only six per cent. on their capital invested, were not quite so well satisfied. The Rev. Mr. NICHOLSON protested against the curtailment of the dividends for the purpose of raising a "reserve fund." Such remarks are what might be expected from a reverend gentleman who had invested in a commercial concern, the workings of which he could know nothing of. We strongly condemn the practice, common amongst the clergy, of investing in such companies; it is quite out of their province, and hence they are led to make unseemly remarks at the public meetings of the shareholders. Exception was also taken to the re-election of the Baron ERLANGER as a director, with a view to saving £200 per annum. Shareholders, as a rule, know nothing of the toil and patience of some directors. As a rule, no doubt, directors are composed of gentlemen who accept the post simply for the fees. The case of the Indian Telegraph Company's directors is vastly different. The chairman could have given a good account of the services rendered by most of the directors for months and years before these companies were started, actuated purely by the great public interests of the scheme. Any one who has had daily experience in the working of the land telegraphs to India knows how unsatisfactory and tedious it was. Hence the sacrifice of time, and not a little private outlay in bringing about a "united system of submarine lines to India and China." Having accomplished this without receiving a shilling in the way of promotion money, it is a vexatious injustice that their services should now be decried. It is only natural that they should wish to continue to take part in the full development of the enterprise they have so ably and so unselfishly brought to a successful and practical issue. It must be known, at least to some shareholders, that it cannot be a mere money question with their directors, for their time is far more valuable than any fees can compensate, and by remaining on the board they are certainly conferring a favour on the shareholders. Without directors of such position and influence as compose the board of the British Indian Company the concern could not have been brought to its present position.

CHINESE EMIGRATION TO THE UNITED STATES.

MANY are the objections made to Chinese coolies, both in the United States and Australia. It is said that they are heathens difficult of conversion, which may be regarded as the religious objection; that they arrive without the female element, and therefore become a new source of immorality to society; that they are addicted to opium smoking and petty gambling, and that they cannot be admitted to civil rights to the same extent as the emancipated negro—the objection of the politician. To none of these objections except the last, which may be considered to some extent unjust, can an unqualified denial be given. Superadded to these reasons have been the mode of transportation in sailing vessels and the horrors of the Middle Passage, done away with, however, so far as California is concerned, by the regular trips of a magnificent Pacific steamship fleet. While certain objections are allowed against the Chinese coolie, there are important facts in his favour. The Chinese, unlike many negroes, is not addicted to intoxicating drinks, and although he smokes opium and gradually undermines his health, he is otherwise temperate, and is peaceful, orderly, and industrious. His economical habits are such, his wants so few, that he makes money at wages on which the comparatively extravagant American or European would starve, which constitutes his greatest crime in the eyes of the labouring classes on the Pacific coast and in the New England States. In reality, however, he has merely served, at moderate wages, at some branches of industry inadequately supplied with labour. Without him some great public undertakings in the United States might have remained unaccomplished to this day, as, for instance, the Central Railroad of California, which is the result of the labour of ten thousand Chinamen.

The Gulf States are now fully alive to the desirableness of Chinese labour on the sugar and rice, and even cotton plantations. The experiment has been impartially and fairly made, and, thus far, with eminently satisfactory results. There can be little doubt that when the Southern Pacific Railroad is opened there will be seen a large Chinese emigration into the Southern States via San Diego. Then, in Virginia,—the future great manufacturing State of the South, the negro is gradually emigrating to the Gulf States. Who but the Chinaman will replace him on the banks of the James? It is impossible that white labour can fully respond to the call that is made on it in the manufacturing and agricultural Middle and Western States, and the railroad building territories. The vast Western mineral lands are undeveloped, and it is the Chinaman that is looked to for performing all the coarse labour in them in coming years. The more the wants of the future of the United States are considered, the more it becomes manifest that the introduction of the Asiatic labour element on a far larger scale is of the most vital moment to the whole country, but especially to the Southern States, and the question should be entertained with the impartiality becoming a nation which will probably count a hundred million inhabitants within the present century.

THE present mail, bringing advices confirmatory of the rioting at Singapore, which we learned some weeks ago by telegram, discloses a state of things as little creditable to the Government as to the police. It is little to our credit as a nation that, after having held possession of this island for half a century, there should be a jungle still existing in the heart of it, in which persons who have broken the law can take refuge with impunity, and defy the police. Assuredly a railway development is required.

The directors of the East and West India Dock Companies have reduced the rate of their labourers wages from eighteen to fifteen shillings weekly. This course has been protested against not only by the labourers themselves but by several sections of the mercantile community, including the wholesale tea dealers who, in a letter to the directors, call attention to the fact that such a low rate of wages will have the effect of filling the warehouses with the most needy class of men, necessarily including a large number who are incompetent and dishonest. It is false economy (the letter continues) to place men whom they thus prompt to dishonesty in charge of produce of immense value, and in positions where (as in sampling) carelessness or incompetency may cause a great loss to those who transact business with the company.

The amount of bullion by the P. and O. Company's steamer Pera from Southampton, on the 25th inst., was, in gold, to Galle, £3,690; to Bombay, £40,000; to Madras, £7,019; to Calcutta, £20,000; to Penang, £1,000; to Singapore, £5,000; in silver, to Bombay, £31,750; to Madras, £3; to Calcutta, £35,000; to Singapore, £20,500; to Hong Kong, £77,419; to Shanghai, £9,270; total, in gold, £76,709; in silver, £173,942.

NAVAL AND MILITARY.

In our last issue we stated that the 80th (Staffordshire) Regiment of Foot would shortly proceed to Hong Kong. We are now enabled to report that the regiment—which is under the command of Colonel R. P. Harrison—has been ordered to proceed from Belfast, where it is now quartered, to Dublin. During the stay of the regiment in Dublin service and depot companies will be formed preparatory to embarkation. We observe with satisfaction that the conveyance of the troops to China is not likely to be attended by a repetition of the Megara disaster. The Orontes, one of the new screw steamers built a few years since for the express purpose of military transport, has been selected for the service. The Orontes is expected at Queenstown from Canada about the 18th prox. She will embark the regiment there proceeding in the first place direct to Hong Kong, from whence, after landing the troops, she will convey the head-quarters of the first battalion of the 10th Regiment to Singapore. Subsequently the vessel will carry out some exchanges of troops which are to be effected between Singapore, Penang, and Labuan, and will finally return to England with a battery of Artillery from Singapore.

The Icarus, 3, screw-sloop, Commander Lord Charles T. M. D. Scott, arrived at Spithead on the 19th inst. Her machinery is very defective, her engines being unable to make a speed of more than four knots an hour in smooth water, and it took the vessel from the morning of the 17th until the 19th to make the passage from off Scilly. The Icarus is now at Sheerness, where she will be paid out of commission. The final destination of the vessel will be the fourth division of the reserve.

HOLLAND.

ROTTERDAM, Nov. 22.

The Second Chamber of the States General has taken a most important step. I told you in my last letter that Mr. Dumbar had proposed an amendment to reduce the Budget for Foreign affairs by f.8,000—by recalling our ambassador to the Papal Court. By 39 against 33 votes this amendment has been carried, although the Ultramontanes seconded by the Conservatives and the ultra-orthodox Protestant party did all they could to prevent such a result. The Minister Baron van Gericke was on their side, and demonstrated the necessity of maintaining this diplomatic mission, which ought not to be abolished without consulting with other and larger European Powers, who are still represented at the Papal Court. But all in vain. The majority was convinced that since the Pope has lost his temporal power, it would be of no service to maintain our representative at his Court. The question was not, What must we do to propitiate the Catholics, but which measure will best promote the interests of Holland? I need not add that the decision of the Chamber has made a very deep impression. The Catholics are furious, judging from the tone of their papers, which if any one should read accidentally, without knowing what had happened, he would think that we were on the eve of a revolution. The separation of the Liberals from the Catholic Party has become both wider and deeper.

There are some who consider that in consequence of this vote the Minister, Baron van Gericke, must resign, but this is absurd. On the other hand, it seems now pretty certain that the Minister of War will retire, whether his Budget be carried or rejected. He has laid before the members a Bill to alter the militia law, and another with reference to the system of fortresses; but these will not tend to lengthen his Parliamentary life. Conservative papers predict that Mr. Thorbecke is also on the eve of resignation. But these rumours are not to be trusted any more than are those that Prince Bismark considers the present moment favourable for carrying out his design of seizing the Duchy of Luxemburg. It is stated that Count d'Arnein has been directed to sound M. Thiers and to tempt him with the offer of immediately withdrawing the German troops from France, in the event of the Cabinet of Versailles acquiescing in the annexation of the Duchy. It is said further that Prince Bismark knows that no resistance will be offered by Belgium, Holland, or England.

RECEPTION OF CHUNG HOW BY M. THIERS.

The Chinese Ambassador was received at Versailles on the 23rd by M. Thiers. The President, surrounded by all the Ministers and their principal officers, assembled in the great Reception Hall. Chung How presented the Emperor's letter to the President, enclosed in a rich case. Before doing so he read it in Chinese, and it was translated by the interpreter as follows:—

"M. le Président,—I, Tchang Haon, Ambassador of the great Empire of Tsing, have received orders from my august Emperor to come here to salute in his name the illustrious President of the great French nation, and respectfully to present to him an Imperial letter. On the 21st of June of last year some wicked men, having stolen children at Tientsin, were the cause of a disturbance there. The Emperor sent Tseng Kaou Faun, one of his Ministers, Secretary of State, Viceroy, Governor-General of Tche-li, and other officers to inquire into everything with equity and justice. At the same time he promulgated a decree, addressed to the Viceroys, Governors of Provinces, and local authorities to assure security to all who had a right to it. Tseng Kaou Faun and his assistants, after having removed the two magistrates, Tchang and Lien, for having been wanting in their duties, handed them over to the Department of Justice, which condemned them to transportation to Tartary. With respect to the rioters, 20 culprits were beheaded and 25 others were transported. Another decree enjoined the local authorities of Provinces to issue proclamations to the people, in order that there might not be any further disorders, the Emperor declaring his firm will that the French in China shall enjoy peace and tranquillity. The Emperor my master, while regretting that affair, trusts that, after its satisfactory and definite settlement, it will cause no injury to the relations between the two countries. Adopting, therefore, as a basis that which had been agreed to upon the subject between the Charge d'Affaires of France, Ds Rochechouart, and the Minister for Foreign Affairs at Peking, I have considered the subject with the French Plenipotentiary, De Geoffroy, and as I found in him a spirit of equity, justice, and liberality, that affair has been terminated in a satisfactory manner. I have, therefore, the honour, as Ambassador, to hand to the illustrious President the Imperial letter of which I am the bearer. I also offer him at the same time, in the stead and place of my august master thanks for the liberal reception which has been given me. The friend, ship between the two nations will be on that account only more firm and durable. If the illustrious President has a national letter to forward, or any words to be communicated to my August Master, I, his Ambassador, am prepared to take charge of them."

M. Thiers replied in the following terms:—

"Monsieur l'Ambassadeur,—I receive with satisfaction the letter which you have presented to me on the part of your Sovereign. It is to me a proof of the regret which he has felt for the deplorable events at Tientsin and of his sincere desire to prevent a recurrence of such scenes. You tell me of the numerous punishments inflicted upon the guilty. The French nation is too humane to take pleasure in the shedding of blood. It demands only that severity which is necessary to restrain the wicked, and it believes that to rigorous measures others of a different character must be added. It is the duty of Governments, while repressing the excesses of the populace, to calm its passions, to dispel its prejudices, and to bring it to listen to the voice of reason and humanity. Your Government is too enlightened not to appreciate the merits of those missionaries, men of great worth, who expatriate themselves in order to spread abroad throughout the world the principles of civilisation, against whom evil-disposed persons have not feared recently to excite the popular hatred. Let it proclaim it in decrees, let it seize every occasion to bear solemn witness to it; the people will respect the foreigners when they shall see their own magistrates treating them with respect. We will also suppose that the Chinese people have not comprehended the enormity of the crime that was committed when a hand was raised against the person of a Consul of France. It is, again, the province of the Chinese Government to show, by its attitude and by its proceedings with respect to diplomatic and consular agents, the extent of the special consideration which is due to their public character by virtue of the rules universally received among all nations. It is only upon these conditions, and when your Government shall frankly have entered upon that course, that we can arrive at a sincere application of treaties, and that we shall avoid fresh incidents which might seriously compromise the relations between the West and the East. I will reply to your Emperor, and I will forward my letter to him through the Minister of the Republic at Peking. In the meantime, assure him of our earnest desire to live upon good terms, to multiply the relations between us, and consequently to increase our mutual confidence and esteem. I should consider that for the end it would be useful if a Chinese Legation were permanently established in France, as also a French Legation at Peking. If this plan should be adopted we cannot but hope to see at the head of the future mission a high functionary who shall resemble you, M. l'Ambassadeur, and who shall possess the same spirit of justice, the same cordial disposition of which you have given proof, and which I am glad to acknowledge in this place."

The Ambassador, in reply, simply said:—"On my return to China I will communicate to the Emperor the words of the President of the Republic."

M. Thiers added that he would send a reply to the Emperor by the French Minister at Peking.

SALE OF CHINESE ENAMELS AND PORCELAIN.—A valuable assemblage of enamels and porcelain recently received has been submitted to public competition at the rooms of Messrs. Christie, Manson, and Woods, St. James's. Among the more remarkable specimens were the subjoined:—A turquoise crackle bottle and a pair of vases, with elephant's head handles and ornaments in colours—£35; a fine large elatern, with flowers, foliage, and ornaments in colours, and another, with fish and plants in colours, 27in. and 24in. diameter—£50; a pair of globular incense-burners and covers, with flowers and ornaments on turquoise ground, on feet of chased metal, gilt and enamel—£75; a pair of circular table-tops, with birds and flowers in compartments, on turquoise ground, 27in. diameter, and another pair, with trees and flowers on similar ground, same size—£72; a pair of magnificent fluted incense-burners, with flowers and ornaments on turquoise ground, each with six large medallions of birds and flowers on coloured ground, the handles formed as magpies, the covers of chased and pierced metal gilt and enamel, on feet chased with masks—£205; a pair of very handsome bottles, with pomegranate trees and flowers on crimson ground, with gilt trellis, 31in. high—£100.

"THE TIMES" ON THE RECEPTION OF CHUNG HOW.—The Times this morning, in an article on the reception of Chung How, says:—"It could not have cost M. Thiers much to accept the apology ceremoniously tendered by the Chinese. The interview gave him a favourable opportunity of closing a question which it no longer concerned France to keep open. The interest of France in enforcing upon the Chinese the policy inculcated by M. Thiers is our interest also; indeed, had it been necessary, we must have allowed the duty of exacting amends to devolve upon ourselves alone. Fortunately, there is no occasion for these extremities. The Chinese Government has repudiated the acts of its representatives, excused itself for their misdeeds, and punished the most guilty of the rioters, and neither we nor the French should be likely to mend matters by pursuing the question any further."

TELEGRAPHIC COMMUNICATION WITH CHINA AND JAPAN.—THE GREAT NORTHERN LINE.

THE rival advantages of submarine and overland telegraphs between England and the Far East are about to be put to a very practical test—that of competition. The China Submarine Cable is, as our readers are aware, really submarine for the whole distance from Falmouth to Hong Kong. The new line, the Great Northern, which is now brought into operation is carried through Russia, Siberia, the Amoor, and so on to Wladiwostok, on the Pacific, a distance of some 6,000 miles by land. The advantages of a submarine cable over a land line are too apparent to need a lengthy notice. There is not the same liability to mistakes in transmitting messages from intermediate stations, not the delay required for such subsidiary messages, and not the same liability to disruption by winds or floods. In order to counteract the effect of this inequality, we understand that the Great Northern Company intend to convey messages at £4 6s., instead of £7, the present rate by the Submarine. This tariff will probably turn out to be a pretty fair estimate of the comparative value of the two lines. The Submarine has for weeks past brought daily messages from Hong Kong in from five to seven hours, which, allowing the difference of time between London and Hong Kong, practically amounts to a gain of time, as messages despatched from Hong Kong at 11 A.M. are received in London at 9.30. With the duplicate lines in working order, our friends need therefore feel no anxiety about the maintenance of telegraphic communication with the Far East. The accommodation already provided must be amply sufficient for their requirements, and it is not very likely to fill shareholders' pockets with extravagant dividends. We would therefore caution the public against a third scheme, which, we hear, is about to be proposed. It is a common remark that opposition, or rather competition, is good, because it protects the public by preventing monopoly. But this is a dictum which must be taken with several "grains of salt." According to our own observation it generally turns out that two rival schemes, after competing with each other furiously and ruinously for a short time, become persuaded of the policy of amalgamation, and then the public suffers from a monopoly twice as powerful as it was at first. Moreover, when a few enterprising men have laboured for years, and taken the risk of laying submarine cables to India and China without any Government aid, we think they are entitled to some consideration from the public, and there can be no doubt that our China messages are conveyed cheaper by lines that are practically in the hands of one management, such as the British Indian, the Extension, and China lines than by any other. There is one cable still required to connect Yokohama. At present the submarine lines of the Great Northern Company only extend from Wladiwostok to Nagasaki, Shanghai, and Hong Kong. The traffic to Yokohama would not warrant the laying of a special cable either from Hong Kong or Wladiwostok; it must therefore be laid between Nagasaki and Yokohama—a distance of about six hundred miles. We understand that a land line is to be laid by the Japanese Government connecting these places, also Osaka, Hiogo, and places in the Straits of Simonosaki, which will be completed next year, the wire and all necessary apparatus having been sent out from England.

THE RECEPTION OF CHUNG HOW.

So at last M. THIERS has, after many months of vacillation and delay, felt himself constrained to grant an audience to CHUNG HOW. We learn by a telegram which will be found in our "Latest" that the Chinese Ambassador yesterday waited on the President of the Republic, and presented an address couched in such unsatisfactory, evasive, and plausible terms that it excites our indignation to find it accepted and replied to as it was. It does not amount to an apology; it does not even amount to a retraction of the principles which led to the commission of an outrage unparalleled for atrocity since the Indian Mutiny. On the contrary, every phrase seems to have been carefully constructed to express the least possible acknowledgment of injury, the least possible sympathy with the sufferers, and the least possible instalment of promise of better things in future. Surely such smooth and unmeaning words were never poured into the ear of the head of an European nation which had been grievously wronged by an Oriental one. The EMPEROR of China does not "deplore" the massacre—he only "regrets" it; he does not "undertake" that similar crimes shall not be repeated—he only "promises;" he does not even pledge himself to maintain the "relations" between France and China—he only "hopes they will not be disturbed." We must, in charity, assume that M. THIERS felt that, in the present condition of France, it was out of his power to resent in fitting terms the insult inflicted on his country by this address, or he would never have returned an answer so feeble and evasive. Nevertheless we cannot conceal from ourselves the fact that, if the ex-EMPEROR had been on the Throne, a just fear of his iron will, and the bristling battalions that were ever prepared to back it, would have restrained CHUNG HOW from committing an act of audacity which France has been humiliated by permitting, and the Chinese Ambassador's confederates at home proportionably filled with exultation. We wish we could expect a better result from any interview to which CHUNG HOW may be admitted with Earl GRANVILLE; but the whole tenor of the conduct of the Foreign-office since the commission of the outrage forbids such a hope.

THE Postal authorities have not yet arrived at a decision as to the adoption of the route through France and the Mont Cenis Tunnel for the India and China Mails. It seems that the rivalry between the French representatives and those of the Brenner Pass for the carriage of our mails is intense. As intimated in a previous issue, it seems certain that in either case the transit of the mails will be so far expedited as to permit of the departures from China being put back two days, and still preserve the delivery in London on the Monday; the outward remaining as at present, viz., Friday, but from Southampton on Thursday, instead of Saturday. The Messageries Maritimes have not issued their time-table for 1872, being desirous of assimilating it to that of the P. & O. Company.

MR. CREAGH, the assistant-superintendent of police at Hong Kong, now on leave of absence, has engaged forty men belonging to the Edinburgh police force to serve in the like capacity at Hong Kong. The men selected by Mr. CREAGH have been engaged to serve for a term of five years, with the option of volunteering at its expiration for another five years. The salary is fixed at £108 per annum, and all who complete their ten years' service will become entitled to a pension. The whole of the men engaged will proceed to Hong Kong in the course of next month.

THE British Australian Telegraph Company have received a telegram announcing the successful completion of the Cable between Port Darwin and Banjoewangie in Java. Owing to the non-completion of the land lines connecting Port Darwin with the chief cities, such as Melbourne and Sydney, the line cannot be opened at present. This line when opened will very materially increase the traffic on the China and Indian lines, and of course very much improve the dividends of the shareholders.

A TELEGRAPHIC conference will shortly be held at Rome, for the purpose of revising the rules and regulations arrived at at the last conference at Vienna, special attention being given to the Indian service, and the restrictions imposed by the Indian Government. Colonel GLOVER, the managing director of the Indian and China Telegraph Companies' proceeds to represent the interests of his company.

THE CUSTOMS REPORTS FOR 1870.

WE have received the Reports on Trade at the Treaty Ports in China for the Year 1870, just published at the Customs Press, Shanghai. The ports whose returns are given are Newchwang, Chefoo, Hankow, Kiukiang, Chinkiang, Ningpo, Foochow, Takow (Formosa), Amoy, and Swatow. We regret to observe the omission of Shanghai, Canton, and Tientsin from this list of names. The two latter are interesting for very many reasons, but the first is so important that it is hard to account for the publication of any volume purporting to contain the "Reports of China trade" without it. The value of our trade with Shanghai is, as it is needless to remind our readers, greater and more important than the trade of all the other Treaty Ports put together; and it is therefore not only unsatisfactory, but inexplicable, that the present volume should have been published without furnishing any excuse for the non-appearance of the Shanghai Report, or offering any distinct promise of its publication. If our mercantile friends in China will allow their interests to be thus lost sight of, they have only themselves to blame when the arguments they might have based on facts and figures that should be before the public are disregarded simply because neither facts nor figures are forthcoming. This is an evil which lies at the very root of our interest in China, and we cannot publish the résumé which appears in another column without a strong remonstrance with the authorities for an apparently unreasonable delay and an appeal to the Shanghai Chamber to take the matter in hand, so as to prevent a repetition of it.

REPORTS ON TRADE AT THE TREATY PORTS IN CHINA FOR 1870.

NEWCHWANG.

Mr. T. G. Lasson, Acting Commissioner of Customs, reports that the total value of the trade compares unfavourably with that of the three preceding years. Although imports had been received in some quantity, opium alone showed an advance in price, and transactions in piece goods and metals proved generally the reverse of profitable. The exports were Tls. 2,230,998, against Tls. 2,240,439 in 1869; and the imports Tls. 2,926,380, against Tls. 3,579,810. The tonnage fell in the same time from 113,774 to 92,815, and the revenue also declined from Tls. 260,981 to Tls. 238,415. The importation of foreign manufactures is strictly prohibited by the Korean Government, but foreign goods, especially shirtings, drills, and T-cloths, are, nevertheless, introduced into Korea in a disguised form; and it is believed that the Koreans are alive to the advantages of trade, and that were the reflections affecting foreign manufactures removed they would probably become purchasers of those goods to a considerable extent.

CHEFOO.

Mr. H. E. Hobson, Acting Commissioner, reports the piece goods trade in all its branches extremely dull. T-Cloths were most in demand, the quantity brought forward being in excess of the import for 1869 by 304,630 pieces. Grey shirtings, on the other hand, were less inquired for, a decrease of 71,840 pieces having to be noted, as compared with the previous year, and of 157,782 pieces as compared with 1868. The import of opium was larger by 138 piculs than in any previous year. In metals a slight increase in pig lead is alone noticeable.

HANKOW.

Mr. Hobson, Assistant in Charge, reports that, though commercial operations were brought to a standstill on three distinct occasions, by a flood, by the rebellion, and by the general feeling of mistrust consequent on the Tientsin Massacre, the returns show that, so far as the consuming capabilities of the port are concerned, there is nothing to complain of. Foreign fabrics were imported to an extent exceeding that of last season by 461,059 pieces, that of 1868 by 790,252, that of 1867 by 1,359,309, and that of 1866 by 1,554,812. The importation of opium was greater than in both the preceding years; metal and sugar were also more largely dealt in than in previous years, and prices throughout were in favour of native dealers. Owing to the failure of the cotton crop, Kiangsoo and Chekiang cotton was brought forward in larger quantities than in any previous year, but in all other native products of importance there was a considerable falling off.

The export was below the average, a diminution in the revenue of the port to the extent of Tls. 65,967 being the result. Slight increase in the export of black tea, silk, white wax, fungus, and varnish are alone to be noticed. The tonnage entered and cleared during the year was 220,470, against 191,169 tons in 1869.

Among incidents of importance may be mentioned the opening of two new British firms, Messrs. Pugh and Co., and Messrs. Balfance and Co. The port by no means retained its character for healthiness, nearly all the foreign community having suffered from the sickness prevalent among the native population; indeed, considering all circumstances, it is matter of congratulation that no general epidemic broke out.

In exports, bean cake, the staple of the port, showed an increase of 12,818 piculs. Two features of the trade deserve especial notice, viz., the almost complete disappearance of cotton from the export market and increased transactions in raw silk.

The gross value of the trade for the year amounted to Tls. 7,028,378, and, after deducting re-exports, to Tls. 6,580,598, against Tls. 6,320,235 in the previous year. The revenue was in excess of that of the previous year by Tls. 18,526.

KIUKIANG.

Mr. Commissioner Drew reports that the trade was injuriously affected by the inundation of the Yangtze. The total value of the trade was Tls. 9,428,808, against Tls. 9,112,316, the average amount of the six years from 1864 to 1869. The import of cotton and woollen manufactures was slowly increasing. The export of black tea was 16,868,845 lbs., against 14,243,713 lbs. in the previous year. The exports of green tea was 5,801,791 lbs., against 8,546,533 in 1869. Opium remained at about the same average of the preceding three years. Cotton manufactures rose from Tls. 91,913 to Tls. 155,034, in consequence of the destruction of the local crop by the overflow of the river. A very small portion of the export trade is in foreign hands here, and its decline has been very rapid during the last few years. The sum total of duties collected was Tls. 463,072, against Tls. 497,218 in 1869, and Tls. 534,072 in 1868.

CHINKIANG.

Mr. Acting Commissioner Woodruff reports imports and exports having risen from Tls. 7,898,502 in 1869 to Tls. 9,270,627. It is the foreign trade alone that has caused this rapid growth. The import of opium increased from 5,569 piculs to 6,943 piculs. In cotton goods 900,380 pieces were imported, against 625,343 pieces in 1869; and 656,586 pieces were sent under pass, against 433,342 in the previous year. In woollens 64,165 pieces were imported, against 36,314 pieces in 1869. A large proportion of the tariff duties is collected at Shanghai, and the total amount collected at both places in 1870 was over Tls. 400,000.

NINGPO.

Mr. Commissioner White reports the total value of the trade inwards and outwards, exclusive of treasure, to have been in 1870 Tls. 15,118,358, being an increase of Tls. 1,124,428 over the previous year. Cotton piece goods show a small decrease, the trade being monopolised by native firms. Woollens show a considerable increase; metals, on the other hand, a falling off. In exports Green Tea, the principal item, reached 146,461.31 piculs, being only 189.51 piculs behind the shipments of 1869. Cotton has been largely cultivated, and the crop was abundant and excellent. Nevertheless the shipments show a decrease compared with 1869 of 12,772.61 piculs. The tonnage remained much as before, but showing a slight increase. The revenue amounted to Tls. 689,409, almost at a stand-still with that of 1869—Tls. 690,853.

The foreign community numbered 82—viz., British, 43; American, 11; German, 12; French, 8; Austrian, 2; Swedish, Danish, Greek, Polish, Dutch, and Mexican, one each.

FOOCHOW.

The Baron de Méritens, Commissioner of Customs, reports the continuing decrease in the import of opium, and the almost entire cessation of that of nankeens in Foreign bottoms. Foreign imports show a decrease from $5,261,763 to $4,299,312. General exports fell from $18,960,475 to $12,622,163. Foreign imports were $4,299,312, against $5,261,763. The cause of the deficit is in the losses sustained by the native merchants in the exports of tea, and the conviction that the Customs at this port have no means of supervision even within thirty miles of "Sharp Peak." Imports of opium again decreased this year in an alarming manner, showing a falling off of 536 chests as compared with 1869, and better prospects were not anticipated for 1871, owing to the temptation offered to smugglers, which the Baron proposes to remove by abolishing the present system. The duties collected fell from Tls. 1,776,303 in 1869 to Tls. 1,490,724. The shipping also showed a decrease of ninety-two vessels, in consequence of the Franco-German war.

TAKOW (FORMOSA.)

Mr. Cartwright, Assistant in Charge, reports an unprecedented activity in the export trade, the sugar yield having been followed by an export more than doubling the average of the previous three years. Japan took one-third of the sugar exported, and there was an increase of 100,000 piculs in shipments to the regular markets in the north of China, while 43,000 piculs were sent to Australia. The total value of the imports was estimated at $1,361,084, an increase of $100,000 over the previous year. The importation of opium slightly increased. Grey Shirtings rose from 17,800 pieces in 1869 to 26,750 pieces in 1870; and woollens 1,730 pieces to 2,310 pieces in Camlets only, while Lustres and Orans cloths showed 3,676 pieces, against 797 pieces the year before. There was an increase of Tls. 40,000 in the revenue, Tls. 38,000 of which were contributed by the export duties. The shipping rose from 125 to 185 vessels, a great proportion being German. The conservation of Takow harbour is a subject of paramount importance, as the sand bank in the middle is growing day by day, and the very limited space where the water is deep enough for foreign vessels to anchor is being narrowed in proportion.

AMOI.

Mr. Commissioner Hughes reports the total value of the import trade as $8,513,009, or $623,891 less than 1869. The export trade was $3,410,710, or $737,183 less than the previous year. The shipping entered during 1870, though showing an apparent decrease of seven vessels, gives an increase in burden of 14,578 tons, and the shipping cleared an increase of 19,771 tons. In 1870 there was a remarkable increase in the importation of cotton piece goods, woollen goods remaining much on a par with the previous year. The total quantity of opium imported was less by 62,278 piculs than in 1869, the explanation of which is to be found in the action of the lekin duties. Formosa is the granary of the Foh-kien province, and all the year round there is great activity in the exchange of commodities between its ports and Amoy. The value of foreign re-exports and native exports and re-exports to Formosa in 1870, as compared with 1869, increased more than one fifth. The total export of tea was 71,331.39 piculs, of which no less than 38,157.39 piculs went to the United States. The lekin taxation is oppressive, and requires revision as soon as possible.

SWATOW.

M. Huber, Assistant in Charge, reports a very satisfactory year, the trade, import and export, having risen from Tls. 8,392,911 to Tls. 9,425,641. The shipping entered in and out showed a corresponding increase. The import of cotton manufactures has been steadily increasing for years. T-Cloths doubled and Drills more than trebled themselves in 1870. Woollen Goods also exhibit an increase. Opium rose from 4,236 chests to 4,839 chests; but rice fell off Tls. 74,512 between 1870 and 1869—it has been steadily decreasing since 1867—a proof that the local crops have been sufficient for the population. The exports rose from Tls. 2,496,660 in 1869 to Tls. 2,729,062, the increase in sugar being due to the larger cultivation in the interior. The revenue realised Tls. 386,484, being an increase of Tls. 34,974.

Monetary and Commercial.

The Great Northern Telegraph Company have announced the opening of their line to Nagasaki, via Wladiwostok. The line between Nagasaki and Shanghai is for the present out of order, but the cable between Hong Kong and Shanghai is in order. The charge for messages of twenty words is to be £4 6s.

At the meeting of the China Submarine Telegraph Company the report, noticed in our last, was duly carried, and the dividend at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum will be paid. The proceedings at the meeting will be found in another column.

At the meeting of the British Indian Submarine Telegraph Company (Limited) a dividend of 6s. per share was declared for the half-year, and the directors' report was adopted.

At the meeting of the Falmouth, Gibraltar, and Malta Telegraph Company (Limited), held on the 23rd, the directors' report was adopted, and a dividend declared for the half-year at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum.

Mr. Gingham, the London agent for Messrs. Tupper and Co., is now constructing for the Russian Government a number of iron godowns for Wladiwostok, which is now made familiar as the landing place of the Great Northern Company's cable.

M. Victor Borie succeeds M. Pinard as Chairman of the Board of Directors to the Comptoir d'Escompte de Paris. The new director was lately secretary-general of the same establishment, and is well known in France as a writer on commercial and agricultural subjects.

In our shipping casualties it will be seen that the China trader Yangtze, Captain Smith, of 700 tons, is reported lost on the Paracels, bound from Foochow to New York with a cargo of teas. She left Foochow Sept. 29. The Yangtze was owned by Messrs. Lewin and Co., and the brokers Messrs. Killick, Martin, and Co.

The P. and O. Co.'s extra steamer Pekin left on the 23rd with a general cargo for Singapore, Hong Kong, and Shanghai, via Suez Canal. She takes no bullion. She is intended for the service of the main India and China line.

The steamer Menelaus, one of Holt's line, has arrived from Shanghai, with a cargo of tea and 600 bales of silk. At Singapore she took on board about 600 pilgrims for Jeddah, in the Red Sea. This is another instance where shipowners make the full use, or rather abuse, of the clause in the bill of lading permitting the vessel to call at any port, either in or out of the regular route; but we regret that a steamer of Holt's line should transgress, as the line on the whole is a model of successful management. It is not likely that passengers or shippers will submit to a repetition of such treatment, and it is difficult to see how the cargo could have been protected against this risk, which was not entered on by the underwriters when the steamer left Shanghai. It appears that this vessel did get on shore on a coral reef near Jeddah, and on arrival at Suez was placed in quarantine in consequence of having carried these pilgrims, many of whom died on board. Besides the risk of navigation, there was the chance of fire, or of the pilgrims taking the ship, pilgrims being a fanatical people. The case of the Oberon, which called at St. Paul's to the rescue of the crew of the Megara, can be excused on the ground of succour to a shipwrecked crew.

The market for bar silver is not now so firm, as purchases for the East have, for the present, to some extent been completed. The price is, however, only fractionally lower, and may be quoted as 60½d. to 60¾d. per oz. standard. The sum of £175,000, Sycee has been received from China. Mexican Dollars, owing to a scarcity, are very firm, and some parcels are held for an advance on the rates last quoted, viz., 4s. 11½d. for the new, and 5s. 1d. for the old coinage.

CHINA SUBMARINE TELEGRAPH (LIMITED).

The general meeting of this company was held on 22nd Nov., at the City Terminus Hotel; Mr. J. Pender in the chair.

The report stated that the share capital issued to the public had been called up and fully paid. The company's cable was successfully laid to Hong Kong, and opened for traffic on the 8th of June last. Subsequently the French Government applied to the company to form an office at Saigon; the terms proposed by the directors of entire freedom of action being agreed to, the connection was made on the 31st of July last. The cable between Hong Kong and Shanghai was laid by the Great Northern China and Japan Extension Company on the 18th of April last, under the terms of the agreement entered into with this company. From the opening of the line in June last the gross receipts of the company up to the 4th of November amounted to £20,895, and the estimated expenses to £6,550. The directors therefore anticipated that they would be able on the 1st of January next to declare an interim dividend of 6 per cent. per annum free of income-tax for the half-year terminating on that date. The total capital expenditure was £529,641 to the 30th of September last.

The Chairman, in moving the adoption of the report, said that they considered the agreement with the Great Northern China Company was working very satisfactorily. The company's engineer reported the cable was as good as when the Construction Company laid it. The standard of insulation had not been affected to any extent by the temperature of the water. The opening of the line to Saigon was a good arrangement; they were working to Saigon without any restriction, and if the traffic in the first twelve months should not be quite so much as they expected, there was evidence at present of considerable traffic. They had been working only five months, and the average for the year would be £85,000, and the expenses about £18,000, which would leave a net traffic at the rate of £47,000 a-year. The traffic to Saigon was only for three months, and the early completion of the line to Australia would give them a further increase of traffic.

Colonel Glover, R.E., seconded the resolution for the adoption of the report.

Mr. Ford said that the results had been so far in accordance with the prospectus, and he therefore thought it probable that at the end of twelve months' working there would be enough to pay 8 per cent., and to leave a reserve of £8,000. He also passed some very favourable comments on the board of directors, and believed that they had taken too low an estimate of the company's earnings.

Mr. Maitland also stated that he considered the traffic between Saigon and China to be capable of great development, as the trade consisted chiefly in rice, which required, like all grain trades, very close and speedy information as to its working.

The report being passed, a vote of thanks to the directors was carried in a most cordial manner.

TEA.

The market is somewhat less active, owing to the continuance of heavy arrivals, but prices are fairly steady, and importers are still obtaining the benefit of the advanced rates ruling for some time past. At public sale on the 21st inst. the catalogue comprised 9,231 packages China, of which 8,709 packages were offered without reserve, and sold. About 4,500 packages Congou were offered, and several chops of old seasons' low common black-leaf sold at easier rates, at 8½d. to 9½d. A chop of new Souchong sold steadily at 1s. 6½d. to 1s. 6½d. There have also been sold at auction 1,119 chests and half-chests new red leaf Congou, per Lahloo, at a slight decline from recent private sales, viz., fair to medium at 1s. 1½d. to 1s. 4½d. per lb.

SILK.

There is no alteration to report in the market.

COFFEE.

Contrary to expectation, the Dutch sale has gone off flatly, and not only below the recent private sales, but under the valuations, which has caused a quieter tone in this market, especially for Native and ordinary Ceylon, which have sold by auction on rather lower terms, prices for colony Plantation being about maintained at the last quoted range. The latest rates paid have been:—Plantation, triage and ordinary, 60s. to 66s.; small grey to coloury, 66s. to 69s.; low middling grey, including Demerara sort, 70s. to 71s. 6d.; bold ditto, 72s. to 74s. 6d.; low middling to middling, 72s. 6d. to 75s.; bold, 78s.; pea-berry, 83s. to 85s. Native, fine bold Ouvah, 70s., ordinary, 64s. Previous to the receipt of the report of the Dutch sale, a good demand prevailed privately for Plantation, and business of some extent, including second-hand parcels, was effected at higher prices, middling kinds, 74s. to 78s. For arrival 67s. 6d. was refused for native, but since 40 tons good ordinary have been sold at 67s. 3d. In other East India we note the sale of 406 bags palish Bonthyne Singapore at 68s. 6d. to 69s., 72 bags brown Manila at 64s. 6d., 3,365 bags good ordinary pale Manila (Indian sort), per Belted Will, at 65s. 6d. to 66s. 6d., and 229 bags pale Java from Cape Town at 69s. 6d. to 70s., including damaged.

The periodical sale of the Dutch Trading Company, comprising 83,700 bags Java, &c., referred to above, was held on the 22nd inst., at Amsterdam. The sale commenced steadily, but soon afterwards became flat, prices being mostly under the valuations; pale kinds sold very irregularly, and better qualities 1c. to 1½c. below the valuations; good ordinary sold at 41½c. to 42c., against 41c. at the previous auction.

SUGAR.

The strong demand of last week has again been apparent, and prices of refining sorts show a further advance of about 3d. per cwt., but the extreme rates required for common brown have prevented sales of those descriptions. Speculative inquiries for Manila have prevailed, but owing to the firmness of holders no sales have occurred. The following are the particulars of the business done during the week.

Manila.—At auction 3,000 bags unclayed Taal have been sold at 23s. 6d., 3,000 bags low brown at 24s., 7,000 bags low clayed (duty 4s.) at 25s. to 25s. 6d., 2,500 bags old clayed (duty 4s.) at 27s., 10,700 bags good ditto at 27s. 6d.; 4,982 bags common old Taal unclayed were bought in at 23s. Privately 7,000 bags fine unclayed have been sold at 25s., 3,000 bags Taal at 24s., 2,000 bags Zebu at 24s. 6d., 2,500 bags superior Ilo Ilo at 27s., and 1,500 bags clayed at 27s. to 27s. 6d. A cargo now landing 14,000 bags Ilo Ilo has been sold at 24s. 6d.

Penang.—In auction 140 baskets date description were offered and bought in at 25s. to 26s.; privately 750 bags coloury have been sold at 33s. 6d. to 35s. 6d.

COIR GOODS.—The demand for Yarn continues good, but the small supply in auction has contained several second-hand parcels and only one-half sold at full rates to a slight advance. 94 bales Ceylon Yarn were bought in at £44 to £50; of 75 tons do. in dholls and ballots 45 tons sold, common £28 to £28 10s., good common to middling £30 to £33 15s., good middling, £35, 967 ballots (3 tons) Ceylon Fibre sold at £30 15s., and 84 coils (5½ tons) Ceylon Rope, 4 to 3 inch at £18 15s. to £19 5s., one lot 2½ inch at £21 per ton.

CHINA MATTING.—45 rolls 4/4 white sold, commencing at 11s. 6d. and rising to 17s. per roll.

COCOA-NUT OIL without change; at auction sales of 30 tons Ceylon, in pipes have been effected at £38 10s., and privately 20 tons have been quitted at the same figure.

GAMBIER.—In auction Cubes have sold at 23s., pressed cubes at 19s. 6d. to 20s., two lots 20s. 6d., sea damaged 1st class at 18s.

HEMP.—The demand for Manila continues moderate, and at auction of 1,465 bales offered only 450 bales sold at irregular and barely previous rates, mixed qualities at £42 to £43 5s., good fair roping, £48 5s. to £48 10s., the remainder being bought in at £41 to £46 10s., good fair, £48 to £49.

PEPPER.—Black is quiet, and at auction meets with few biddings except at a further decline; Trang has sold at 6½d.; Singapore low to fair, at 6½d. to 6½d.; Batavia bought in at 6d. to 6½d. White is also in less demand, and sales can only be made on lower terms; Singapore has been bought in at the previous value, viz., 1s. 3d.

RICE.—Market steady with a fair business done during the week at former rates. On the spot fine white Bengal has sold at 12s. 6d. to 13s., Ballam at 9s. 3d. ex quay; white Bengal, ordinary to fine at 10s. 7½d. to 13s., Madras at 10s. 4½d. to 10s. 7½d. In auction, of 5,254 bags sea damaged Necrasie offered, 3,300 bags sold, first class at 9s. 9d. to 10s., second 9s. 6d. to 9s. 9d.; 4,156 bags Arracan were bought in at 10s. 6d., except 650 bags sea damaged which sold, first class 10s., second 9s. 9d. The cargo of 350 tons Necrasie per Springfield, arrived in dock, has been sold at 10s. 3d. ex quay; the floating cargo per Southern Cross, 825 tons Rangoon, at 10s. 10½d.; and the arrived cargo per Lutterworth, 1,180 tons Rangoon, at 10s. 7½d. ex quay London.

TIN.—Although there is not quite so much activity in the market for Straits as was evinced last week, there is still a considerable demand, both from the trade and from speculative buyers, and Straits has advanced to £147 on the spot, £145 afloat; Banca and Billiton are quoted £145 per ton.

CAUTION.

THE GROSS FRAUDS which continue to be practised by obscure manufacturers, more particularly in Germany, by imitating the labels attached to JOHN GOSNELL and Co.'s PERFUMERY, render it imperative upon the Proprietors to Caution the public against such nefarious proceedings, and to request their friends and patrons to purchase only of respectable dealers, who import direct from JOHN GOSNELL and Co., and invite special attention to the address, ANGEL-PASSAGE, 93, UPPER THAMES-STREET, late of 12, Three King-court, Lombard-street, London, E.C.

AND PILLS.—SORE THROAT.—There is in our variable climate no complaint more common than this; few more annoying, or more troublesome to cure when neglected. The moment there is any hoarseness or dry cough, the part affected, after fomentation with salt water, should be briskly rubbed with a piece of new flannel to open the pores, for absorbing the Ointment to be instantly applied. Repeat the process twice a day. The most obstinate sore throat or cough will disappear before this treatment. It would always be as well, while treating the disease externally with the Ointment, to take a course of the Pills, which would give tone to the system, and expedite and confirm the cure.

YOKOHAMA.

LATER ADVICES, VIA SAN FRANCISCO.

The Pacific Mail Company's steamer Japan arrived at San Francisco on the 15th ult., with advices from Yokohama to the 23rd Oct. The steamer brought the following passengers for New York:—Mrs. Bonney and child, Miss A. Collary, E. L. Jones, Nicol McNicol, and H. K. Ferry. The following are for Europe:—Hippolite Minard, R. Eusden and wife, J. O. Bavier, and ten Japanese students. The freight list of the Japan included 12,507 packages of teas, 533 of silks, and 55 packages of other merchandise for New York; 2,103 packages of teas and 1,200 of merchandise for Boston; 458 packages of teas and 1,900 of merchandise for Philadelphia; 2,582 packages of teas for Chicago; and 200 packages of teas, silks, &c, for New Orleans, Hartford, Cincinnati, Pittsburg, Mexico and Europe.

The following is the summary of the advices by the Japan, as telegraphed to the New York papers:—The Mikado of Japan is throwing off his exclusiveness, and is appearing freely in public. Minister De Long is travelling extensively through Japan, and is visiting the volcanoes and all points of interest.

The new Governor of Yokohama entertained the foreign Consuls at dinner, and made a progressive speech. The steamship Alaska will sail from Yokohama about the 2nd of November, with a full cargo of teas already engaged.

CHINA.

TIENTSIN.

We learn from the North China Herald that the foreign community held a meeting on the 7th Oct., to take steps to request the Ministers at Peking to lose no time in placing a sufficiently strong naval force at the port during the coming winter, to protect foreign life and property. The following resolution was passed:—

"Whereas, owing to the apprehensions which are entertained by us—the foreign residents of this port—that during the coming winter numerous and large bands of the male population of this region may be urged by want of food for themselves and for their families, arising from an inundation of an extensive tract of this province having destroyed the present year's crops of millet and other grain, to rob and plunder people of property—foreigners as well as Chinese; and that gangs of lawless people may also be tempted by the disturbed state of the country to avail themselves of the opportunity of the dark and long nights of winter to commit acts of brigandage on the residents of the foreign settlement, thereby endangering the lives of their families and of themselves, and the destruction of their properties; it is therefore resolved, that we should beg the ministers of our nationalities at Peking to take measures to provide this port with an ample naval force during the coming winter; and we now, therefore, hereby in this public manner, request the ministers of our nationalities at Peking to be pleased to write to the admirals on the China and Japan stations to place, for each national force, as early as possible, at least one gun vessel at this port during the approaching winter, for the object mentioned above; and we hereby also authorise the Municipal Council of this settlement to address the ministers in question in order to hand them a copy of our resolution passed at this public meeting, and to furnish them with such other information as can be gathered, with reference to the deplorable condition of the surrounding country."

From computations made here, we set down the starving population at over two millions, which calculation allows about two hundred human beings to a square mile. We fear that thousands must die monthly, during the coming winter, of sheer starvation and exposure to the inclement weather, owing to their lacking food and shelter. In our opinion, the proper course would be for the authorities to engage every available steamer in China to transport grain from the South to this port as rapidly as possible, ere the ice closes it. We cannot learn, however, that they have chartered a single steamer, or even a foreign sailing vessel, for any such purpose. We hear of some junks having gone to Liangtung, to bring maize here, but their freight will be like a drop in the ocean. One of the Southern Chinese gunboats arrived here the other day from Newchwang, and brought 1,700 piculs of grain. This action towards feeding the population would be a complete farce if it had been done by the Government; but I suppose it was a present from some Shanghai or Ningpo wealthy Chinese, probably connected with the steamer, to obtain buttons and be charitable at the same time. A north wind is blowing to-day, but the waters have not as yet fallen. The Mula has been blown ashore at Taku jetty, and will have to be dug out.

SHANGHAI.

Dates extend to the 19th Oct. The French mail, with London dates of Sept. 1, arrived on the 17th Oct.

The following is from the North China Herald :—

A meeting of Treaty Consuls was held on the 16th Oct., at which several important questions were discussed. The depth of water on the Woosung Bar proves to be the same now as shown on the Admiralty chart nine years ago. The harbour-master surmises that there may be a difference between the depth in winter and summer. In regard to the Transit Pass question, the information is to the same effect that we have already published. The question of drawbacks was also mentioned, and a solution suggested. The result of the soundings of the North Channel was communicated, and a vote of thanks passed to the officers who had effected the survey. The question of voting by proxy at the ratepayers' meeting was again brought up, but adjourned. Reference was also made to the excessive number of lotteries now going on in Shanghai.

At last the courses of the piers for the new bridge over the Hongkew Creek begin to appear above high water mark. Thus far the work has necessarily been very slow from the interruption caused by the tides, which have been so high lately as almost to stop it, and the difficulty also of securing a sound foundation. This has been done by forming a strong base of piles, iron and concrete work, on which are raised the granite abutments. The lowness of the ground—nearly level with high water—renders it necessary, for the accommodation of the sampan traffic, to build the abutments somewhat high, and the approaches will of course have to be correspondingly inclined. The space of seven feet will be left at high water from the crown of the arch. The placing of the girders will, it is expected, be begun in about a fortnight.

The North-China Branch of the Asiatic Society held its first meeting for the season on Friday evening. T. W. Kingsmill, Esq., who occupied the chair, gave an account of the society's building, which it is expected will be completed in time either for the ensuing or next following meeting. An arrangement has been all but completed with the Shanghai Library for an addition to the edifice, which will prove advantageous to both institutions. Mr. A. J. Little read Mr. Consul Mayers' paper on the Island of Hainan, and Mr. Little, as corresponding secretary, read a communication from a corresponding society at St. Petersburg, which Mr. Redding had translated. Dr. Macgowan handed in contributions to the library from Mr. Consul Swinhoe, of Ningpo, from Skattschhoff, Russian Consul at Tientsin, and from Mr. Korthals, Netherlands Consul at Kolé.

A man named Joseph Rickman, an Austrian, has just been apprehended on a charge of forgery. Rickman was a ship's steward, but deserted from the Willy Rickmers on her last visit to Shanghai, and took up his quarters at Au Chalet, representing to the prosecutrix that he was worth a considerable sum, on deposit with the Comptoir d'Escompte. He gave a cheque on the above-named bank, and he next, it is alleged, forged the name of Messrs. Olyphant and Co. to a cheque for £1s. 250, with which he tried to raise money, both at some private offices and at the bank. The cheque was, however, post dated some days, which excited suspicion, and led to his apprehension. He is now awaiting trial.

A Chefoo correspondent writes :—Communication with this port has been latterly very irregular, days without a steamer, then two or three within a few hours. The navigation from outside Taku bar, to and from Tientsin, is now a very difficult and anxious course. The announcement of the sudden death of Mr. Markham caused universal regret, and the testimony to his popularity in Shanghai found an echo in general expression here. All Consular and Customs flags were put half-mast. The weather is beautiful. All southern visitors are gone, and Chefoo is settling down for winter weather. Rumour says a spirited storekeeper has taken Mr. Fuller's house on the beach; so in addition to the Hotel Pignatelli and the New Hotel, there will be a third, situated between the two. Possibly the enterprising spirit now dawning may lead to a pier on the shore of the eastern bay, which would be a great boon. In respect of the foreign passenger traffic to and from this place, could not the two lines of steamers issue their tickets available by either line? In the long run neither company would gain nor lose, but the public would be greatly convenience, and the uncertainty of communication being done away with, traffic would increase in proportion.

HONG KONG.

Dates extend to the 25th Oct.; no later dates had arrived from London.

We are glad to note that the P. and O. mail steamer Australia, which leaves this port on Nov. 15, goes on to Suez.

A visit was paid to the Whampoa Docks on Saturday by the Canton Viceroy and Hoppo. They went down in the Hoppo's steam cruiser Peng Chao Hai, and spent several hours in seeing the workshops, machinery, &c. What this visit means is not known, but as Chinese high officials are not given to inspecting docks without a purpose, it is supposed that this indicates a contemplated purchase, and we may yet see the long-talked-of arsenal fairly established.

We are glad to announce that the City Hall Museum is daily improving, many new contributions having lately been received. Messrs. Landstein and Co. have presented specimens of fifteen different sorts of Straits wood; Dr. Dods has given the lower jaw-bones of the spermaceti whale and some Australia manna; Mr. J. M. Armstrong has given several snakes and marine animals, and other contributions are promised. In addition to the foregoing, Mr. J. Kramer, of Canton, has presented, through Mr. Mencke, of Messrs. Pustau and Co.'s, a splendid collection of silk and cocoons. The museum is fast filling, and will, before many months, be worthy of the colony.

Concerning the little tug Early Bird we learn the following particulars :—The Bird is 60 feet long, 12 feet broad, and 6 feet deep; her engines are nominally 15-horse power, by Messrs. Hall, Russell, and Co. (the builders of Messrs. Douglas Lapraik's steamers), imported by Messrs. MacEwen and Co., and fitted up here. She has a single inverted cylinder of 8 inches in diameter, with a length of stroke of 8 inches. Her boiler is circular, with one flue and multitubular return, 5 feet long outside and 4 feet diameter—which ought to relieve the minds of all excursionists. Her propeller is four-bladed, with a pitch of 4 feet 6 inches, and a diameter of 3 feet 6 inches. The Bird goes very smoothly with 50 or 60, or even 70 lbs. of steam, and she can accommodate comfortably from 20 to 30 persons on deck. Her speed is about eight knots, and she has bunk room for say half-a-dozen below, in the cabin, and is, therefore, well fitted for excursions or pic-nics.

The news by the steamer Yesso is nearly all of the most discouraging nature, as it speaks almost entirely of disasters at sea. The British steamer Eastern Isles (which we understand had a very rough passage up from this port, and went into Amoy on account of her rough treatment or of a slight fire which is reported to have occurred on deck) struck on a sunken rock in Haitan Straits, and returned to Amoy. She was bound to Ningpo and Shanghai, and had a few European passengers on board; and as she has to discharge her cargo and go into dock it is presumed that she is considerably damaged. In addition to the other casualties spoken of in the official report of the Yesso, we hear that the Rantipole is on shore on the Pescadores; and last, but worst of all, intelligence has been received to the effect that the British barque Homer has foundered off the Pescadores, and we regret to learn that, out of a company of twenty-eight lives, only one man was saved.

We are glad to observe that something is at last being done by the Hydrographic or Survey Department of H.I.M. Customs in the way of lighting the coast near Amoy. It was very much needed, and we trust that this action will be followed by the removal or marking of other dangers. Suppose Mr. Bisbee were to examine the many rocky promontories in Amoy harbour itself and have some of them blown up.

We learn from a correspondent in Canton that the shipment of tea and silk continues to go on, notwithstanding most terrifying accounts from the home markets of losses on the former article. The export of silk is increasing, and bids fair to lead to, or at least assist in, a revival of the former glories of Canton trade, when Hankow, Foochow, and Shanghai were as though they were not.

It would appear that the M.M. steamer Meikong can travel. The North China Daily News says :—“We learn that the M.M. steamer Meikong, which left here on the 5th, reached Hong Kong in fifty-seven hours' steaming, and that during the passage she attained a speed of 280 miles in twenty-four hours, or very nearly sixteen miles an hour.” Of course, she had something very like a typhoon behind her all the way.

The Hon. Mrs. Yelverton was to give readings on the 26th Oct. at the City Hall.

We notice that in the official minutes of the meeting of the Legislative Council, on the 22nd September, notwithstanding the suggestion of the Chief Justice, that the paragraph giving Mr. Smith's answer should, after stating Mr. Ryrie's question, run “the charge which he stated was implied,” it runs that Mr. Smith replied “with vehemence, assuring his Excellency and Members of Council that no grounds exist for imputing either to himself or to any officer in his department, the charge implied by the honourable member.” This is to be regretted; but it goes chiefly against Mr. Smith, as it puts on record not that Mr. Ryrie made a charge, but that Mr. Smith chose so to designate a very simple question.

The marriage of Mr. A. McG. Heaton, of the firm of Douglas, Lapraik, and Co., which took place at St. John's Cathedral, attracted a very large number to witness the ceremony, and was generally the subject of much interest in the colony, on account of Mr. Heaton's well-merited popularity. The steamers in port belonging to the house were gaily decked during the day, and in the evening sent forth a brilliant display of blue lights and rockets, while cheers resounded in all directions.

When the steamer Vesso left Amoy, H.M.S. Ocean, with Admiral Kellett on board, was at that port, and was to leave for Hong Kong on the 22nd.

Some time ago it was reported that Mr. P. Giquel, director of the Foochow Arsenal, had resigned. This would appear to have been a mistake, as we observe Mr. Giquel's signature to an advertisement inviting tenders for coals.

COCHIN CHINA.

—o—
SAIGON.

Dates extend to the 30th Oct. The outward mail, with London dates to 15th Sept., arrived on the 19th Oct.

The following items are from the Courrier —

The Government has decreed the establishment of montes de pieté (pawnbroking offices) throughout French Cochinchina. The rate of interest is fixed at four per cent. per month.

The present year has been characterised by general tranquillity and increasing confidence and friendship on the part of the Annamese. Much of this good result has no doubt been caused by the schools which the Government have founded for the education of the natives.

The rice crops are generally full, and in some districts abundant.

The cattle plague, which has been very prevalent during the last three months, is rapidly decreasing, but its ravages have been severe; in Bienhoa, the district which has suffered most, no less than 1,540 buffaloes have died from it.

The business hitherto carried on at Saigon under the style of Hauschild and Sornsen has been amalgamated with that of Messrs. W. G. Hale and Co. The firm now consists of Messrs. W. G. Hale, J. G. Caswell, L. Hauschild, and F. Sornsen.

SAIGON, Oct. 30, 1871.

H.M.S. Teazer arrived here from Labuan on the 8th inst., having on board Mr. and Mrs. Pope Hennessy, who availed of the opportunity to visit this rising colony en route to Europe, for which they left by the Messageries steamer Meikong on the 16th inst.

On the 15th inst. the master and eleven of the crew of the celebrated clipper ship Taeping arrived here in a native junk, their vessel, with a cargo of tea from Amoy for New York, having been lost on Ladd's reef on Sept. 22. The master's boat safely reached Nahtrang, on the Cochinchina coast, thirteen days after leaving the wreck, and were there well located by the natives and forwarded on to this by the junk; but of two other boats, containing the officers and remainder of the crew, nothing whatever has been heard, although the Teazer (which happened to meet the junk containing the master on her way down the river en route for Bangkok) at once proceeded in search. She returned to this on the 26th inst., having also visited the wreck, but was unable to save anything, the vessel being so badly bilged, and all the cargo washed away. I hear that no naval court is to be held here, but that the master will be tried at home; doubtless H.M. Consul has done all necessary. It is generally supposed that the missing boats have been picked up by some passing vessel.

With the exception of the above items of news, there has been little stirring here likely to interest your readers.

In order to relieve the mother country as much as possible of the expenses attached to the maintenance of this colony, our energetic Governor (Admiral Dupré) is adopting all reasonable means possible to increase the revenue, and quite recently a native spirit farm has been introduced, which (by public competition) realised £971,000 per annum, for a term of three years. Considering that this tax does not include spirits of foreign manufacture the sum obtained is very large, and should give you "gentlemen of England" a slight idea of the extent of the French possessions in Cochinchina. It is also rumoured that import and export duties are to be levied, and (now that the place has obtained its position as the most important rice port in these parts) this could be well done, but the French Government, with a greater regard for trade than it gets credit for, considers this a desperate measure, not to be resorted to, if it can possibly be avoided.

In rice a very extensive business has been done with China, at high prices, and there is every prospect of another lively season with that quarter, which will again prevent anything being done with Europe.

SIAM.

—o—
BANGKOK.

Dates extend to the 23rd Oct.

The following items are from the Advertiser :—

During the past week his Majesty the first King of Siam has visited a number of the prominent temples that are under the special patronage of the Government.

We hear that ~~orders~~ had been given that the Siamese screw steam brig of war Enemy Chaser, Captain Waldron, leave this port for Java on the 17th of Oct. The ambassador for the occasion is his Excellency Phya Smud Puranurax, the Governor of Paknam. The brass elephant for the great esplanade at Batavia, and the decorations for the prominent officials of Java who participated in the reception of his Siamese Majesty during the recent visit to that island are in the care of the Ambassador.

The inundations and accumulated waters in regions beyond Bangkok are subsiding, and after the new and full moon of October the inundations of the banks of the river in Bangkok will subside. During the remainder of this month we shall probably have a few more gusts of variable winds, and a variable amount of rainfall. We need not apprehend such an amount of rainfall as to affect unfavourably the present prospects of the incoming rice crop. The rice fields of Ayuthia, P'anatsani-k'om, Bangp'lee, and in the vicinity of Bangkok, are spoken of as being in most promising condition. The slight failures of the earlier crops at Nokburi and a few other localities will not very greatly affect the aggregate of the incoming crop, unless unusual casualties occur before the close of this month. From this time till into next December it will be a difficult task, if not next to impossible, for sailing vessels to work their way up to Bangkok without steam tugs.

There is a rumour that there are grave disturbances in the province of Tak, and his Highness the P'usamret Rajakan Pendin, his Excellency the Pra Kalahome, and H.E. the Pra Naiwai have consequently proceeded there.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

—o—
SINGAPORE.

The following items are from the Straits Times :—

After lasting barely three days, the rioting reported in our last was almost entirely suppressed. On the 27th Oct. our contemporary wrote :—"The night has passed off in perfect quiet, and this morning the streets are full of life and animation, and business is everywhere resumed. There is no indication of any desire to renew the disturbances. Both factions seem to be heartily tired of fighting, and are glad to resume their usual avocations. It is now plain that the outbreak has been brewing for some time; and the great increase of gang robberies and crimes of violence that has been so marked during the past few months has been directly attributable to the feud between these two clans. The robbery of a house in Orchard-road, where a gang of armed Teo Chews entered a Hokien's house and took from him $800, with which he was about to leave for China; the robbery at Bukit Timah, the attack made in South Bridge-road and Tanjong Pagar-road on men on their way to the steamer to return to their country; the fight between the Teo Chew and Hokien boat-coolies in the Singapore river some three months ago, in which one man was killed; have all been slowly and surely tending to the general outburst which has put a check upon all business from Saturday night until yesterday.

The successful efforts to provide the country people with food have aided very materially to restore order; after obtaining a supply of rice and other necessities, we are told they appeared perfectly happy and contented and went to work again. The strong guard established and maintained by the Government in town effectually prevented any serious riot during the last three days; and as the object of the contending parties appeared to be plunder rather than open fighting, and this was rendered impossible in town, where the great bulk of the property was, there was a limited field of operation for the outside fighting men. A few rice shops were sacked, and pigs were stolen, but the amount thus obtained did not afford sustenance to the hundreds of mouths that had to be fed. Hunger did in a day what fighting, however fierce, would not have effected in a week—made them anxious for a cessation of hostilities. Another plan adopted by the authorities has helped to restore good feeling between the hostile factions. Respectable and well known Teo Chew and Hokien Chinese were paired off and sent to the disturbed parts of the town and to the country villages, to endeavour to effect a reconciliation; they conferred with the various leading men in the districts with very good result, and it is to be hoped their efforts will have a lasting effect.

We regret that it should have been deemed necessary by the Government to close the Stamp Office during the past few days, without even giving notice to that effect, owing to the fact that the Commissioner of Stamps, as also the Assistant Treasurer, and the subordinates in both departments, have been availed of to serve as justices of the peace and special constables to assist in quelling the riots. But the closing of the Stamp Office seriously affects the mercantile business of the port—no document, not even a bill of lading, being legal without it.

We think what is wanted in the colony is a law enabling the commissioner of police, on occasions of more than ordinary difficulty, independently to augment the force under his control, without having to wait the action of the Governor and Executive Council; by this means frequently a riot might be nipped in the bud, while the Preservation of the Peace ordinance is not called into operation until the disturbance has wholly outgrown the power of the police.

We have more than once taken exception to the appointment of coroner being given to the officers of police and the police magistrate. We are glad to observe that this rule, which has been pertinaciously adhered to for a long time, has been broken through. Some months since, J. D. Vaughan, Esq., barrister-at-law, was appointed deputy-coroner, and last week was appointed a full coroner of the Straits Settlements.

It is notified in the Government Gazette that the Police Force ordinance shall come into operation in the Straits Settlements on the 1st day of November.

We understand the Rev. W. B. Keer, who has for the past few months been labouring among the seamen, intends returning to England shortly via Bombay and the Persian Gulf.

Commercial Report.

IMPORTS.

SHANGHAI.—The market for Grey Cotton goods had become more active, and the prices obtained for several articles showed an improvement, while the prospects for all classes were decidedly more cheerful than they have been for some time past. Woollens, on the other hand, were in less demand, but they had fairly maintained their position, and the firmness of holders precluded the idea of lower values. Grey Shirtings: Enquiry for 7 lbs., and there were few sellers under Tls. 1.73 for fair quality. For 8½ lbs. a better feeling prevailed, and goods that were sold at Tls. 1.88 last mail were worth Tls. 1.90. Former speculators were offering "Lie," Eagle chops at the latter figure for cash. Nothing doing in heavy Shirtings. White Shirtings: slightly higher in favour and value. T-Cloths: Common 6 lb. and 7 lb. weights still in good demand at Tls. 1.25 and 1.45 respectively for Dewhursts T quality. Mexican descriptions slow of sale at last mail's rates. Drills showed a marked improvement. Sales of fine English are reported at Tls. 3.1.9, and other qualities at proportionate rates. Best Dutch held for Tls. 3.20 and over. Value of American unchanged. Jeans also improved, but to a less extent; fine to finest English 8 lb. and 8½ lb., Tls. 2.34 to 2.37. Sheetings: Decline of 5c. per piece, and a dull market. Fancy Cottons: Damaks wanted, but light stocks and higher rates had checked business; there was no noticeable change in the position of other kinds of Fancy Cotton Goods. Woollens.—Camlets: Settlements at Tls. 14.50 to 14.75; best quality and assortments held for Tls. 15. C. P. H. Long Ellis Scarlet quieter, but quoted Tls. 6.15; assortments slow of sale at last quotations. Figured Orleans of Tientsin—or small—designs saleable at Tls. 3.95 to 4.10, according to quality and assortment. Lastings inquired for at former prices. Crape Lastings found no buyers at a reduction of 2 to 3 mace on former rates, but Crape Lustres in speculative request at hardening prices. Spanish Stripes showed a slight improvement in value, and were in fair request. Metals.—Nail Rod Iron: The week's business had been by no means extensive, settlements not having been larger than 6,800 bundles; prices, however, had advanced fully 5 candareens per picul, and were it not for the exceeding firmness of holders, an active market would result. Lead quiet; holders showed a willingness to lower the rate 5 candareens, but buyers were requiring a further concession. Coal: Few arrivals, and no change in quotations.

POOCHOW.—The following sales were reported:—300 pieces 8½ lbs. Grey Shirtings at $2.70, and 200 pieces 7 lbs. T-Cloths at $2.05. Lead—1,500 piculs at $6.50 for cash, and $6.75 to Teamen. Quotations:—Grey Shirtings, 8½ lbs., at $2.70 to 2.75; 7 lbs., at $2.35 to 2.40. T-Cloths, 6 lbs., at $1.80 per picul; 7 lbs., at $2.05 to 2.25. Lead at $6.75 per picul.

HONG KONG.—Little or no change had occurred in the market since last mail.

SAIGON.—There had been little or no change in the market during the month. Current quotations were, Grey Shirtings, 8½ lbs., 2.52½; 7 lbs., $2.15/20; Supers, No. 1 and 2, no demand; T-Cloths, 7 lbs., $1.85; 6 lbs., $1.70; 5 lbs., $1.40; 4½ lbs., $1.25/30; 4 lbs., $1.15; Irish Linen, No. 150, $1.72; No. 120, $1.65.

SINGAPORE.—Closing quotations were as follows:—Gambier, $3.27½; Black Pepper, $13.75; White Pepper, $23; Sago Flour, Singapore, $2.70; do., Borneo, $2.77½; Pearl Sago, $3.15; Tin, $34.50; 40's Mule Twist, $114 to 115; 8½ lbs. Shirtings, $2.50 to 2.47½; 7 lbs. Shirtings, $2.15 to 2.12½; 5 lbs. T-cloths, $1.35; 6 lbs. do., $1.65; 7 lbs. do., $1.82½ to 1.85.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

SHANGHAI.—Black: A quieter feeling had prevailed in the market, and Teamen were disposed to accept offers which they would have declined previously. There were very few parcels offering above low to good common. Nothing had been done in Shongtams below Tls. 13, but holders of these kinds were very anxious to sell. Settlements 5,200, and stock 16,000 chests. In Green Tea great activity prevailed, and the competition for desirable chops was as keen as ever. Prices were very firm, stocks were exceedingly small, and supplies were coming to hand very slowly. Settlements 27,000 half-chests; stocks, 17,000 half-chests.

POOCHOW.—During the early part of the week operations for England took place to a very considerable extent, but subsequently a quieter feeling prevailed, and the market closed comparatively quiet. Nothing had been done in Oolongs for America. A trifling business had taken place for the colonies, while some buying had been going on for the Continent. Settlements for the week are 20,755 chests Congou, 1,243 chests Souchong, 2,600 half-chests Oolong, 342 chests Flowery Pekoe, and 7,395 boxes Scented Teas. Arrivals of Congou were still coming in pretty freely from the country, but a large proportion consisted of dust and broken leaf. Prices had ruled very much on a par with the preceding week's; the chief inquiry existing for fair Congou at Tls. 15 to 17. The commoner descriptions had been more neglected. There was no change to notice in Souchongs; prices paid ranged from Tls. 9 to 24½ short. Settlements of Oolong consisted of three lots, bought at Tls. 21 to 21½. These prices showed a considerable decline on former rates. The Teas were not apparently destined for the American market. In Flowery Pekoe settlements had taken place at Tls. 28 to 60 short. In Scented Teas purchases had been made to a considerable extent in the common to fair grades at Tls. 15 to 18 short.

SILK.

SHANGHAI.—The market continued active. About 1,000 bales had been settled for the present mail at last mail's rates, later settlements showing a firmer tendency in prices. No. 3 Tealtee were quoted Tls. 590; Red Peacock, Tls. 525. Stock estimated at about 4,000 bales.

NEW YORK MARKET REPORT.—Nov. 15.

TEA.

The demand for all descriptions continues light, but as stocks are moderate, and holders are not anxious to realise, full rates are maintained.

COFFEE.—The market for all descriptions is extremely quiet, is in fact almost at a standstill, and quotations show a fall of 1½c. to 2c. upon the late high range. Small jobbing sales of Java have been effected at 24½c. to 26c. gold, but no other business has been effected in East India kinds.

CORDAGE is steady at previous rates—say 21c. to 22c. for Manila, 20½c. for Tarred Manila, and 19c. to 20c. for Sisal Rope.

CAMPHOR.—China is quoted 14c. gold (in bond).

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Aniseed is quoted $3; Cassia, $2.10 gold (duty paid).

FIRE CRACKERS are very quiet; we quote extra No. 1 nominally $3 to 3.10 usual terms.

GAMBIER is in small stock, and firm, at 4½c. gold.

HEMP.—Manufacturers being well supplied with Manila, there is at present no demand for this description, and we have no sales to report; the quotation rules, as before, 13½c. gold.

INDIGO.—The market continues dull at $1.15 for Madras, $1 to $1.10 for Manila currency.

PRESERVED GINGER.—China is quoted $3.50 currency (duty paid).

RHUBARB.—The quotation for China is 50c. to 60c. currency (duty free).

RICE.—Carolina comes forward sparingly, and is in small stock. The demand continues good, and prices are 25c. per 100 lb. higher, bringing fair to prime to $7.75 to $8.25, and choice $8.50. Of foreign we notice 500 bags Rangoon at $6.87½ to $7.12½ currency; and 500 do. for export, $3.25 gold, in bond.

SUGAR.—There has been a steady good demand for Raw Sugar for refining purposes, refiners, after a considerable period of inaction, coming forward freely to replenish reduced stocks, and though their product is dull, and without improvement in price, their purchases of raw have assumed very respectable proportions from day to day. The trade have scarcely been in the market at all, but the advantage has been entirely on the side of sellers, who, by moderate offerings with their reduced stocks and light arrivals, have been enabled to establish an advance of one eighth of a cent. per lb. The only sale of East India has been 24,010 bags Manila, per Chattanooga, at 8c.

SPICES.—There is less buoyancy, except, perhaps, for Nutmegs, which are still very strong. The business has been entirely in jobbing lots at $1.45 to 1.50 for Mace, $1 to 1.02½ for Nutmegs, 36c. to 37c. for Cassia, 18c. to 20c. for Pepper, and 12c. for Cloves, all gold. An invoice of 2,000 piculs Singapore Pepper has been taken, to arrive, due here about next February, at a private price.

TIN is quiet, but stocks are held with much firmness, and a further advance is generally demanded. Straits is held at 37c., and Banca at 41½c. gold.

THE SHAN-SIN-FAN QUESTION.

The Rev. J. E. Mahood has addressed a letter to The Times, giving similar experiences to those in the one published in our issue of the 6th ult. Mr. Mahood appends the following translation of one of the placards circulated at Foochow:—

"Recently foreigners (lit. barbarians) have been secretly concocting schemes for the purpose of grievously injuring the people. They have erected churches, into which they inveigle women for licentious purposes. Whoever sees these outlandish foreigners, with their hideous faces and eyes, is constrained to hate them. How happens it, then, that people are willing to enter their society and associate with them? Truly we are concerned. These stupid foreigners, unable to appreciate the value of money, employ many devices. They bribe persons to feign themselves Tanist priests, and engage old women, all of whom they send into the country villages to circulate false stories concerning a pestilence which they say is about to come on the people. They then offer to the people a poisonous medicine called 'mysterious fairy powder,' and employ women in all the villages to mix it with rice flour in the shape of cakes and tid-bits, which, when cooked, are first offered to the idols and then eaten by those who offered them, in the belief that this will protect them from the pestilence. Alas! they do not think that within twenty days after eating these cakes the feet of the males and the bellies of the females begin to swell, and that the disease is very difficult to cure. In all this the sole object of foreigners is to entice people into their society, and when they succeed in getting them into their society they cause every female to submit to their licentious desires ad libitum. Alas! alas! Innocent females after taking this poison yield themselves to pollution, and thus become objects of hatred to all. Whenever any of these persons, whether male or female, enter any village to give out their poisonous medicines they should be treated like vagabonds. Don't by any means spare them. Thus will you protect the lives of the people from the poisonous machinations of these stupid foreigners. This thing has already (in connection with the provincial idols) injured a great many females. We, therefore, prepare and post this placard that all good people may fear and be cautious, and thus avoid being ensnared by idle words. It is our earnest desire that good people will copy this placard and circulate it everywhere, thus performing a most meritorious deed.

"Tung Che, 10th year, 5th moon, 20th day (July 7, 1871)."

MISSIONS IN MONGOLIA.—The Rev. J. T. Gulick, missionary in North China, now in America, advocates the immediate establishment of a mission to the Mongols, a population of from 3,000,000 to 6,000,000, lying outside of and north from China proper. Methodist missionaries in China are looking in the same direction. I. N. Wheeler, Superintendent of Methodist Missions at Peking, dating at Kalgan, a city of 100,000 inhabitants, says: "I hope we will be reinforced in such numbers as soon to be able to set apart two men for the work in Mongolia and Manchuria. We must occupy this vast territory, for the door of entrance is wide open. The American Board have a station in Kalgan, and the brethren here are beginning to see the first fruits of their labours." Seven native Chinese preachers will be admitted into the several conferences of the current conference year, among the Methodists in the United States; four have already been, and three more are to be, admitted—one each in the Vermont, Black River, and Baltimore Conferences.

The troop ship Tamar arrived at Simon's Bay, Cape of Good Hope, on the 18th Oct., from China. She sailed from Hong Kong on the 5th Aug. with the right wing of the 75th Regiment on board, calling in at Singapore to pick up the left wing, and to disembark a portion of the 20th Regiment there. She afterwards called in at the Mauritius to coal, and arrived at East London, C.G.H., on the 9th Oct., where she landed the left wing of the 75th Regiment. From East London she proceeded to Natal, where she landed the remainder of the 75th. From Natal she proceeded to Simon's Bay to refit and provision. When completed in these respects, she will return to Natal, and embark there the 32nd Regiment for transport to the Mauritius. From the Mauritius she will return with the wing of the 20th Regiment, stationed there, to East London, and, having received on board the remainder of the 20th, which have been stationed there, will sail with the whole regiment on board for Queenstown, where she may be expected to arrive about the 15th proximo.

We quote the following—which appears as an advertisement in the daily newspapers—as the latest specimen of the "puffs" indulged in by retail tea dealers:—Tea: The same and only tea used by his Imperial Highness the Emperor of China.—The China Trading Company, having received a small consignment of this very valuable Tea, have much pleasure in offering it to the public; and in doing so, beg to inform them that they are the first and only company who have ever been able to make arrangements for the same, it being grown solely for the Emperor of China's private distribution, and it is the first shipment that has ever been sent to Europe; and they confidentially assert that after this Tea has once been used, all other Teas will taste rank and obnoxious. Early orders are requested, as this first shipment consists of but 573 chests. All orders to be sent, &c., &c.

REAR-ADMIRAL CHARLES F. A. SHADWELL, C.B., the new commander-in-chief on the China station, arrived in H.M.S. Iron Duke, at Aden, on the 5th ult., and proposed leaving again on the 8th, for Trincomalee, to fill up with coal. Thence he would proceed direct to Singapore, where he expected to arrive about the 13th inst., and where he hoped to meet Vice-Admiral Sir Henry Kellet, K.C.B., whom he superseded.

MR. F. H. GOTTLIEB, magistrate of police at Singapore, left for Singapore by the P. and O. steamer Pera on the 25th ult. Mr. Gottlieb returns to his magistracy as a barrister-at-law, having been admitted a member of the English bar by the Honourable Society of the Middle Temple at its last call day. A few days previously Mr. George Gottlieb was admitted, after examination, a member of the same society.

The Icarus, recently arrived from China, having returned her guns, ammunition, &c., into store, has been inspected by the dockyard authorities at Sheerness, and been taken into the great basin for the purpose of discharging her stores and being dismantled and paid out of commission, when the officers and crew will be granted the usual six weeks' leave.

Captain Edward Madden has been appointed to the command of the Simoom, 4, iron screw troopship, which vessel is to be commissioned at Portsmouth on the 5th inst. Captain Madden, whose promotion to commander is dated August 11, 1868, was severely wounded in China, and in 1859 was granted a pension of £150.

The appointment of Fort-Adjutant at Hong Kong has been bestowed upon Lieutenant J. S. O'B. Blake, 10th Foot, vice Lieutenant R. H. Ellis, 75th Foot, proceeded with his regiment to the Cape of Good Hope.

The appointment by the Spanish Government of Don Leon Chica as Consul at Hong Kong, and of Don Albino Murciani as Consul at Singapore, have been approved of by the Queen.

The small steamer Kobe, which was noticed in our issue of the 20th ult., as being built in plates for the local Japan trade, was, we omitted to state, shipped out on board the steamer Zulea for Hiogo.

Colonel Harrison, of the 80th Regiment, not wishing to proceed with his regiment to China, has sent in his papers to sell, and several other officers of the same regiment have followed his example.

A TELEGRAM from the Eclipse Expedition announces the safe arrival of the party at Point de Galle.

HAMBURG, Nov. 28.

At the risk of tiring the patience of your readers I cannot refrain from completing the account I gave in my last letters concerning the alteration in the currency, as it is not only an historical event that happens but seldom, and is therefore worth recording, but a subject that cannot fail to interest many of your readers in the Far East, especially those connected with Germany by their commercial relations and family ties. The Bill has now passed through its three stages, but with some very important modifications, effected during the second reading. Art. 1 provides for the creation of an Imperial gold coin, of which 139½ are to be made out of a pound of fine gold. As the metrical decimal system of weights and measures comes into operation on New Year's Day, Herr Bahl proposed that it would be more consistent to say "279 pieces out of a kilogramme;" but as the present pound is exactly half a kilogramme, the amendment was rejected by 196 to 93 votes. Mohl then moved the adoption of a gold piece of the exact value of 25 francs, which would bring Germany into closer connection with the hundred millions of people who adhere to the French system; but this was negatived by an overwhelming majority, and the clause passed without alteration. Art. 2 runs thus:—"The tenth part of this gold coin is called a mark, divided into ten groschens of ten pfennigs each." Bamberger proposed merely to say "divided into 100 pfennigs;" and Miguel, who was unwilling to throw out the groschen altogether, moved the addition of the words, "of which ten make a groschen." Finance Minister Camphausen expressed himself strongly in favour of the retention of the groschen as a most useful denomination; in France the term sou is still in use, though no word had been suggested to a piece of ten centimes. Bamberger pointed out that it destroyed the even working of the decimal system; it should be left to the people to call it a ten pfennig piece if they liked, but it ought not to be mentioned in the Bill. In France they talk of sous, but do not keep accounts in them. Miguel defended the decimal system from the imputation of its being destroyed by retaining the groschen, and was of opinion that in the face of so many different groschens as were current in Germany, an authentic interpretation of its value was indispensable. Patow suggested that the people required the existence of the groschen as a necessary step between one and a hundred. Lasker objected to the groschen as a new value that would be forced on the Southern States. Miguel's amendment was rejected, and that of Bamberger passed by a large majority. The groschen is thus abolished. Art. 3 provides for additional gold coins of the value of 20 marks and of 30 marks, containing the same proportions of fine gold. Mohl moved as an amendment to strike out the 30 mark piece, as unnecessary and objectionable, because it would be just ten thalers, and render it more difficult to break completely with the present system. This view of the case was stoutly combated by Delbruck, President of the Chancellor's Office, who spoke in favour of a coin of ten dollars as a great convenience to the public, and a means of preventing the country from being inundated with paper money; to which Prince Bismark added that every facility ought to be given to the public in the approaching period of transition. Mohl's amendment was passed by a great majority, so that there is not to be a coin of thirty marks. Art. 4 specifies the proportions of gold and alloy as well as the weights of the coins, which passed nem. con. Art. 5 gave rise to a very lively debate. The original wording was as follows:—"The gold coins shall have on one side the Imperial eagle, with the legend 'Deutsche Reichsmunze,' as also the value in marks and the year when minted; and on the other side the head of the Sovereign of the State where struck, or the arms of the Free Cities, with a corresponding legend, and the name of the mint where coined. They are to have a plain flat rim, with the words, in deep relief, 'Gott mit uns.' The diameter of the coins is then defined. Count Munster moved that, instead of the local Sovereign, the coins should bear exclusively the head of the Emperor of Germany. This, however, was vehemently opposed by the Government Commissioners of Saxony, Bavaria, and Wurtemberg, who all claimed the right of coining money with their own Sovereign's head on it; and as Prince Bismark recommended the House to give way, they did so, and Count Munster's motion was negatived without a division; but, on the other hand, an amendment of Bamberger, to replace the legend "Deutsche Reichsmunze" by the words "Deutsches Reich" (German Empire), was carried. Arts. 6 and 7 relate to details, and passed without alteration.

Art. 8 was the most important for the Free Cities, as it involved the fate of the Hamburg Bank valuta and the Bremen gold currency. The proposed clause was thus framed:—"All payments legally payable in silver, either in thalers, florins, Hamburg currency, or Bremen gold dollars, may be effected in the new gold ten-mark piece at 3½ thalers, or 5 florins 50 kreutzers, or 8 marks 5½ schillings Hamburg and Lubeck currency, or 3 dollars 24/31 grotes Bremen currency; or in the twenty-mark piece at 6½ thalers, or 11 florins 40 kreutzers, or 16 marks 10½ Hamburg and Lubeck currency, or 6 dollars 1-17/31 grotes of Bremen." The Hamburg and Bremen members moved as an amendment the addition of the words, "and 6 marks 9-3/7 schillings Hamburg Bank valuta for the ten-mark piece, and 13 marks 2-26/27 schillings banco for the twenty-mark piece." This calculation is based on the law at Hamburg by which the pound of pure silver is declared to be equal to 594 marks banco. Dr. Wolffson (one of the members for Hamburg) pleaded strongly in favour of the amendment, claiming the right of Hamburg banco to be included in the proposed tariff as well as any other description of money. This, however, was disputed by Vice-Chancellor Delbruck, who maintained that as there were no coins of Hamburg banco it could not be considered as money; and that if the amendment were acceded to it would upset the whole principle of the Bill, as sanctioning a fixed price in gold for a certain quantity of silver, which was in future simply an article of merchandise, liable to fluctuations, like all other goods, in accordance with the laws of demand and supply. Dr. Wolffson refuted this doctrine, maintaining that this was not a case of silver, but Hamburg banco, which, though not consisting of coin, had every right to be regarded as the legal money of Hamburg, as it is, in fact, the currency of commerce. Finance Minister Camphausen hoped the House would not sanction the amendment, as it would open the door to no end of difficulties; and he recommended the Administration of the Bank of Hamburg not to increase their stock of silver, but rather to get rid of what they had in their cellars with as little loss of time as possible. At the division the amendment was lost, and thus both Hamburg banco money and Bremen gold currency are to be abolished. The remaining clauses of the Bill have reference to matters of detail, and passed without alteration. The House then agreed to two resolutions on the motion of Messrs. Bamberger and Tellkamp, one of which was to request the Chancellor of the Empire to bring in a Bill next session for the definite regulation of the currency, and to lay down in it specially the principle that when the mints are not occupied in coining for the Governments they shall be bound to mint gold for private individuals on payment of certain fixed charges. The other was also a request to the Chancellor for a Bill next session to regulate the banking system in Germany. The Vice-Chancellor objected to the words "next session" in both resolutions, which was more than he could promise, as it would depend on other business to be got through. On the proposal of another member, the objectionable words were replaced by "as soon as possible," which gave satisfaction to both parties, and the House adjourned.

HOLLAND.

ROTTERDAM, Nov. 29.

Some weeks ago I told you that a new treaty had been concluded between our Government and that of Great Britain, with reference to Sumatra. You will remember that the Second Chamber refused to ratify the first treaty, and that our Government consequently opened fresh negotiations with England, in order to meet the principal objections which were raised in our Parliament. That these negotiations were successful is principally due to the friendly attitude assumed by the English Cabinet. The following is the full text of the new treaty:—"His Majesty the King of the Netherlands, and Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, being desirous to consolidate more and more in the spirit of the treaty of 17th March, 1824, the friendship between the two countries, and consequently also to remove all occasion for misunderstanding in their mutual relations in the Island of Sumatra have agreed to conclude a convention for that purpose. Art. I. Her Britannic Majesty agrees to desist from all objections against the extension of the Netherlands dominion in any part of the Island of Sumatra, and, consequently, from the reservations in that respect contained in the notes exchanged by the Dutch and British plenipotentiaries at the conclusion of the treaty of 17th March, 1824. Art. II. His Majesty the King of the Netherlands declares that in the Kingdom of Siak, Sree-Indrapoora and its dependencies, as defined in the treaty concluded by the Netherlands Indian Government with that Kingdom on the 1st of February, 1858, the trade of British subjects and British navigation shall continue to enjoy all the rights and advantages that are or may be granted to the trade of Netherlands subjects and to the Dutch navigation; and further, that the same assimilation shall be granted to the trade of British subjects and to British navigation in any other native State of the Island of Sumatra, that may hereafter become dependent on the Crown of the Netherlands; provided always that the British subjects conform themselves to the laws and regulations of the Netherlands Government. Art. 3. The stipulations of the preceding article shall not interfere with the distinction established by the Netherlands Indian laws and regulations as regards individuals of Eastern extraction, nor with the application of the stipulations of the Convention of 27th March, 1851. Art. 4. The present Convention shall be ratified as soon as possible, and shall remain without force or effect, until it has received, as far as shall be required, the approval of the States General. In witness thereof, &c."

At the same time the Dutch and English Governments having recognised the utility of an additional stipulation to the Convention concluded on the 25th of February, 1851, for the transfer to England of the rights, which the King of the Netherlands possesses on the Coast of Guinea, have agreed on the following:—"If at any time the British Government should allow the recruiting of free labourers in British possessions on the Coast of Guinea, and their exportation to British colonies, such recruiting and exportation from those British possessions shall also, on the same conditions, be permitted to the Netherlands Government on behalf of Dutch colonies." You will remember that this treaty was approved of by the Second Chamber, and that it is still awaiting the decision of the Upper House.

Rumours are in circulation that Mr. Cd. Busken Huet, the famous editor of the Java Bode, is engaged as editor of the leading Conservative paper in the Hague.

Mr. P. H. B. Motké, who, as I lately stated, is charged with forming a scheme for a re-organisation of the tax system in Java, will start by the first mail in January for Batavia.

The Stock markets have been inactive, and prices generally have shown no movement. Foreign Bonds are dull, and operations in most sorts of shares inactive. There is a good demand for Rotterdam Bank and Netherlands Trading Bank, and the prices of these shares have advanced considerably in the course of the last few weeks. The Bank "Commandietkas" is now under liquidation, and the general opinion is that this will prove very unfavourable for the shareholders.

The Chamber of Trade at Maastricht has protested against the project of the Minister of the Colonial department to abolish the differential duties with the revival of the East India tariff.

M. Thiers has conferred the knighthood of the Legion of Honour on Mr. A. K. W. Arutzenius, medical officer of the E. I. army, for services rendered by him in the hospital at Metz during the last war.

OUR RELATIONS WITH CHINA.

(WEEKLY REVIEW.)

It is becoming absolutely necessary that the public of this country should understand clearly the present volcanic condition of our relations with China, so that some remedy may be applied before it is too late.

At first sight it may be thought there is nothing on the surface to cause alarm. The late popular agitation is subsiding, and the conduct of the Chinese authorities is said to be good.

Nevertheless, the danger to foreigners and to foreign trade in that Empire is imminent, and we shall endeavour to substantiate this assertion by a few plain facts.

When the revision of the Treaty of 1858 was under consideration, as the period of ten years for which it was to remain unchanged was about to expire, it was pointed out to the Chinese Government that they must be prepared to meet the growing demand of Western nations for the introduction of modern inventions, and for throwing open the resources of the Empire to foreign commerce. In reply to this they pleaded delay, promising, however, gradually to admit these innovations as the people could bear them.

This inevitable pressure upon China led to the formation of two parties in Peking, the one favourable to concessions, the other anti-foreign. At present a half-concealed anti-foreign policy is in the ascendant, and it is this which has given rise to such conflicting opinions, our own Government giving the Cabinet at Peking credit for endeavouring fairly to carry out the terms of the Treaty, while many of those most intimately acquainted with China believe the very reverse, and that the Peking Government is attempting to carry out a policy which is a masterpiece of duplicity.

They affirm that the Chinese Government, while making great professions of friendship, is in various ways fomenting the popular hatred against us, but at the same time so keeping it under control as to prevent its proceeding to murderous violence, thus to impress us with the belief that the people of China are hostile to foreigners, that even now they can scarcely be restrained, and therefore in the revision of the Treaty not yet completed, instead of their making concessions to our demands, we must withdraw from some of the positions already secured.

In proof of this serious charge we have the following facts:—

1. There has been diligently circulated throughout the Empire a book of the grossest obscenity, containing the foulest charges against foreigners, and this book has been traced to official quarters, leaving scarcely a doubt that the literati and mandarins are the chief abettors of these diabolical slanders.

2. They have issued the now famous circular against Christian missions, containing the most preposterous demands, on the false plea that the people are hostile to missions; whereas in every serious case of violence it has been traced to the action of the literati and mandarins exciting the people against us, encouraged by the comments of those hostile to missions in this country.

3. They have lately given currency or countenance to the most absurd stories about the poisoning of wells by foreigners and their Chinese emissaries—stories which are readily believed by an ignorant people otherwise peaceably disposed towards us. In one case, at Changchew, near Amoy, it is boldly asserted in two proclamations that these stories are well founded, and a poor beggar has been executed, after making a confession under torture that he had actually thrown poison into the wells at the instigation of foreigners.

4. The mandarins implicated in the Tientsin Massacre have really never been punished. There was a pretence of doing so, but the chief offender, Chen-kwa-jui, is quite untouched.

Notwithstanding these serious charges against the Chinese Government, it is feared that concessions in regard to the Treaty are in contemplation which may prove most injurious to our relations with China, and it is, if possible, to avert this danger that we now write.

The true remedy for these difficulties is simply a firm and unflinching policy. The Peking Government should be required to denounce and withdraw the obscene book already referred to; and a further demand should be made that they should distinctly repudiate and condemn the lying accusations of well-poisoning, as they did after the Tientsin Massacre in regard to the charges of killing babies, &c. And finally, we must insist on our just rights in accordance with the Treaty, or we shall inevitably drift into a war which the Chinese would deprecate even more strongly than ourselves.

The speech of President GRANT at the opening of Congress contains a very brief allusion to the American expedition to Korea. The President states that the object of the expedition was to conclude a Treaty with the Korean Government, but this was found "impracticable under the circumstances." The only other reference to Eastern affairs is the statement that the President is determined to put an end to the barbarous treatment of shipwrecked sailors in China and Japan.

THE P. AND O. COMPANY'S REPORT.

The following is the director's report of the P. and O. Company, to be presented at the annual meeting on the 7th inst. :—

Payment proposed to be made to the proprietors at the rate of 1 per cent. ...	27,000	0	0

THE COMPANY'S FLEET.

The tabular statement contains as usual particulars of the tonnage, horse-power, and present stations of the company's fleet. It will be seen that the number of sea-going ships is now the same as that shown in the last half-yearly report, namely, forty-one. This results from the sale of the Ganges in China, the loss of the Rangoon (to be presently referred to), and the transfer of the new ships Mirzapore, and Pekin from the building to the active list. The superior size of the two latter has, however, produced an increase of 4,574 tons in the total measurement of the working vessels.

The Mirzapore, after making one trip on the home station, was despatched to China via the Canal, on the 26th October. She reached Suez on the 10th ult., and her performance, with a very moderate consumption of fuel, has fully justified the expectations of the directors.

The Pekin was also despatched to China via the Canal, on the 24th ult.

The Peshawur is rapidly approaching completion, and will probably be delivered by the builders in the course of a month. Notwithstanding the reinforcement of the fleet by eight such ships as the Deccan, Hindustan, Australia, Khedive, Indus, Mirzapore, Pekin, and Peshawur, the directors have felt the necessity of taking further steps to meet the altered condition of trade with the East by adding to it more vessels of large cargo capacity combined with superior accommodation for passengers. They have accordingly contracted for the construction of four new ships of about 2,700 tons each, builders' measurement, with compound engines of 450-horse power, nominal, namely, two with Messrs. Caird and Co., and two with Messrs. Denny

Brothers; and while the proprietors will perceive in this measure a determination on the part of the directors to maintain for the company that position in steam communication between this country and the East which it has occupied for the last thirty years, and although additional measures in the same direction may shortly become necessary, they may feel assured that the Board will not be led by the pressure of competition into any imprudent expenditure of its resources.

LOSS OF THE "RANGOON."

The directors much regret having to report that intelligence has reached them that the Rangoon, when leaving Point de Galle for Australia, on the 1st ult., struck on a sunken rock just outside the entrance to the port, and foundered a few hours afterwards. The vessel was in charge of an experienced pilot at the time of the accident, and an official investigation has since been held by the proper authorities on the spot, the result of which has been telegraphed in the following words:—"Official investigation entirely clears Capt. Skottowe and all officers of the Rangoon, but blames the pilot."

CHARTER OF THE "MALACCA" FOR A SPECIAL SERVICE.

Immediately on the receipt by the Admiralty of intelligence of the landing of the passengers and crew of H.M.S. Megara on St. Paul's Island, the directors were applied to, and requested to state whether they had a vessel available at Bombay for despatch to the relief of that ship's company. The answer was in the affirmative, and the directors communicated by telegraph with their superintendent at Bombay, who replied that the Columbian was available for that service. In the meantime, however, telegraphic reports were received from Hong Kong that the company's steamship Malacca had been chartered by the local Government authorities for the same duty, and the Admiralty were consequently enabled to decline the offer to send a steamer from Bombay.

The Malacca, after being fully stored, was despatched from Hong Kong on the 7th August, reached St. Paul's Island on the 30th idem, and, having received on board the whole of the shipwrecked crew, landed them safely at King George's Sound and Sydney. The directors consider it due to the commander of the Malacca that the narrative of the performance of a service of unusual difficulty should appear in his own words. A copy of his letter is accordingly appended to this report, together with one which the board have had the pleasure to receive from the Lords of the Admiralty, expressing their satisfaction at the successful result of the services rendered.

THE MAIL SERVICE.

The substitution of Brindisi for Marseilles as the port of arrival and departure of the mail steamers has had the effect of bringing about the delivery of the mails in London on Saturday, and, on some occasions, on Friday evening, instead of on Monday morning, as was originally arranged under the existing contract; and the approaching acceleration of the transit of the mails by the continental railways, coupled with the completion of the Mont Cenis Tunnel, has caused the Postmaster-General to call upon the company to carry out a time table for 1872 on the following basis:—

A departure from Brindisi every Monday at 5 A.M., and

A departure from Bombay for Suez every Monday at 5.30 P.M., except during the south-west monsoon, when the departure is to be three days earlier.

All other arrivals and departures to be governed by these.

One result will be a change in the day of departure of the weekly steamers from Southampton from Saturday to Thursday, and the reverting to Monday as the ordinary day for the delivery of the mails in London; the time gained by the accelerations referred to above being distributed among the communities of India, China, and Australia, where it was in fact most wanted, as the intervals between the arrival and despatch of the mails were shorter than in England.

THE PROPRIETORS' UNDERWRITING ACCOUNT AND THE GENERAL RESERVE FUND.

As no loss or casualty occurred during the financial year dealt with in this report, the sum of £130,000, placed to the credit of the underwriting account as the premium on the estimated value of the floating property of the company, is not subject to any charge, but the proprietors will bear in mind that the unfortunate loss of the Rangoon, which has taken place so early in the current year, will show itself in the next annual account in the shape of a charge of £78,000 against the premiums for 1872.

With this fact before them the directors have not thought it prudent to recommend a distribution of more than 1 per cent., equal to £27,000, from the underwriting account, and have carried £108,000 to the general reserve fund. This fund would then have stood at £521,923 16s. 10d., and looking to the important additions recently made to the fleet, the directors would have been glad to have left a balance of at least £500,000 to its credit, but the exceptional circumstance of the sale of so many vessels within the year has rendered it necessary in their judgment to revert to a course which was adopted four years ago, for the benefit of the permanent interests of the company, and to charge against this fund the difference between the total proceeds of the sale of the Azof, Formosa, Norna, Salsette, Ganges, and Broughton Hall, and the total sum at which they stood in the company's books, namely, £69,800.

Most of these ships were sold not so much on account of their age, as from the necessity of substituting for them vessels adapted to the altered conditions under which the company's business is now carried on; and as the reserve for ordinary depreciation and wear and tear is insufficient to extinguish the book value of vessels which are disposed of for the above reason, the proprietors will concur with the directors in regarding the General Reserve Fund as the appropriate source from which to liquidate the cost of replacing unsuitable with suitable ships, and thus not only maintain but increase the working power of the fleet. The comparatively small amount expended in repairs during the last year, due to the absence of opportunity of laying up the ships requiring them, and the consequent certainty that the expense of repairs to be met during the current year will be proportionately increased, is another exceptional circumstance which has to be provided for; the directors have therefore set aside the sum of £20,000 from the General Reserve Fund to meet the extra repairs of the current financial year, leaving the balance of the fund, £432,123 16s. 10d.

CAPITAL.—REVENUE AND EXPENDITURE.—DIVIDEND.

The amount of the share capital of the company is the same as at the date of the last annual report, namely, £2,700,000, leaving £800,000 uncalled. The sum borrowed on debentures has averaged about £710,000, according as the bonds have fallen due and been renewed or replaced; the amount on the 30th September happened, however, under this process to stand at £800,000, but this was again reduced to £711,000 by the paying off of a series of bonds which came to maturity during the month of October.

In reviewing the general operations of the company for the year, the directors are scarcely able to vary the words of their recent reports. They have had for the last two years to lay stress on the effects of the great competition which has sprung up of late, and to congratulate the proprietors on the circumstance that a diminution in some of the most important items of expenditure and the exercise of a rigid economy have enabled them to recommend a moderate rate of dividend. A reference to the abstract of the accounts will show that the same remarks apply to the past financial year, and present prospects induce the directors to draw the attention of the proprietors to some points of details in connection with this important subject. It will be seen that the total income for 1871 is, in round numbers, £2,092,000, against £2,317,000 in 1870, a falling of £225,000; and that the total expenditure of 1871 is £1,923,881, against £2,174,672 in 1870, a difference of £250,791.

A diminished receipt of £225,000 in a year is a feature that calls for some explanation, and this is furnished by the fact that competition has necessitated very large reductions in the rates of passage-money and freight. There has been no falling off in the number of passengers conveyed; on the other hand, they have somewhat exceeded those of the previous year, but the increase in number has been on the shorter distances, and the abatement of 20 per cent. in the through rates announced in the half-yearly report has up to the present time told adversely on the total receipts.

The cargoes conveyed have greatly exceeded in bulk those of previous years, but the rates of freight, including those on specie, have undergone serious reductions. This will be understood when it is stated that the steamships which have run from the United Kingdom in direct competition with the company, and with each other, through the Suez Canal during the last twelve months, and exclusive of those belonging to the Messageries Maritimes Company, have measured in all about 280,000 tons. The competition homewards has been equal in degree—and all this in addition to that previously and still existing with the French steamers, and recently with those running from the Italian ports and Trieste.

The contracts entered into for new ships, as reported above, will show that the directors are doing their utmost to hasten the period when, by adopting the use of the Canal, they may compete for the cargo business on more even terms. It has been explained in former reports that the railway through Egypt affords the most expeditious route for the mails; and as this, under any circumstances, will continue to be the case, the company can only hope to take complete advantage of the Canal for their passenger and goods traffic; when they may possess such an increased number of suitable ships as would enable them to adopt arrangements combining the fulfilment of the obligations of the mail contract with the passage of the steamers each way through the Canal.

The proprietors will have observed that several of the company's vessels have made special passages through the Canal during the last year. The total number since the opening has been twenty-six. This route has, of course, superseded that via the Cape for all new ships sent out to the Eastern stations, with the gratifying results of causing the disappearance from the company's accounts of an item of expense, which, in some years, reached nearly £30,000.

The directors beg to conclude by recommending a dividend of 3 per cent., free of income-tax, for the six months ending 30th September last, making, with 3 per cent. declared in June, and the payment of 1 per cent. from the underwriting account, a total of 7 per cent. for the year.

The amounts payable under this report will therefore be as follows:—

Dividend	3 per cent.
Underwriting Account	1 „ „
Together	4 per cent.

And these payments will be made in one warrant on the 28th instant.

FULL and minute details have been received of the loss of the P. and O. steamer Rangoon. These merely give at greater length the same account of the casualty under notice which we first published in the London and China Telegraph of the 27th ult. We learn that the P. and O. Company have received by telegram the result of a Court of Inquiry held at Galle, at which the captain and officers were acquitted, but the pilot was censured. The directors have, we understand, ordered the return home of Captain SKOTTOWE. We learn further that a portion of the mails have been recovered from the wreck, and that these is a prospect of saving the remainder.

LONDON: TUESDAY, DEC. 5, 1871.

THE ABDOL MOOSA CASE AT HONG KONG.

It was unfortunate for the interests of the commerce of Hong Kong, and the confidence of the native traders in foreign merchants—especially Mussulman—that the state of Mr. PAUNCEFOTE's health compelled him to take leave and return home before he had brought the notorious ABDOL MOOSA case to the satisfactory issue which his exertions entitled him to expect, and which will no doubt be attained by his locum tenens. Such abuses as the passing-off of a trader, sometimes as a merchant, sometimes as an agent, sometimes as partner in a foreign firm, or a firm in a foreign port, have become so common among Mussulman, and have been practiced to the great injury of the Chinese, on whom these sharpers habitually impose, that it is high time that the local Government, powerless in Bombay, but paramount in Hong Kong, should interfere for the protection of the native merchants under its jurisdiction, and the punishment of such adventurers as ABDOL MOOSA, who obtain goods and credit under questionable circumstances, about which, when the bubble bursts, there turns out to be no question at all. Mr. PAUNCEFOTE has, however the consolation of knowing that, if he has not yet purified the Augean stable of Mussulman fraud in Hong Kong, yet in his official capacity as Attorney-General he exerted himself to the utmost in the cause of commercial morality; and we feel sure that, when he resumes his office in Hong Kong, if the object which he sought to promote by the prosecution of ABDOL MOOSA has not been attained by his representative, he will again attack this monster evil himself. It was therefore with surprise that we read an article in the Daily Press, on the occasion of Mr. PAUNCEFOTE's departure, which, if we had not known our Hong Kong contemporary so long, we should designate as being singularly mysterious and spiteful. It is mysterious because, while on the one hand it seems to depreciate the retiring Attorney-General, on the other it reads very much like an advertisement of the ability of a Mr. HAYLLAR to fill his place during his absence. It is spiteful because it attacks Mr. PAUNCEFOTE in no measured terms, but yet without bringing any distinct charge against him. We cannot congratulate our contemporary on the taste which led him to undervalue, on the eve of his departure, a public servant to whose zeal and abilities he has often borne witness; and we cannot admire the spirit which, after bringing a cloud of shapeless charges against Mr. PAUNCEFOTE, proceeds in such a Sphinx-like or Delphic manner:—"Upon this 'and some other matters of the same kind we are precluded 'from commenting at the moment; but there will be enough 'to say by-and-by.'" Of course there will if we do not say what we mean now, and if we let a gentleman whose health has suffered in the public service, where his exertions have been everywhere gratefully recognised, to proceed ten thousand miles off, and then seize the opportunity of attacking him in his absence. But we are very much mistaken if the editor of the Daily Press does not find that not only has his conduct in this case not damaged Mr. PAUNCEFOTE in the eyes of the community of Hong Kong, nor that of the Colonial-office, but that it has not contributed either to the general esteem of his journal or to the popularity of his protégé, Mr. HAYLLAR, who must have been ready to exclaim, "Save me from my friends." With this remark we dismiss the case for the present; but we cannot close our article without expressing the hope that the abuses which Mr. PAUNCEFOTE so worthily applied himself to remove in the case of ABDOL MOOSA may be attacked in the same spirit by his temporary successor, for they are a reproach to our mercantile prestige, and seriously impair our good relations with the Chinese.

ANOTHER instance of the mismanagement of the Italian railways has come to our knowledge. Mr. THOMAS SIDGREAVES, the new Judge of Singapore, arriving at Brindisi with his wife and a servant, on his way out to assume his appointment, was coolly told that his baggage could not be found, though he had registered it. The negligence of the railway officials thus caused the detention of Mr. and Mrs. SIDGREAVES for a fortnight in all the inconvenience inseparable from a place like Brindisi. Besides this, the time of a most important public servant was sacrificed. We trust that Mr. SIDGREAVES will feel himself called upon in the interest of the public to take such proceedings against the Railway Company as will convince them of the necessity of taking better care of the property of their passengers. SYDNEY SMITH said that our own railway management would never be properly reformed until a Bishop was killed. Now that a JUDGE has been made to suffer the inconveniences of the "Italian method" we may hope for an improvement.

OUR readers will see by a report in another column that the City authorities persevere in measures to put down the sale of the nauseous stuff generally called "Maloo Mixture." The deputation to the CHANCELLOR OF THE EXCHEQUER is not likely to be without early and stringent effect when the department within whose jurisdiction it lies take proper steps for the suppression of this disgusting traffic, and the punishment of those concerned in it. Shippers in Shanghai who may hitherto have lent themselves to the exportation of this stuff had better take warning that, before any further consignments can be made, regulations will be in force which will cause shipments to be confiscated and destroyed on arrival in the docks.

MR. HYDE CLARKE, late Cotton Commissioner in Turkey, delivered an address at the Society of Arts on the scheme for a thorough railway to India, which he put forward three years ago. Mr. CLARKE, who was listened to with great attention, declared his conviction that a vastly increased traffic with all India, Ceylon, the Netherlands and Spanish India, China, Japan, Australia, and New Zealand was "waiting for us" on the completion of his proposed line through Turkey—indeed, a daily mail to India. We understand that Mr. W. P. ANDREW is also again making vigorous efforts to similar effect by the Euphrates Valley route, first designed by General CHESNEY.

WE hear that it is the intention of the Italian Government to appoint an Envoy Extraordinary, who will proceed to Burmah, Siam, and Japan to exchange the ratifications of the commercial treaties lately concluded with those countries.

IN another column we give an article from the Weekly Review on our relations with China, which very succinctly points out the peculiar nature of our position at the present time, and the danger of echoing Mr. WADE's cry of "All's well."

THE memorial of Mr. ROBERT HART, Inspector General of Customs at Peking, which appeared in the Overland China Mail of Oct. 18, has attracted considerable attention. Our review of it will appear in our next.

MR. CHARLES TWITE, professor of geology and mining engineer, left by the last mail for Bangkok, under engagement to the Government of Siam, to inspect and report on the extent and quality of the gold deposits in Siam.

MR. FRANCIS SNOWDON, the newly appointed Senior Magistrate of the Straits Settlements, will, we understand, leave for Singapore early in January.

LIEUTENANT-COLONEL CHARLES GEORGE GORDON, R.E., C.B., of "Taiping" celebrity, has been appointed Her Majesty's Vice-Consul in the delta of the Danube.

MR. POPE HENNESSEY, the late Governor of Labuan, arrived in London on Friday last. His successor is Mr. H. E. BULWER, C.M.G.

HONG KONG.

It is quite clear that Sir RICHARD MACDONNELL has not returned to China a moment too soon. All departments of the Executive seem to have been vying with one another in the struggle which could make it most contemptible. The police have been scandalously inefficient; the accounts of the Exchequer muddled with such gross blunders as the commonest care would have prevented; and the respect for law and justice has been greatly weakened by the tergiversation of Mr. Justice SMALE in the KWOK-A-SING difficulty, and the unseemly squabbles in the Supreme Court. In the midst of all these embarrassments the officiating Governor showed himself totally unable to bring public affairs into order, or public men to a sense of what they owed to their position. No doubt this will "all be changed now"—but there is no doubt that a hard task devolves on Sir RICHARD to restore matters to the state in which he left them. The question of the opium farm is one on which, we are informed, Sir RICHARD goes out with full instructions from Lord KIMBERLEY, including plans for its final relinquishment, and the application of the accumulated fund of $450,000. Thus far the Governor's course is, therefore, clear, and we hope that he will exercise firmness in dealing with the other difficulties we have alluded to. The dignity of the Legislative Council must be maintained, if any respect for the Government is to be maintained, and the Colonial Secretary must be taught to regulate his conduct in debate with something like the principles which obtain among gentlemen in society. In the case of KWOK-A-SING, we feel bound in charity to ascribe the conduct of Mr. SMALE to weakness or infirmity rather than to wilful desertion of principles. Such a whining exclamation as that "he had never been the same man since he gave judgment" is totally unworthy of an English judge; and we feel that we should not be doing our duty towards Mr. SMALE if we failed to point out to him that, if he feels "mentally or morally incapacitated" (as Mr. DISRAELI lately put it) "from discharging the high duties of his office," it devolves upon him at once to apply for leave. It would paralyse all Sir RICHARD MACDONNELL's efforts to bring Hong Kong into working order again, if he put the revenue on a safe footing, restored public safety by remodelling the police, made the Council again the scene of rational discussion, and yet permitted the Bench to be occupied by a "judge who has smitten contrary to the law," as he himself enunciated it three months ago. Rectè, recta, "Be sure you're right, and then go straight ahead," should be the motto of every high-minded official—a judge more than any other. We feel bound in the interests of the colony to tender similar advice to the Hon. GARDINER AUSTIN, Colonial Secretary; we believe he has also been for a long time incompetent to discharge his duties efficiently.

THE MISSIONARY CLAUSE IN THE TREATY.

REGARDING the proposed rescission of the Missionary Clause from a purely secular point of view, and putting out of sight the humiliation which the surrender of any of our treaty privileges would inevitably bring upon our country in the eyes of the Chinese, it appears to us that, even if our FOREIGN SECRETARY could be induced to consent to the measure suggested by The Times, it would be found practically impossible to carry it out. We believe that no considerable number of missionaries could be deterred from the work to which they have devoted their lives by any mere consideration of danger, seeing that missionaries are to be found in almost every accessible part of the world, preaching among nations and tribes with which we have no treaties at all. The withdrawal of Government protection from missionaries, as such, would therefore simply amount to a repudiation of the doctrines of our national Church, and we may be sure that, however prejudiced the Chinese may be against our religion, the contempt they would feel for us, if they suspected that we had no religion at all, would be infinitely more dangerous. It would be utterly impossible for us to conduct Christian worship in our own churches in China if the people knew that we were doing that among ourselves which we were prohibited by law from practising towards them. It would amount to a virtual admission that there was something radically wrong and vicious in our faith—which is exactly what the literati have been exerting themselves all along to persuade the people. But they can never persuade the people, as a whole, that the Christian religion is impure so long as that calumny is contradicted by the blameless lives of the missionaries, and the principles of their doctrine, openly preached and explained to the masses, who are yielding in such increasing numbers to their arguments. Assuming for one moment that proselytising were virtually prohibited by law, and that no new converts could be admitted into our Church, how would it be possible for the various bodies of native Christians to worship unless they listened to the exhortations of native preachers, who would do precisely what our missionaries do now, though they could succeed but very imperfectly, without foreign guidance?

If our missionaries are debarred from preaching, are they to be debarred from instructing native preachers? If so, in a very few years our religion will become a sham non-descript kind of creed, which will lay it really open to the libels that are urged against it now. It is only by publicity that the truth can be known in any case; and in religious truth especially it is necessary that there should be no secrets. It was almost entirely through the violent persecutions of religious teachers in the Dark Ages of this country that so many different sects sprang up through the convictions of prejudiced and stubborn men, sometimes ignorant, and sometimes bigoted, but always, we firmly believe, sincere. The Christian Church would have been one Church, from its foundation to this day, if it had not been for the persecution with which its members were subjected in the most remote places to which their religion had made its way and been preached by the missionaries of the time. To place any limit to the diffusion of truth is to poison truth—just as, when the Bible was prohibited in this country, everybody repeated just as much as he could remember of it, and applied that modicum of knowledge to every passage of his life. What, then, is to happen if missionaries are not to be protected as British subjects exercising their lawful vocation, which is all they ask? Is it to be made a legal "misdemeanour" for any English gentleman or lady to explain, or answer any questions that may be addressed to them by servants or native neighbours, anxious to learn the truth of "master's religion"? The Times must know little indeed of human nature either in the East or West if it thinks that religious feeling, and faith in the duty of spreading religion, is confined to the clergy and the missionaries. We could mention very many instances in which officers in the Civil Service, and the army, merchants, professional men of all kinds, and their wives, are unremitting in their endeavours to dissipate the ignorance of the natives of every place where they may be located. Here, then, we find the opponents of missionaries have placed themselves on "the horns of a dilemma." Either they would allow a merchant or a merchant's wife to hold family prayers and admit their native servants and hold them, simply because they are not missionaries, protected in doing that which, if a missionary attempted it, would imperil his life; or else they would close their mouths on the subject of religion, and thus deprive the lay community of one of their indefeasible rights—which we make bold to say is more than the most unscrupulous Government dare attempt. The more the question is examined, the more clear it appears to us that it would be literally impossible to get the new system into working order at all. By narrowing the rights and withdrawing the protection of the missionaries, The Times would encourage calumnies which would lead to bloodshed; and, as surely as there is more blood of our fellow-subjects shed in China, so surely we are firmly persuaded that the heart of the British nation will be so stirred as to exact a terrible atonement.

THE CHINA CUSTOMS RETURNS.

IN our last issue we gave a résumé of the "China Customs Reports for 1870," just published. The importance of the subject, and the difference of style in which it is treated by the several officers whose Reports we condensed, are sufficiently remarkable to call for some further observations. Speaking generally, by way of commencement, we have great pleasure in noticing the scrupulous fidelity, and the reflective spirit, under which the ten summaries we have given appear to have been composed. We cannot but place implicit reliance on details furnished with so much exactness, and, no doubt, verified with so much labour. So far as they go, the Reports before us are not only valuable as statistical returns, but also satisfactory and encouraging as indicating the line of conduct proper to be observed in the future. Still it must be admitted that there are "differences and differences." Some of the officers, whose reports we have considered, are, if not more zealous, at any rate more prompt and decisive than others; and we need hardly remind our readers that the old maxim "Bis dat qui cito dat" applies with redoubled force to statistics on which the fortunes of individuals, as well as the prosperity of our trade with China, are so largely dependent. For this reason we feel bound to repeat the expression of our regret that the volume before us does not contain the reports of the Custom-house officers in Shanghai, Canton, and Tientsin—three places, which, for widely different reasons, are of more importance than all those which have been published. We can see no reason why the returns from these places should not have been made up in due time for publication with the others, and we are not supplied with any excuse for their omission or delay.

With this reservation we have little to say, except in acknowledgment of the zeal and care with which the present reports have been compiled. Mr. HOBSON, in particular, must be mentioned for the lucid manner in which he has arranged the mercantile view of Hankow and Chefoo—a double work for which, both by evident exactness, and by clear-headed reasoning, he deserves double credit. Mr. LASSON'S Report from Newchwang labours under the disadvantage of having nothing very prosperous to record; but it is evidently carefully prepared, and the light which it throws on the disposition of the Koreans to open trade with us is as valuable as it is encouraging. Mr. DREW'S Report from Kiukiang is a most conscientious and satisfactory work, one that makes us sure that our mercantile interests will never be neglected while he is in office, and which also makes us anxious to listen to any suggestions he may offer for the improvement of our position. Mr. WOODRUFF has nothing but prosperity to report from Chinkiang. Imports and exports alike rose greatly in the year under notice; and therefore no doubt Mr. WOODRUFF'S task on this occasion was an exceptionally pleasant one. We are therefore the more happy to congratulate him on having steered clear of anything like the exaggeration into which such fair prospects might have misled a less practical and reflective mind. From Ningpo Mr. WHITE'S report is by no means sensational, for it shows comparatively slight fluctuations, but it has the more sterling quality of being business-like and well arranged. The Baron de MERITENS, writing from Foochow, has a less favourable account to give; but he gives it unaffectedly and clearly, and affords many useful suggestions, unobtrusively furnished through the medium of figures rather than dicta, towards the revival of the prosperity of the port. Mr. CARTWRIGHT has so very satisfactory an account to give of Takow (Formosa) that we hope we shall hear no more of the proposal to abandon it. The harbour, however, evidently demands prompt attention if we are to do justice to our trade. We feel sure this question will not be lost sight of while Mr. CARTWRIGHT is in office, and we shall be happy to ventilate any practical proposals that may be made for the improvement of the landing accommodation. Mr. HUGHES has a less pleasant account to give of Amoy, which seems to be in a rapid decline, though no blame can of course attach to Mr. HUGHES on that account. And, lastly, M. HUBER reports a very satisfactory year at Swatow, and gives figures which fully justify his remarks. Altogether we have great pleasure in acknowledging the ability and hard work which are apparent in all the reports before us.

RECEPTION OF CHUNG HOW BY M. THIERS.

(THE TIMES.)

There is something indescribably strange in this story, so rudely is its end contrasted with its beginning. A Chinese mob rose, at the instigation, probably, of some designing persons, and massacred several Europeans, including even a French Consul. Satisfaction was demanded both by France and England, and accorded after some hesitation, but the authorities resolved to make further amends by sending an Embassy with excuses and explanations to the Emperor of the French. In this they were at the time undoubtedly well advised. But the revolutions of the interval upset every calculation, and transformed every feature and character of the scene. The mighty Government of the West, secure at home, and ready, indeed almost anxious, to assert on the slightest occasion its pretensions abroad, was changed into a nondescript State, only provisionally constituted, disorganised by military defeat, torn by intestine contests, and left without a spark of concern available for the missionary establishment at Tientsin. Who, indeed, could give much thought to a street riot in a Chinese town after the wholesale massacres of May and the conflagration of Paris itself? In the best days of Napoleon III. the outrage might have sufficed for an expedition, and the topic, at any rate, would have commanded the sympathies of the capital. But for every Frenchman who died at Tientsin at least a thousand must have been slain in Paris, and the whole affray, so absorbing at the time, was dwarfed into insignificance by the tremendous events at home. The French Empire has disappeared from the face of the globe. The then Emperor of the French is an exile. The French capital has been twice besieged and half destroyed. Had the Commune won the battles of May last, Tschong Haou and his bewildered colleagues might have been left to wander about the country without a Head or an Administration, and to seek in vain for any authorities to receive them.

M. Thiers, however, as might have been expected, was equal to his position, though his speech seems to have been addressed at least as much to the people of Paris as to the Princes of China. "You tell me," said he to the Ambassadors, "of the numerous punishments inflicted on the guilty. The French nation is too humane to take pleasure in the shedding of blood. It demands only that security which is necessary to restrain the wicked, and it believes that to rigorous measures others of a different character must be added. It is the duty of Governments, while repressing the excesses of the populace, to calm its passions, to dispel its prejudices, and to bring it to listen to the voice of reason and humanity." The programme is wisely framed, but who will say that it is the Emperor of China who is most in need of its doctrines? In what city, above all others in the world, are there passions to be restrained and prejudices to be dispelled? Who at this moment has more occasion than the President of the French Republic to remember the duties of a Government, and impress the precepts of reason upon a nation? What, indeed, have the Chinese done to deserve the homily? If they killed some missionaries in a riot, they never murdered an Archbishop in cold blood. Their insurrection was very soon over, and very soon punished. It is probably half forgotten at Tientsin; it has gone utterly out of mind in France.

It could not have cost M. Thiers much to accept the apology ceremoniously tendered by the Chinese, or to acknowledge his satisfaction with the redress thus furnished. The interview, indeed, gave him a favourable opportunity of closing a question which it no longer concerned France to keep open, and for terminating with a good grace and all honour a quarrel which had certainly been provoked, but which France was no longer in a mood to take up. The Chinese could hardly have done more had all the power of the French Empire remained still available for foreign war; indeed, what they actually did expressed a resolution taken when the power of that Empire was unimpaired. For the rest, M. Thiers told the Ambassadors the truth, and gave them exceedingly good advice, though what they will think or what they will report to "their august Master" of the scenes they witness might be a curious subject of speculation. Certainly the Chinese are not unused to revolutions or civil wars at home; but their dynasties are comparatively long-lived, and they have no experience of Republics. Perhaps, indeed, they can hardly comprehend such things, and their perplexity must have been complete if the new French Republic had been, as one of the Republican parties desires, a Republic without a President. It is said the Hindoos could never understand the nature of the "Company" by which they were so long governed, but persisted in giving it some mysterious impersonation of their own. So far the living presence and actual spectacle of a personage directly representing the French State must have produced a desirable impression on the Eastern Envoys. They were received in a magnificent hall of a truly Royal palace; the interview was conducted with becoming ceremony, and they saw and spoke with a ruler who, if he was not an Emperor, might be regarded as filling an Emperor's place. On the whole, perhaps, their conclusions may lead them to a due respect for the Government which they found, and that this may be the case is certainly to be hoped. We cannot afford to release the Chinese from the influence of fear. Whether their periodical outbreaks represent the frenzy of an ignorant populace or the arts of more designing classes above them it may be hard to say, but the position of our countrymen in the East is far from being secure. The interest of France in enforcing upon the Chinese the policy inculcated by M. Thiers is our interest also; indeed, had it been necessary, we must have allowed the duty of exacting amends from the Tientsin Massacre to devolve upon ourselves alone. Fortunately, there is no occasion for these extremities. The Chinese Government has repudiated the acts of its representatives, excused itself for their misdeeds, and punished the most guilty of the rioters, and neither we nor the French should be likely to mend matters by pursuing the question any further.

(THE GLOBE.)

After waiting a whole year or thereabouts, it appears that Chung How, the Chinese Ambassador to France, has been officially received by the President of the Republic. From the published reports of what passed at the interview, it may be inferred that the Embassy has accomplished its purpose, which was to deprecate those retributive measures which the French Government was expected to take by way of avenging the massacre of French officials and subjects at Tientsin on June 21, 1870. As M. Thiers has accepted the apology of the Emperor of China, there is no longer any question of a breach of friendly relations between the two countries; but there is material enough in the speeches delivered by the Ambassador and President respectively to call for some remarks. The late reception at Versailles is one of those mysterious international transactions the full significance of which requires time for its development; but we can already discern in the communications of last Thursday the germs of future discussions which may assume a serious form.

Commissioned to tender an apology for a fiendish outrage, it might have been expected that the Chinese Ambassador would have availed himself of the well-known arts of conciliation in which his countrymen so greatly excel. Above all, the most punctilious care for the tender susceptibilities of the French nation would naturally, we should have thought, be observed, so that no fresh insult or irritation should be added. The facts of the case were simple enough. An atrocity had been committed by persons who were suspected of being the tools of certain official personages in China, and twenty innocent French men and women had been put to a cruel death. The so-called investigation into the occurrences failed to establish any plea, however flimsy, in palliation of this crime. Yet the messenger of atonement, instead of making a full and frank admission of the crime that had been perpetrated, represents the occurrence of June 21 as a mere "disturbance." Twice he calls the massacre an "affair," and once he condescends to observe that the Emperor of China "regretted that affair." Allowance must, of course, be made for the obscuring effects of translation, and something may be set down to Oriental apathy and indifference to human life. But these considerations can hardly explain the perversion of history to which Chung How committed himself when he told M. Thiers that, "on the 21st June of last year some wicked men, having stolen children at Tien-tsin, were the cause of the disturbance there." The truth is that no stealing of children had any connection with the tragedy of the 21st June, and the only disturbance was the simple butchery of unoffending victims. According to Chung How's view of the matter nothing had occurred requiring the official explanation he had been sent to make. No murder had been committed, and for the trifling breach of the peace which had taken place twenty culprits had been executed and twenty-five banished. The creatures who were beheaded were distinctly not condemned as murderers, but, as Chung How puts it, as mere "rioters." Was it, then, to say this that a high dignity of China was despatched to France? This would be a case of parturiunt montes indeed. M. Thiers, to do him justice, seems to have made a slight effort to impress the Chinese emissary with a sense of the crime which had somehow got itself committed; but even with the whole armoury of French logic at his back the President is unable to get beyond the contradictory verdict, "Not guilty, but don't do it again."

The question of the extent of guilt of the Chinese Government and the sufficiency of the atonement is, however, of trivial importance compared with that of the future safety of Frenchmen and other foreigners in China. On this point the speeches at Versailles are not altogether reassuring. If a deliberate and officially organised massacre can be explained away by a species of verbal legerdemain, and made to appear as a kind of Irish scrimmage in which some people get their heads broken, then there seems to be no security whatever against the recurrence of such scenes, and the Chinese apologetic mission may become an institution. Chung How did, indeed, lay some stress on the fact that the Emperor had given orders to "assure security to those who had a right to it," and had "declared his firm will that the French in China shall enjoy peace and tranquillity." But what is the value of such platitudes when we hear by every mail of popular feeling being inflamed in every part of China by the most daring calumnies against the French and other foreigners? A repetition of the very process by which the Tientsin Massacre was prepared is going on over the length and breadth of the Empire, and no sane man can doubt that now, as then, it is the Chinese officials themselves who are directly responsible for the circulation of these inflammatory libels. In the very presence of M. Thiers we find Chung How indirectly endorsing them by asserting, in the face of all evidence, that the Tientsin Massacre was a disturbance brought about by the stealing of children, the Sisters of Charity having been the persons who were accused of this offence. No person much acquainted with contemporary history in China would be greatly surprised to hear of another massacre of foreigners there on a gigantic scale, despite the pleasant compliments that have just been exchanged at Versailles. While Chung How has been waiting the convenience of the French Government, the Government of Peking has been busying itself with anti-foreign manifestoes, condemning beforehand the probable victims of future massacres, and sketching out with cynical candour the programme of scenes which are likely to be enacted on the pattern of the tragedy of Tientsin, and which the Emperor's Government has hinted, in no ambiguous language, that it will be unable to prevent.

There is one point of remarkable divergence in the speeches of Chung How and M. Thiers, of which we shall probably hear more hereafter. The Emperor of China sent a letter to the President of the French Republic, and Chung How volunteered to take back an answer. The President, however, seems, in vulgar phrase, to have "smelt a rat" here, for he announced his intention of forwarding his reply, not by the hands of the Chinese Envoy, but through the Minister of the French Republic at Peking. Now, it would suit the Chinese Government admirably to conduct all its foreign relations in the capitals of the countries with which it holds intercourse if by that means it could fire over the heads of the resident Ministers at Peking. Foreign representatives in its own capital are a trouble and a weariness to the Chinese Government, and they keep alive the troublesome question of according them some day an official reception by the Emperor. If only China could deal with foreigners at a distance, by means of agents whose acts it could at pleasure repudiate, and whose functions could be safely represented in official circles in China in any way that would be gratifying to Chinese vanity, the said agents might allow themselves any license of flattery or of glowing promises that might be needful to appease the demands of Foreign Powers. M. Thiers has not altogether fallen into this trap. He will send his letter through his own Minister. But then comes the question whether the French Minister will be received by the Emperor. If he be so received, it would be a surrender of the Chinese claim to universal supremacy; if he be not received, the President's letter will not be delivered except through the post-office or some equally undignified channel. It can hardly be supposed that M. Thiers would deliberately court this affront; but, on the other hand, if he means to insist on the right of audience for the French representative at Peking, he must be prepared to support his demands by formidable demonstrations. In closing the Tientsin Massacre question, the President has parted with a powerful weapon by which the ulterior questions which remain to be discussed might have been brought to a peaceful issue. Had he simply refused to receive Chung How until Count de Rochechouart had been received by the Emperor of China, France would have occupied a commanding position; but this having been surrendered, it is to be feared that France must brook the indignity of her Minister being refused admission to the Imperial presence.

(PARIS JOURNAL OFFICIEL.)

The satisfaction made by the Chinese Government in consequence of the Tientsin Massacre consists of the following particulars:—1. The Chinese Government has inflicted death upon twenty-one persons whose guilt was proved, and twenty-five others have been transported. 3. The chief magistrate and the second magistrate of Tientsin have been degraded and exiled. 3. Various indemnities, amounting in the whole to £3,450,000, have been paid. These sums will be applied for the benefit of the families of the victims and for the reconstruction of the buildings that were destroyed. 4. The Chinese Government is at present having works executed at the cost of the city of Tientsin for the purpose of placing memorial stones upon the graves of the victims, and is to erect at the entrance of the cemetery where their remains are deposited a memorial gate, upon which will be inscribed an official proclamation referring to the punishment of the culprits, and denying the calumnious accusations directed against the Christians and the missionaries. 5. The Emperor of China has expressed the regret which these violent acts have caused him in the letter which he has instructed his Ambassador to deliver to the President of the Republic. The Ambassador has also, in the course of the conferences which he has had with our Minister of Foreign Affairs, made declarations which are regarded as satisfactory upon various points, the definitive settlement of which will be left to the care of the French Legation at Peking.

Monetary and Commercial.

The committee appointed by the steam-shipowners to confer with that of the merchants in regard to the unsatisfactory clauses in bills of lading, has not yet arrived at a decision as to the new form. It is urgently needed, and will doubtless provide against such deviations as the conveyance of pilgrims to Jeddah, with a cargo of tea and silk on board, from China.

Some rather considerable purchases of Bar Silver have been made for the East at prices ranging from 60½d. to 61d. per oz. standard, for immediate delivery; the market is now quiet, and buyers are holding off until the £500,000 of India Council Drafts are tendered for on the 6th inst. Mexican Dollars have been sold at an increased price on the rates lately quoted, the last transactions having been at 59½d. for new, and 61½d. for old coinage. The Pera has taken £103,000 to China and the Straits, and the Hong Kong about £70,000 to China.

It seems that the reports of a loss sustained by the Comptoir d'Escompte have been greatly exaggerated, the amount abstracted by the Shanghai comprador being £35,000, and from the character of the sureties it is expected that the whole amount will be made good.

The dividend to be recommended at the annual meeting of the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company, which will be held on the 7th inst., is 3 per cent. for the six months ending Sept. 30, with a payment of 1 per cent. from the underwriting account, making, with 3 per cent. dividend paid in June, a total of 7 per cent. for the year. The directors' report will be found in another column.

After a delay of over four years the creditors on the estate of Messrs. Mackellar and Co., of Hankow, are rewarded with the magnificent dividend of one-half per cent. The liabilities amounted to £420,000, or about £140,000, and after four years the assets realised amount to only £15,000, or £3,000. If the partners in this firm were not ruined some of the creditors must have been.

Mr. C. C. Rainbow, late of Hankow, and Mr. E. B. Holberton have formed a co-partnership under the style or firm of Rainbow, Holberton, and Co., as merchants and commission agents in London. The interest and responsibility of Mr. C. C. Rainbow in the firm of Evans and Rainbow has ceased, and the business will for the future be carried on under the style of J. H. Evans and Co.

A deputation from the Sanitary Committee of the City of London waited upon the Chancellor of the Exchequer last week for the purpose of drawing attention to the imperfect and inefficient state of the law for the importation and sale of unsound and spurious teas.

In introducing the deputation, Mr. Deputy Kelday said the City authorities were most anxious to put a stop to the importation and sale of spurious teas, but, in consequence of the imperfect and uncertain condition of the law, they had failed to put a stop to a practice which was really a public scandal. Dr. Lecheby pointed out that the manufacture of spurious tea was a recognised business in China. The spent or exhausted leaves of tea used by the Chinese were also sent into this country and put into circulation, under the name of "Maloo mixture." Large quantities of spurious and exhausted teas had come under his notice at the Commercial Sale Rooms, Mincing-lane. Samples of the tea had with some difficulty been obtained, and were found to be putrid and rotten, being exhausted tea that had been used by the Chinese and then redried. Last April 624 chests of spurious tea were sold by auction; they consisted partly of dust and iron filings, and realised from three to five farthings per lb. Many attempts had been made by the City authorities to bring the offenders to justice, but it had been found, owing to the imperfect state of the law, that it was impossible to reach the guilty parties. It was difficult to get access to the bonded warehouses to inspect the tea, and all sorts of technical legal difficulties had been thrown in their way as to whether tea could be considered as an article of food or drink, or even a vegetable. He contended that the law should be altered, and suggested that the Custom-House officers of the Port of London should be entrusted with the duty of inspecting and seizure of spurious and unwholesome tea, as they already possessed the most ample machinery for this purpose. At present the Customs had the power of refusing a permit for the delivery of unsound tea from bonded warehouses.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer said he was afraid the powers would be too large and delicate to be entrusted to such a class of men as the Custom-House officers. He recommended the deputation to submit their case to the Home Secretary, with a view of obtaining an amendment of the law.

The deputation to Mr. Lowe was the last of a series of efforts which have been conducted by the Sanitary Committee of the City of London to prevent the importation and sale of spurious tea. The history of these efforts is curious. In the early part of 1866 it came to the knowledge of the Committee that some 350,000 lbs. of salvage tea from the fire in Tooley-street was to be offered for sale. It was ascertained that this tea was either so charred by fire, or so exhausted by water from the engines, as to be quite unfit for human consumption. The Committee failed to obtain a condemnation of the wretched stuff, chiefly because the Act of Parliament does not sufficiently define tea, and it was held to be neither a vegetable nor an article of diet. In March, 1870, 201 chests of putrid leaves called Moning Congou, and fifty chests of what were called Orange Pekoe siftings, were advertised for sale. Six chests of the former and nine of the latter were seized under guarantee to the Dock Company, in order to test the powers of the law. The six chests were condemned by the magistrate as unwholesome, but his powers did not extend to the spurious siftings. Meantime the whole of the remaining chests were spirited away. Still more recently, in April of the present year, 628 chests of stuff, the principal ingredients of which seemed to be dirt and iron filings, were advertised, and sold by auction in the City at from three farthings to five farthings the pound; yet the authorities had no power to interfere. Unfortunately, under the existing law neither the Chancellor of the Exchequer, the Customs authorities, nor the Board of Trade are able to assist the civic authorities in preventing the sale of these spurious teas. It remains for the corporation to suggest to the Home Secretary some necessary alteration of the law; and this need not present any great difficulty.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

The heavy arrivals have caused a quieter tone in the market, the trade showing less disposition to buy, except the more desirable parcels of medium quality, both of black and red leaf Congou, and even in these importers have made some concession in price to effect sales. Good common Teas remain very steady at previous prices, but the low qualities have sold at a further decline upon previous low rates. Fine to finest kinds have been only in limited request. The lower prices ruling for red leaf, valued at 1s. 2d. to 1s. 6d. per lb., have been to the extent of 1d. to 1½d. per lb., and for black leaf, 1d. to 1d. per lb. The demand for export to the Continent and Canada appears finished for the season, as nothing has been done, and to other quarters, transactions have been on the smallest scale. We are not able to give the details of Stock, the returns not yet being issued, but according to the daily Custom's reports the deliveries to the 27th ult. amount to 12,305,000 lbs., against 15,613,000 lbs. to 27th October.

BLACK.—Red-leaf kinds: Siftings of new season have sold in public sale at lower prices; broken-leaf kinds also at 1d. to 1d. per lb. decline; fair to good common have been firm at previous prices, the supply being small; fair Kaisows still command full prices, say from 1s. 1d. to 1s. 3d.; good qualities, from 1s. 4d. to 1s. 6d., have been in over-supply, and prices have given way 1d. to 1d. per lb.; fine have been difficult of sale at rather lower prices; in finest there is nothing new to report. Pak Lin kinds: the good qualities have been in demand for export at about previous prices. Black-leaf kinds: The low descriptions, under 10d. per lb., have sold at public sale at a decline of 1d. to 1d. per lb.; fair to good common remain steady at previous prices; fair to good medium kinds have been sold to some extent, but prices must be quoted 1d. to 1d. per lb. lower; fine have been less in demand at rather lower prices; finest show no alteration. Amoy kinds: Low qualities have been sold at public sale from 1½d. to 5½d. per lb., being 1d. to 1d. per lb. decline. Good kinds are saleable at former prices. New make Canton Congous have been sold at about previous rates, say 11d. to 1s. 2d. per lb. for common to fair kinds. Oolongs show no material alteration.

Souchongs: Good kinds have been sold 1d. per lb. lower; fine to finest at about former prices. Flowery Pekoes still command high prices for fine descriptions. Scented Teas—Canton Capers: Common to fair have sold without change in prices, good to fine at rather easier rates. Foochow kinds have been difficult of sale at 1d. per lb. decline. Orange Pekoe: Canton kinds have not been readily saleable. Foochow kinds: Good kinds have been sold at the decline last quoted; fine have sold at fully former prices. Uncoloured Japans: The quantity on offer is in excess of the wants of buyers, and prices are rather irregular.

GREEN.—The Albyn's Isle, from Nagasaki, has arrived with 330,000 lbs. Japan Leaf, but only a portion of the cargo has been offered, as this class of Tea for the time being is not wanted, the ordinary outlets being closed for the season, and prices in the United States rule lower than on this market. The few sales are, common skinny leaf 6d. to 7d.; and small curled leaf, called Pekoe, or No. 1 quality, 1s. 3d. to 1s. 5d. per lb.

SILK.

The market has been quiet during the past week, and transactions have been on a small scale, but prices remain very firm and unchanged. Importers are firm holders, and will not accept any reduction from present rates for China Silk. Japans and Bengals are quite neglected. In Cantons there has been some business at 16s. for market Tsatlée. Deliveries from 1st to 29th Nov.:

Canton	810	612
Japan	557	410
Bengal	337	301

COFFEE.

The market for Ceylon—notwithstanding that the public sales have presented but a small supply—has been very dull during the week, and prices show a decline of 6d. to 1s. per cwt., the business done being extremely small, both privately and at the auctions. The latest rates paid have been—for Plantation, triage 60s. to 62s. 6d., small 66s. to 67s. 6d., low middling grey 70s. to 72s. 6d., bold ditto 74s. to 76s., peaberry 83s. 6d. to 84s. 6d. Native has been in even less demand than Plantation, and all offers have been withdrawn or bought in; but for arrival 75 tons Native Ceylon have been sold during the last few days at 67s. guaranteed good ordinary.

The landings for last week show a decrease of fully 500 tons, whilst the deliveries are smaller than for some time past, and 250 tons less than last year, the deficiency in the stock being increased to 9,500 tons. The quantity of Ceylon Coffee afloat for Great Britain is estimated as follows:—Plantation, 88,512 cwt., against 56,115 cwt. at the corresponding date of 1870; Native 19,694 cwt., against 2,466 cwt. The quantity afloat for the Continent is nil (in both years). The quantity of Coffee landed in the forty-seven weeks ended Nov. 25, 1871, was, of Ceylon, 35,604 tons, against 39,575 tons during the corresponding period of 1870; of all descriptions, 67,412 tons, against 68,165 tons. The quantity entered for home consumption was, of Ceylon, 10,193 tons, against 9,446 tons; of all descriptions, 18,305 tons, against 17,201 tons. The quantity exported was, of Ceylon, 29,912 tons, against 28,237 tons; of all descriptions, 54,977 tons, against 46,711 tons. The stock on Nov. 25 was, of Ceylon, 9,015 tons, against 15,758 tons; of all descriptions, 18,939 tons, against 28,472 tons.

CINNAMON.

The last quarterly sales for the present year were held on the 27th ult. The total quantity of Ceylon offered was 1,965 bales, which met a steady demand, prices at the same time showing some irregularity; fine and superior qualities of first sort brought quite last sale's rates, but medium and second and third sorts sold rather cheaper, fourth being rather dearer. Of the whole quantity offered 1,800 bales found buyers, and the following shows the prices paid for the various descriptions:—

551	First sort, superior	3 7 to 3 10
	Medium to fine	2 10 — 3 5
834	Second sort, superior	3 6
	Medium to good	2 7 — 3 2
473	Third sort, fine	2 11 — 3 0
	Chiefly ordinary to medium	2 5 — 2 9
	Low	1 8 — 2 2
166	Fourth sort, good to fine	2 4 — 2 7
	Very low to medium	0 10 — 2 2
141	Spurious	0 14 — 0 3

Of Cinnamon Chips, 1,033 bags Ceylon were offered and met a moderate demand; only 300 bags were sold at previous sale's rates—coarse bark 2d., fair to good chips 5½d. to 6½d.—the remainder being bought in at 3d. for ordinary to 6½d. for good.

The next auctions are fixed for the 26th February, 1872.

SUGAR.

The market continues very strong at the recent advance, but owing to a further advance being generally required by holders, especially for those descriptions generally sought after by speculators, the business has been considerably restricted. The only sales we have to report are 303 bags fine brown and low yellow Penang at auction, at 30s. 6d. to 31s., and privately 4,980 bags old common Taal Manila, ex last week's auction, at 23s.

The quantity of Sugar landed in the forty-seven weeks ended Nov. 21, 1871, was, of Penang, 1,520 tons, against 3,023 tons in the corresponding period of 1870; of Manila, Java and China, 20,168 tons, against 19,212 tons; the quantity entered for home consumption was, of Penang, 3,536 tons, against 2,161 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 31,276 tons, against 23,794 tons. The quantity exported was, of Penang, 303 tons, against 120 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 1,638 tons, against 3,732 tons. The stock on Nov. 25 was, of Penang, 652 tons, against 3,077 tons; of Manila, Java, and China, 14,999 tons, against 27,476 tons.

CAMPBELL.—China: The market continued quiet at 70s. re-weights till a few days ago, since when there has been a large speculative demand, and 2,500 cases have changed hands at 70s. to 72s. 6d.; there are few sellers now at those figures. Japan: Without transactions.

CUBERS.—Large arrivals, and prices show a further fall; 251 bags sold at auction at 20s. to 23s. 6d. for middling to good quality.

COPRA.—Scarce; supplies would meet with ready sale.

CHINA ROOR. is still in limited supply, and holders will only quit their stocks at high prices, which at present buyers decline to pay.

COLOMBO ROOR.—In good demand, but scarce; business done privately at prices not reported.

CARDAMOMS.—Large arrivals and few buyers, but holders firm; of 61 packages, chiefly Aleppo, at auction, barely one-fourth sold, very good at 10s. 8d.; good bright, little greenish, 10s. 1d. to 10s. 2d.; more brown and mixed 9s. 5d. to 9s. 8d.

COIR GOODS have met with a fair demand, Yarn bringing very full rates; Fibre and Rope are unchanged. At the sales 38 bales middling Ceylon Yarn sold at £30 5s.; 94 bales Ceylon were bought in at £44 to £50 per ton; of 75 tons Ceylon in dholls, 45 tons sold at £28 to £35 per ton for common to good middling; 6 tons Ceylon Mattress Fibre sold at £18 to £30 15s.; 84 tons Ceylon Rope brought £18 15s. to £21 per ton for 2½ to 4 inch.

CURON is somewhat less depressed than of late, and about 1,200 boxes have been sold by private contract, Rangoon at 24s., and Penang at 23s. 9d. per cwt.

COCOA-NUT OIL.—The market continues dull at lately ruling prices, Ceylon £38 10s., Cochin £51. At public sale 9 pipes Ceylon sold, rather dull to fair at £38 10s.; of 114 hogsheads offered 95 hogsheads sold, brownish to good at £38 10s. to £38 15s. per ton.

DRAGON'S-BLOOD.—Market steady; supply increased by arrivals; one case good lump reported sold at £7 10s. per cwt.

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Aniseed has been dealt in speculatively to a large extent, some 70 cases having changed hands up to 12s. 6d. per lb., but there are no sellers now. Cassia has been more inquired for, and 4s. 11d. paid, but there is no quantity offering. Nutmeg: A little more offering; 8 cases at auction sold at 10d. per oz. Cinnamon: Very scarce, and wanted. Citronelle: More inquiry prevails in the absence of any supply brought to auction. Lemon Grass: Steady, and of 25 cases offered, half sold at 2½d. per oz. for good quality.

EBONY.—No change; fine figured Ceylon in request at high quotations. Sale reported of 41 logs (12 tons) Ceylon at £14 15s. per ton.

GAMBIER has met a steady inquiry, and a fair business has been transacted both on the spot and afloat, at about previous rates. On the spot by private contract about 1,800 bales block have been sold at 17s. 6d., a little 18s.; and for arrival 400 tons at 17s. 3d. to 17s. 6d. ex ship, chiefly the latter price. At auction, 536 bales 1,541 mats Cubes sold at 19s. to 23s., and 68 bales Bombay strips at 18s. 6d. per cwt.

GUMS.—Benjamin: Sumatra is quiet; in public sale 90 cases were nearly all bought in; 23 cases Siam also offered, and retired; arrivals of both. Copal dull; of 210 cases at auction about half sold, common coated hard 21s. to 22s. Gamboge quiet; of 22 cases offered three-fourths sold at £11 10s. to £12 per cwt. for fair sorts. Damar quite neglected, and 205 cases offered, and retired.

GALLS.—China: Firm, and dearer. Nearly 500 cases have changed hands privately up to 55s. per cwt., but at auction 207 cases were offered, and retired at 56s., only 53s. being bid. Japan: No business reported.

GUTTA-PERCHA.—Market very dull; 144 baskets and 4 tons at auction retired. Privately about 50 tons have been sold at 11d. to 1s. 1½d. for common white and reboiled.

HEMP.—Manila continues in only moderate request, but some 1,500 bales have changed hands privately, and at auction of 1,460 bales offered, about one-third found buyers at prices a shade lower on the average—viz., good fair roping, £48s 5s. to £48 10s.; mixed, £42 to £43 5s. per ton.

HIDES.—At the public sales held 30th ult. a moderate quantity of East India Kips was brought forward, and nearly all sold without material alteration from last sale's prices. Singapore and Penang Buffalo were in limited demand, and only a few lots found buyers. Ox and Cow: 7,237 Penang sold, light 6½ to 7½ lb. at 10½d. to 11½d., heavy 8½ to 9½ lb. at 9½d. to 9½d., extra 12½ to 14½ lb. at 8½d. to 9½d., small and calf 9½d. to 9½d., thirds 6½d. to 8½d., fourths 6½d. Buffalo: Of 1,185 Java 375 sold, 27lb. at 5½d. Of 2,567 Singapore and Penang 772 sold, heavy 32½ to 38lb. at 4½d. to 4½d. 1,170 Manila and 342 Batavian withdrawn.

HORNS.—No transactions.

ISINGLASS.—Market steady for fine; common, still neglected; 97 packages nearly all placed; Pipe or Tongue 1s. 3d. to 2s. 10d. low dark to fair; Leaf, 3s. 8d. to 3s. 9d. fair to fine; common and middling part dark, 2s. to 3s.; Purse, good clean, 1s. 3d. to 1s. 7d.; low mouldy, 4½d.

INDIA-RUBBER.—Without change; good qualities scarce; no transactions.

JAPAN WAX.—Very dull; scarcely any demand; at auction 55 cases offered and bought in at £5 to £5 2s. 6d. per cwt.

MUSK.—Market steady, and 18 caddies sold in auction, fair-shaped selected pods with a few roughish intermixed at 31s. to 32s.; rough and bally at 16s. per oz.

PEPPER.—Black has been very dull, with very restricted trade at lower prices, latest being:—Singapore 6½d. to 6½d.; Penang 5½d. to 6d. At public sale 3,639 bags offered, and only a few bags Trang sold at 6d. White has been very inactive, but of 1,156 Singapore offered at auction, mostly new arrivals, part overland, about 900 sold at 1s. 1½d. to 1s. 1½d. for fair to good, and 1s. 1d. to 1s. 1½d. dingy brownish; 95 bags Penang also sold at 1s. to 1s. 0½d. for fair.

PLUMBAGO.—Market for Ceylon quiet, except for very fine qualities, which are scarce; of 781 barrels at auction, a small proportion only sold; lump, good bright, 26s. 6d.; chips, fair, 14s.; dust, good, 9s. Stock large.

RHUBARB.—Prices of China again rather easier. Of 418 cases offered at public sale, rather more than half found buyers: fine bold selected root of good fracture, 3s. 6d. to 4s. per lb.; good bold and medium of fair and good fracture, 2s. 6d. to 2s. 9d.; high dried fair pale and pinky fracture, 2s. to 2s. 3d.; smaller and rougher, 1s. 6d. to 1s. 8d.; dull, wormy bold, 10d. to 1s. 1d.; rather preferable, 1s. 3d.; inferior ough dark, 3½d. to 4d.

RATTANS.—In demand, but there is no supply; no sales to report.

RICE.—The market is steady, but with daily decreasing activity, and the business done during the week has been small, although previous prices have been maintained. Middling to good white Bengal has sold at 11s. 4½d. to 12s., broken at 10s. 9d., Ballam at 9s. 3d., ex quay. For arrival 200 tons Madras, August sailing, sold recently at 10s. 3d., ex quay. In auction 8,676 bags Neeransie Arracan, per Waterloo, were bought in at 10s. 6d., excepting 1,800 bags third class sea damaged and loose collected, which sold at 9s. 3d. to 9s. 6d.

SPICES.—Cinnamon: See report of quarterly sales above. Cloves: Market dull; 5 cases Penang at public sale bought in. Cassia Ligna, &c.: Scarce, and higher figures again required. Vera: 427 bales Calcutta retired, but subsequently sold, the bulk at 39s. per cwt. Buds steady. Mace continues firm, and 23 cases Singapore at auction were nearly all placed—good bold 4s. 10d., low to fair middling 3s. 4d. to 4s. 3d. Nutmegs are a shade lower, and rather less demand prevails; 30 cases offered and sold—63s. 4s. 1d.; 66s. 8s. 10d.; 71s to 76s. 3s. 7d. to 3s. 5d.; 87s. 3s. 4d.; 107s. 3s. 1d.

SAGO.—Market firm; of 3,596 bags in auction, half sold at 17s. 6d. to 18s. for good medium and large, and 16s. 6d. to 17s. good small. Flour quiet; 390 bags offered and retired.

SAPANWOOD.—Manila and Siam in good demand, but very short supply; 10 tons Cebu at auction sold at £8 5s. to £8 7s. 6d., splinters £1. Ceylon scarce, and holders demand high prices; no transactions to report.

SHELLS.—No business since the periodical sales reported in our issue of the 20th ult.

STICKLAC.—Siam scarce, and high; private business at fully last quoted rates.

STAR ANISEEDS.—No supply.

SOY.—Steady, at previously ruling prices.

TOBACCO.—At public sale on the 29th ult. 259 bales Java sold—Banting, 10d. to 1s. 5½d.; Blitah Papoh, 7½d. to 2s. 1½d.; 264 ditto, ditto (damaged). Banting, 8½d. to 1s. 6½d.; Blitah Papoh, 5½d. to 1s. 9½d., two lots 2½d.; 24 bales Japan, 10d.; 137 bales (damaged), 7d. to 8½d.; and 2 bales Manila, repacked, at 1s. 5d. and 2s. 2d. per lb.

TAPIOCA.—Prices slightly lower at the close, but during the fortnight a moderate private trade has been done at former prices. At public sale 2,170 bags Singapore, three-fourths sold, fair to good white, 2d. to 2½d.; dingy dull, 1½d. per lb.; 216 bags Penang sold at 2d. to 2½d. for good greyish. Of 230 bags Pearl offered half sold at 20s. dingy small medium. Flour: Steady but quiet; 203 bags retired.

TIN.—Since our last report the price of Banca and Billiton has advanced £5 per ton. Straits, having been more speculated in, has advanced about £9 per ton. The current quotations are—Straits, on the spot, £155; afloat, £150; Banca, £150; Billiton, £149 per ton. Telegrams from Holland were received yesterday, showing deliveries during the month of 39,017 slabs, and that there are but 16,000 slabs at present shipped towards the spring sale has caused great excitement in Holland as well as here. The quotation there is 88 guilders.

TURMERIC.—Java unsaleable.

VERMILION.—China still out of supply.

CASUALTIES.

The Shepherd (barque), Armstrong, which sailed, Nov. 15 from Newcastle for Galle, was towed into Harwich on the 25th, for repairs, having been in collision with the Orwell (str.) off Hasborough, on the 22nd, when she received damage to port quarter; the vessel is tight.

Advices from Cape Town, dated Oct. 19, state that the Landbou, Jansen, from Batavia to Rotterdam, which put into Simon's Bay, Oct. 6, leaky, had been surveyed and found to be making two inches water per hour; the cargo between decks had been ordered to be discharged, and amongst the portion already landed some coffee and sugar was found to be damaged.

The Bhering, Burr, which sailed from Hamburg, Nov. 24, for Nicolajefak, put into Falmouth, 29, with loss of maintopsailyard.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Advices from Rotterdam, dated Nov. 25, state that the hull inventory of the condemned vessel Aldebaran, Meyboom, from Batavia to New York, which put into Simon's Bay Sept. 8 leaky, had been sold for £820; 3,400 bags damaged sugar were sold Oct. 6.

NEW LIGHTS IN JAPAN.

The following notices to mariners, received through the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs from the Japanese Government, have been issued by the Board of Trade:—

The Government of Japan hereby gives notice that stone beacons have been built on the shallows called Yodaibi, Narusi, and Manaita, in the Straits of Simonosaki, they being the western entrance to the Inland Sea of Japan. The following is a specification of the appearance and position of the beacons:—Yodaibi Beacon is erected on a rock which uncovers about four feet at low water spring tides. It is cone-shaped, and has a plain rounded top, being twenty feet high and eight feet in diameter at the base, and is painted red. It is situated to the eastward of the navigable channel, and the Kilbune bears from it south 63 degrees west distant 4½ cables. Narusi Beacon is built on a sandbank, which shows about two feet at low water spring tides. It is also cone-shaped, but is surmounted by a pear-shaped top, which is twenty feet above the base. The beacon is eight feet in diameter at the base, and is painted white. It is situated to the northward of the navigable channel, and Kilbune Point bears from it N. 41 degrees E., distant 2½ cables. Manaita Beacon is erected on a rock which scarcely shows at low water. It is cone-shaped, and is surmounted by a ball three feet in diameter, which is twenty feet above the base. The beacon is eight feet in diameter at the base, and is painted with black and white rings. It is situated to the northward of the navigable channel, and Oyamanohana bears from it S. 82 degrees E., distant 4½ cables.

The Government of Japan also gives notice that a light of the first order will be shown from the Island of Iwosima, at the entrance to Nagasaki harbour, on the West Coast of Japan, every night from sunset to sunrise. The temporary light shown since July, 1870, will be discontinued. The following is a specification of the position of the lighthouse and the appearance of the light:—Nagasaki Lighthouse is situated on the northernmost point of the Island of Iwosima. It is in 32 deg. 43 min. north latitude, and is 129 deg. 46 min. east of Greenwich. It is constructed of iron, is hexagonal in shape, and is painted white, being of a height of 23 feet to the centre of the lantern. The light is a fixed white light of the first order, and will illuminate 245 deg. of the horizon, being eclipsed on one side outside the Mituzue Rocks, on a bearing of S. 30 deg. W., and on the other to the northwards of Kalgeno Point, on a bearing of S. 85 deg. E., bearings true. The total elevation of the light above the sea is 205 feet, and its range of visibility from a vessel's deck 21½ nautical miles.

The Government of Japan hereby gives notice that a lightship has been moored in Hakodate harbour as a guide to vessels using the port. It will show a fixed white light, from sunset to sunrise. The lightship formerly moored in Hakodate harbour has been removed. The following is a specification of the position of the lightship and the appearance of the light:—The lightship is moored in 7½ fathoms low water spring tides, on the northernmost point of the Spit which runs out from Point Azama. The mouth of Kamida Creek bears from it S. 74 degrees E., White Bluff S. 10 degrees W., and Yanenai Point S. 85 degrees W., bearings true. The lightship is painted red, has two masts, and has a red ball at the foremasthead. A fixed white light is shown from it, at an elevation of thirty-six feet above the sea, which is visible from a vessel's deck ten nautical miles. It is advisable for vessels of large draught to round the lightship to the northward, as there is a rough bank of boulder stones directly to the south of it.

LAUNCH OF STEAMERS ON THE CLYDE.—On Nov. 29 there was launched from Messrs. Robert Napier and Sons' shipbuilding yard at Govan, an iron screw steamer, named the Galley of Lorne, for the East India and China trade of Messrs. Shaw, Maxton, and Co., London. She is of the following dimensions:—Length, 320 feet, depth, 36 feet; and builders' measurement 2,100 tons. The steamer will be fitted up with compound engines similar to those of the sister ship, Lord of the Isles, recently constructed for the same firm. Messrs. Aitken and Mansel, Whiteinch, launched on the same day the Glenrosa, a screw steamer of 2,000 tons, for Messrs. Wm. Ross and Co., Glasgow, for their trade between the Clyde and the East Indies and China. The Glenrosa, which has been built to the highest class at Lloyd's, will be fitted with engines of 300-horse power by Messrs. John and James Thomson, Glasgow.

THE RUSSIAN STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY.—The steamer Nachimoff, belonging to the Russian Steam Navigation Company, is now loading for a second voyage to Bombay, from which port she will return before proceeding to China to load next season's teas. We understand that this company have eleven steamers in course of construction at English yards for their home trade, in addition to one for the China line which is building at Newcastle.

A BURMESE VESSEL.—The Ysekya Yeen Byan, built by Messrs. Palmer, of Jarrow, under instruction from the King of Burmah's agents in this country, has left the Thames. This is the first steamer which has gone direct from London to Rangoon via the Suez Canal. It is also the first occasion on which the Burmese flag, a peacock, has been hoisted in English waters.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENTAND PILLS.—HELP UNDER SUFFERING.

No diseases which afflict the human body are more irksome to bear, or more difficult to cure, than skin diseases, whether superficial sores or deep ulcerations. Holloway's Ointment has proved itself a remedy for these maladies; it clears off scurfy encrustations, heals up cracks and fissures, reduces unnatural heat, mitigates irritation and inflammation, and it at once assuages pain, cleans wounds, and works out a sound and lasting cure more certainly and more rapidly than any other application. In those affections which are probably constitutional or chronic, debilitated habits and constitutional ailments, Holloway's Pills should be taken to increase the salutary effects of his ointment.

ART, PICTORIAL AND INDUSTRIAL. An Illustrated Magazine.

THIS Publication was commenced on July 1st, 1870, in the belief that an ample field existed for a high class monthly magazine devoted to Art; and already the result has fulfilled this expectation. 'ART' is produced in a form eminently adapted to the drawing-room table. It is handsomely printed on fine paper, in super-royal quarto, and each Number contains four or more full-page Heliotype Illustrations, being reproductions of Ancient and Modern Pictures, Engravings, Designs, Sculpture, and objects of Industrial or Decorative Art.

TANJONG PAGAR DOCK COMPANY

VICTORIA DOCK, SINGAPORE.

This Company's Granite DRY DOCK, 450 feet in length, 65 feet width of entrance, and 20 feet depth of water on the sill, was OPENED on the 17th October, 1868. In the high tides of the North-East Monsoon there is a foot to eighteen inches more water.

In connection with the Dock is a complete range of workshops, fitted with steam machinery, driving all descriptions of engineers' tools required in the construction and repair of vessels and machinery, and a foundry for iron and brass castings.

The Company's extensive Wharves and Godowns for receiving and storing cargo immediately adjoin the Dock.

Having an efficient European staff in each department, the Company is in a position to guarantee the best workmanship, executed with every possible despatch, as well as low rates of charges.

These advantages, and the great facilities which the proximity of the Dock to the town offers for the transport of materials, &c., enable this Company to adopt a very low scale of charges for ships' work of all classes.

Summary of News from the Far East.

JAPAN. YOKOHAMA.

The present (Pacific) mail brings dates to the 23rd Oct. The French mail, with London dates to the 18th Aug., was received on the 5th, and the following English mail, of Aug. 25, on the 15th Oct. The following items are from the Japan Gazette:—

Rumour began to busy itself lately with accounts of new troubles in Yedo, arising from the determination of the Government to carry out the late decree of the Government for the abolition of the clan system with strictness and expedition. But it has received a quietus from the evident solidity of the Governmental power, and the calm manner in which it is carrying out all its designs. One of the most important matters in its bearing upon trade and commerce that has yet been under discussion by the Mikado's Ministers is now before them. It has been proposed to permit the exportation of rice, the present prospects of the harvest being of a most exceptionally favourable character. Already the price of this staple has fallen so low that it is more advantageous to re-export the Saigon and Chinese rice that had arrived than to sell it here, and all of it has been shipped for this purpose; but it is not yet allowed to export the native article. If, however, the sanction of the Mikado is given to this, we expect that the export may fully equal the quantities imported last year.

The railway has been laid from Yokohama as far as the river Rokugo (Logo) at Kawasaki, just half way to Yedo by the road, and there is some expectation of opening the line so far by the new year.

In the rowing match between Kobé and Yokohama the result was in favour of the Y. A. R. C. Since then three of the gentlemen of the Kobé crew entered the lists at a competition in athletic sports generally. Out of 15 prizes, the Kobé men carried off 9.

Mr. Troup, late H.B.M.'s Consul at Ne-gata, has arrived with Mrs. Troup at Yedo. He is about to proceed to Hakodadi, to relieve Mr. Eusden, who has arrived here en route for Europe on leave. The British Consulate at Ne-gata is now closed, and only four Europeans remain at the port.

A little after midnight on the morning of Oct. 11 a marine attached to H.M.S. Barrosa, returning to the ship from leave, slipped into the water and was drowned.

Much curiosity is excited by the fact that at the Nogé Hill cutting the labourers have struck upon a piece of land, from whence, at every stroke of the pick or dig with the mattock, smoke rises from the soil which is quite hot, and possesses a sulphurous smell. It is generally supposed that there must be a hot sulphur spring beneath.

The following is from the Weekly Mail:—We understand that Ito has been appointed one of the executive officers of the Finance department in a position answering somewhat to that of our own Commissioner of Inland Revenue. The Government undoubtedly does well to avail itself of his services, but it must be confessed that he is by no means a popular man with the best class of Japanese officials. His too easy accessibility to foreigners of inferior standing is not calculated to raise his reputation among his own people or among those foreigners who dislike seeing the Japanese made the dupes of those who ill-represent their better types.

A very general complaint among the members of this community is the very scant and unsatisfactory telegrams which reach this port. It is manifestly impossible for us, or for any newspaper in Japan, to obtain exclusive telegrams from Europe at the existing rates. We must again call attention to the unsatisfactory condition of the new road. On the hill leading to the race-course there is a hole stretching completely across the road, and effectually barring any vehicles except those of very narrow gauge from passing, while further down in Mississippi Bay there is a hole which cannot be passed without serious damage. We are glad to see that one of the most obnoxious "corners" on the road up the hill—that near the French barracks—has, through the courtesy of the French commandant, been removed, and the road at this point is now no longer a source of danger. The thanks of the community are due to Captain de Villeneuve.

Just before the U. S. Colorado left the dry dock at Yokoska a fatal accident took place. The captain of the fore-castle was standing on the sill of one of the ports of the upper tier of guns, when the ropes supporting it gave way, and he was precipitated a distance of fifty feet on to the stones below. When picked up he was quite dead, and the doctor asserts that nearly every bone in his body was broken.

On the 15th Oct. Yokohama was visited by a somewhat severe shock of earthquake, followed by another slight shock. We have lately been comparatively free from earthquakes, but the experience of the last day or two suggests the return of these unpleasant phenomena with all their usual frequency.

HIOGO.

Our advices extend to the 18th Oct. The London mail (French) of 18th Aug., arrived out Oct. 8th, and the Pacific mail steamer with New York dates Aug. 24 on the same day; telegrams from London had been received to the 4th Oct. The following items are from the Hiogo News :—

Troubles have arisen in Gêshû, which threaten to develop into a very unpleasant state of affairs. The head of the Government was summoned to Yedo, and was about to answer the summons, when he was informed by some of his faithful subjects that he would not be allowed to go, as they would rather see him in his grave than a servant to the Mikado. A disturbance of a rather serious nature has ensued, and several people have been killed. The Nautilus left Yokohama with troops a few days ago to quell the disturbances. The first news of this affair reached Kobe from the European staff, who are employed in laying the telegraph between here and Nagasaki. Serious and extremely practical objections were made to their continuing their work, and they have sent down for instructions. There is no cause for any serious alarm, however, as the disturbance is only local.

Great progress has been made with the railway works between here and Osaka. The site of the station at Kobe has been raised, and is ready for receiving the buildings which are daily expected from England. The engines have been made in England by first-class makers, and on some trial trips in Yokohama gave great satisfaction. The carriages are of a very light and inexpensive character, fitted up with little ornament. They are, however, lofty and well ventilated. Of course the fact that most, if not all, of the European workmen engaged have been employed on the Yedo line has caused a certain amount of delay down here, but not so much as might have reasonably been expected. It has been determined, we hear, to use cast iron sleepers, and we hear also that a quantity has been already delivered at Kobe. We are not aware who is responsible for the giving of the order for these sleepers, but we were certainly very much surprised to hear that any such order had been given. There is plenty of wood about the hills here, which we believe to be very similar in its nature to larch, and why, therefore, people should go to the expense of importing iron sleepers from abroad is rather mysterious. With reference to the extension to Kioto and Ootz on Lake Biwa, the surveys are being rapidly pushed forward, and it is expected that the trial ones will very soon be ready.

A rumour reached our ears that Mr. Nakayama had been superseded in the Governorship of Hiogo, to be succeeded by one Mootzu. Full of hope we made some inquiries on the subject, and were informed that the information was to a certain extent true, but that the arrangement was of a temporary nature.

We are glad to see that Messrs. Lougee, having been temporarily released from their apparently hopeless task of trying to raise the Hiogo, have at last got to work on the wreck of the Pride of the Thames. She is anything but the pride of Kobe harbour just at present, and setting aside the fact of their being eyesores, these sunken wrecks about the bay are a source of great danger to the navigation. We wonder, indeed, that the Government does not insist on their being blown up when they have cumbered the water beyond a certain period.

The Hiogo Cricket Club of 1869, which collapsed for want of a ground whereon to play, has been resuscitated under the style of the "Kobe Cricket Club;" and at a meeting held at the Oriental Hotel on Saturday last, Messrs. Groom, Corden, Cream, Macpherson and Lucas were elected as committee.

At a meeting of the trustees of the International Hospital, held on the 10th Oct., it appearing evident to the Board that the Governor intended to lend no aid in the matter of appropriating a site, as he had led them to suppose he would, and as the season for the prevalence of small-pox and other contagious diseases was now close at hand, it was resolved that the Working Committee be authorised to see what could be done in the way of leasing suitable premises for the time being, until other arrangements could be made of a more satisfactory nature.

We have reported lately several robberies which have been perpetrated on Europeans, and now we have to record that a Consul has been robbed! A watch and pistol were stolen from the bedside of Gen. P. Frank, U.S. Consul here, and now that matters have come to this pitch, they must, we should think, turn for the better.

It is with great pleasure we observe that the Kusho-maru, Capt. Kirby, has been placed on the line between here and Osaka. She has been splendidly fitted up by her owners, Messrs. E. C. Kirby and Co., and supplies a want that has been felt for some time. The arrangements of the Kusho-maru give comfortable quarters to about 450 Japanese, besides a room nicely fitted up for foreigners only.

The ceremony of laying the corner-stone of the Masonic Hall took place on Sept. 16, and proved in every way a complete success. The stone was laid by Bro. P. M. Kinder, who afterwards addressed the Brethren.

An Osaka correspondent writes that the protracted election has terminated at last, and Messrs. Real, Hay and Klein are the resulting triplet. That Mr. Real should head the poll is to be explained by the large proportion of the French element amongst our foreign population.

The following news is from the same source :—Although the native retail tradesmen still set their faces against the new coins, the case is very different with the wholesale dealers, and yens are now at 2 per cent. premium against Mexicans. Large quantities of the half yens and smaller silver coins are being produced daily at the Mint, but are absorbed as rapidly as they are struck. The coinage of gold has now commenced, and I hear that a large quantity of five yen pieces has been delivered to the Finance department, preparatory, I suppose, to their being issued to the O.B.C.

The gas works at the Mint are, after so much wearisome delay, at length in working order. For several nights the dwelling-houses of the officials have been lighted with gas, and the lamps surrounding the Mint buildings have been also lit. This is the first successful introduction of gas into Japan.

A want which must have long been felt by the owners of the numerous fleet of steamboats which ply between Kobe and Osaka and Kioto has been at length supplied by the establishment of works for the repair of boilers and machinery. The new comers are Messrs. A. Ross and Co., with several European workmen in their employ.

At the new brewery, Mr. Fiirst, the manager, is hard at work, and the Nipponese seem to take very kindly to his tap. Bottled samples of the beverage, bearing on a red and white label the words "Osaka Beer, brewed by the Kaisosha," may be seen in different parts of the town.

NAGASAKI.

The following items are from the Nagasaki Express :—

The Pacific Mail Steamship Company's steamer Alaska, Captain Jeff. Maury, 4,012 tons, arrived in this harbour on the 5th inst., from Yokohama, and left again this afternoon for Hong Kong. She is the largest mercantile steamer that has yet visited this port, which of course has made her as great a novelty to many of the natives here as the Great Eastern was some years ago in England.

H.M.S. Ocean and Salamis leave for Hong Kong, the latter en route for England. Mr. Annesley, the Acting Consul, and family, leave by the last-named vessel.

We hear that an English engineer, Mr. J. O. Fry, who is connected with the Government Telegraph Department, arrived here on Tuesday last by the Pacific Mail steamer Oregonian. He is accompanied by three Japanese officers, and will shortly proceed with them to Simonoseki, in order to survey the road en route and make the necessary preparations for laying a section of the overland telegraph between that place and the station at Nagasaki.

NAGASAKI, Oct. 14, 1871, VIA SAN FRANCISCO.

I last wrote you 15th ultimo, via San Francisco. The interval since my last has been one in which numerous entertainments have been given, the most notable being the dinner given to Mr. Consul Annesley, on the 29th ult., which was a great success, and the farewell ball given to Vice-Admiral Sir Henry Kellett, K.C.B., and the officers of H.M.S. Ocean, previous to their departure for Hong Kong, en route for England.

The whole of Her Majesty's vessels leave this to-morrow morning, and will make this place present a very dull aspect after the recent festivities. Mr. Annesley leaves to-morrow morning in the Salamis, having been relieved by Mr. Marcus O. Flowers, who arrived on the evening of the 10th inst. by the Pacific Mail steamer Oregonian.

The subscribers to the ball referred to above included all the names of the leading residents here, and comprised the following nationalities, viz., British, German, American, French, Danish, and Dutch, among whom were the representatives of those countries, which added additional importance to the gathering. The officers appeared in epaulettes, &c. The community always succeed in whatever they undertake in this line, and the present instance is no exception to the rule, and the 12th instant was made a red-letter day not easily forgotten. I do not know whether the band enjoyed the task of playing the "Sir Roger de Coverley," although it was divided into half, each one taking its turn; the band got tired before the dancers, and could not get through the whole of the fifty who stood up for it.

The French mail of the 4th August arrived here on the 21st ult.—48 days. The London and China Express of 11th August arrived via San Francisco on the 30th Sept.—50 days—but the bulk of this mail did not arrive until the 5th instant—55 days—together with the French mail of the 18th August—48 days. The English mail of August 25 arrived this morning—50 days. The British barque Deogum, with general cargo from Liverpool, has arrived here. The British barque Zohrab is still loading for London, and will sail in about a week. Bus (nebukin) 372 to 378 sterling per dollar. The movements of the men-of-war have been confined to arrivals of British vessels—viz.: Hornet, from Yokohama, 3rd; Ringdove, from Chefoo, 4th; Salamis, Yokohama; all of which, together with the Ocean and U.S. corvette Alaska, remain in port.

CHINA.

SHANGHAI.

Dates from this port are to the 26th October; the P. and O. mail, with advices from London to the 8th Sept., arrived out on the 22nd Oct., two days in advance of due date. The following items are from the North China Herald:—

Almost every steamer lately has taken a small instalment of Presbyterians to Ningpo to attend the meeting of the Synod. Besides all the Presbyterians alluded to, there were present representatives of other denominations. The sermon was preached by the retiring Moderator, the Rev. Dr. Nevius, and the Rev. Mr. Mateer was elected Moderator for the coming year.

We hear that Captain Hutchinson, late of the Rona, has received from the Acting Vice-Consul for Russia, through H.B.M.'s Acting Consul, a handsome testimonial for humane services rendered to the crew of the Russian steamer Nahodka, wrecked on the Korean coast about eighteen months ago. The testimonial is bestowed by the Czar, and consists of a gold medal and a brevet, or warrant, stating the service for which it is given.

The May Queen has arrived in Chefoo from Australia, with 400 tons of coal; this is all the news our correspondent has, except the purchase of an extraordinary bunch of grapes, 9½ cattie on one stem, which the purchaser has sent to Shanghai.

In default of the usual autumn races, the Tientsin people had a regatta on the plains behind the Club. A robbery of gold bars took place on board the Shanse, on her last trip down from Tientsin. Two boxes containing gold to the value of Tls. 16,000 were received on board at Tientsin, consigned to a Shanghai firm, but disappeared on the downward voyage. No trace of them has yet been discovered; but the police are making active inquiry.

The Sin Nanzing was somewhat delayed on her downward trip to Taku, by having to tug a Chinese man-of-war off the river bank, and then a Chinese junk, which, in trying to clear the man-of-war, also got ashore. It is said the water on the Taku bar is shallowing, but that a new and deeper channel is forming. The Millet has got off the bank on which she had contrived to embed herself.

A sad accident occurred during the passage of the Shantung down the Peiho. One of the quarter-masters, in trying to avoid or mitigate a collision with a junk, got jammed between the two and was crushed to death.

Li is discharging a number of the foreign employes at the Arsenal. This is said to be simply to eradicate what has been done by Chung How.

HONG KONG.

Our advices extend to the 1st Nov. The outward French mail of Sept. 15th arrived on the 25th, and the following P. and O. mail, with London dates to Sept. 22, on the 30th Oct. The following intelligence is from the China Mail:—

As famine and the squeezes of corrupt officials are in China the certain forerunners of brigandage and insurrection, grave fears are felt by all at the probable effect of the floods up North. Thousands of natives have been left houseless; tens and hundreds of thousands will be left without food if the waters do not abate; and the lavish expenditure necessitated by the approaching Imperial nuptials, together with the rapacity of dishonest, money-clutching officials, fill all (native and foreign) with the gravest fears.

Hong Kong has been honoured by a visit from the Tartar-General of Canton—a mandarin of high rank who is connected by marriage with Prince Kung and is spoken of as the future father-in-law of the reigning Emperor. He was suitably received with salutes and official attentions, and left after two days' stay. The Tartar-General is said to be an intelligent and able man, and it is rumoured that he has many progressive schemes in view, which will probably be duly enforced when he succeeds to the Viceroyalty of Canton. Amongst other things it is said that he is in favour of telegraphic communication being established between this colony and Canton, and we understand that, on his advice, a project for removing all the guard boats and junks which infest the creeks and rivers, and supplanting them in proportion of one to three, by large steam launches, has been adopted, and is now being put into execution. The scheme is being carried out, we believe, by the Commissioner of Customs, with whom it is said to originate; and several of the steam-launches are actually being made at the present moment in this colony.

The Chinese who were detained in Victoria Gaol pending their extradition to the Chinese authorities were handed over on the 27th Oct. The charges against the prisoners are murders, burglaries, and robberies, and from the depositions there appeared to the magistrates to be sufficient evidence to recommend the surrender of the offenders. Though we are of opinion that none but bad characters would be applied for by the mandarins, yet we still think it undesirable that men given up for one offence by the English authorities should be tried for another by the native Courts. This, at any rate, would not raise us in the opinion of the Chinese, who would certainly come to the conclusion that they have out-witted the wise rulers of this colony.

Mr. C. F. A. Sangster, of the Registrar-General's Department, who goes home on leave by the next English mail, has been presented by the Chinese clerks of the department with an ivory jewel casket of rare workmanship.

Several symptoms of independence have appeared in the unofficial members of our Legislative Council, but no direct influence is the result.

A case of some interest has been brought before the Police Magistrate, in which a seaman alleged to have deserted from the North German corvette Hertha at Portsmouth was charged with that offence. His Worship decided that he had no jurisdiction, either under the Extradition Treaty or local ordinance, to try the case.

We learn that the Rev. T. F. Morton, M.A., formerly chaplain on board the flagship Ocean, has been appointed naval chaplain to the Princess Charlotte, vice the Rev. R. O'Callaghan, B.A., who goes home.

We hear that H.M.S. Ocean sunk a Chinese junk on her last downward trip, at Chefoo. The junk was bound for Tientsin with a valuable cargo, estimated at upwards of Tls. 22,000. The vessel was cut in two by the stem of the iron man-of-war, and was sunk immediately, but without loss of life.

Referring to the memorial of the foreign residents at Tientsin to their Consuls—that necessary protection may be provided them before the river and the flooded plains be frozen up, the Mail says:—"In favour of the idea that the Chinese Government pulled the wires in the Shan-sin-Fan excitement—that it was, in fact, an outflow of the celebrated circular against missionaries—it is said that not a word has been heard of the movement in the province governed by Tseng-kwo Fan. It is argued that, either Tseng thought the experiment too dangerous, or disapproved of the scheme entirely. War preparations and martial ardour appear to have been damped by the floods. The report that Li-kwei-men, a high mandarin, had risen in rebellion in Hunan is discredited by some. Chen, the Shanghai Chehsien, has been laudably active against the squeezing propensities of his yamen-runners. Mr. J. T. Meadows, who rendered himself so conspicuous in the defence of the Chinese on the occasion of the Tientsin Massacre, is said to have been dismissed the Chinese service, along with a number of others."

We take the following from the Overland Trade Report:—

The annual meeting of the Canton Insurance Company was held on the 28th October; the Hon. W. Keswick in the chair. The statement for 1870 showed net receipts of $836,681.83 and the profit to date was estimated at $326,650.68, out of which the general agents recommended an immediate payment of a dividend of $750 per share. Some discussion took place upon making certain changes in the principles of the office to meet the progress of insurance business in the present day. The chairman suggested that the funds of the company should be deposited in one of the banks, as was the practice with other insurance companies; and it was also proposed that the number of shares should be slightly increased, and that the distribution of the reserve to contributors should be changed. After some discussion, it was agreed that the various points should be reduced to writing, and submitted to the Committee, who should report upon them afterwards to the shareholders, and take their opinion.

A rumour has come from Canton in connection with illegal levies by the Chinese authorities on the trade of Hong Kong, which demands some attention. Hitherto they have succeeded in taxing the trade of the port by means of cruisers stationed at the entrance to the harbour, but it is now stated that they intend establishing a floating station in Chinese waters, as near the limits of the colony as possible, whereat all junks leaving Hong Kong will be called upon to report and pay the duty on their cargoes. Unless a stop is put to this mode of Chinese encroachment, the colony will soon be hampered with all the disadvantages, without being benefited by any of the advantages of a treaty port. We can hardly believe that the Canton officials will have the temerity to make the attempt which is spoken of; but it is very likely that the rumour is the prelude to some movement in the same direction, though perhaps not of so bold a nature.

The Legislative Council met on the 18th Oct., when a great deal of discussion took place concerning the charge which the Government have brought against the Hon. Mr. Ryrie, one of the non-official members of the Council, of bringing a charge against the Registrar-General. A great deal of interest is taken in the matter, as it is felt to be an unwarrantable attempt to curb free discussion. The old grievance of the defective constitution of the Council has been revived by it, and it is felt that the public is most unfairly represented by the limited number of non-official members, who at all events in matters of finance, and questions directly affecting the commercial interests of the colony, ought to have much more voice than they have at present.

The new "roof" on Government House, for which $10,000 were voted, is equally worthy of attention in an architectural, æsthetic, or financial point of view. Notwithstanding what was said to the contrary, it appears to have been quite possible to build a flat roof, and this has been done; but apparently to relieve the eye, one large and two small "looks out," or sleeping apartments have been placed on the flat, each of them having its own tiled roof, and the whole presenting the appearance of a large village or moderate sized town. This may be convenient for walking about in the cool of the evening; but, in the name of everything verging upon taste, we beg our readers to gaze upon, and weep at, the result of spending $10,000 on this business. Lastly, may it be asked how it is that a vote is asked for a roof and part of the money spent in building new apartments in a high and airy position? Is it that we are at last to have publicity in Hong Kong, and that what was done in secret will now be proclaimed on the house tops?

The Eureka Troupe again performed to a crowded house. The first part consisted of some well-selected songs, a comic duet between Mr. Small and Miss Hosmer being very cleverly performed, while the latter gave "Auld Robin Gray" with much effect, and Miss Wiseman repeated "He lo'd me faithfully," which was highly appreciated. The burlesque of Fair Rosamond was given amidst vociferous applause. It is one of the best pieces of the kind which has been seen in Hong Kong, and we doubt not will prove a standing favourite with the public.

It is stated that some residents in the colony have it under contemplation to form a kind of company or club for building suitable quarters at the Peak. We are confident that if something of the kind were started in shares, say, of about $100 each, the use of one or two rooms—say a bedroom and dressing room—being guaranteed to each member, the scheme would be largely supported. We trust sincerely it may be carried out, as the advantages of being able to get to a climate fifteen degrees cooler than in the town can scarcely be over-estimated.

At the last meeting of the Council, the Government agreed, at the suggestion of the non-official members, that the repairs to the Praya should only be of a temporary nature, until the subject had been thoroughly discussed at the next meeting. How this is being carried out may be seen at and near Pedder's Wharf, where a number of Chinese are busy repairing the wall with large solid blocks of granite—in fact, making it exactly what it was before. In one sense at least these repairs may be considered temporary, as they will no doubt be washed down by the next typhoon.

BORNEO.

SARAWAK.

The following items are from the Sarawak Gazette :—

At a meeting of the Supreme Council, on the 4th Oct., H.H. the Rajah proposed a tax upon lucifer matches of one cent. on each box of the usual size sold heretofore for one cent. Should large boxes with double the number of matches come into the market, the tax to be then doubled and increased according to size of box or number of matches contained in it. The tax has already received the consent of the leading merchants, and is to come into force in three days.

The Rajah has been pleased to appoint Mr. James Innes to be Assistant Resident of Sibiu.

A pamphlet addressed to the lay members of the Church in Sarawak, on some questions connected with educational work in the country, has lately been published by the Bishop. In it he declares his willingness to welcome co-operation on the part of the laity, and gives a somewhat favourable account of what the Mission has done to further improved farming and industrial skill, but, practically, the matter remains very much where it did. No adequate scheme of instruction has been put forward.

Visitors to Sarawak who have any recollection of what the Bazaar was eighteen months or two years ago will be surprised at the rapid progress made in the Government improvements, the whole of the houses as far as Ken What's being now approaching completion in solid style. The transformation which has taken place in Carpenters'-street is still more wonderful. The old tumbledown abodes, inhabited for the most part by the poorer artisans among the Chinese have given place to neat plank houses, roofed with billian, and built with some approach to regularity. Another side is being run up to this street on the ground before occupied as a timber store and receptacle of rubbish; the framework of houses has been set up along the whole front of this vacant space. Further on the new shops, ending with the Dispensary, have filled up another abode of emptiness. These are to be continued to the corner of the Church road, and down it till they meet the houses in the Bazaar facing the river. On the grass plot opposite the Fort landing-place the foundations of a new Court-house have been built.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

SINGAPORE.

Dates are to the 8th Nov. On the 29th Oct. the French mail, with London letters to 29th Sept., arrived, four days in advance of due date; the following P. and O. mail, of 6th Oct., arrived on the 8th Nov., two days early. The following is from the Straits Times :—

The Chinese riots have been crushed out by the prompt action of the Government. A few days since some excitement was occasioned by a murder committed in a boat outside the harbour limits, the victims being two Teo Chew and one Kay Chinese. There is every reason to believe the perpetrators of this crime will be brought to punishment. Two or three armed boats have been secured by the marine police, and it is probable the attempts to prolong the quarrel between the two factions by murdering boatmen at sea will not be repeated. After the fighting had ceased the assistance of the justices of the peace was sought by the Chinese who had lost property during the riots, to enable them to regain possession of it. The plunderers however, appeared to think themselves lawfully entitled to the spoil they had taken, and strongly resisted the authorities; it was found necessary to obtain a strong force in every case before any of the property could be recovered and quiet fully restored. There will probably be a very heavy criminal session of the Supreme Court in January next, owing to cases arising out of the riots.

The new police law, which has been passed by the Legislative Council was put into operation on the 1st Nov. The reason for its early introduction is that the police was found utterly incapable of preserving the peace during the riots, and it has been found necessary for the good order of the Settlement that the force should be placed upon a more effective footing at once. It is, of course, impossible to judge as yet whether the "reorganisation" will effect the needed improvement; but if it makes any improvement at all, it will have done some good. The European element in the force is being augmented, but doubtless it will be found necessary to make numerous changes before a sufficient number of men of the right stamp are secured. At present there seems to be a very limited field to choose from, but probably in course of time a very good class of men will be selected for the purpose. The increase of pay to the constables will permit the employment of a better class of men; those who have proved themselves good will be retained, and the worthless ones replaced by others. In this way there is no doubt that the police will be made much more effective. One requirement of the force—a mounted patrol—is still unsupplied, and until this is provided it will be always at a disadvantage in the event of disturbances in the country districts, or even in the town at any distance from the police stations.

The Siamese war steamer Enemy Chaser, Captain Walrond, arrived here from Bangkok on the 27th Oct., with a brass elephant sent by the King of Siam, to be placed on the Esplanade here to commemorate his visit to Singapore, and decorations were offered to the officials of this colony, but Her Majesty the Queen did not permit them to be received. The Governor of Paknam was entrusted with the mission of making the presentations. The vessel afterwards proceeded to Batavia, which place is to be similarly honoured. We have no doubt the King's visit to Calcutta will be a very grand affair, and that his reception by the Viceroy of India will be a splendid one, far eclipsing anything his Majesty has yet experienced. He will leave Siam, we hear, on his way to Calcutta, on the 15th Dec.

The wreck and cargo of the clipper ship Taeping, lost on Ladd Reef, China Sea, has been put up at public auction here, but realised nothing.

PENANG.

Advices extend to Nov. 9; the outward mail (P. and O.) of 6th Oct. was received on Nov. 6. The following items are from the Argus :—

On dit that Khoo Boo An, the opium farmer of Perah, has instituted legal proceedings against the Police Magistrate of Butterworth, and that a suit for heavy damages will be at once commenced.

The fishermen at Tulloh Ayer Tawar and in that neighbourhood are emigrating to Salengore and Singapore. It appears these poor fellows are not allowed to throw their nets and fish within two miles of the beach.

Small-pox is raging to an alarming extent in Province Wellesley; the Malays, however, alone are sufferers—the men who refused to be vaccinated.

The hearing of the case against Mr. Edward Bacon commenced on the 6th November. The witnesses for the defence are one hundred and twenty in number.

Commercial Report.

IMPORTS.

YOKOHAMA.—Grey Shirtings had been in fair request, but without any quotable alteration in prices. In Yarns the demand had been for Nos. 28-32, and for these counts a slight advance was obtainable on last quotations. Woollen Goods of some descriptions had been saleable to a small extent. Metals, &c., were without change. Quotations:—GE Grey Shirtings, 7 lbs., $2.15 to 2.20 per piece; ditto, 8½ to 8½ lbs., $2.50 to 2.55; ditto, 9 to 9½ lbs., $2.80 to 2.82½; GE White Shirtings, 56 to 60 reed, $2.60 to 2.80; ditto, 64 to 72 reed, $2.90 to 3.05; T-Cloths, 6 to 7 lbs., $1.85 to 2.07½; Chintz, assorted, $2 to 2.50; Handkerchiefs, $0.55 to 1 per dozen; Turkey Red Shirtings, $2.60 to 2.70 per piece; Turkey Red Chintz, $2 to 2.50; Taffachelas, double welt, $2.85 to 3.10; ditto, single, $2.30 to 2.70; Velvets, black, $8 to 9.25; Cotton Yarn, Nos. 16 to 24, $38 to 38.50; ditto, Nos. 28 to 32, $43 to 43.75; ditto, Nos. 38 to 42, $40 to 41; Alpaca, 42 yards, $7.40 to 7.85; Camlets, S and BBB, $13.50 to 14.50; ditto, SS, $12 to 13; ditto, SSS, $9 to 10; Cloth, medium and broad, $1 to 1.75 per yard; Lastings, $10.25 to 11.25 per piece; Long Ells, assorted, $6 to 6.50; Orleans and Lustres, plain, $3.75 to 4.25; ditto, figured, $4.50 to 5; Lead, $5.50 to 6 per picul; Iron, Nail Rod, $2.60 to 3.20; Bars, $3.50 to 4; Hoop, $3 to 3.30.

HIOGO.—The position of the market appears to have slightly improved, especially for Woollen Goods, and holders were firmer. Cotton Yarn: The demand for 28-32 had somewhat improved. Other counts were almost unsaleable. Grey Shirtings: A limited inquiry only existed, and prices had been but barely maintained. The market at closing, however, was a little stronger. Black Velvets had advanced, owing to the smallness of supplies. Turkey Reds were asked for at quotations. Taffachelas was in better demand, good patterns having been placed at an advance. Camlets: The price of all colours had improved, in sympathy with the China markets. Figured Orleans were inquired for. A good business continued to be done in Black Lustres, at improving rates. Mousselines de Laine were still readily saleable, and former quotations were fully maintained. Blankets were saleable at gradually advancing prices. Quotations:—Cotton Yarn: No. 16 to 24, per bale, $115 to 120; 28 to 32, $130 to 132; 38 to 42, $115 to 120. GE Grey Shirtings, 7 lbs., 38 yds. 39-in., per piece, $2.18 to 2.25; 8½ to 8½ lbs. 38 yds. 39-in., $2.50 to 2.52½; 9 lbs., 38 yds. 44-in., $2.80 to 2.85. White Shirtings, nominal; T-Cloths, 6 to 7 lbs., $1.75 to 2; Drills, Dutch, 40 yds., $3.90 to 4.06; Handkerchiefs, assorted, per dozen, $0.62 to 0.75; Brocades and Spots, white, per piece, $2.50 to 2.75; dyed, $2.90 to 3.10; Chintz, assorted, 24 yds. 30-in., $1.50 to 2.50; Turkey Red, 24 yds. 30-in., $2.50 to 3; Turkey Red Cambrics, 24 yds. 30-in., 3 lbs., $2.50 to 2.60; Velvets, black, $8.50 to 9.25; Taffachelas, double warp, 12 yds. 43-in., $3 to 3.25; single, $2.40 to 2.80; Camlets, SS, scarlet, $18 to 18.50; black, $12 to 12.50; assorted, $14 to 15; Lastings, black, 30 yds. 31-in., $12 to 12.50; Cape Lastings, 30 yds. 31-in., $5.50 to 7; Lustres and Orleans, figured, 30 yds., $4.50 to 5.50; Orleans, black, plain, 42 yds. 31-in., $7 to 8.30; Long Ells, assorted, 12 lbs., $5.75 to 6; Blankets, per lb., $0.43 to 0.45; Iron, Bars, per picul, $3; Nail Rod, $3.15 to 3.20; Hoop, $2.62 to 3.20; Lead, $6.55.

NAGASAKI.—Grey Shirtings, 8½ lbs., $2.46 per piece. Turkey Reds, 24 yards 2½ catty, $2.79. Dyed Shirtings: Indigo, $3.24; Gentian, $3.18. Camlets: SS scarlet, $16.10; orange, $13.10; dark blue, $13.50; gentian, $14; purple, $15; green, $14.50; black, $12. Lastings, $13. Black Lustres: 30 yards 32-in., $5.70. Black Velvets, $7.40. Blankets, 32c. per lb. Metals: Pig Iron saleable at $1.50 per picul; Nail Rods without enquiry at $3.30; Lead, $7.50.

HANKOW.—News from the interior still unsatisfactory, markets being glutted with goods and financing difficult; so that there had been no inclination to make purchases on the part of the Hankow dealers, and clearances of former contracts were going on slowly. Grey Shirtings: No demand, and quotations nominal. T-Cloths: Same remarks apply to these; prices weak and nominal. Drills: Prices unchanged; ordinary Tls. 3 to 3.05, best English at Tls. 3.13 to 3.16. Jeans: Some inquiry for good chop at Tls. 2.32 to 2.35. Fancy Cottons: In better request; small sales of White and Dyed Brocades and Spots, Turkey Reds and Chintzes. Woollens and Worsteds: Quotations for assorted Camlets 2 to 3 mace higher, but advance checks demand. Lastings and Spanish Stripes: Slightly stronger. A few long ells quitted, but Chinese were too heavily stocked for any material improvement. Figured Lustres: Firmer; Tls. 3.85 to 3.92 offered for ordinary, and Tls. 3.85 to 4.05 for best quality. Metals: Lead slightly improved in value, and quoted Tls. 4.70 to 4.75. Quicksilver: Owing to large arrivals worth only Tls. 73.00 per picul.

SHANGHAI.—The market was quieter save in a few articles which were scarce; heavy arrivals had checked buying. From the North and the River accounts were not encouraging. The weather was wet, warm, and unseasonable. Grey Shirtings: A speculative business in 8½ lb. had continued, prices being as last quoted. Dealers, however, had bought very sparingly of this weight, but had operated freely in 7 lbs., which could not be met under Tls. 1.72 to 1.73. Dewhurst's quality, Tls. 1.75 to 1.76 nominal value. White Shirtings: More enquiry. Prices stronger closed with an upward tendency. Best chop 64 R. placed at Tls. 2.15, others quoted Tls. 2.00 to 2.05. T-Cloths: Considerable sales and re-sales of every quality and weight. Common counts attracted most notice, but moderate business also in Mexican; value of both common and fine 1c. to 3c. higher. 8 lb. 36 in. M Tls. 1.85 to 1.88 lowest qualities of 6 lb. and 7 lb. Tls. 1.20 to 1.22 and Tls. 1.42 to 1.45, finest Tls. 1.37 to 1.45, and Tls. 1.57 to 1.63 respectively. Drills: English and Dutch in active request at improved quotations. American not much sought after, but onemace higher. Jeans: Also improved. Sheetings: Sales establish a further decline, and difficult to place at Tls. 3.50. Fancy Cottons: Transactions again very small. Woollens: Camlets advanced 25c. per piece for best, and 30c. to 35c. for ordinary, but demand not active. Assorted Long Ells also risen 25c., Scarlet 30c. to 35c. for medium. Quotations for Spanish Stripes 2 candareens higher, and in fair inquiry. Figured Orleans active to Tls. 3.95 to 4.10. Metals: Lead, sales of L.B. at Tls. 4.55; iron, strong market, prices ranging from Tls. 2.60 to 2.75. Coals: Prices firm, arrivals small; Cardiffs, Tls. 11.50 ship's side; English, wanted Tls. 9.50; American, Tls. 14.50, to arrive.

FOOCHOW.—Sales had been:—T-Cloths, 7 lb., 200 pieces at $2.05 per piece; Grey Shirtings, 8½ lbs., 300 pieces at $2.70 per piece; Lead, 800 piculs at $6.75 per picul.

HONG KONG.—A somewhat more cheerful tone had pervaded the market. The demand, although by no means strong, had been rather more lively than for some weeks previously, and had imparted more firmness to values generally. Prices of Cotton Yarn and Goods were about as last quoted, and in some cases rather higher. In Woollens some excitement had existed, and an advance had been established. Cotton Yarn: Improved $2 to 3 in lower qualities of 16/24s and 28/32s; finer spinings unchanged. Fair to best 16/24s quoted $112.50 to 120.00; 28/32s, $117.50 to 122.50; and 38/42s, 125.00 to 136.00. Of higher counts only best qualities saleable. Grey Shirtings: In very limited demand, weight of stocks seriously interfered with their prospects. Improvement recently established had been lost; both 7 lbs. and 8½ lbs. 2½c. lower. White shirtings: In better demand, at an advance of 10c. on all qualities. T-cloths: Unchanged in value, except in one or two instances, where a slight decline must be recorded. 6 lbs. in better supply, and declined to $1 57½; inquiry very limited. 7 lbs. unchanged, at $1.80 to 1.85. Mexicans: Quiet, and in some cases rather lower. Grey Twills: Steady demand, and advanced 10c. to 15c. English, $3.90 to 3.95 for 14 lbs., $4.15 to 4.20 for 15 lbs. Medium Cloths: Taken to fair extent at a decline of 5c. to 10c. Spanish Stripes: English 2c. to 5c. higher; German are unchanged. Blankets: Placed at last quotations. Long Ells: Scarlet advanced 20c., Assorted 50c. Camlets, owing to smallness of stocks, advanced no less than $2 per piece all round, with the exception of Dutch. Lastings advanced 50c.; good qualities worth $16.50. Metals: Nail Rod Iron 10c. to 15c. higher. Bar and Hoop inquired for at previous rates. Tin Plates advanced 30c. Quicksilver $1 to 2 higher. Lead showed considerable improvement, owing to firmness of holders; LB and Co. worth $6, WB $6 50, with fair inquiry.

MANILA.—Comparatively little business had been done during the fortnight, but rates for all plain staples were firm, and holders had not shown any disposition to force sales. The demand for coloured goods continued moderate, and, owing to heavy stocks, prices were still somewhat irregular. A steady improvement as the season advances was anticipated.

SINGAPORE.—Messrs. Boustead's Circular contains the following:—39-inch Grey Shirtings: More inquiry for 8½ lbs., fair sales at $2.45 to 2.47½; 7 lbs. very quiet; 6 lbs. in some demand at $1.82½ to 1.85; stocks small; 45-inch, 8 lbs., no demand; 9 lbs. wanted, other weights neglected; 32-inch Grey T-Cloths: Stocks of 5 lbs. nearly cleared, and in active demand at $1.37½. 6 lbs. in fair inquiry at $1.62½ to 1.65; 7 lbs. very quiet at $1.82½; light weights in no request. Grey Madapolams: Inquiry for 2½ lbs. at $1.18½; 3 lbs. dull at $1.80 to 1.75. White Shirtings unchanged; in little request, and nominally lower. Woollen Goods dull of sale, and quotations unchanged. Grey Yarns: 40s in better demand, moderate sales at $114 to 115; small transactions in 30s at $104 to 107; 18-24s dull. Turkey Red in fair demand at $127½ to 130 for 10 lbs., and $135 to 137½ for 12 lbs., Glasgow dye, Stocks of Iron light; fair inquiry but only small sales; Gowan flat bar $2.50 to 2.60; Nailrods $2.50; Swedish flat bar $3.55 to 3.60. Lead quiet, L.B. nominally worth $5.65 to 5.70; Common $5.60.

PENANG.—There had been a somewhat improved inquiry, and prices were firmer, although no actual advance can be reported.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

YOKOHAMA.—Business during the interval had continued about on a par with that previously reported, and settlements since the last American mail had reached about 5,000 piculs; these consisted of most grades from common to fine, but of finest and choice leaf there had been very little on offer, and prices for these latter were fully maintained; for the former quotations were unchanged, but the quality of stock on offer showed a great falling off compared with that of two months previously. Supplies had continued fair and stocks remained with little change. The Black Prince had sailed with 791,022 lbs., and the Mikado and Walton were loading, for New York. Quotations:—Common, $19 to 22 per picul; good common, $23 to 25; medium, $26 to 30; good medium, $31 to 33; fine, $35 to 40; finest, $42 to 50; choice, $52 upwards.

HIOGO.—The market had been quiet during the month, with settlements amounting to only about 3,000 piculs. Prices showed a decline of about $2 per picul, except for choicest descriptions, which were being offered only in very small parcels. Stocks were estimated at not less than 5,000 piculs, exclusive of old leaf. The Adriatic sailed for New York on the 7th Oct. with 298,918 lbs., and the present mail steamer takes about 200 tons. Quotations: Common, $17 to 19 per picul; good common, $20 to 23; medium, $24 to 28; good medium, $29 to 34; fine, $35 to 41; finest, $42 to 47; choice, $48 to 55; choicest, $56 and upwards.

NAGASAKI.—Of finest qualities there had been no arrivals, and dealers were stating that this season no better parcels than those offering may be expected. Stocks of medium fine, at $19 to 23 per picul, were large, and purchasers were holding back for lower prices. Common to medium were also plentiful at $15 to 19 per picul.

HANKOW.—Only 1,718 chests settled, and but 6,500 chests shipped by teamen to Shanghai. No alteration in prices; supplies falling off, and very few chops classed as fair Congou. Quotations were:—Oonpaks, common, Tls. 14½ to 15½; Oonams, low to common, Tls. 9 to 13½.

KIUKIANG.—Black: Thirteen chops had arrived from the country, and forwarded to Shanghai for sale; unfavourable weather was retarding the arrival of further quantities. Green: About twenty chops had been shipped to Shanghai. It is currently reported that a much larger quantity of Green Tea than usual would be forwarded via Ningpo, instead of through this port, and arrivals were already much smaller to date than they were last season.

SHANGHAI.—We take the following from Messrs. Drysdale, Ringer and Co.'s report:—Black: We have to report the settlement of 10,700 chests and 4,500 half-chests, but a small business as compared with the transactions during any fortnight of the present season. Stock is reduced to 11,600 chests, and as we cannot now receive any large supply from the country, the Black Tea business may be regarded almost at an end. Our export of Congou is in excess 14,000,000 lbs. as compared with corresponding date last year, from which time to end of season about 15,000,000 lbs. were shipped, whereas this season, if latest advices from the river can be relied on, we shall not add more than 5,000,000 lbs. to our present figures, giving total export of Congou for 1871, 66,400,000 lbs., against 62,200,000 lbs. for 1870. Prices:—Shuntam Teas have been taken to a fair extent at Tls. 12 to 13; common to fair Hohows and Oonams at Tls. 15.50 to 17; fair to medium Ningchows, Oopacks, and Oonfats at Tls. 20 to 22.75, rates which do not show any change in value. Green: In our last report we advised fine and finest Pychows, Teenkais, and Moyunes selling at full prices and finding ready buyers for the American market; this demand has continued throughout the past fortnight, and the only chops not taken at once on arrival are of common quality, unsuited for the requirements of American buyers, and such as are selling at home at rates the equivalent of which holders are not inclined to accept. Fine and finest Teenkais, Moyunes, and Pychows have ranged from Tls. 40 to 51 proportion: medium to fine at Tls. 34 to 40. Pingsueys at Tls. 38 to 51, and Shanghai packed at Tls. 34 to 35 per picul proportion.

Foochow.—The Congou market had been fairly active, but latterly the settlements had been confined to two or three operators. The grades ranging from Tls. 16 to 19 short showed an advance of nearly Tl. 1, and as these qualities were getting scarce the tea men were very firm for full rates. The only alteration was a slight decline in broken-leaf and inferior. The settlements of Souchongs and Scented Teas consisted of rather inferior qualities, which had nevertheless obtained good values. Of the undernoted purchases of Oolongs, about 2,000 half-chests had been for the London market; firmness of tea men prevented any extensive transactions on the part of American buyers. Settlements had been:—Congou: 41,353 chests—Tls. 6.55 to 11.8 o.b. for dust to broken-leaf, Tls. 12.8 to 15.3 o.b. for leafy to ordinary, Tls. 15.8 to 17.8 o.b. for fair to good common, Tls. 18.8 to 25.3 o.b. for flavoury to medium, Tls. 26.8 o.b. for good medium in boxes. Souchongs: 2,789 chests—Tls. 16.8 to 21.3 o.b. for common to medium, Tls. 22.8 to 26.8 o.b. for good medium. Oolong: 5,671 half-chests—Tls. 18 to 20.8 o.b. for common to fair cargo, Tls. 21.3 to 24.3 o.b. for good cargo, Tls. 26.8 to 29.8 o.b. for superior cargo, Tls. 31.8 to 39.8 o.b. for fine to finest, Tls. 40.8 to 51.8 o.b. for choice to choicest. Scented Teas: 4,251 boxes—Tls. 17.8 to 20.3 o.b. for common. Flowery Pekoe: 1,178 chests—Tls. 25.3 to 58.8 o.b.

AMOY.—Oolongs had been briskly dealt in at rather dearer rates; and since the news of the loss of the Taeping Tea men had endeavoured to establish still higher prices, but without success, as buyers had shown their disinclination to meet any increased demands. It was expected that 15,000 half-chests would complete the season's supply of these Teas. Settlements had been, 19,558 half-chests Oolong at $20 to 23 for fair, $24 to 25 for good, $27 to 30 for superior, $32 to 35 for fine, and $36 to 45 for extra fine to choice. The Emperor and Lubra had sailed for New York, and there was no ship on the berth.

CANTON.—Moderate settlements of Scented Teas had been made, and Capers had commanded somewhat higher prices. Green Teas had been but little asked for, and Congous had been neglected. Holders of Scented kinds were firm, but the Teas offered were, with few exceptions, poor in quality and deficient in scent.

SILK.

YOKOHAMA.—Buying had been somewhat restricted, dealers being unwilling to accept buyers' offers, owing to a high rate of exchange ruling in native currency. Settlements had amounted to about 600 bales, of which Oshus and other Brick sorts formed an unusually large proportion. Prices for Hanks had again advanced fully $20 per picul, whilst other kinds generally were very firm at quotations. Silkworms' Eggs: Purchases were estimated at 500,000 cards; for best cards Sinchu and Oshu Annuals $1.50 to 2 had been paid; the market closed weak, and medium to inferior cards were to be had at from 50c. upwards. Quotations:—Hanks: Mybush and Sinchu, extra nominal, 30s. 3d. per picul; best, 28s. to 29s. 4d.; medium, 25s. to 27s. 3d.; inferior, 20s. 3d. to 24s. 9d. Oshu: best, 30s. 3d. to 31s. 8d.; medium, 26s. 6d. to 28s.; inferior, 24s. to 25s. 3d. Hamatski: inferior to best, 23s. 5d. to 27s. 3d. Coshu: medium, 23s. 5d. to 25s. 3d.; inferior, 21s. 9d. to 22s. 9d. Sodai: medium, 25s. to 26s. 6d. Etcheen: medium, 23s. 5d. to 25s. 3d.; inferior, 21s. 3d. to 22s. 9d.

HIOGO.—Transactions had been on a limited scale, settlements being estimated at 150 bales of 80 catties. Dealers had not been willing to operate, except at an advance, owing to the position of the value of native coin, buyers for the most part operating in dollars, which, on conversion into native coin, had given dealers a bad rate throughout the month. Quotations:—Idah (bricks), fair, 25s. 4d. to 26s. 1d. per picul; Sodai, medium to good, 23s. 6d. to 25s. 4d.; Nagahama, medium to common, 19s. 10d. to 22s. 1d.; Tamba and Tasima, medium to fair, 21s. 8d. to 22s. 9d.

SHANGHAI.—Messrs. C. J. Skeggs and Co. report as follows:—There has been a fair business doing during the fortnight, last mail's prices being maintained, and in some few instances slightly higher rates have been paid for the American market. The demand has run upon chops and the better classes of Tsatlee, many of which have had to be rejected on account of inferiority, some of the well known No. 4 Chop Silk is so bad, that it can barely be called a No. 5. Very little good Silk is now left on the market, that which remains being held for extreme quotations.

CANTON.—There had been a fair demand during the fortnight for 30/40 dens short reels for France, but only a few bales of market No. 1 had been taken for Bombay at $475 to $480 per picul. Fine weather, and the failure of the fifth crop, had tempted some Loongkong growers to attempt a seventh crop, but this would be attended with considerable risk, as the return of the north-east wind might in a few days sweep away every worm. Without calculating the out-turn of this seventh crop, the estimated export for the present season of 1871-72 was placed at 11,800 bales. Re-reels had been quite neglected, and finest Coten-gown were very scarce. Stocks were estimated at 120 bales Loongkongs, 640 bales Tsatlee Reels, 200 bales Kowkongs, 130 bales Cumchucks, Lacklows, &c., and 300 bales of inferior description.

JAVA AND STRAITS PRODUCE.

BATAVIA.—Arrack, f.97.50 per leaguer; sales. Cubebs, f.15 per picul. Mace, f.270 to f.290 per picul. Gam Dammar, f.35 to f.35.50 per picul; sales. India-rubber, f.110 to f.120 per picul; scarce. Gutta-percha, f.70 to f.150 per picul; best quality in demand. Hides: Cow, f.35 to f.45; Buffalo, f.22 to f.28 per lb.; sales. Coffee: in demand; the Government sale on Oct. 28 averaged 25,000 piculs, at f.40.39. Sugar: Jacatra, f.12.50 to f.15.50; sales. On the Coast, No. 14 and lower f.16.75; sales. The Government sale on Oct. 27 averaged 150,000 piculs at f.15.71. Tin:—Billiton: An auction of 7,800 piculs advertised for December 6.

SINGAPORE.—The market had been very firm, with an upward tendency, and good demand for all the principal staples; a considerable business had transpired. Gambier steady at $3.27½, at which rate about 1,050 tons had been contracted for; the market closed quiet. Rhio had sold at a reduction. Tin was bought in the early part of the fortnight at $34½, but telegrams of higher prices at home had caused an advance, and the market had been cleared at $35.45. Black Pepper rising in value, and readily taken at higher prices. White had likewise advanced.

PENANG.—With the exception of Tin the arrivals of produce had been small. Prices were in some instances higher, and in all cases were firm.

MR. HART'S MEMORIAL TO THE CHINESE GOVERNMENT.

IN China there is a class of privileged persons called "censors," whose duties are to expose the abuses committed by officials in public departments, and the errors of Government policy, in memorials to the EMPEROR. We are not aware whether Mr. ROBERT HART, the Inspector-General of Customs, has had that office added to his multifarious duties at Peking; but it almost appears as if such were the case, if we may judge from his memorial to the Chinese Government, of which a translation appears in the China Mail. Be that as it may, in the lengthy document he has published he not only assumes that office, but his memorial is one of the most sweeping censures upon the domestic and foreign policy of the Government that we remember having read, not only in translations from the Peking Gazette, but in the columns of foreign journals. It is not merely a memorial showing up some isolated abuse, but it criticises the whole fabric of Chinese politics, in their internal and external relations. Mr. HART certainly shows somewhat of a Herculean courage in thus attacking the hydra-headed monster of officialism in China within its own domain, and with literary weapons, after their own fashion. But he approaches his subject with all the consciousness of power, as may be seen by his droll preliminary comparison of himself to a short man seated on the shoulders of a tall tall man, seeing things from a higher point of view, and hence disinterested. Then he opens his censor-like budget by stating that "in the discussion of Chinese politics, one "has to speak of the domestic and of the foreign policy "of China. The foreign policy of to-day owes its origin "to the domestic policy of yesterday, while the domestic "policy of the future will certainly be influenced by the "foreign policy (of to-day)." This is a simple way of putting the question, and likely to stimulate inquiry into the subject by Chinese politicians. Mr. HART illustrates his text by pointing out the corrupt system of officials being paid such insignificant salaries, as tempt them to enrich themselves by oppressive illegitimate demands on the industrious population. The insufficiency of the Tartar troops, and the war-taxes frittered away without raising forces sufficiently disciplined to suppress local rebellions before they assume national magnitude, are thoroughly exposed. Touching on foreign policy, our author proves the necessity of adhering to treaties in an honest manner, and shows that all the disasters that befel the Government in 1860 arose from their repudiation, and resulting in foreign Powers securing forced concessions. Moreover, as they have proved themselves stronger in warlike measures than the Chinese, any new attempt to bring about another would assuredly end in the discomfiture of their troops, and the payment of fresh indemnities. As to the treaties he justly observes their leading stipulations "were all classed under three heads, Territorial, Missionaries, and Commerce, and the three Powers "were England, France, and Russia." These different heads are discussed in an impartial manner, and the leading arguments are similar to what has appeared from time to time in the Press. The impoverished financial condition of China is represented as the one great obstacle to effecting the necessary reforms in its domestic policy. This, it is stated, does not arise from the absence of wealth amongst the people, or their objection to pay reasonable national taxes, but "that what the "officials grasp from the people is much, while the money that "is devoted to the revenue of the country is little." If these officials were paid salaries commensurate with their posts, and these corrupt practices put a stop to, then the State treasury could have ample funds to keep up both the civil and military administration. Lastly, in pointing out the future commercial policy that should be pursued, the memorial says:—"Permission has yet to be given to foreign "merchants, in conjunction with Chinese merchants, to promote the establishment of railways, steamers, telegraphs, " &c.;" and, "to grant audiences, is, at the worst, harmless, "to appoint ambassadors is self-protection, and to co-operate "mutually is to enrich the people."

In the above résumé of this remarkable document there is a thorough earnestness in advocating the rights of nations and foreigners as against corrupt officialism that does credit to Mr. HART, and we appreciate the outspoken boldness in which his arguments are advanced. Hitherto a general impression has been entertained by all foreigners interested in China that the Inspector-General, being an employé in Chinese pay, furnished information to his chiefs that proved prejudicial to his countrymen. If this memorial is a faithful reflex of his opinions, then he has been misjudged; but even then he has but himself to blame if his reputation has suffered from his previous reticence. Perhaps he now sees the necessity of putting himself right with foreigners; and possibly in taking this bold step as a censor, he may be looking forward to an early congé from the Chinese service. But, in any case, the memorial before us appears to be so favourable to foreigners—animated by such a far-sighted and just perception of the necessity for the Chinese Government to approach the revision of the Treaty in a conciliatory spirit, and filled with such sound advice to them—that we are only anxious to see it fully corroborated, so that we may be sure that there is no mistake in it. "Not to have an early settlement"—of the questions in debate between Chinese and foreigners—Mr. HART tells the former, "is to have another war." We have always held and expressed this opinion, in spite of the temporising and vacillating politicians who have opposed anything like decision and firmness. Now that we find an officer, who has so long enjoyed the confidence of the Chinese Government, converted to our way of thinking, we think we may fairly count on the prompt settlement of all vexed questions, if our Foreign Office will but seize the opportunity.

THE POSTAL SERVICE.

At length the POSTMASTER-GENERAL has finally contracted with the French and Italian Governments for the conveyance of the India and China mails via Calais, Paris, and the Mont Cenis Tunnel to Brindisi. The P. and O. Company will, as before, carry the mails from Brindisi to Alexandria, leaving, however, on Monday, at five A.M., instead of Tuesday, as heretofore. This change is in consequence of the saving of time between London and Brindisi by the Mont Cenis Tunnel. The first mails from London under this arrangement will be that of Friday, the 5th January, for Bombay, and 12th for China, &c. The Southampton portions of these mails will leave on Thursday, the 28th December, and Thursday, the 4th January, respectively. The homeward mails, via Brindisi, will, as we have before intimated, be timed to arrive in London on Monday morning. The P. and O. Company are now negotiating with the Italian Government to run their steamers from Brindisi on to Venice. The service of the Messageries Maritimes, via Marseilles, will, no doubt, be framed in harmony with the P. and O., and we trust to be able next week to present our subscribers with our Time Table for 1872. The rates of postage on letters, books, and patterns will remain as at present, the rate on newspapers and prices current will, however, be reduced to the old rate of threepence for papers not exceeding four ounces. This reduction has given great satisfaction, and the memorial to the POSTMASTER-GENERAL, which we drew up some months since, has, we are glad to see, been respected.

THE report of the P. and O. Company, which appeared in our last issue, is one upon which, on the whole, we think the shareholders may be congratulated. Making due allowance for a state of transition like the present condition of our communication with the East, and for the effects of the competition with which the P. and O. Company has this year been assailed on all sides, a dividend amounting to seven per cent. per annum cannot be deemed unsatisfactory; on the contrary, it is a result which appears to us to reflect great credit on the management, and, backed up as it is by the directors' avowal of their determination to continue and develop the liberal and enterprising policy which has distinguished their operations this year, we can see no reason why the prospects of the next should not be deemed even more promising. The new contracts for ships into which the directors have entered show that they are fully prepared to go with the spirit of the times.

WE understand that steps will be taken by the STRAITS ASSOCIATION to protest against the TREATY just concluded—but not yet ratified—by our Government with the Dutch Government, regarding the trade of Sumatra. This TREATY, the text of which we gave in our last issue, will operate very seriously against the interests of British merchants at Penang.

It is reported that negotiations are pending between our Government and those of several European Powers for securing the neutralisation of the Suez Canal. Both Mr. ODO RUSSELL and Sir HENRY ELLIOTT have, it is understood, made representations on the subject at Berlin and Constantinople respectively.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

LORD KIMBERLEY'S DESPATCH ON THE FINANCES OF THE COLONY— PROPOSED NEW STEAMER, &c.

Lord Kimberley's despatch of the 15th of August to the Straits Government is an admirable document. A prosperous revenue, the Secretary of State tells colonial governors, furnishes no reason for lax and injudicious expenditure; and the expenditure in the Straits is declared to have been unsatisfactory. Year after year there has been a surplus of revenue, and year after year there has been a constant and considerable increase in the ordinary services, while no public work has been undertaken except the Government House at Singapore. Such is the plain and unvarnished judgment pronounced by Lord Kimberley on Sir Harry Ord's four years' financial administration. The Straits Association could hardly have been more severe. For the future, the Secretary of State goes on to say, when the colonial revenue exceeds the expenditure, let the surplus be accumulated to provide for special and important public works which are not likely to cause subsequently a permanent charge on the revenue of the colonies. And further, when the Government wants money for any particular purpose, let it come forward and ask for it in a straightforward manner, instead of getting a good-natured unofficial member to propose the vote. A Governor, Lord Kimberley hints, does not escape from the responsibility of misapplying the public money by a transparent expedient which has been but too often resorted to in Singapore. The business of unofficial members is to restrain, not to promote, the spending of the revenue; and the Secretary of State not only tells them so, but tells them also that they have not always been sufficiently mindful of their duty in this respect. He has noticed that they have not taken as keen and watchful an interest in checking and controlling the details of the public expenditure as is shown in other colonies, but that, on the contrary, they have too frequently allowed large and unnecessary expenditure to pass unquestioned; and he directs that in future the estimates shall be referred to a committee consisting mainly of unofficial members, and that their report upon them shall be sent to the Colonial office.

There is something fine in this manly appeal to the guardians of the public purse to protect the Colonial Minister against the "lax" tendencies of his local agents in dealing with the public resources; and if it makes the salutary impression which it deserves to make, it may galvanise for a time the "colonial system" into fair working condition. But we must be forgiven for doubting whether in the long run the officials will not prove stronger than the Secretary of State and his unofficial allies combined; and we shall take one subject of expenditure to explain our meaning. We venture to say that the history of the Straits steamers will justify our misgiving. The demand for new steamers, which began with Sir Harry Ord's arrival in the Straits in 1867, has never ceased down to the present time; and the amount which has been squandered under that head, if compared with the revenue of the colony, would throw into the shade, a hundred times over, that outlay on royal yachts which has so much offended Sir C. Dilke. Without raking up the figures of that "lax and unnecessary" expenditure, however, it is enough to say that the Straits officials, not satisfied with a new steamer which was sent out to them last year, and a steam launch which cost the colony from £1,200 to £1,500, are now clamouring for another vessel, which is to cost, as they propose, $15,000. But what is all this steam power wanted for? Is it to carry officials from one settlement to another? They would be more expeditiously and far more economically carried by the numerous passenger steamers which ply in the Straits. Is it to carry reliefs and provisions to the light houses? This could be done for a mere trifle by contract. Are steamers wanted for making war against pirates? It is denied on good authority that there are any pirates in the Straits; but if there are, it is the business of the Royal Navy to put them down; and there is always one man-of-war, sometimes more, lying at Singapore or Penang, quite prepared to undertake the task. The truth is, and the more the subject is examined the more the truth will appear, that what steamers are really required for is the convenience and recreation of two or three officials. Nothing perhaps can put this in a clearer light than the amusing divergence which is to be found in the views put forth for the new steamer by the two authorities who are asking for it, the Governor of the colony, and the Lieutenant-Governor of Penang. The former would have the craft in Singapore harbour to be used for police and lighthouse purposes in order to save the larger vessel in wear and tear; the latter thinks that she ought to be at Penang to "detect" pirates at that end of the Straits, to serve the lighthouse near Malacca, and last, but not least, to enable him to cross over from Penang to Province Wellesley—a passage of, perhaps, a couple of miles, possibly as perilous as the passage of Bangor ferry, but certainly not so formidable as the voyage between Portsmouth and Ryde. Lord Kimberley at first vetoed the new steamer altogether, but Sir H. Ord so far prevailed over his better judgment as to persuade him to sanction a small one not exceeding thirty tons. And now Col. Anson's proposal for a larger one has thrown the whole question once more open. If each of these gentlemen is to be believed as regards his own needs, it is clear that what is required is not one, but two steamers. But if he is questioned as to his neighbour's wants—a matter in which he is more likely to be impartial—it is equally clear that no steamer whatever is required. Sir Harry Ord evidently does not want a vessel for Penang, and Colonel Anson as evidently is unable to see any use for another at Singapore, where there are two already. If the stewards of the public purse are true to their trust they will protest against the lax and unnecessary expenditure into which the Governor and Lieutenant-Governor, each in his own way, are endeavouring to lead them. Let them review the various grounds which have been put forth for keeping up steamers at the expense of the colony. In 1867 Sir Harry Ord represented to the Council that they were needed for carrying officials, relieving lighthouses, doing police duties, fighting pirates, communicating with Malay rajahs who jeopardised British interests, and finally for keeping up British prestige. He then admitted that the two first purposes might be accomplished by charter. The steam launch was built for police duties, and has never found any to perform. As to the other purposes they are the business and always have been performed by Her Majesty's Navy. Let the unofficial members, then, review the purposes for which the colonial steamers have actually been employed, and they will find, unless the local press has strangely and persistently misinformed us, that they have been frequently put to uses purely private and personal. The colonial steamer was employed in 1868 to carry the Governor and a party of friends to Siam to see an eclipse, and it is worth asking whether the colony did not pay for the table, as well as for the coals, on that expedition. On other occasions she has carried the Governor and select party to Johore for pig or snipe shooting. She was painted, gilded, and decorated, to carry the Governor to Java in 1869, although a man-of-war had been placed at his service to carry him there. The Straits papers have for years re-monstrated in indignant terms against the employment of a colonial steamer, at a cost not far from £100 a trip, in carrying the Governor's private letters (not the official correspondence, which was left for him at Penang) from Singapore to Penang every fortnight during his visits at the latter Settlement. On one occasion the Master Attendant is said to have been reprimanded for having suffered what Sir Harry Ord called his yacht to be employed in saving a burning vessel. One night not long since the steam launch was plying from one man-of-war to another in the harbour of Singapore, carrying a distinguished official, on an errand very evidently social only. These are the purposes for which steamers are really demanded in the Straits. If Lord Kimberley will again look into the whole question and see the enormous sum that steamers have cost the colony since the transfer, and what they have done for the money (and the materials for the investigation are at hand in his office), we hardly think it probable he will sanction any further outlay in this direction.

THE SALANGORE AFFAIR.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

We are all astonished in Singapore at the opinions of Sir Benson Maxwell with respect to Salangore. The only sane and wholesome action the Government has taken for many years with respect to native States is abused and held up to public scorn, and if our late Chief Justice has lived fifteen years in the Straits not to know that Salangore, under its present opium-smoking ruler, has long been in a state of anarchy, all I can say is that he should not, Quixote-like, take up the cudgels and indulge in inflated language. The piratical affairs brought on a political action which we in Singapore have every reason to believe will be of the greatest benefit to Salangore in particular and the Straits in general.

The political action arose in this wise. Some years ago Sultan Samat gave to his brother-in-law, Rajah Abdoolah, and to his family, the province of Klang. This chief set to work to open up the tin mines, and by giving countenance and protection to Chinese capitalists in Malacca a large trade arose and his revenue increased. This aroused the cupidity of the Sultan and of his followers, and the former undoubtedly encouraged his grand nephew, Mahadie, to raise the standard of revolt. This rajah had hitherto been living at a place called Lama Sorah, twenty-five miles up the Klang River, on a salary of $100 a month. He was in disgrace, having married one of his grandmothers, or, rather, one of the widows of his grandfather. Joined by others who viewed with jealousy the prosperity of Rajah Abdoolah, Mahadie attacked him at his chief trading establishment, and, after some months of fighting, drove him away to Malacca, but not before General Cavenagh, having visited the place in the Pluto, had been grossly insulted by the insurgent chief.

Rajah Abdoolah died soon after, and his sons, having raised a force, blockaded the Klang River. This was what the Sultan desired, as so long as Klang was disturbed the tin from the mines was carried down the Langut River, up which he lived, and there levied duties, to the detriment of the people at Malacca, whose funds were meanwhile seriously jeopardised. The war was carried on with various success. If Mahadie was hard pressed the Sultan sent him provisions and food by the Langut River; when the rajahs were getting the worst, this type of a sovereign assisted them temporarily with men and arms. At last the sons of Rajah Abdoolah sought for assistance from Ourdah, and Tungko dia Oodin appeared upon the stage with a numerous suite of followers. The Sultan sought to cajole him too, and so, I believe, gave him his daughter in marriage, and appointed him to settle the disturbances in Klang.—(See Government Gazette of April 22, 1870.)

This did not, however, prevent H.R.H. coquetting with Mahadie, and going on as usual, so much so that when Sir Harry Ord went to Langut as pacificator and failed, the Sultan declared that he knew nothing of his nephew, although it came out afterwards that they were talking together when Sir Harry's visit was announced, and were together again within an hour after his departure. At last Tungko dia Oodin drove Mahadie away from Klang, the latter flying to Salangore, where he quickly fortified himself against an attack of his successful rival under the auspices of the Sultan's son. Then appeared the pirates and the consequences of that visit, and then the interview of Mr. Birch with the Sultan, who of course abused those he had supported, but who had lost the day, but wished to keep up the old game of "divide et impera" by proposing a mixed form of Government. This was prevented, and Rajah dia Oodin, the Governor of Klang, was created Governor of Salangore, with every probability of opening up the trade of the country and of enabling the Malacca people to recover their jeopardised funds. This is the history of the treacherous savage whom Sir Benson coolly compares to Her Majesty the Queen of Great Britain.

The town of Salangore was not burnt; it is some thirty miles from the destroyed forts. Langut is not up the Salangore River, please, Sir Benson, but thirty to forty miles up a river of that name thirty-five miles from the Salangore River. Klang River is between the two.

THE AMOOR RIVER NAVIGATION COMPANY.

The following statement has been published in connection with the Loan of £200,000 introduced by Messrs. Schroder and Co., and noticed in our commercial article:—

The river Amoor is formed by a junction of two rivers, the Shelka and the Argoon, the former rising in Siberia, and the latter in Chinese Tartary. The length of the Amoor, from the junction to the sea, is about 2,500 versts (1,700 miles). The Shelka is also navigable for about 500 versts, making 3,000 versts (2,000 miles) from point to point. There are two other navigable tributaries which feed the Amoor, namely, the Sungari, which rises in the centre of Manchouria, a very densely populated country, and the Oossouri, which rises in the southern part of Eastern Siberia, close to the Pacific, and to the Russian ports on that ocean. There are many gold mines now being worked on the Amoor, and during the years 1868, 1869, and 1870, there were no less than seventy sets in which gold was found, and application was made to the Government in each case for permission to work them. The resources of the Amoor country are very great. There are enormous tracts of land suitable for colonisation and pasturage and capable of cultivation, with immense quantities of timber; oak, elm, ash, larch, pine, and maple, and also vast supplies of limestone. The attention of the Imperial Russian Government has lately been directed to these resources, and the Governor-General of Siberia has been instructed to expend a considerable yearly sum in order to encourage the colonisation of the Amoor country.

The Amoor is the natural means of communication between the Pacific Ocean and the interior of Eastern Siberia and Manchouria, so that the requirements of about four million inhabitants will be provided for more expeditiously and at a cheaper rate by this than by any other route. The Amoor and its tributaries being the only means of transport for the traffic through the country, the Russian Government has, during the last fourteen years, established and worked a line of steamers on the rivers. In furtherance, however, of the recent policy of the Russian Government, which is to promote private enterprise (as exemplified in the late transfer of Government railways to private companies), the Government gave notice that it was prepared to transfer all its interests in the existing line of steamers on the Amoor and its tributaries, and also all the stock and property appertaining to the said navigation to a responsible company constituted for that purpose. Several applications were made to the Government from different quarters for the concession, but the Imperial Government granted it to this company in consequence of the directors being already largely interested in the prosperity of Siberia. The Board is composed as follows:—Nicolas Bernardaky, president of the Kharkoff Kremenchug Railway, Serge Abasa, Henry Isenbeck, Alexander Etoline, all of St. Petersburg; and the subscribed share capital amounts to 700,000 roubles.

The chief inducement to the Russian Government to transfer the working of this important line to a private company was to obtain a development of the resources of the country greater than could be expected from an official and exclusively military organisation. This will be peculiarly effected by the development of one element of commerce, namely, the importation of tea into the Eastern Continent of Russia. Hitherto, the whole of the tea required in Eastern Russia (80,000 chests of about 100 lbs. each yearly) has been conveyed thither by caravans, and the time required for its transport has been upwards of twelve months. By the Amoor route the maximum time of transport will be seventy days, and the saving of cost in the transport will be six roubles per chest, in addition to a saving of twelve per cent. (the interest of money in China) on the whole capital of the caravan tea trade with Russia, arising from difference of time occupied in the transport. The transport of the tea will be effected by ocean steamers, belonging to this company, from Hankow, on the Yangtze River, to Nikolaievsk, at the mouth of the Amoor, a distance of only 2,000 miles. The climate, though severe in the north, is healthy; but in the southern parts it is mild, the ports in the south, which are the most important for the purposes of the company, being frozen only two months in the year.

If one article of freight alone is taken into consideration, namely, tea, it will be found that the annual import into Eastern Russia amounts to 240,000 poods, nearly 10,000 cubic tons English. The transport of this tea at present, by caravans, costs, from Hankow, in China, to Irkoutsk, near the Lake of Baikal, 7½ roubles per pood. The price for land transport between Strelensk (the highest navigable point on the Amoor) and the Baikal Lake is from 1 rouble 20 copecks to 2 roubles 50 copecks per pood. Taking the highest price—2 roubles 50 copecks per pood—there remains 5 roubles per pood for the transport of tea by water from Hankow to Strelensk, via Amoor River. The actual expenses of the company for river transport from the mouth of the Amoor to its highest navigable point are about 50 copecks per pood. Supposing that the freight from Hankow to Nikolaievsk (about 2,000 miles distance) attains the price of £3 per ton of 40 cubic feet, which would be equal to 1 rouble per pood, the cost of the whole transport by water would not exceed 1 rouble 50 copecks. Consequently there remains a surplus of 3¼ roubles in favour of the company. In order to induce the exporters of tea from China to adopt the Amoor route, the company has already entered into negotiations with the largest tea firms in Russia and Russian firms in China, and have promised them a reduction per chest on the transport of tea from China to Irkoutsk. At the prices agreed on for this traffic the company would derive a profit of £360,000.

Independently of the income shown by the above statements the company will derive a new and considerable revenue by the establishment of a line of sea-going steamers of its own, to run from Hankow to Nikolaievsk. The amount of sea freight imported annually by that route would amount to 10,000 tons. Assuming the company to charge (as stated above) £3 per ton, the gross receipts from tea alone during the summer months would be £30,000—a sum sufficient to keep up four steamers the whole year round. A considerable sum would also be realised on the return journey by the transport of timber, coal, and seaweed, 5,000 tons of which last are now yearly exported from Siberia to China alone. There is no question that so soon as these ocean steamers are established, the Imperial Russian Government will avail itself of the line for the transport, not only of all Government freight, for which it frequently now chartered private vessels, but also for the establishment of regular communication between the different Russian ports on the Pacific Ocean, a communication which is much needed, and at present can scarcely be said to exist. In this case the company has every reason to believe that it will receive an important additional income, by way of subsidy, from the Russian Government for carrying the mails and Government freights.

P. AND O. COMPANY'S MEETING.

The meeting of shareholders in this company was held at the offices, Leadenhall-street, on the 7th inst., under the presidency of Mr. P. D. HADOW, chairman. The notice calling the meeting was read by Mr. C. W. HOWELL, the secretary, who also presented the report of the directors.

The CHAIRMAN said he found, on looking over the report of his observations at the last meeting, that if he were to repeat them that day they would be equally applicable to the present moment. The principal points at the last meeting were that there had been an increase in the competition and a decrease in the expenditure. On the present occasion he was able to say that the receipts had not been greater, but the expenditure had been less.

The company had sold four vessels at a loss, but they would be replaced by new ones, consuming less coal, having more carrying capacity, and better adapted in every way for the requirements of modern trade. So that though for the moment the sale entailed some pecuniary loss, yet in the end there would be a considerable gain to the company. The fleet had been strengthened, as stated in the report, and it was a matter of deep satisfaction to the board to know that the old ships had been replaced, and the company's fleet vastly improved, without calling upon the shareholders for any fresh capital. So far as they had gone up to the present, the new ships had entirely satisfied the expectations of the board. The last new vessel went to Galle at the rate of eleven knots with a consumption of thirty-three tons of coal, in place of old vessels which consumed fifty tons of coal and could convey only half the quantity of cargo. Referring to the underwriting account, he said that on the last occasion the board presented a clean bill of health, whereas on the present they had to deplore the loss of the Rangoon. The paragraph in the report referring to that matter was very short, not because the board desired to withhold any information from the shareholders, but because the full report of the circumstances was not yet before the board, and as the inquiry was still pending the directors deemed it just and prudent to await the finding of the Court before commenting upon the sad accident. As soon as the Board were in possession of full information the public and every one else should have it. It was satisfactory to know that the captain and crew were acquitted of all blame, and, in addition to the fact that passengers and crew were saved, there was the consolation that the mails had been recovered uninjured. This was more than could at first have been expected, as the divers who first went down were carried away by the strong undercurrent, and it was therefore the more creditable. Turning from a dark picture to a bright one, it was a source of deep satisfaction that the company's officers and ship had been able to render such signal service in rescuing the crew of the ill-fated and unfortunate Megara. The letter of Captain Bernard was appended to the report, and spoke for itself. It was a simple narrative of events, and showed that there were still in the service of the company gentlemen who were distinguished for skill and bravery, and who, in the management of vessels under the most trying circumstances were second to none. (Loud cheers.) He concluded by moving the adoption of the report and statement of accounts.

Mr. GIBBINS seconded the motion with a very great deal of pleasure. He had examined the accounts at the office, and found them satisfactory in every respect. To his mind the shareholders were greatly indebted to the board for their exertions in meeting competition and maintaining the high position of the company.

Mr. GLIDDON thought that the report was most satisfactory, and that the provision which the board had made for next year was a wise one, and would commend itself to the minds of the shareholders generally. He did not believe the officers of the company were in any measure responsible for the loss of the Rangoon, as she was at the time in the hands of the pilot, and expressed his approval of the policy of the board in getting rid of the old, large coal-consuming ships, and replacing them with new ones, consuming less coal, and having greater cargo-carrying capacities.

Mr. DAVIES wished for a more detailed statement of accounts. He was sorry to see the large loss on the sale of the old ships, and thought that the 5 per cent. annually written off for depreciation was too small. He rejoiced to see the diminution in the expenditure, but believed there was ample room for a still further reduction. He suggested that a large saving might be effected by the company importing its own wines and spirits for consumption. He was not satisfied with a 6 per cent. dividend.

Mr. JONES expressed deep regret at the loss of the Rangoon. He had upon many occasions called the attention of the directors to the dangerous state of Galle Harbour, and thought that a special protest or representation should go from that meeting to the Government of Ceylon. By the refusal to expend a sum of less than half a million to render the harbour safe the Government was responsible for the loss to the shareholders of 8 per cent.

Dr. SCHULTOR, referring to the loss of the Rangoon, gave it as his opinion that the disaster was mainly attributable to the fact of the ship being detained whilst she took in the local China mails.—Dr. STOKES thought the company's manager at the station was greatly to blame in the matter, and the harbour-master as well.

The CHAIRMAN, in reply to the various speakers, said the loss on the Broughton Hall was only about £2,000. She was a very old ship and practically useless. No doubt the loss on the sale of old ships was a matter for regret, but it would have been a loss still more serious if the company had attempted to reconstruct them. As to the company importing its own wines, he hoped the shareholders would leave those details of management to the board. For the present the directors did not deem it prudent to make any change. As to the company having done more work and earned less money, it was the fact. But the same causes which increased the work tended to diminish the expenditure. There was a great deal of competition, and the company's rates for passengers had been reduced fully 20 per cent. The debentures of the company falling due were being renewed at a lower rate of interest. The captain of the Rangoon was an old, very efficient, and trustworthy officer of the company. The pilot in whose charge the vessel was had been uniformly employed by the company for the past 20 years. Before stopping the vessel to take in the mail from the boat the captain asked the pilot if she was out of danger, and was answered in the affirmative. The stoppage to take in the local mails only occupied thirteen minutes, and the delay was occasioned by the local mail from Ceylon not being ready in time. The board had received letters from the company's agents at Galle, and did not think them or the harbour-master to blame. The captain had never before had an accident, and the board, despite the unfortunate occurrence, had the utmost confidence in him and all the company's officers. (Cheers.) The captain and officers were anxious to beach the ship when the accident happened, but the pilot told them it was too dark, and impossible to do so, and the captain, properly thinking life the most valuable thing he had in charge, at once made for the nearest ship outside the harbour, in order to save those on board. (Cheers.)

The report was adopted nem. con., and the dividend declared. Upon the motion of the Hon. J. NORRIS, seconded by Mr. STUART, the retiring directors were re-elected. The auditors having been reappointed, the proceedings closed with a vote of thanks to the chairman and his colleagues. The directors' report appeared in our last issue.

Monetary and Commercial.

Subscriptions have been invited by Messrs. J. Henry Schroder and Co. for £210,000 Six per Cent. Bonds of the Amoor River Navigation Company of St. Petersburg, at the price of 87, in instalments extending to the 1st of May next. The company has recently been constituted by a decree of the Russian Government, to take over and extend the arrangements hitherto carried on by the State for the performance of the postal and general traffic service via the Amoor, especially in connection with the importation of tea and the regular communication with the various ports of the Pacific Ocean. The Government have entered into an exclusive contract with the company for twenty years for a certain amount of transport service, on defined terms, accompanied also by a subsidy equal to about £56,000 per annum, and the Bonds are to be redeemed at par within that period by annual drawings, which will commence on the 1st of December, 1872. Some lengthy extracts from the prospectus of the undertaking appear in another column. The subscription list was closed on the 8th inst., the applications having exceeded the amount required. The scrip is quoted 1 to 1½ prem.

The "Imperial Marine Insurance Company" is being formed, with a capital of £300,000, in £10 shares. The prospectus says:—

The opening of the Suez Canal route to India and China, and the large increase in steam tonnage between Liverpool and America, have added enormously to the trade of the country during the last three years, and for this increase no special facilities for insurance have been provided in Liverpool, where the head office of the new company is to be situated, so that insurers are compelled to send a portion of their risks to be covered elsewhere. The directors have made arrangements for taking over the business of the Liverpool Marine Insurance Company, on placing at the disposal of its liquidators 5,000 shares, with £2 credited thereon, for distribution amongst the shareholders in that company. The Imperial will thus secure immediately a carefully-selected business, yielding, under the present management, a premium income of about £60,000 a-year, which is believed to be capable of great and immediate expansion. The directors have also secured the services of a complete office staff in excellent working order, including an experienced underwriter, and propose to have agencies in the principal ports of the United Kingdom, India, Australia, and China. As a proof of their confidence in the undertaking the directors themselves take upwards of 4,000 shares in the company.

At the meeting of the P. and O. Company, the directors' report was adopted, and a dividend and bonus, equal together to 4 per cent., were declared for the half-year. The proceedings at the meeting will be found in another column.

The tenders for £500,000 in bills on India, or £100,000 above the total offered on the last occasion, were received on the 6th inst. at the Bank of England. The amounts allotted were—To Calcutta, £363,100; to Bombay, £131,000; and to Madras, £5,900. The minimum price was fixed, as before, at 1s. 11d. on all the Presidencies. Tenders on Calcutta and Madras at 1s. 11½d will receive about 37 per cent., and on Bombay at that rate in full. These results show no change of importance compared with the last occasion.

ARTICLES OF IMPORT.

TEA.

There has been but little doing during the week, and the market appears to have settled down into the condition of quietude which usually prevails during the few weeks which precede the Christmas holidays. In the limited transactions which have been entered into prices have shown no alteration.

Only one public sale has been held during the week, and at this the unimportant quantities offered were nearly all taken off at previous rates; of 3,061 packages put up 2,720 packages sold without reserve. 800 boxes Scented Orange Pekoe from Macao sold at 1s. 2½d. to 1s. 3d., 507 boxes Canton ditto at 1s. 4½d. to 1s. 6½d., and 123 boxes Canton Scented Caper at 1s. 6½d. per lb.

SILK.

There is a small but steady business doing, chiefly for the home trade, and although at this season manufacturers limit their purchases as much as possible, yet being well employed, their actual wants have sufficed to produce moderate daily transactions. China Silk is firm in price, and good clean Silk is not easily obtainable. Japan Silk of the best quality is in demand, but lower classes are dull and declining. Canton Teatlee reel of the ordinary quality sells freely at 16s. to 16s. 3d., but this Silk is firmly held, consequent upon the telegram from Hong Kong reporting the season abruptly closed by the failure of the later crops.

Deliveries from 1st to 5th December inclusive:—Bengal, 56 bales; China, &c., 570 bales; Japan, 143 bales.

COFFEE.

The market has exhibited a steady tone during the week, but the business has been small in extent, and has consisted wholly of Plantation Ceylon, the prices realised being: triage and ordinary. 59s. to 67s. 6d.; small gray, 67s. to 68s.; low middling gray kinds, 70s. to 72s.; bold ditto, 72s. to 74s.; middling, 74s. 6d. to 77s.; pea-berry, 82s. to 83s. 6d. Privately plantation has sold at 67s. for small to 74s. for middling, about 300 bags Native at 66s. 6d. to 67s., and 72 bags ordinary mixed Singapore at 64s. to 64s. 6d. For arrival 50 tons Native Ceylon have been sold at 67s., guaranteed good ordinary sold at 69s.

SUGAR.

A quieter tone has pervaded the market within the past few days; the demand has been small, and to effect business holders have been constrained to submit to a decline of 3d. to 6d. per cwt. upon our last quotations. The following are the sales effected during the week:—

Manila: In auction 12,243 bags Cebu unclayed, per G. F. Handel, of fresh import, were bought in at 25s. to 25s. 6d.; privately, 5,000 bags clayed Manila have been sold at 27s. 3d., and 350 tons Ilo Ilo at 25s. 9d.; for arrival, 120 tons Taal have been sold at 24s. 6d. landed terms.

Penang.—At auction 553 baskets pasty date were bought in at 24s. 6d. to 25s.; these were subsequently sold privately at 24s. 6d. Of 528 mats good soft coloury (duty 5s. 3d.) offered, 150 mats sold at 34s. 6d. to 35s.

Java, Siam, &c.—No sales.

COIR GOODS.—At the public sales moderate supplies of Yarn brought forward met a good demand, and were mostly disposed of at fully previous rates. Of 347 bales Ceylon about 200 bales sold—middling to good middling, £33 15s. to £36 10s.; good to fine, £38 15s. to £47 15s.; superior well made, £52 15s. to £58 5s.; 26 tons in dholls all sold—common to good common at £28 to £30 10s., middling, £31 to £32 15s. Of Fibre, 2,400 ballots (10 tons) Ceylon were bought in at £18, except one lot which sold thereat.

COCOA-NUT OIL continues quiet at £38 10s. for Ceylon. At auction 224 hogsheds Ceylon chiefly sold, fair at £38 10s., dark brown weak £33 5s., the remainder and 84 other packages being bought in at £35 to £38 10s. for dark weak to good.

CAMPOR.—The market continues firm; China has been sold on the spot at 80s., and for arrival (500 cases) at 75s. per cwt.

CUTCH.—200 boxes fine Pegu, Elephant mark, have been sold at 24s. 6d.

GAMBIER continues in good demand; for arrival 100 tons near at hand have been sold at 17s. 10½d. for distant shipment; 18s. is obtainable.

HEMP.—Of recent arrivals of Manila, per Mary Blundell and Thomas Bell, a large portion, amounting to 4,889 bales, has been offered by auction; only 1,500 bales found buyers, brown at a decline of £1 per ton, better qualities 10s. lower; common brown sold at £37 15s.; middling to good ditto, £40 to £41 10s.; barely fair current (1,000 bales mark BC), at £46, a few lots £46 5s.; good fair, £47 10s.; good Boluzan, £51 10s. to £51 15s.

PEPPER.—Black continues dull, and in auction of 1,082 bags Penang offered only 600 bags sold at easier rates, chiefly sea-damaged at 5½d. to 5½d. for first class, a few sound at 5½d. to 6d.; of 136 bags Singapore 116 bags common sold at 6d. White: In auction of 708 bags Singapore offered 620 bags sold at a further decline of fully 1½d. per lb. viz., at 11½d. to 1s., chiefly at 11½d.

PRESERVES.—250 cases good Chyloong China Ginger sold readily at advancing prices, commencing at 10d. and rising to 11d. per lb. Of 100 casks common 30 casks sold at 6½d. to 7d. per lb.

RICE.—The market has been very dull; in auction 7,042 bags Necransie were bought in at 10s. 6d. to 10s. 9d., except 1,500 bags sea-damaged, which sold at 9s. to 9s. 9d., 3,879 bags Moulmein bought in at 10s. 3d., except 1,100 bags damaged, which sold, repacked and fourth class 8s. 9d. to 9s., 1,639 bags damaged Rangoon bought in at 10s., 1,354 bags white Bengal were bought in, low middling to middling at 11s. to 11s. 6d., of 7,500 bags old Necransie, per Sapphire, 500 bags sold at 10s., one lot 10s. 3d., being cheaper, the remainder bought in at 10s. 6d.; privately 1,550 bags middling white Bengal have been sold at 11s. 3d. to 11s. 6d.

SPICES.—Cinnamon Chips: At public sale 1,649 bags Ceylon met a moderate demand, and only 900 bags sold at previous rates—coarse bark 2d., thin bark 2½d. to 2½d., baky chips 3½d. to 3½d., fair to good 5½d. to 6½d.; the remainder bought in at 3d. for ordinary to 6½d. for good. Cassia Vera: 40 cases China bought in at 60s. Cloves: 39 cases Penang met less demand, and only 10 cases sold at an important decline at 1s. 3½d. to 1s. 3½d., one case 1s. 4½d.; 20 bags Java sold at 4½d. Nutmegs: 37 cases Penang, chiefly import 1865, sold at full rates; average 65 nuts to the lb. at 3s. 10d., 69s at 3s. 8d., 71s at 3s. 7d., 88s at 3s. 6d., 107s (30 cases) at 3s. 1d. to 3s. 2d., 118s at 3s. 1d. Mace: 7 cases fresh Penang sold at rather lower prices—fair reddish, 4s. 6d. to 4s. 7d.; ordinary dark, 3s. 10d. to 3s. 11d.

SAGO.—At auction only 40 bags small pearl were offered and bought in at 17s. to 18s. Flour: 1,090 bags Singapore bought in at 16s. 6d.

TAPIOCA.—684 bags Penang sold steadily—good 2d. to 2½d., middling 1½d. to 2d.; 186 bags Singapore sold at 2d. to 2½d. Pearl: 35 bags large bought in at 20s.

TIN.—The market continues strong; Straits has sold for arrival at £148 to £149, and for delivery during the first four months next year at £147 10s.; Banca at £149 to £150.

NEW YORK MARKET REPORT.—Nov. 29.

—o—

TEA.

The following is from Messrs. Beebe's Circular:—Since the date of our Circular for October a large business has been reported in Oolong, at essentially unchanged prices. Sales made public during the month show an aggregate of 73,800 half-chests, including 24,000 new crop to arrive from Amoy, 16,700 to hand, ex steamer Wm. Miller, and 31,800 old, chiefly Foochow kinds. At the close there is less enquiry, and further transactions of magnitude, either in old or new, could only be effected at some concession in prices. For Greens the demand has been quite moderate, and the business noted has been mainly in old crop, and from second hands. Sales include 17,500 half-chests, and quotations show a decline in nearly all grades of old, with a more marked one in some grades of new. In Japan the transactions are also on a moderate scale. Sales for the month foot 15,500 half-chests, of which 4,200 only are new crop—the latter indicate a declining and unsettled market, with quotations 3c. to 6c. lower for medium to finest. For old, no change in values can be quoted since our last. Sales of Congou and Souchow are limited to 3,700 half-chests, the market closing with but little inquiry for any grade.

The following are the current quotations (in gold, duty 15c. paid): —Greens (Moyune, Teenki, and Fychow, new crop): Gunpowder, first quality, 105c. to 110c.; second, 80c. to 85c.; Imperial, first, 85c. to 90c.; second, 70c. to 75c.; Young Hyson, first, 95c. to 105c.; second, 75c. to 85c.; Hyson, first, 80c. to 85c.; second, 67c. to 72c.; Hyson Skin, 33c. to 43c.; Foochow Oolongs (old crop), common and good, 39c. to 46c.; superior and fine, 52c. to 65c.; finest, 70c. to 90c.; Amoy Oolongs (new crop), common and good, 43c. to 54c.; superior and fine, 57c. to 67c.; finest, 70c. to 80c.; Souchong and Congou (old and new crop), common and good, 27c. to 38c.; superior and fine, 43c. to 55c.; finest, 60c. to 70c.; Japans (new crop), common, nominal; medium, 53c. to 55c.; good medium, 57c. to 60c.; fine and finest, 68c. to 72c.; choice, 75c. to 85c.

The total receipts of Tea from China and Japan at the port of New York from Jan. 1 to Nov. 18, 1871, were as follows:—Greens, 18,376,971 lbs.; Japans, 13,895,459 lbs.; Sonchongs, 3,476,915 lbs.; Oolongs, 13,385,917 lbs.; other sorts, 383,783 lbs.; total, 49,519,045 lbs. The stock on Jan. 1 was 16,748,661 lbs.; which, added to the above total, gives a result of 66,267,706 lbs. as the total supply. Subtracting from this total the exports from Jan. 1 to Nov. 18, 4,593,416 lbs., and the withdrawals for home consumption during that period, 44,550,177 lbs., there remains a total of 17,124,113 lbs., representing the stock on the last-named date. The receipts from Sept. 18 to Nov. 18 amounted to 4,454,766 lbs.; the withdrawals for home consumption to 3,142,200 lbs.; and the exports to 224,609 lbs.

SILK.

The following is Mr. O'Donoghue's report:—Our issue of the 18th ult. found a moderately active market for fine Re-reeled Tatlee and Haineen Silk. Since that date the stock of these descriptions has been augmented by recent arrivals, and we cannot say that business is satisfactory, though manufacturers are purchasing continually to supply their immediate wants, but with a great deal of caution as the end of the year approaches. Settlements for lines would necessitate a concession on quotations, which are current for small parcels. Usual Reel Tatlee: Quite neglected; stock good. Usual Reel Taysaan: Sales frequent in small deliveries. Re-reeled Cantons: No. 1 Cotigoun is scarce, and sold at quotations. Cumchooks are slow of sale; not in much demand, except for superior quality for twist manufacture.

Prices current for China and Japan Raw Silks (currency prices six months' terms):—Tatlee, No. 1, $9.1-4; No. 2, $8.75; No. 3, $8.1-4 to 8.1-2; No. 4 to 5, none. Taysaan, No. 1, $7.75 to 8; No. 2, $7.1-4 to 7.1-2; No. 3, $6.3-4 to 7. Canton, re-reeled, No. 1 Cotigoun, $7.25 to 7.3-8; No. 2 $6.50 to 6.75; No. 1 Cumchook, $6; No. 2, $5.75; Mahang and Hongtang, $5.25 to 5.50. Tatlee, re-reeled, best, $8.1-2; fair, $8 to 8.25; medium, $8. Taysaan, none. Haineen, re-reeled, best, $8.3-4 to 9; fair, $8.1-2. Japans:—Maibash, no stock. Koshio, good, $8.25. Atchezan, no stock. Sodai, Oshio, and Tamba, nominal.

COFFEE.—Since our last report a better inquiry has sprung up for Brazil, and the sales have been larger than for a long time past. The business, it is understood, has been mostly of a speculative character, the regular trade still buying very sparingly, as their country demand is small, as usual, at this period of the season. The market for the other kinds is without improvement, the demand being very light, and stocks accumulating in first hands. Several arrivals of Java have produced a liberal supply both of mats and Government in bags. Two cargoes of the former, say 25,191 mats, per Jane Sprott, and 24,514 do., per Rapide, were sold before arrival, and go into second hands; in addition 4,191 piculs in mats have arrived, per Mars, of which all but one-fourth goes into stock; 3,600 bags Government have come forward from Liverpool, and remain in stock. Java is, in consequence, quite unsettled, and we reduce our quotations to 22½c. to 24c. for Government, and 23½c. to 25c. for mats, with only jobbing sales. An arrival of 487 mats Singapore, per Beatrice, was sold while afloat. At auction 738 bags damaged native Ceylon sold at 17½c. to 20½c., cash.

CORDAGE is steady at previous rates—say 21c. to 22c. for Manila, 20½c. for Tarred Manila, and 19c. to 20c. for Sisal Rope.

CAMPHOR.—China is quoted 16c. gold (in bond).

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Aniseed is quoted $3; Cassia, $2.15 gold (duty paid).

FIRE CRACKERS.—With considerable receipts in prospect, prices have receded a little; 1,000 boxes extra No. 1 have changed hands at $2.90 currency.

HEMP.—A better demand has sprung up for Manila from manufacturers here and at the Eastward, and to provide for their future wants they have made purchases of parcels to arrive in December and January, as follows:—3,500 bales, per City of Agra, to arrive here at 13c.; and to arrive at Boston, 1,110, per John Temperley, 750 per L'Imperatrice, 1,000 per Sooloo, 480 per St. Albans, and 1,800 per Lochnagar, at 13½c., all sixty days, gold. On the spot, 1,000 bales, good quality, ex Samuel G. Glover, have been sold at 13½c., gold, sixty days prompt; and 294 bales ordinary at 12½c., gold (same terms). At the close the quotation remains firm at 13½c. to 13¾c., gold.

INDIGO.—The demand is very limited, and prices generally are not very strong. Sales have been made of Manila at $1.05 to 1.17½; Madras at $1.15, currency.

PRESERVED GINGER.—China is quoted $9 currency (duty paid).

RHUBARB.—The quotation for China is 50c. currency (duty free).

RICE.—The market for Carolina continues buoyant at full prices. The receipts are small, the demand good, and the stock very light. Other kinds are without alteration, and the sales of Rangoon for the week have amounted to 1,000 bags at $6.75 to 7.12½ currency, and 500 bags in bond at $3.25 to 3.30 gold.

SUGAR.—The market continues to gain in strength, as holders, favoured by light receipts, moderate stock, and rising prices in Cuba, continue to offer their supplies sparingly, and only at gradually advancing rates. The only sale of East India has been 15,994 bags Manila, per Great Admiral, at 8½c.

SPICES.—Remain quiet, and in whole parcels we have only to notice the sale of 2,000 piculs Singapore Pepper, to arrive, on private terms; there is a better distributing demand, but the market for most descriptions still lacks that buoyancy that has been so prominent a feature for several months past. Invoices of Mace, Nutmegs, and Pepper at hand per Beatrice were sold and reported before arrival. In large lots there has been no business. In small lots Mace is selling at $1.42½ to 1.45; Nutmegs, 99c. for casks, and $1.02½ for Penang cases; Cassia, 36c.; Black Pepper, 18c. to 19½c.; White ditto, 37½ to 40c.; and Cloves, 12c., all gold. The invoice of 2,000 piculs Singapore Pepper sold, to arrive about next February, at a private price, reported in our last, should have been written 3,000 piculs, per C. C. Leary.

TIN.—The accounts from London relative to Straits continue of a very favourable character for holders, telegrams quoting a considerable advance. Here the market, though quiet, is very firm, higher prices than those previously current being at the close generally demanded; Straits is held at 38c., and Banca at 42c. gold.

CASUALTIES.

The Sir Lancelot, Edmonds, from Foochow, which arrived at New York, Nov. 16, reported having experienced when off the Cape of Good Hope heavy N.W. gales, during which she lost a whole suit of sails.

A telegram from Gibraltar, dated Dec. 4, states as follows:—The Prins van Oranje (str.), Braat, of and for Amsterdam, from Batavia, which put in here, Dec. 2, will discharge part of her cargo (general) to repair machinery.

The Matador, of Bremen, Kimme, from Ilo Ilo to London, with sugar and hemp, put into St. Helena, Nov. 5, leaky; having encountered a gale, Oct. 12, which caused the vessel to make water; on Nov. 3, in lat. 19 S., lon. 2 W., the leak increased to three inches water per hour, and continued to increase until her arrival at St. Helena. The vessel was surveyed and recommended to discharge, so that the position of the leak could be found, when a further survey would be held.

A telegram from Manila, dated Dec. 6, states as follows:—The Banda, which sailed from Ilo Ilo, Sept. 18, for the Channel, struck on a reef near Balaback; the cargo discharged; mate at Manila seeking assistance; cost of repairs probably $6,000.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT

AND PILLS.—SORE THROAT.—There is in our variable climate no complaint more common than this; few more annoying, or more troublesome to cure when neglected. The moment there is any hoarseness or dry cough, the part affected, after fomentation with salt water, should be briskly rubbed with a piece of new flannel to open the pores, for absorbing the Ointment to be instantly applied. Repeat the process twice a day. The most obstinate sore throat or cough will disappear before this treatment. It would always be as well, while treating the disease externally with the Ointment, to take a course of the PILLS, which would give tone to the system, and expedite and confirm the cure.

ART, PICTORIAL AND INDUSTRIAL.

In Illustrated Magazine.

THIS Publication was commenced on July 1st, 1870, in the belief that an ample field existed for a high class monthly magazine devoted to Art; and already the result has fulfilled this expectation. 'ART' is produced in a form eminently adapted to the drawing-room table. It is handsomely printed on fine paper, in super-royal quarto, and each Number contains four or more full-page Heliotype Illustrations, being reproductions of Ancient and Modern Pictures, Engravings, Designs, Sculpture, and objects of Industrial or Decorative Art.

Among the contributors to 'ART' are Messrs. BLANCHARD JERROLD, CHARLES BURTON, J. CORDY JEAFFRESON, G. W. REID, HYDE CLARKE, GEORGE AUGUSTUS SALA, W. R. RALSTON, JOHN FORBES ROBERTSON, HENRY BLACKBURN, G. W. YAPP, JOHN PIGGOT, Jun., E. OLLIER, &c., &c.

Summary of News from the Far East.

JAPAN.

LATER ADVICES BY PACIFIC MAIL.

The Pacific Mail Company's extra steamer Alaska arrived at San Francisco on the 29th ult. with Yokohama advices to Nov. 3. We reproduce the summary of the Japan news, brought by this steamer as telegraphed to the New York press. We trust that inquiry will be made with the view of discovering who is the perpetrator of the glaring inaccuracies, the frequent recurrence of which render these summaries utterly unreliable. As an instance we may point to the absurd allusion to the export of rice from Japan to the Saigon market.

There was much comment by foreigners and Japanese at the action of the American Government in abandoning the expedition to Corea. This action, it is considered, is detrimental to our national honour and highly prejudicial to the interests of foreigners, both in China and Japan. The naval demonstration against Corea never should have been undertaken, it is said, unless the American people were prepared to carry out their intention.

There is a rumour that Corea has made an attack upon the Japanese island of Tausima, lying between Nagasaki and Corea, it being claimed as Corean territory.

The Japanese Ambassadors to China had returned to Jeddo, owing to some diplomatic mistake having occurred. It is said the Ambassadors have brought no treaty with them. China wanted a treaty of alliance, defensive and offensive, which Japan is hardly in a condition to accede to.

Serious troubles have taken place in the southern districts of Japan, in consequence of the Government edict abrogating the position of Daimios and absorbing their territories and giving nothing in return.

Rice was never more plentiful than the present year, and the Government is called upon to export the surplus and supply the Saigon market, where the crops have entirely failed.

The railroad to Yedo from Yokohama will probably be finished in the present year, it is so poorly ballasted that it will have to be rebuilt within another year.

Telegraphic communication between Nagasaki and Osaka will soon be completed, and then direct communication with Europe and America will be insured.

Mexican dollars are 325 boos.

CHINA.

SHANGHAI.

Advices are to the 2nd Nov.; the French mail, with London dates Sept. 15, arrived out on the 31st Oct. The following items are from the North China Herald:—

The great event of the past week has been the Shanghai Rowing Club Regatta, and the great event of the regatta was of course the international race between the Scotch and English eights. Public sympathy went rather with the Scotch, because they had pluckily come forward to fill a gap, left by the withdrawal of the Americans; their success, therefore, gave general pleasure. The Rowing Club had their usual dinner at the Club on Monday evening, after the conclusion of the second day's sport.

The Shanghai Yacht Club holds the second regatta of the season on Monday next. It will be seen that the cup to be contended for is one presented by the Commodore; and it is a very handsome specimen of workmanship, being a fac-simile of one designed by Benvenuto Cellini in the sixteenth century. It is now on exhibition at Lane, Crawford and Co.'s. The race is likely to be an interesting one, as every kind of sail is permitted, and many new rigs are expected to be developed. Yachts entered have been handicapped by the committee, thus giving a fair chance to all. We hear that Mr. Reynolds has kindly placed his new steamer at the disposal of the committee, so that a pleasant day may be expected for the club and their friends.

The Supreme Court has been occupied by a long Admiralty case, arising out of a collision between the S.S.N. Co.'s steamer, Kiangsee, and Messrs. Jardine, Matheson and Co.'s steamer, Kiu-shin, in which the former claimed damages, but was defeated.

The news from Tientsin is no more reassuring; 2,000,000 people will be starving and homeless during the coming winter, dependent on charity, or on Government, for their support; and the mandarins do not show the necessary energy in procuring supplies before the port is frozen. It is now believed that the waters of the Yellow River are contributing to the flood, finding their way north by way of the Grand Canal.

NINGPO.

The Synod is still in session, and likely to be for some time yet. Like some other great bodies, it moves slowly, much time being consumed in translating from Chinese into English, and from English into the various dialects.

Considerable solicitude has been felt here on account of the steamer Eastern Isles, supposed to have left Hong Kong, bound for this port, about the 12th inst. She has on board a large party on their way to attend the Synod, and the typhoon reported in the vicinity of Formosa has served to increase the anxiety of friends.

The report of the Suwonada published in the Daily News of yesterday is calculated to allay this feeling. The Suwonada passed her on the 18th inst. (the Suwonada's second day out from Hong Kong), and though she may not arrive before the adjournment of Synod, she will probably be here "before Christmas."

Last night the first of a series of conferences was held at the Rev. Mr. Butler's. It was well attended, and the discussion lively and interesting. The subject covered the whole ground of mission schools, qualification and education of native ministers, &c. This evening the foreign members of the Synod are invited to attend the regular meeting of the Ningpo Association, to be held at Dr. Parker's. The subject is one recently discussed in Shanghai, viz., "Should the missionary societies map out the territory, giving to each denomination its special field?" It will probably be a very interesting meeting.

HONG KONG.

Dates extend to the 8th Nov.; no mail had arrived out since that of the 22nd Sept., but the French mail of Sept. 29 was due on the 9th Nov. The following items are from the China Mail :—

The special committee sitting to investigate the provisions of the Pier and Godown Company's Ordinance has sat again. Mr. Burrows and Mr. MacIver gave evidence in favour of the construction of the pier. Mr. Hayllar, the company's counsel, then addressed the committee, dwelling upon the advantages which would be given to the trade and public interests of the colony. He gave it as his opinion that (excepting the large house represented by Mr. Keswick) the firms most largely interested in the shipping business were all in favour of the pier; and he contended that the other alleged private interests were insignificant as compared with the general trade of the port. Besides, he believed that the great bulk of the native cargo-boat traffic would be attracted to the company's pier, so that would do away with much of the alleged inconvenience. And he called the attention of the Council especially to the character and position of those gentlemen who appeared as directors of the undertaking. If they could not carry out such a scheme, it was very improbable that any scheme of the kind could be carried out at all. And it ought to be borne in mind that, when all civilised ports were being supplied with such facilities, Hong Kong was somewhat scandalised by the want of facilities for the speedy loading and discharging of goods.—It was then suggested by the Colonial Secretary that the discussion should be left to the Committee; and the Council-room was cleared accordingly.

The Chief Justice delivered his written judgment on the 6th November in the suit of Henderson v. the Chartered Bank of India, Australia, and China. His Lordship felt bound by the decision of the Privy Council in "Roger and Others v. Comptoir d'Escompte and Another" (the Min case), and decided in favour of the plaintiffs on the ground that the trust created by the special heading of the invoice and the correspondence prevailed over the pledge to the defendants of the Bill of Lading for an antecedent debt not for valuable consideration. The decree is that an account be taken of sums paid by the plaintiffs in taking up the dishonoured bills and all incidental expenses, with interest at the English rate of 4 per cent. per annum. That a further account be taken of the proceeds of sale of goods with interest at the rate of 12 per cent. per annum. Out of the aggregate of such proceeds and interest, let the whole, or so much thereof as shall be necessary, be applied in satisfaction of the sum found to be due to the plaintiffs by the first account, so far as the same may extend. Defendants to pay plaintiffs' costs.

We regret to say that Charles Brown, second mate of the American ship Golden State, who was stabbed by one of the crew on the 14th September, when that vessel was preparing to leave port, died on the 26th Oct.

The new regulations for street chairs and chair-coolies have at length appeared. No street-chairs may ply for hire after midnight; they may, however, carry their fares as long as required. Each chair is secured for a sum of $50. Should articles of a higher value than this be lost in any chair, there will very little hope of their recovery through the security. The fares range from 10c. for half an hour to one dollar for twelve hours.

The rates of boat and coolie hire are also published. First-class cargo boats of 900 piculs are fixed at $5 per day, or $2 per load; and so on in proportion.

The following news is from the Daily Press :—

The steamship Douglas brings the intelligence that the steamship Azof parted from her moorings on the night of 31st Oct., in Amoy harbour, and went on to the rocks on the left side of the harbour. By this time it is expected she will be bottom up.

We hear that a ship's gig was found floating in the Lyemmoon passage on the 31st October. It had apparently got away from its moorings. It is not known who is the owner, and it has been taken to the harbour-master's office.

A concert by the German community for the benefit of the sufferers by the Chicago fire is to take place at the City Hall.

It is difficult to understand the following paragraph, which also appears in our contemporary, seeing that the Chinese Envoy only left Marseilles for China last week :—

ARRIVAL OF THE PACIFIC MAIL.

The Pacific Mail steamer Great Republic, Captain Cobb, arrived this morning. Time does not permit us giving the detailed news; but the following is of special interest, as showing that the Chinese Embassy left Europe in a very quiet manner, but have been asked to return :—

THE CHINESE EMBASSY.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22nd.—Three of the Chinese diplomatists who have been staying at the Westminster Hotel left for San Francisco last evening, on their way to China. Chung How, First Minister of the Embassy, with the other Chinese officials, and the English and French Secretaries, will sail for Europe to-morrow in the steamship St. Laurent. The Embassy was unsuccessful in their previous mission to France, and were to have departed for home yesterday, but were notified by the French Government that they would be received if they returned to France, and therefore changed their intentions. The object of their mission, as stated heretofore, is to make reparation for the massacre of French citizens at Tientsin.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

—o—

SINGAPORE.

Dates from this port are to Nov. 16; the outward mail (French) of Oct. 13 arrived Nov. 14. The following items are from the Daily Times :—

The Chinese riots, which raged here on the departure of the last mail, were fortunately crushed out by the prompt action of the Government in a few days. There has been very little fighting since our last overland; one or two attempts were made by the "fighting men" of the two clans to renew the disturbances, but these signally failed; in one instance no less than forty of these vagabonds were secured by the police, military, and special constables, and summarily punished by flogging, fine, or imprisonment. This attempt virtually ended the riots, and there has been shown no disposition to renew them since.

The new police law, which has been passed by the Legislative Council, was put into operation on the 1st of the present month. The reason for its early introduction is, that the police was found utterly incapable of preserving the peace during the riots, and it has been found necessary, for the good order of the Settlement, that the force should be placed on a more effective footing at once. It is of course impossible to judge, as yet, whether the "reorganisation" will effect the needed improvement; but if it makes any improvement at all it will have done some good. The European element in the force is being augmented. Inspector Adams, of the Singapore police, is to go to Penang, to replace Inspector Magness, who retires on his pension.

The Java Bode of the 24th Oct. thus sets forth the success met with by Mr. Crawford in Timor :—"We learn from a good authority that the copper mining operations in Mid Timor have had to be stopped for want of ore. This surprises us very much, because in a pamphlet (which has reached a second edition) written by Mr. H. de Bruijn on this subject, the richness in copper of the districts of Jenilo, Harneno, and Bebokki, over which the so much talked of Crawford concession extended, is very highly spoken of. Amongst other things it is stated in Bruijn's work that Mr. Crawford has seen this copper treasure with his own eyes, and had met with veins eighty feet thick. A thorough investigation by two English mining engineers has taken place in the aforesaid districts. One of these experts came from Australia, where he had long been employed in copper mines; the other, an engineer of repute, was sent out by a London banking house to convince himself of the asserted copper wealth of Timor on the spot. This investigation has, alas! shown that copper-holding stones are indeed met with here and there in Mid Timor, but that is all. Yet, in one of the appendices to Mr. Bruijn's pamphlet, the often-mentioned Mr. Crawford held out to the credulous public the prospect of a yearly yield of 75,000 piculs of copper, and promised fully a dividend of 19½ per cent. if a capital of only f.500,000 could be got together! Luckily, however, the loss is not so great, although this unsuccessful copper affair will cost those who have advanced the money about f.40,000. A second copper mining undertaking, much nearer the town of Kupang, will, it seems, likewise not come to anything from scantiness of yield. A mineralogical investigation has brought to light the fact that it is only the surface of the ground that contains any ore.

The speeches of the non-official members on the steamer question at the Legislative Council are so far at one with the community that they appear to be thoroughly disgusted with the vessel which has been palmed upon the colony—one unsuited for the work she has to do, burning a large quantity of coal, and costing a large sum yearly for maintenance. What was the sum actually disbursed on her before she was approved for the public service is still unknown, but it is not believed to be an exaggeration to say that she stands in the colonial books at nearly, if not quite, a hundred thousand dollars. The history of her proves this—that no dependence can be placed in the Colonial-office nor in the Crown Agents, or they would not have connived at such an evident job. As to selling her, it is absurd to entertain the idea, for, as Mr. Adamson says, it would be a good thing to know in what port she could be sold; but her expenses might be diminished if she were not always driven full speed. She may manage eight knots upon a moderate consumption, and if she relieves the lighthouses—performs picnics, or carries the officials at that rate, except in emergencies, the coal bill will be considerably reduced. The next time the colony requires a steamer—and the Pluto will not last long at the present rate of driving—let our non-officials make a stand and insist on the public money being applied to the purchase of a steamer suited to the general requirements of the Settlements, supplied with the latest improvements, and an economical fuel consumer—which any first-rate builder on the Thames or the Clyde will readily supply, and not require Mr. Reed to supply the draft for £500.

At the meeting of the Legislative Council, on Nov. 10, the Colonial Secretary laid on the table the Report of the Auditor-General on the Accounts for 1870, and proposed to take the discussion on the Supply Bill at the next sitting. The Hon. Thomas Scott then gave notice of motion of the following resolution:—That, in the opinion of the Council, it is necessary that the Government should, as early as possible, make arrangements by which the revenue of the colony would be relieved from the charge now incurred for ecclesiastical establishments.

The Colonial Secretary moved the first reading of a Bill to apply a portion of the surplus revenue of the colony for the erection of a lighthouse at the North Sands.

The Auditor-General moved the first reading of a Bill to apply a further sum of $50,047.41 to certain public services for the year 1870, and the Bill was accordingly read.

The return match between the wing of the 10th Regiment and the Singapore Cricket Club resulted in the victory of the Singaporeans by a majority of 15.

A telegram from Batavia states that the M.M. steamer Newa had broken her shaft sixty miles from Batavia. The Capitole was despatched with a spare crank shaft for her, and the remaining gear needed to fit her up again went down by the Dutch mail steamer.

Commercial Report.

IMPORTS.

SHANGHAI.—There had been a very dull market, owing to the regatta and the coming race week. Stocks were generally very heavy, and in textile fabrics would increase until spring trade opens. Piece goods had been extremely quiet since the departure of last mail. In 8½ lbs. Grey Shirtings there had been absolutely nothing done, and the demand which existed for 7lbs. had completely died out. The quotations for both were nominal. A few sales of White Shirtings, common T-cloths, and Drills had taken place, at about last mail's rates for the first and last, and at a slight decline for the second article. Common 6 lbs. T-cloths had been in some enquiry at Tls. 1.20 to 1.23, but sellers showed some reluctance to close with the offers made to them; 7 lbs. of similar standard had also been asked for at slightly easier prices; and there was a sale of Mexicans reported at Tls. 1.53 per piece. Better news regarding Drills from Tientsin had enabled holders to maintain last mail's rates. In Jeans there had been no business, and only a trifling trade in Fancy Cottons, the most prominent transaction of the latter being a small parcel of Cotton Lastings at Tls. 3.65 per piece. For Woollens, very little inquiry had prevailed, but there was no indication of weakness in the market, holders being very firm. Figured Lustres were in fair demand, and for Hankow designs better offers were being made. A sale of inferior cloth at Tls. 3.88 per piece was the chief transaction of the week. A few Medium Cloths had been taken for Japan, and some Spanish Stripes and Camlets had changed hands at former rates, but altogether the business in Woollen goods had been very trifling in character and extent. Metals: Lead in slight inquiry, but not sufficient to obtain an advance on last mail's rates. Nail Rod Iron: Not a single transaction effected; the market was very strong, and holders entirely refused to do business at current rates. Quotations unchanged. Coals: Without arrivals rates were firmer, and unless the market be relieved by supplies, would further advance.

HONG KONG.—The import market had presented no material alteration since last mail.

SAIGON.—The market had been quiet, and lower rates had been accepted. Quotations were:—Grey Shirtings, 8½ lbs., $2.52½ per piece; do., 7 lbs., $2.25; T-Cloths, 6 lbs., $1.70, 5 lbs. $1.40, 4½ lbs. $1.25, 4 lbs. $1.12; White Irishes $1.72½.

SINGAPORE.—The following were the current quotations: Gambier, $3.27½; Black Pepper, $13.75; White Pepper, none; Sago Flour, Singapore, $2.70; do., Borneo, $2.75; Pearl Sago, $9.15; Tin, $36; 40s Mule Twist, $115; 8½ lbs. Shirtings, $2.50 to 2.47½; 7 lbs. do., $2.15; 6lbs. T-cloths, $1.37½ to 1.40; 6 lbs. do., $1.65; 7 lbs. do., $1.85.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

SHANGHAI.—During the week there had been a very small business done in Black Teas. Prices had been slightly easier, especially for the very common grades, of which the stock principally consisted. Arrivals had taken place in very small quantities, and the season was rapidly drawing to a close. The supplies of Green Teas had been more plentiful and had comprised some desirable parcels, all of which were being freely taken up at fully former rates.

SILK.

SHANGHAI.—Since the mail, about 500 bales had been settled, but prices showed little or no change; Kahing Taysaams and re-reeled Hainings appeared to have been the favourite classes in demand. The natives continued to feed the market with supplies according to settlements made, and the unsold stock remained at about 3,500 to 4,000 bales.

COCHIN CHINA PRODUCE.

The following is from Messrs. Kallenbach, Engler and Co.'s report:—RICE.—The course of the Hong Kong market during the past month has disappointed a great many of our Chinese exporters, whose shipments had been effected at a higher cost than prices ruling there at the time of despatch. At first no one had much belief in a retrograde movement in China, and a speculative business sprung up after rates had declined here about 15c. Continued weaker reports, combined with a very small amount of tonnage in port, reduced, however, our prices fuethermore, so that our present quotations are fully 40c. lower than those current a month ago. The export during the last three and four weeks from this to China show a considerable decrease compared with preceeding months, but the Hong Kong market has been well supplied from other quarters too. Even from the northern provinces of China, where the new crop now gathered turned out better than was expected, grain has been directed to Hong Kong. With regard to the future Rice trade in Hong Kong there is another fact of great importance to be mentioned. According to to-day's news there is hardly any doubt that the Japanese Government, owing to a very abundant crop, will soon withdraw the law prohibiting the export of Rice, and in this case a good portion would certainly be thrown on the Hong Kong market. We entertain therefore some hope for the new season that our prices, even if China continues buying, will be comparatively low. We quote Gocong $1.75, equal to 7s. 2d. f.o.b., and Vinlong $1.70, equal to 6s. 11d. f.o.b. Of new Rice 20,000 piculs have been contracted at $1.75, with 50 days' delivery in China town. New grain, however, is expected the next month already. The exports for the last four weeks amount to 142,165 piculs.

HIDES.—Several lots have been exported to Singapore at about former rates. Cowhides are in very good demand at $12 per picul.

HORNS are firm at last quotations, viz., $8 small, and $8.25 large sized.

GAMBOGE.—There are offers in the market at $50 per picul, but very little is arriving.

ARRIVALS.

At SHANGHAI.—From London, Oct. 26, Clea, Albert Victor, Glendarch (reported by telegram).
At HONG KONG and CANTON.—From Liverpool, Nov. 8, Ulysses (str.); from London, Dec. 11, Canton (str.) (reported by telegram).
At SINGAPORE.—From London, Nov. 7, Fairleader; from Liverpool, Nov. 12, Achilles (str.); from Shields, 11, Radiant; from London, Sree Singapura (reported by telegram).
At BANGKOK.—From London, Nov. 4, Advancement.
At PENANG.—Dec. 12, Ulysses, from China; Ben Nevis, from United Kingdom (reported by telegram).

DEPARTURES.

From SHANGHAI.—For London, Oct. 24, Celestial Queen.
From HONG KONG and CANTON.—For Hamburg, Nov. 6, Bertha.
From SINGAPORE.—For London, Nov. 13, Lorne (str.); for Liverpool, 10, Frances; for New York, 11, W. A. Farnsworth; Dec. 15, for London (via Penang), from Shanghai and Foochow, Lord of the Isles.

REPORTS AND CASUALTIES.

While the Australia was leaving Shanghai she unfortunately collided with the Duna, lying at Olyphant's wharf. The Australia was moored in the stream, and had raised her anchors, but let go one from her bows to enable her to swing safely. From her great length, however, she was caught by the tide, thrown across the anchor, and her bow came down upon the Duna's starboard side, tearing away the iron rail and davit forward, but doing no damage to the hull of the vessel. We believe the Australia suffered no damage, and that to the Duna is trivial.

SINGAPORE.—The Rollo, China to London, has put into Singapore dismasted (reported by telegram).

The Banda, reported by telegraph from Manila to have struck on a reef near Balabac; cargo discharged. Mate at Manila seeking assistance. Cost of repairs probably $6,000.

SHIPPING POSTSCRIPT.

CASUALTIES.—Advices from St. Thomas, dated Nov. 23, state that the Ferdinand Meyer, from Singapore to New York, which put in here, Sept. 30, with masts sprung, &c., had been recoppered on the ship, and re-embarked her cargo, and would be ready for sea in a few days. The Erasmus, Hulschoff, which sailed from Sunderland, Dec. 13, for Batavia, with coals, had been on Cromer rocks, but was assisted off by steamers. A telegram from Singapore states as follows:—the Rollo, Way, from Hong Kong to London, has put in here dismasted. The Ball, Rossen, from Dordt to Batavia, in ballast, put into Rio Janeiro, Nov. 15, had gone into dock for repairs, having struck on a wreck and sustained damage. The master, Cooper, of the Ceres (barque), of and from Shields, for Galle, which vessel was assisted into Harwich, Dec. 13, after being ashore, reported that on her arrival there she was making about four inches water per hour, and is of opinion that the cargo must be discharged; agreement £300.

VESSELS PASSED THE SUEZ CANAL.—Between Nov. 29 and Dec. 6, from Nieuwe Diep, for Batavia, Prins Hendrik (str.); between Dec. 6 and 12, from London, for China, Teviot; from Newcastle, for Galle, Trafalgar; from China, for England, Tordenskjold (!); from China, for London, Hector.

MR. WADE ON THE CHINESE MANIFESTO.

THE official correspondence relating to the China Circular on the missionary clauses, of which we give a résumé in another column, will be received with a general feeling of relief and confidence. The "missing despatch" has turned up at last; and, if the fact of its being missing so long has caused a great deal of gratuitous suspense, it cannot be denied that its appearance now has at least the merit of showing at a glance the difference of the views of the situation taken by our Foreign Secretary and our Minister at Peking. Our readers, whose conviction of the true policy to be adopted with the Chinese, we believe, concurs with our own, will read with peculiar satisfaction the manly, frank, almost impatient, despatch of Earl GRANVILLE—not in answer to Mr. WADE, for the simple reason that Mr. WADE had sent him nothing to answer, but in anticipation of the document which he knew he should have to consider when it was vouchsafed to him. "The sooner the better," would seem to have been Earl GRANVILLE's reflection when Mr. WADE's failure in sending it home—which, by-the-by, has not been accounted for—necessitated our Government's indebtedness to the French Minister for the translation of a document which our Foreign Secretary ought to have had in his hands at almost the same moment as his neighbour of Versailles. Mr. WADE's despatch seems inspired by the very genius of periphrasis and hesitation; Earl GRANVILLE's, on the contrary, is clear, decisive, high-minded, and becoming a statesman who has a due appreciation of the responsibilities of his office. It affords us the greater gratification to express our sense of the straightforward conduct of our Foreign Secretary in this affair, because we feel bound in honour to plead guilty to the charge of having—throughout the present complication in China—thought that Earl GRANVILLE was holding back Mr. WADE, not dreaming that Mr. WADE might be really clogging our Foreign Secretary's wheels, as appears now from the severe reprimand which Earl GRANVILLE does not omit to publish—for the delay of the missing "despatch," and his firm repudiation of the insidious clauses which the Chinese Government put forward with no other real reason than that the French were, as they fancied, hors de combat for the time. Earl GRANVILLE has plainly shown, by the despatch before us, not only that he is firmly resolved to maintain the Treaty-rights of Great Britain in the Far East, but that he is also not forgetful to oblige those of his subordinates whose slow apprehension fails to keep pace with the astute policy of Asiatic, and to vindicate the honour of European, Powers. Let Earl GRANVILLE only abide by the terms he has laid down; let him only act on the principles he has now enunciated; let him, moreover, consult Mr. HART's memorial to the Chinese Government; and there must yet—in spite of vacillation and delay, which it would be idle to deny—remain a hope that the prestige of England will be maintained in China, and that even Mr. WADE may in time be persuaded to the right way of maintaining it.

LEGAL.

COURT OF EXCHEQUER.

LANE V. LAY.

This case was heard on the 15th inst., before the Lord Chief Baron and a special jury. Mr. Horace Lloyd, Q.C., Mr. P. J. Murphy, and Mr. Nasmyth were counsel for the plaintiff; Sir John B. Karslake, Q.C., Mr. Henry James, Q.C., and Mr. Murray for the defendant.

The plaintiff, Mr. Edmund Lane, had formerly been engaged as district engineer of the Great Western Railway Company in the west of London, and in the August of 1870 he had been employed by the defendant, Mr. Horatio Nelson Lay, C.B., commissioner acting on behalf of the Japanese Government in this country, as first assistant-engineer, to devote his services, under a Mr. Morrell, to the formation of a new line of railway, which the Japanese authorities were about constructing in that country. Plaintiff went out to Yokohama, and was ready to carry out the contract which he had entered into with the defendant in this country, and for a breach of which these proceedings were instituted.

The jury found a verdict for the plaintiff for £2,059, subject to certain points of law reserved.

COURT OF QUEEN'S BENCH.

BRYANT V. LAY.

This was an action for breach of an agreement to employ the plaintiff as an engineer. Mr. Digby Seymour, Q.C., Mr. Murphy, Mr. Nasmyth, and Mr. W. English Harrison appeared for the plaintiff; Sir John Karslake, Q.C., Mr. H. James, Q.C., and Mr. Murray for the defendant. The hearing commenced on the 11th inst. before Mr. Justice Mellor and a special jury, and occupied two days.

The plaintiff carries on business as an engineer at Beaufort-buildings, Strand, and in August, 1870, he entered into an agreement with the defendant, Mr. Lay, who was then acting as agent in this country to the Japanese Government, to go out to Japan as first assistant engineer to superintend the making of a railway there. The plaintiff stated in his evidence that he had engaged platelayers and labourers to go out to Japan, and started for Japan himself with a Mr. Lane, who was to be assistant engineer with the plaintiff. On his arrival, however, he found that a hitch had occurred between the Japanese Government and Mr. Lay, and that the Japanese Embassy had received orders to terminate Mr. Lay's agency for the Government. According to the plaintiff's statement, Mr. Morel, the chief engineer of the railway, required him to sign a new agreement throwing over Mr. Lay. He also stated that Mr. Morel had requested him to look at the line and make a report upon the plant which was coming out from England, suggesting that Mr. Lay should be thrown over. Both the plaintiff and Mr. Lane declined to sign the new agreement, and ultimately, after some negotiations, they sailed for England, and found on their return that the Oriental Bank had been substituted as agents for the Japanese Government in the place of Mr. Lay. The Oriental Bank declined to compensate the plaintiff, who thereupon brought this action against the defendant as the party with whom he had contracted. The evidence for the defendant was that the agreement in question was merely a set of rules and restrictions for the regulation of the plaintiff's and Mr. Lane's conduct in their several capacities, and that when they refused to sign them Mr. Morel waived that condition and did not insist upon it.

The learned Judge left the following questions to the jury:—First, were the regulations reasonable and proper to be signed by the plaintiff and Lane previous to their entering on their duties; secondly, did Morel insist on the signing of them; thirdly, did he waive the signature; and fourthly, was Morel's insisting on the signature the bona fide reason of the plaintiff and Lane throwing up their agreement with the defendant.

The jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff, damages £750.

WILLIS AND SON V. SAUNDERS.

This case came on before Baron Bramwell and a special jury on the 18th inst. Mr. Giffard, Q.C., Mr. Ridley, and Mr. A. L. Smith were counsel for the plaintiffs; Sir John Karslake, Q.C., and Mr. Mathew for the defendant.

The plaintiffs are well-known shipowners in the City, and the defendant is one of the underwriters at Lloyd's. The action was on a marine policy on a fine clipper vessel called the Black Adler, belonging to the plaintiffs, which left London in March last on her outward voyage. When she got into the southern latitudes she was caught in a gale, and her mainmast and mizenmast were carried away. She put into the Cape for repair, and afterwards proceeded to China. She was a newly-built ship, and there was a desire that she should make an unusually quick passage, but the accident frustrated it. The cause was the slackening of some of the rigging, and on that fact coming to the knowledge of the underwriters they declined to pay the insurance, on the ground that the vessel was unseaworthy when she left the Thames.

The case has not yet concluded.

IN RE JOHN GILLESPIE.

The bankrupt had traded as a merchant in Great Winchester-street, and since in Great St. Helen's, in partnership with a Mr. Rangel, the title of the firm being Rangel, Gillespie, and Co. He failed about eighteen months since with liabilities of about £66,000, and the case now came before the Court on the hearing of an application to confirm a scheme of settlement passed under the 28th section of the Act, a majority of the creditors having accepted the bankrupt's proposal to pay £11,000 into Court for distribution and in satisfaction of the claims upon him, providing for the annulment of the adjudication.

Mr. Munns, on behalf of Mr. Rangel, a large creditor, opposed the confirmation of the scheme, contending that the arrangement was not bona fide, and could only result in the payment of a trifling dividend. Mr. Knight, as representing the trustee, submitted that the scheme of settlement was bona fide, and that having received the approval of a large majority of the creditors, it ought to be confirmed by the Court. Mr. Sedgwick appeared for the bankrupt, to support the confirmation of the scheme.

A question having arisen respecting the authority under which the liquidators of certain companies had signed in favour of the scheme, it was arranged that the necessary evidence should be furnished upon this point, and his Honour (Registrar Hazlett) reserved his decision.

MISCELLANEOUS.

JAPANESE PROGRESS.

The Daily News says:—The progress of the Japanese in adapting themselves to European ways is extremely rapid. They no sooner heard of paper money than it was substituted for specie, and immediately after understanding the principle of public loans, the Government appeared in the London market as the borrower of a million sterling. While the Chinese reject every offer made to construct a railway the Japanese are making one of several hundred miles in length. While persons of consideration deprecate in Parliament the introduction of tramroads into London they are being laid in Yokohama. While our Australian brethren, so shrewd in other respects, are permitting themselves to be deluded with the fallacies of Protection, the Japanese are declaring for Free Trade, and, as a beginning, have resolved when the treaties are revised next year to expunge the prohibition on the export of rice. They are the first among foreign nations to follow English example in forming a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Chief among the movers in this new departure is the Mikado. He has emancipated himself from the rule which ordained that he should remain secluded from his people—an invisible Sovereign who was one-half a divinity, and all the more divine, perhaps, because he was never seen by the commonalty. He recently attended at the opening of the first section of the railway. Wishing to cultivate his mind, he is now engaged in the study of German. When he indulges in drinking he prefers champagne to the home-brewed liquors. His soldiers have for some time been armed and drilled on the European model. One thing, however, distinguished them from European troops. This was the manner in which their feet were covered, or sometimes left uncovered. The decree has now gone forth that the soldiers and all the Government officials are to be shod in shoes of European pattern. All these changes, and others equally sweeping, not included in the foregoing enumeration, are equivalent to a revolution in Japan of which we can with difficulty form any conception.

RUSSIA AND THE AMOOR RIVER.

The Pall Mall Gazette says a financial advertisement appearing in the English journals is extremely significant of Russian progress in Eastern Asia. The Amoor River Navigation Company, constituted and subsidised by the Russian Government, offers £210,000 six per cent. bonds redeemable by sinking fund. The price of issue is 87 per cent., and we are far from suggesting that the investment is a bad one. But if the relatively moderate rate of return indicates the value of the security, we may assume that Russia not only commands the navigation of the Amoor, but has done much towards developing its resources. Yet when Atkinson published his travels in 1860, promise had gone but a little way towards performance, although he predicted precisely what must have come to pass. "Ten years hence," he writes, "the aspect of this region will be materially changed, flourishing towns will be seen on the banks of the Amoor, the vessels moored on the shore will show that the people are actively engaged in commerce and other industrial pursuits. . . . If a just and wise governor continues to rule in Oriental Siberia, this country is destined to have a great future." No Government, indeed, is more fortunate than the Russian in finding excellent administrators among its agents of every class, and, although the schoolmaster may not be abroad in the Czar's Siberian dominions, the rank and file of its pioneers possess adaptability and intelligence as well as courage. Its irregular troops yield to none in the world, and neither Tartar, Khirgi, Chinese, nor Manjourian has a chance with "the Cossack." Yet, like the men on the Austrian military frontiers, the Cossacks can farm as well as they fight, and the service has an extraordinary attraction for the half savage races Russia subjugates. As she moves along she assimilates the tribes she annexes, and doubtless she holds the Amoor by means of the very men who fought her in the earlier part of the century. The local trade on the river is unquestionably susceptible of great development. To say nothing of the fertile regions through which it flows for great part of its course, and of the fairs for barter that have been held on it for centuries back, according to Atkinson "the valley of the Soungaria and those of its affluents are said to be the most densely populated portion of this part of the Chinese Empire." But nature has played Russia and the shareholders of the Navigation Company an evil turn in twisting the course of the river sharp to the north by the town of Turmi. Had it flowed southward to the Sea of Japan, it might have been open to commerce all the year round. As it is it runs into the Sea of Okhotsk, and frost seals it for seven months in the year. However, the steamers should supply themselves cheaply with fuel, as the island of Saghalien, which lies off the Amoor's mouth, is rich in coal beds. Notwithstanding the limits nature sets to "through traffic," we make little question that Russian enterprise assures the future of the Amoor River Navigation Company.

DEATH OF BISHOP SMITH.

The Right Rev. Dr. George Smith, the first Bishop of Victoria, Hong Kong, died on the 14th inst., at his residence, Haddo-villas, Blackheath. He was a son of the late Mr. G. Smith, of Wellington, and was born in 1815. Having been privately educated, he entered as a commoner at Magdalen Hall, Oxford, and took his B.A. degree in 1837, when he was third class in classics, Dr. Stanley, Dean of Westminster, being a first class in the same year, and Dr. Francis Hesse a second. In the following year he was ordained, and for some time held the curacy of Marr, near Doncaster, and was afterwards presented by the Archbishop of York to the vicarage of Goole. In 1844 he placed his services at the disposal of the Church Missionary Society, and was nominated to Hong Kong. Dr. Smith was consecrated the first bishop of Victoria, Hong Kong, in 1849, and continued to discharge the duties of his office until 1865, when ill-health compelled his retirement, when a pension of £300 per annum was granted him by the Hong Legislative Council. This of course ceases with his death.

Bishop Smith was the author of "A Narrative of an Exploring Visit to each of the Consular Cities of China, and to the Islands of Hong Kong and Chusan," "Ten Weeks in Japan," "Lewchew and the Lewchewans," "China; her Future and her Past," and several other books of travel, as well as of some theological works.

CHINESE MISSIONS.

An influential meeting of the friends of Chinese Missions was held in Freemason's Hall, Edinburgh, on Monday last, the chair being occupied by Mr. Brown-Douglas. On the platform were the Rev. Dr. Duff, the Rev. Dr. Charles Brown, the Rev. Mr. Scott Moncrieff, Mr. David McLaren, the Rev. Mr. Carstairs-Douglas (China), Mr. Bell, secretary, the Rev. Mr. Guthrie, and other gentlemen. The meeting was opened with prayer by the Rev. Mr. Guthrie, who took occasion, in the course of his petition, to ask for the recovery of his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, or, if that were not to be, for his spiritual good hereafter. The chairman briefly referred to the object of the meeting, and expressed his confidence in the great good done by the work of the Mission, and his hope that our Government would never be induced in any way to restrain the work of the missionaries in China. The secretary (Mr. Bell) thereafter read the seventeenth annual report, which spoke of a very satisfactory advance in the beneficial results of the Mission, as regarded at once the work of the missionaries sent from this country, of the native evangelists, of whom there were now twenty-eight, and of the medical agency. The financial report for the past year showed a considerable deficiency in the ordinary revenue compared with the ordinary expenditure, which had only been met by the income received from extraordinary legacies and donations. On the motion of the Rev. Dr. Charles Brown, seconded by the Rev. Mr. Scott Moncrieff, the report was adopted and ordered to be printed and circulated; a cordial welcome was accorded to the Rev. Mr. Carstairs-Douglas, who is now on a short visit to this country after sixteen years' labour in the China mission-field, and the meeting further gave thanks to God that the labours of Mr. Douglas in that field had been so signally blessed. Mr. Carstairs-Douglas thereafter addressed the meeting, which, after some further business, was brought to a close with the benediction.

THE "MALACCA" AND THE "MEGERA."—The Broad Arrow says:—"Whether the Royal Humane Society intend to present their 'medal' to Captain J. Bernard, commander of the Peninsular and Oriental Company's steamship Malacca, for coming to the assistance of the wrecked Megara, off St. Paul's Island, and embarking 268 officers and men, with their baggage and stores, under circumstances of great danger, owing to the heavy swell of the sea, we are of course unable to say. But the Admiralty has offered nothing more than 'acknowledgments' and 'thanks,' not to Captain Bernard, but to his employers, the 'Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company.' 'My Lords' have requested the Secretary to the Admiralty to convey to the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Company 'the expression of their lordships' satisfaction at the successful result of the service rendered by the Malacca under circumstances of unusual difficulty; further, 'to express their lordships' thanks for the various information from time to time furnished by you in connection with the loss of the Megara and the relief of her shipwrecked crew.' We presume this is the customary way of the Admiralty in dealing with matters of this kind, namely, the saving of all a Queen's ship officers and all her men from perishing on a desolate rock; yet we could imagine it to be as easy to use a stronger expression than 'satisfaction' in thanking the salvors. At any rate, the captain of the Malacca as well as her owners deserved a complimentary acknowledgment of his services; and this we have heard he has not received. The letter of the Lords of the Admiralty to the Peninsular and Oriental Company, it appears, is published in their annual report, with the heading 'Letter from the Secretary of the Admiralty to the Directors of the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company, acknowledging receipt of copy of Captain Bernard's letter,' thus leaving the captain personally out of the question and unrequited. The directors of the Peninsular and Oriental Company are of course proud that they have been enabled to head their report of the assistance rendered to Her Majesty's ship Megara, 'Charter of the Malacca for a Special Service.'"

We understand that another vessel (the Zebra, sloop, on the China station) has broken down in her machinery. She was only paid off and recommissioned at Hong Kong in May, 1870, having left this country in March, 1867. H.M.'s ships Hornet and Elk have been paid off and recommissioned at Hong Kong, with volunteer crews from H.M.S. Ocean.

DR. KARL SCHERZER's official account of the recent Austro-Hungarian expedition to Siam, China, and Japan has just been published at Vienna by the Ministry of Commerce.

In consequence of the urgent representations of the Political Resident at Aden, that port will in future become a station for one of Her Majesty's ships in the East Indies.

MR. BOURJAU, of Hamburg and China, has obtained damages of £875 from the London and North-Western Railway, for injuries sustained by an accident on their line last year.

GERMANY.

HAMBURG, Dec. 12.

It was not to be expected that the merchants and bankers of this city would quietly consent to have their Hamburg Banco Valuta swept away and become a thing of the past without making a struggle to retain this ancient institution, to which they have been accustomed from their earliest childhood upwards; and though the Hamburgers can certainly not be accused of want of patriotism in cases where the exercise of that virtue is required, they may have a right to complain when the German Parliament—most of whose members are totally ignorant of the merits of the case, and probably never heard before of Hamburg Bank Valuta—pass such a sweeping measure without giving any notice to the parties concerned, without remuneration, and simply as a mark of confidence in the wisdom of the statesmen at the head of affairs, and whose knowledge on the subject is certainly open to doubt; whilst on the other hand it is but fair to suppose that the Hamburg merchants can manage their affairs for themselves and know best what is most advantageous for their own interests. It is therefore no wonder that the passing of the Bill has made a very deep and unfavourable impression on the Exchange, and given rise to much grumbling and discontent. At a meeting of the principal merchants, shipowners, money-dealers, and others, convened by the Chamber of Commerce, it was attempted to prove that this was a question beyond the province of the German Parliament, and being an institution called into being by local legislation, it could only be legally rescinded and abolished by the joint agreement of the Senate and Burschenschaft. This was also the view taken by the Chamber of Commerce, who drew up a memorial to the Senate, in which they set forth their objections and strongly protested against any such one-sided infringements of their rights and liberties; but the High and Mighty Senate, in the exercise of their sovereign power and authority, were of a different opinion, and refused to make any representations on the subject at Berlin, or take any steps in the matter, but leave it to take its course.

When one considers for a moment the immediate consequences of the sudden disappearance of Hamburg Banco money and its substitution for a coin not yet in existence, it is quite appalling to reflect on the inconvenience it will occasion to every one connected with German trade in all parts of the world. The foreign exchanges will have to be revised; the whole of the price current, in which the quotations are given in marks and schillings banco are noted, must undergo a thorough transformation; the daily stock and share lists must be altered into the new currency; the bonds and obligations of State loans now made out in round sums of Banco money must be changed into inconvenient appoints, ending in awkward fractions, which will also be the case with mortgages. To this may be added the alterations that will come home to everybody in their domestic arrangements and objects of every-day life, such as the amount expressed in the new currency with regard to rents, schooling, wages of servants, doctors' fees, tradesmen's bills, the price of coals, wine, and other household expenses, freights, cab-fares, the railway tariff of charges, entrance money to theatres, concerts, and other places of amusement,—in fact, this catalogue might be extended ad infinitum; and the change will effect a perfect revolution in all monetary matters, and come as suddenly as it will be unexpected and inexplicable to by far the greater part of the population.

In the meantime the law passed by the German Parliament has been promulgated by the Emperor under the date of the 4th of December, and is published in the official Reichs-gesetzblatt, or Gazette of the Empire, of the 7th inst. To insure uniformity of appearance, at least on one side of the gold coins, the dies, with the Imperial Eagle and the value of the piece, are to be engraved at Berlin and forwarded to the other mints, where the dies for the obverse side, with the head of the local sovereign, will be engraved by their own people. For the present the mints to be employed are at Berlin, Hanover, Frankfurt, Strasburg, Munich, Dresden, Stuttgart, Karlsruhe, and Darmstadt. Hamburg is not expressly named, but the right has been reserved with reference to the contingency of permitting private bankers to have gold bars minted on payment of certain dues. The mint mark is to be distinguished by Roman letters; thus A is to represent Berlin, B Hanover, and so on in succession as above. The coins minted at Berlin, Hanover, and Frankfurt, will bear the effigy of the Emperor, but with style and title of "King of Prussia;" those alone that are issued at Strasburg will have the legend "Emperor of Germany;" all the others will have the effigy and title of their respective sovereigns. The dies are being prepared, and it is expected that the process of coining will commence before the end of the year. For the present 100,000 lbs. of gold in bars and French coin is set apart to begin upon, of which 90,000 lbs. are to be converted into twenty-mark pieces, and 10,000 lbs. into ten-mark coins. As the law provides that 139½ of the latter and 69¾ of the former are to be made out of a pound of fine gold, a simple calculation will show that more than six millions of twenty-mark pieces and about a million and a-half of ten-mark pieces will be coined out of the above quantity, and they are to be put in circulation as soon as they are struck off. The respective mints, though under the management of their several Governments, are bound to admit Imperial commissioners to inspect the books and accounts for the purpose of verification and control, and to give them all facilities, support, and explanations as they may require in the discharge of their duty.

The Berlin Militair Wochenblatt states that Herr Koppen, formerly a non-commissioned officer in the army of the Prince of Schaumburg-Lippe—whose contingent to the confederated forces of Germany, according to the authority of the Almanach de Gotha, amounts to 245 men—and now described as "Military Instructor at Kischin in Japan, in the service of the Prince of that place," who has done so much to organise the army in that country in imitation of the Prussian system, has been rewarded by a commission as Second Lieutenant, which at least gives him officer's rank.

About twenty young Japanese, who for some time past have been studying at Berlin, having finished their course of instruction, returned to their native country, and are now replaced by twenty new-comers for the same purpose. Having already some knowledge of the Dutch language, they have great facility in acquiring German, which is of course essential as preparatory to the commencement of their studies.

The Hamburg Correspondent publishes a letter from the captain of a German vessel to his owners here, dated Tientsin, September 18, describing a cowardly attack made by twenty-five French sailors and marines, belonging to a gunboat lying in that port, on five unarmed seamen, belonging to the German merchant vessels Frisch, Captain Totain, Madura, Captain Theele, and the brig Hermann of Kiel, who were all more or less seriously wounded, so that they had to be taken to the hospital for surgical treatment. The case was reported to the German Consul, who took down the depositions, in which they unanimously state that they had given no cause of offence, and that it was a premeditated attack from a desire to take revenge on the Germans for their victories over the French, and caused by their national hatred and jealousy.

COMMERCIAL.

The frost, which has set in already, together with the approaching holidays, have kept the Produce Market in a quiet state, and there is but little to report to-day. The dealings in Teas were limited to a few hundred chests of Congou and Souchong at former prices. Little has been done in cleaned Rice, but the market is firm. Camphor is in more request, and prices have risen considerably. Cassia Lignea moves off quietly at 11½ to 11¾ sch. bco. per lb. There is no alteration to notice in Pepper. After a long period of inactivity some sales of Silesian Spelter have taken place, among which were 1,000 centners for spring delivery, at 13¾ mks. bco. per centner; 2,000 ditto, also for the spring, at 14; and 2,000 ditto, in loco, at 14.

HOLLAND.

ROTTERDAM, Dec. 13.

Les jours se suivent, mais ne se ressemblent pas. The financial Budget was carried by 55 against 9 votes. The Budget of the Department of War was then laid on the table, and every one became anxious to know what would happen. Mr. Engelaart, the Minister of the Department of War, rose and made the statement that he had placed his portfolio at the disposal of his Majesty, for reasons which were mentioned in the telegram which appeared in your last issue. The Minister has gone by his own will, so that the Chamber has been saved the necessity of giving him his congé by outvoting his Budget, which must have been the case otherwise. The Chamber was very discontented with his policy; they demanded a comprehensive scheme of army reorganisation—and all that Mr. Engelaart gave them was but a drop in the ocean. Nothing has been settled. A good many millions have been spent, and we are less prepared for war than ever, and that at a moment when other countries are fully prepared, and that after a fashion never dreamt of in former times. A great work remains to be done—but who will do it? Where shall we find a Minister who will act with vigour? Who will dare ask a sum of forty millions to partially improve our means of defence? Rumours say that Colonel Weitzel will undertake this hazardous task, and other names are also mentioned, viz., Major van der Star, Booms, &c. The question now is, in how far the resignation of Mr. Engelaart will affect the position of the whole Cabinet. In a few days Mr. van Zuylen will interpellate the Ministry as to whether they make themselves answerable for the Bills which Mr. Engelaart laid before the members; and, of course, this question can only be answered in the affirmative. It is considered that the position of the Thorbecke Cabinet is very insecure, and that the new year will bring us a new Ministry. In the meantime the discussions are going on. The Budget of the Colonial department was carried by 45 against 22 votes, after a very languishing debate. There was a lively, and somewhat personal discussion between Mr. Wintgens, the eloquent mouthpiece of the Conservative party, and Mr. Fransen van de Putte. Mr. van de Putte moved that henceforth the instruction in eastern languages should not be carried on in the first place at the University of Delft. The Minister then delivered a tremendous philippic against the so-called "Consignment-system," viz., the forwarding of colonial produce to Holland for sale. It was his conviction that this system had crippled Dutch trade, and had been injurious to the interests of the State and of all parties. The minister showed himself a thorough Liberal, which of course caused much uneasiness in the opposite camp, where individuals are being whipped up to sign addresses, demonstrating that nothing is more hurtful to the general interest than that the plan of the Minister should be adopted, and the differential duties abolished. To-day a Bill was laid before the members to apply ten millions of guilders to the redemption fund. Our national stock has advanced 2 per cent. in consequence.

The Bill proposing the ratification of the Treaty concluded between the Dutch and English Governments—the full text of which I sent you a fortnight since—has been examined in the sections. By perusing the published report I learn that several members were much pleased with the new Treaty, because it was simpler and clearer than the former one, which the Lower House refused to ratify. It was agreed that this Treaty fully met the grievances complained of, but of which, according to the opinion of some members, too much was made. It made a good impression that so much liberty is secured to Holland, the British Government agreeing to desist from all objections against the extension of the Netherlands dominion in any part of Sumatra, and, consequently, from the reservations in that respect contained in the notes exchanged by the Dutch and British Plenipotentiaries at the conclusion of the Treaty of March, 1824. Formerly foreigners were privileged; they are now put on the same footing with the Dutch. The grounds for the objection that the former treaty opened the possibility for intervention of a foreign Power in our own civil and commercial legislation were now avoided. Our just rights are maintained against the claims of the merchants of the Straits Settlements. The Government, it was stated, deserved all honour for what they had done to protect our interests. The former Cabinet deserved the more blame, because when the negotiations were opened on the first treaty the Government were in a better position to obtain concessions from the English Government, because the Court of St. James's desired the transfer of our settlements on the West Coast of Africa. Some members regretted that the treaty had been concluded. They thought it contrary to our interests that we should bind ourselves about matters which belonged to our own legislation; and now that we had granted rights and privileges to British trade we should be obliged also to grant them to other nations. Some members called the behaviour of our Government with regard to the treaty about the transfer of our settlements at the West Coast of Africa very strange, and they advocated that the Second Chamber should revive this matter, and if the Government did not assent they should vote against the Sumatra Treaty. But, as I stated, the majority was favourable.

With regard to the movements amongst our Catholics some incidents have occurred. It has now become clear what the bishops meant by their "official" steps. The Catholic papers publish an address which the bishops have forwarded to the King, requesting the maintenance of an ambassador at the Papal Court. The tone of this address is very moderate, but the arguments are not very convincing. A great many people are offering money to pay the ambassador, Mr. du Chastel, who, however, proposes to represent Holland at the Holy See gratis. The Catholics seem to forget that it is not a monetary question, but a question of principle.

The members of the First Chamber will meet on the 14th inst. for the despatch of business.

The passengers of the steamer Prins van Oranje who put in at Gibraltar will be brought by a special steamer to Nieuwe Diep. This fact proves that the damage to the first-named vessel is of a more serious character than was first stated.

I regret that I have to record the death of Mr. C. Pruijs van der Hoeven, emeritus-professor of the University at Leyden.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

In the middle of last week the winter suddenly set in with unusual inclemency. A heavy fall of snow was followed up by most intense frost, which at once put a stop to all traffic. Our inland navigation got immediately locked up by the ice, and the roads were rendered almost impassable by the snow, whilst by rail only small quantities of goods can be forwarded at express train fares. Our market in colonial produce has consequently assumed a wintry aspect. Business transactions have been almost entirely suspended, and although the weather has again been milder since Saturday, the existing impediments for shipping will not soon enough be removed, even if the thaw should continue, to permit our trade to resume much activity prior to approaching holidays in the latter part of the month. Our leading articles of produce continue, however, to exhibit, on the whole, a healthy appearance.

COFFEE.—Very firm, and holders keep backward. On account of the interruption of our inland navigation there has, however, been but little stirring in the market, and we have mainly to report a couple of small sales of parcels of private importation, viz., 500 bags Java ex Rotterdam, 280 ditto ex Stad Middelburg. At the close of the week more inquiry manifested itself for Trading Company's Java, on warrants, for which 42c. was paid. The material deficiency of the late crop of Java tends to foster the favourable opinion for the article, and creates sanguine prospects for a further advance of prices.

TEA.—The public sale of the cargo of 841¼ and 2,865½ chests China, ex steamer Hong Kong, from Foochow, through the Suez Canal, which took place here on the 7th inst., went off as follows:—Superfine Kysou Congou was paid with 89c. to 122c.; extra superfine Flowery Pekoe, 186c. to 220c.; extra superfine Lapseng Souchong, 112c. to 160c.; finest Souchong, 96c. to 97c. Out of the portion bought in of the Pekoe, sales have since been closed by private treaty of 81¼ chests at 188c. A public sale is announced at Amsterdam on the 29th inst. of 824¼ chests China Congou, mark G. H., ex Hindostan, from Shanghai, via London.

RAW SUGAR.—No sales worth notice are to be reported. The trade is suspended on account of the stoppage of the navigation.

RICE.—Prices keep firm, but hardly any business is done from first hands; 348 bags Java, ex Yokohama, changed hands at f.9½.

SPICES look dull, with sellers at former rates, but in the absence of any transactions of note, prices are hardly better than nominal.

RATTANS.—Sales have been closed of 150 piculs ex County of Bute.

TIN.—A quiet tone prevailed for this article, but the market looks firm. Banca sold for usual prompt and for delivery, ex Coming Spring's Sale, both positions at f.88½.

COTTON has been in active demand, and an extensive business has been done in spot and floating parcels at gradually improved rates.

TOBACCO.—Java: To-morrow several parcels will be sold by secret tender.

THE RUSSIANS IN JAPAN.

THE St. Petersburg correspondent of the Morning Post writes:—"The Japanese are palpably indignant at the encroachments of Russia on the debatable island of Sakhalin (Saghalien), and at the influx of Russian convicts into their colonies there; nor is their indignation at all misplaced. In truth, this remote strip of land has at present an importance which can hardly be overrated. So long as any part of Sakhalin—which flanks the coast of Manchouria for several hundred miles—is occupied in force by the Japanese, a strong check is imposed upon Russia's present design of transferring her centre of action from the Fort of Nikolaievsk, at the mouth of the Amoor, to that of Vladivostok, close to the Chinese frontier. On the other hand, the annexation of the island by Russia secures her hold upon the territory south of the Amoor, and forms the natural prelude to what will undoubtedly be her next step—the conquest and Russification of Korea. In any case a collision with Japan is unavoidable, if the existing programme be carried out. By fixing herself at Vladivostok Russia virtually trespasses upon Japanese waters and challenges their rightful owner to a struggle for the mastery—a fact which, combined with the impossibility of concentrating upon this remote point a force sufficient to withstand the formidable and ever-increasing power of Japan, deserves serious consideration."

Now it is certain that the whole Government of Russia is constructed on a system of deception. The same feeling which made Prince POTEMKIN deceive CATHERINE with the appearance of handsome villages—temporarily constructed of wood—and a thriving peasantry—hired and dressed for the occasion—during her well-known excursion down the Dnieper, is carried through every part of the kingdom. The only principle universally acted upon in Russia seems to be that it is the duty of every one to get as much as possible for himself; and the more adroitly he can deceive others, the higher he ranks in the scale of intelligence. The good offices of all the public functionaries, from the highest judge to the lowest Custom-house officer, may be bought by bribes. It is this great characteristic of the Government as well as the nation that has made us regard with apprehension Russia's advances towards the frontier of our Indian Empire, and her seizing the moment when France was disabled from fighting beside us, to annul the Black Sea Treaty, for which so much British blood flowed at Alma, Inkermann, and Sebastopol. It is refreshing to turn from such scenes of duplicity to contemplate brave, manly, and open actions. The Japanese have always been a noble people—a nation of heroes, who, if mistaken in their motives, have yet presented the only model of chivalry and enlightenment which modern times have seen in Asia. In any dispute that might be provoked by Russia with Japan our sympathies would, therefore, always be with the latter, and we should urge our Government to throw their influence on the side of Japan with as much earnestness of feeling as we have expressed on other recent occasions when Russia seemed to be making preparations for aggression. Nevertheless, we must confess we do not see in the present action of the Russian Government cause for so much alarm as our contemporary's correspondent expresses. And he appears to us to be equally at fault in his estimate of Russian provocation and Japanese force. The latter is neither "formidable" nor "ever increasing." The Japanese have not probably more than a couple of hundred soldiers in Sakhalin, while the Russians have more than a thousand men at one port alone—Aniva Bay—at the extreme south. But, what is more to the point, Vladivostok is not on Japanese waters at all, but on the coast of Russian Tartary, and the Russians appear to have a very good excuse for transferring their capital there from Nikolaievsk in the fact that the latter place is not accessible during six months in the year.

The fact appears to be that the Russians intend to secure the whole island of Sakhalin, in order that they may possess both sides of what used to be called the Gulf of Tartary, and in order that no other foreign Power may possess Sakhalin, and so be enabled to threaten their opposite coast. So long ago as 1867 the Russian Government persuaded the Japanese Plenipotentiaries at St. Petersburg to consent in a weak moment to the joint occupation of the island, and it is easy to see what that meant. The Russians have pushed on and the Japanese have been pushed back; but, as the latter have given the former a fair excuse for their advance, it is not by any means clear how they can resent it now. The Japanese may feel that they have been overreached, but, having given licence for the present proceedings of the Russians, they can scarcely be justified in making it a cause of the collision which our contemporary's correspondent apprehends. Nevertheless the Russian advance in so many parts of the Far East at the same time is certainly noteworthy as a sign of her policy, and, considered in connection with a long series of former encroachments, ought to be attentively watched by those whose duty it is to preserve the balance of power.

THE NEW JUDGE FOR THE STRAITS.

By the time that these lines reach our readers in the Straits we have no doubt that Mr. THOMAS SIDGREAVES, the newly-appointed Chief-Justice of the Straits Settlements, will have taken his seat on the Bench, and already entered on the judicial career which will, we believe, as well as hope, confirm the wisdom of his appointment. It would be idle to disguise the fact—and it would also be insincere to Mr. SIDGREAVES if we attempted to do so—that, in assuming the mantle of Sir BENSON MAXWELL, the new Chief-Justice has to encounter an amount of responsibility which may well excite the anxious sympathy of his friends, and which will, no doubt, receive his careful reflection. We write these words in no spirit of discouragement. On the contrary, we firmly believe that it is within the power of every accomplished lawyer to contend successfully against the temporary disadvantages to which we have drawn attention, and to win "golden opinions from all sorts of people," if he but firmly resolved to maintain his independence of "the powers that be," to assert the dignity of the judgment seat against the power of the Government, and to be alike blind to the brow-beating, and deaf to the overtures of self-satisfied officialdom. We can assure Mr. SIDGREAVES—whom, by-the-by, we ought now to call "his Lordship"—that much is expected of him in his new sphere. Of one thing we can assure him—that he will be received by all classes of the community with a cordial and unbiassed greeting; and that he will enter on his duties with the certainty of being fairly and not hastily judged by his own judgments.

Mr. SIDGREAVES will remember that we were the first to enter our indignant protest against the narrowminded spirit in which an anonymous "Templar" in the Standard carped at his appointment on the score of his being a Roman Catholic. He will remember that, on that occasion, we stated our honest conviction that the day for such sectarian and petty differences had gone by for ever since the appointment of a Roman Catholic Judge in England. We might add that that conviction has since been strengthened by the appointment of a Jew to the Solicitor-Generalship of England; and Mr. SIDGREAVES will therefore excuse us if we express the hope that neither he in Singapore, nor Mr. JESSEL in Westminster, will forget that they are the representatives of a PROTESTANT QUEEN and country—that they owe a paramount duty to that throne which has promoted them in a spirit of such advanced liberality, and to a people whose interests are so deeply involved in their conscientious and fearless discharge of the great responsibilities committed to them. Let the new Chief Justice discard for ever the Monkish maxim "Fac officium tuler, qualiter; et sta bene cum Domino Priore." "Do your duty as you may; but keep well with my Lord Abbot"—and he will soon discover, not only that he has gained, as he will have deserved to gain, the esteem of the people, but also that his own independence will exercise a silent influence in making converts of some of those officials whom Lord KIMBERLEY's despatch shows to be so much in need of such a quality. As SYDNEY SMITH, preaching before the Judges, said, "It is not in every man's power to say, I will be a great and successful lawyer; but it is in every man's power to say, that he will, with God's assistance, be a good Christian and an honest man. Whatever is moral and religious is in your own power"—and again the same grand authority, referring to the happy lot of Protestant England, says, "First the Gospel has done it, and then Justice has done it; and he who thinks it his duty to labour that this happy condition may remain, must guard the piety of these times, and he must watch over the spirit of Justice which exists in these times. First he must take care that the altars of God are not polluted, that the Christian faith is retained in purity and in perfection; and then, turning to human affairs, let him strive for spotless, incorruptible Justice;—praising, honouring, and loving, the just Judge, and abhorring, as the worst enemy of mankind, him who is placed there to judge after the law, and who smites contrary to the law."

WE learn that the Great Northern Telegraph has worked satisfactorily, and, as the rate by this line is only four pounds ten for a message which would cost seven pounds by the Submarine Cable, it has found many to patronise it. It must not, however, be forgotten that while messages by the Submarine are usually conveyed in about five hours, those through the new undertaking vary from fifteen to twenty hours. During the last week, owing to the breakage of the cable between Shanghai and Hong Kong, telegrams from Shanghai have not been received by the Submarine line. We are informed that, pending the decision of the International Conference now sitting at Rome, the Russian Government has restricted the number of English messages over their lines to China and Japan to fifteen per diem. We believe it is not the intention of the directors of the Submarine Company to make any reduction in their present rates, and that the land wires in Australia are not yet sufficiently advanced to enable the company to extend their operations to that part.

MR. NAPIER, the Chairman of the Straits Association, has had an interview with Lord ENFIELD, at the Foreign-office, on the subject of the Sumatra Treaty, lately concluded with the Dutch Government, and a correspondence will follow. We learn by telegram that the Second Chamber of the Dutch Parliament has ratified the Treaty. We may here suggest to the members of the Straits Association that, as Mr. TIDMAN, the Secretary, is not likely to return for some months, another gentleman should be appointed, and we may add that the Association will lose its power for good unless meetings are held more frequently—say once a month.

THE shareholders of the Pacific Mail Steam Company, New York, have elected Mr. ALDEN B. STOCKWELL as President, in place of Mr. McLANE, who has held that post for some years. The Vice-President, Mr. BELLOWS, remains in office, and the Directors now comprise Messrs. JAMES D. SMITH, H. H. BAXTER, O. P. C. BILLINGS, C. J. OSBORN, A. MASTERTON, E. C. TAYLOR, LEGRAND LOCKWOOD, HENRY CLEWS; THEODORE T. JOHNSON, Secretary.

THE Chinese Ambassador, CHUNG HOW, and suite left by the last French mail for China.

WE have another illustration of the oft-repeated complaint of the neglect of the Chinese Government to appropriate some part of the revenue from duties levied on foreign trade to the dredging and improvement of their harbours. We learn that the French mail steamer Hooghly, which arrived outside Shanghai on the 30th Oct., could not get over the bar, and was unable to deliver her letters till the following day.

THE LATE FLOODS AT TIENTSIN.

COMMUNICATED.

The past summer will be long remembered by reason of two great storms, which devastated and almost ruined this and the neighbouring provinces.

The rainy season here is uncertain; one year there is drought; another year there is inundation; we look at the bare hills and think that if they were planted with woods drought would be prevented. European engineering is the great desideratum, but unfortunately the governing authorities cannot be persuaded to undertake any improvements except in the manufacture of munitions of war. Our system of banking rivers and dredging channels cannot obtain a trial. Mr. Wade and Mr. Hart have told the Chinese Government a large amount of honest truth on many occasions during the past few years. They have told them in very plain terms many of their faults and shortcomings. Copies of their letters were sent by the Government to important men, such as Tseng-kwo-Fan, holding vice-royalties, and the censures involved in these communications were taken in apparently good part by the Emperor's councillors, but yet nothing has been done. However much we may long to see improvements, we are perpetually told that a time will come when these things will take place, but that that time has not yet come.

South-west of Peking, and eight miles from the walls, is a long and handsome bridge spanning the river called Hwun-ho. The bridge is several centuries old, and the great south-west road connecting the metropolis with the southern and western provinces passes over it. A fortnight ago I was there with a friend, and walked down the sandy channel to a new breach in the embankment which took place at the time of the flood ten weeks ago; our walk extended for a mile and a half along the old bed. The stream was on our right as we proceeded to the south. It hugged the stone wall which there forms its boundary. Four-fifths of the river bed is hard sand, the rest is water. We found, on arriving at the point where the disaster took place, that the stone embankment had here been replaced by mud. We noticed just above the breach a sudden bend to the south-west; a few feet beyond we saw the river rushing over a chasm in the bank 900 feet wide, and pursuing its way over the adjoining fields; prostrate trees lay in the new channel; the old stones of the embankment scattered across it marked the former line of defence. All traces of field cultivation had disappeared, and where the water failed, banks of sand and small rubble—the sediment left by the inundation—concealed from view the ploughed land beneath. We heard that the new river course rejoins the old bed twenty miles farther to the south-west. Vast tracks of land are for the present year rendered barren by this outburst, and the heavy rains that have fallen this season have also devastated a large portion more.

Since we were there a rain-fall of five days has added much to this ruin. I learn that the river channel was quite full from bank to bank, and rushing down its old course over the sands where we walked, burst into the fields, at another point twenty miles farther on. A friend who witnessed the scene when the vast body of water produced by the rain was rushing through the bridge under him, felt it shake beneath him, and almost feared to pass across it. Much of the country became like the neighbourhood of Tientsin at present—a wide sea. Such a season has not been known for nearly seventy years. Many persons have been drowned. Many villages have been carried away. The number of trees and houses thrown down is vast. The water on the south of Tientsin is not expected to disappear till the winter sets in; it cannot re-enter the rivers from which it has broken out; the land there is too low to admit of this. For the present also the rebuilding of the banks is postponed till the river shall become lower.

In Niuchwang, six degrees of longitude east of Peking, and on the other side of the Gulf of Liau Tung, only the stronger buildings, such as the church, a stone erection, survived the storm.

It is the prevalence of easterly and south-easterly winds that bring us these storms of rain. They seem to be connected with typhoons in the neighbouring ocean. There was a typhoon at Hiogo five days before the ten days' rain which produced the Tientsin inundation; that place is twenty degrees of longitude east of us. Then there was a typhoon at Hong Kong on Sept. 2, and it was very destructive. Our second great rain began ten days after that date, and swelled the Hwun-ho to an unprecededented size. Hong Kong is nearly twenty degrees to the south of our position.

The reason why the fall of rain has worked so great a destruction may be found in the structure of our province. The hill country through which the Hwun-ho flows extends for 150 miles to the north-west, from the great bridge just mentioned, to its source on the plateau of Mongolia. It is the only river to drain this extensive western region. Each valley has its torrent, and each torrent finds its way to this river. Such an immense collection of rain water as that from which Tientsin is now suffering could only arise in a region where the features of nature are on a great scale. The plateau of Mongolia by its drainage gives origin to a vast series of vallies all sloping toward the south-east, and down which the waters flow to the Gulf of Pechili. The province is bounded by chains of hills on the north and on the west, and the rivers originated by them all flow to Tientsin, and there enter the sea.

The injury caused by the inundations of the Hwun-ho is chronic. Only four years ago this river changed its course, and vast sums were expended by Tsenkwo-Fan in repairing the embankments. It was thought there was danger only on the lower course of the river towards Tientsin, and there the new defences were placed. But it now appears that the real danger was higher up near the point where it comes out from the mountains and where the sandy bottom had risen so high as to make the channel from bank to bank much too shallow for a stream so difficult to control. For this evil, dredging with European machinery is the only certain cure. But shall we be told the time has not yet come? It is said that twenty thousand men are to be set to work in two months to dig out the old bed and restore the river.

THE MISSIONARY QUESTION IN CHINA.

A supplement to the London Gazette contains the correspondence with Mr. Wade, Her Majesty's Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary in China, relating to the Missionary Question in China, of which the following is a résumé:—

On the 8th June last Mr. Wade sent to Earl Granville translations of a note or memorandum addressed by the Tsung-li Yamen, in the first instance, to all foreign representatives resident in Peking, and subsequently to those of all foreign Treaty Powers, of eight propositions appended to the memorandum, and of a note addressed by the Minister Wen Siang to Sir R. Alcock shortly before he left Peking in 1869. The note or memorandum is, in the main, an expansion of the note to Sir R. Alcock. Admitting that, so far as trade is concerned, the treaties work well enough, the writer complains that their provisions fail entirely in the regulation of the missionary question, and that, through the unsatisfactory position of this, the whole question of foreign relations is affected.

The growing feeling against propagandism had long rendered the Government anxious before the Tientsin massacre; and now, although mandarins have been exiled, criminals executed, indemnities paid, Government still continues anxious, feeling that if there are to be more such outbreaks, recurrence to such measures will be in each instance more difficult. The Chinese Government would have the missionaries all brought under the same control as in other countries, amenable to the laws of the land, restrained from undue assumption of status and authority, and from acts that produce scandal. There should be no mystery in what they do (this refers to the Orphan Asylum), and their conduct should in all respects conform to the doctrine they teach. At present they constitute in China an imperium in imperio, and it is to be apprehended that their followers, seeing how the Tientsin massacre has been punished, will presume more than heretofore, and that of this will come an uprising of the people beyond the power of Government to control. The responsibility of foreign Governments will be great if they do not join China in devising precautionary measures.

This is the sum of the note. Appended to it is a memorandum containing eight Articles, in which are set forth various griefs, each article being supplemented by a note purporting to supply evidence in support of the charge preferred. As we discussed these articles separately at the time they were published in the French Government's translation, and as we shall have to notice them further on, we need do no more than remind our readers of them now. Mr. Wade says:—"The papers, especially the supplement, are very badly put together. They contain some statements which will be easily contradicted, and some imputations which cannot be sustained; but, taken with the matter of many a long conversation on the same subject, to which I have listened in the last eight years, they strengthen my conviction that, to secure the missionary against the hostility of the lettered class, one of two courses must be pursued—either the missionary must be supported out and out by the sword of the protecting Powers, or he must be placed by the protecting Powers under restrictions which, whilst leaving him always as much latitude of action as, if simply intent on Christianising China, he is justified in desiring, will yet enable the Chinese Government to declare to those whose Conservatism chafes at the present pretensions of the missionary that he, the missionary, is not authorised by the Power protecting him to put forward the pretensions objected to."

The papers when first circulated appeared to the French exceedingly aggressive. I am not a convert to this view. The Chinese keep back, as might be expected of them, all reference to the barbarous persecution of converts and missionaries in various places, if not at the instigation of the mandarins, at any rate with their full knowledge.

It is fair to add that, by the testimony of Romish missionaries in all directions, the Government is doing its best to prevent any collision with Christians. Three-fourths of the Romish missionaries in China—in all between 400 and 500 persons—are French, and Romanism, in the mouths of non-Christian Chinese, is as popularly termed the religion of the French as the religion of the Lord of Heaven.

A dread of Romish ascendancy, as I have more than once reported, I have heard very frequently allowed; and the fear that the ranks of the Romanists, recruited by all who wish to set their own Government at naught, will presently outnumber the well-affected, or that the Romish community, without attaining such proportions, will throw itself for support upon the French, although it is not avowed in the memorandum, is, in my belief, the suggesting cause of its production.

Mr. Wade, in commenting on the above-named documents to the Minister Wen Siang, wrote:—

Article 1 relates to the infant asylums. Protestant missionaries have not, to my knowledge, established any such asylums, but I am assured that in those of the Roman Catholics no objection is ever made to the visits of the parents or friends of an infant.

Article 2 lays down that no Chinese woman should be admitted into the chapels, and that female missionaries should be prohibited in China. I cannot imagine that any Government, Protestant or Romanist, will consent to the exclusion of its female subjects from China, or that in the face of the various treaties allowing freedom to natives and foreigners to preach and practice Christianity, they will attempt to interdict their female subjects, any more than their male subjects, from imparting the truth they prize, as professing Christians, to others.

Article 3 complains of the position arrogated by the missionaries in China in their relations with the authorities of the land, and of various proceedings on their part which irritate both authorities and people, in particular of their interference between the native Christians and the law. The instances given of the offences complained of are not numerous, and only affect Roman Catholics. I am assured by the representative of France that the French Legation does not recognise the claim of the same ecclesiastics to interfere between the Chinese Christian and his official in any question in which the free exercise of his religion is not affected.

Article 4 lays down that, where Chinese and foreigners live together, the law must be impartially administered. This without doubt. But it further seems to imply that, in cases of homicide, popular feeling will not be satisfied unless a life be given for a life. I am at a loss to understand how any missionary can prevent the arrest of a Chinese charged with an offence against the law. Should a missionary really attempt such intervention, the proper course would be an immediate appeal to the consul or minister of his nationality.

Article 5. The passport question referred to in this article does not seem to me to need any particular remark. The instances cited of exchange of passports, or confusion of the names of persons holding them, are but two or three in all. I cannot think that when mistakes of the kind do occur the legation concerned will be unable to furnish satisfactory explanation; or that, if a passport were unduly obtained or transferred by any person—missionary or other—the authorities of his nation would refuse to take notice of it.

In Article 6 it is proposed that no Chinese of bad character should be allowed to embrace Christianity. As to the exclusion of all but good men from the profession, the Christian religion, as every Treaty sets forth, is for the teaching of men to become virtuous. Is it not, then, the duty of its teachers, like the philosopher Mencius, to turn away none who desire to be converted, "not to scan the past, neither to reject those who tender themselves."

Article 7 prescribes the forms which should regulate intercourse between the missionary and the authorities. Speaking for our own missionaries, I see no objection to these. The British Government draws no distinction between the missionary and any other of its non-official subjects, and by Article XI. of the Treaty of Nanking, "ping" (representation) is the form in which subjects not holding official positions are required to address the Chinese authorities.

Article 8 and last treats of the restoration of buildings formerly belonging to Christians. This question, which arises out of the engagement contracted by the Chinese Government in Article 6 of the French Convention of the 25th October, 1860, affects none but the Romanists, and it is one the solution of which would seem to rest so exclusively with the Government of France that I do not feel free to discuss it. I shall only add, therefore, that if in this particular the Chinese Government finds its engagement difficult to discharge, it should avail itself of the presence of its Minister in France to obtain a relaxation of the conditions to which it agreed in 1860.

I shall add to this long commentary but two observations. In the opening of your Excellency's note you remark that in trade there is little to object to. If this be so, it is a matter of regret that so many commercial questions have to be referred from the ports to Peking.

Again, referring to the Tientsin massacre, your Excellency explains that it was the result of the people's exasperation against Romanism; and you express a fear lest, after the severe punishment inflicted, and the ample indemnities awarded, Christians should be emboldened to go greater lengths than heretofore. It is sufficient for my present purpose to repeat what I had the honour to observe to the Prince of Kung in my despatch of the 9th of July last, that the Government is responsible for that ignorance of the people which alone can render possible their perpetration of an act so barbarous upon a pretext so ridiculous; and the fact that the people's continuance in such darkness is due to a want of enlightenment on the part of the Government, will not be held to excuse the Government when foreign life and pro-party are jeopardised by the simple people whom the Government is not wise enough to teach.

On the 27th August Earl Granville replied to Mr. Wade:—"Her Majesty's Government have hitherto abstained from offering any observations upon the circular of the Chinese Government on the subject of religious missions, of which a translation has been communicated to them by the French Chargé d'Affaires, in the expectation that they might have received some reports from you regarding it. As, however, they learn from your telegraphic despatches that it will be some time before they will be in possession of your views, they consider they cannot allow this important paper to remain longer unnoticed.

"Her Majesty's Government must protest against the general assertions contained in the circular and accompanying regulations, with regard to missionary enterprise in China. They must, moreover, remark that, of the instances of alleged abuses cited, there is not one which is in any way connected with any British missionary establishment. On the particular question to which the circular relates, the policy and practice of the Government of Great Britain have been unmistakable. They have uniformly declared, and now repeat, that they do not claim to afford any species of protection to Chinese Christians which may be construed as withdrawing them from their native allegiance, nor do they desire to secure to British missionaries any privileges or immunities beyond those granted by treaty to other British subjects.

"The 1st Regulation does not apply to the British Missionary Societies, as they do not support any orphanages in China. Her Majesty's Government could not obviously accede to regulations which they had no power to enforce. The second regulation requires that women ought no longer to enter the churches, nor should sisters of charity live in China to teach religion. The objection to women frequenting Christian churches has been met at Fatsan and elsewhere by a screen having been erected to divide the sexes. There are no sisters of charity attached to the British missionary societies, but Her Majesty's Government could not countenance any regulation which would cast a slur upon a sisterhood whose blameless lives and noble acts of devotion in the cause of humanity are known throughout the world.

"The 3rd and 4th Articles, as respects Chinese Christians, have already been dealt with in the preceding part of this despatch; but her Majesty's Government cannot allow the claim that the missionaries residing in China must conform to the laws and customs of China to pass unchallenged. The 7th Regulation calls for no special observation. The 8th Regulation does not apply to British missionaries, who have no ecclesiastical property in China to reclaim, and seems to refer to misunderstandings with regard to the operation of the 6th Article of the Treaty with France.

"If British missionaries behave improperly they should 'be handed over to the nearest Consul for punishment,' like other British subjects, as provided in the 9th article of the Treaty of Tientsin. If the local authorities consider that Her Majesty's Consuls do not in any instance afford redress for their complaints they can appeal, through the Government at Peking, to Her Majesty's Minister, in the ordinary course of international usage; but until it can be proved that Her Majesty's Minister and Consuls are unable to control Her Majesty's subjects in China by the exercise of the powers confided to them Her Majesty's Government must decline to supplement the existing treaties by regulations which, although only intended to deal with a particular class of British subjects, would undoubtedly subject the whole British community in China to a constant interference in their intercourse with the native population."

Monetary and Commercial.

We understand that the steamers Lorne and Atholl, from China with tea cargoes, have, like the Menelaus—which we lately noticed—taken on board pilgrims at Singapore, for Jeddah, and that the detention to the consignees will probably be nearly two weeks in consequence. It is to be hoped that merchants and underwriters will make some stand against such unwarrantable deviations in the voyage.

We understand that the Deutsche Bank of Berlin are offering new shares to the present shareholders at 112½ per cent., a larger capital being required, owing to their having established branch offices at Shanghai and Yokohama, where, it is stated, they have secured the German staff dismissed by the Comptoir d'Escompte.

The half-yearly report of the Ceylon Company (Limited), to be presented on the 19th inst., recommends an interim dividend at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum. The report is as follows:—

The crop of coffee from Ceylon this season is comparatively a short one, and it is to be feared the next will be equally so, but the advance which has taken place in the prices of that article will, in part, compensate for this; while, as regards Mauritius, the latest accounts received are satisfactory, both as regards the yield of sugar, and the prices at which it was being sold. The directors have much pleasure in stating that the proposal as to fully paid-up shares, in accordance with their circular letter dated 25th July last, has been carried out, and that in consequence a quotation has been obtained for them, and at the same time debentures have been paid off to the amount of nearly £50,000.

The steamer Saida, which left London for Königsburg, and got ashore in the Baltic, had on board about 13,000 chests tea, purchased here for the Russian market. The vessel is a total wreck, and about half of the tea lost or seriously damaged.

TEA.

There has been a very quiet market during the week; there have been no fresh arrivals, and the trade having bought largely out of the previous ones, have been disinclined to add to stock at this late period of the year, the selection on offer being rather unattractive. Prices show no material change. The deliveries continue on a very large scale, the total for eleven months, reaching nearly 152,000,000 lbs. There have been no public sales.

Red-leaf Congous: Siftings show no change. Broken-leaf kinds remain dull of sale. Fair to good common continue firm at fully former prices. In fair to good Kaisows there has been but little business, but quotations remain unaltered. In fine to finest there is no change to notice, sales being limited. Pak Lin kinds have been inquired for for export. Black-leaf kinds: The lower qualities show no improvement. Fair to good common remain firm at previous prices. The few sales of fair to good medium have been at former prices. Fine to finest show no alteration, but the demand is small. In Amoy kinds there is no material change to notice. New-make Canton kinds have been sold to a fair extent at 1s. 2d. per lb. for fair quality. In Oolongs, Souchongs, and Flowery Pekoes there has been but little doing, prices showing no alteration. Scented Teas: Canton Capers, the few sales made have been at about previous prices. Foochow kinds have been difficult of sale at rather easier rates. Orange Pekoes: Canton kinds remain much as before. Foochow kinds: Fair quality has been saleable at previous prices, fine have been wanted. Uncoloured Japans: The demand has been limited, and prices somewhat nominal. Green Teas: There has been some demand for export, and prices show a slight improvement, the finer grades being most in request. Canton kinds show no change.

The following is from Messrs. Lloyd and Cheshire's Circular:—Our last advised a good general business, and quoted the market as closing with an active demand. Immediately after its issue several vessels arrived and fully supplied the market with medium Monings and Kaisows, from which the trade have freely supplied themselves. There are very few good common red or black-leaf Congous offering, and quotations for these keep very firm in consequence. The market closes rather quiet.

SILK.

There is a firmer tone in the Silk market, with more business doing, chiefly in Chinas and Cantons, at rather improving rates. We quote Tsattees as follows:—Red Peacock, 25s. 6d.; Blue Elephants, 26s. 6d., and best chop third, 28s. 6d. to 29s.; Canton Tsatlee, 16s. 6d. for ordinary Tsatlee. Japans and Bengals have met with rather more inquiry; prices are unchanged.

COFFEE.

There has been no alteration in the market. A fair supply of Ceylon placed on offer has been taken at rates showing no change from those previously ruling, the prices paid being:—Plantation triage 60s. to 66s., ordinary 67s. to 70s., small grey 66s. 6d. to 68s. 6d., low middling do. 70s. 6d. to 73s., bold do. 72s. to 75s., middling 74s. to 75s., pea-berry 82s. to 83s. 6d. Native garblings 56s., small 60s., good ordinary 60s. 6d., bold 63s. The sales have included 38 bags Singapore at 67s. 6d., and 70 bags damaged Java at 67s. to 68s. 6d.; an offer of 1,397 bags Manila was bought in at 68s. to 69s. 6d., except 60 bags good pale, which sold at 69s.; 640 bags, ex the auction, have since been sold privately at 67s. For arrival 600 bags native Ceylon have been sold at 67s. 6d., guaranteed good ordinary; and 100 tons at the same price, guaranteed good fair.

SUGAR.

The market has been dull during the week; large quantities have been offered at the public sales, but, with a general unwillingness to buy, nearly the whole has been bought in, only a small portion selling at easy rates. By private contract little business has been transacted, sales being only practicable at reduced quotations, to which holders are as a rule disinclined to submit. The following are the details of the week's transactions:—

Penang.—2,585 bags in auction were all bought in, brown date sort at 24s. 6d. to 25s., low brown syrups 26s. 6d., middling ditto (duty 4s.) at 28s. 6d., soft yellow (duty 4s. 9d.) at 31s. to 31s. 6d., except 150 bags of the latter, which sold at 30s. 6d., but since the sales 1,800 bags low to middling brown (duty 4s.) have been sold at 26s. 6d. to 28s., and 400 bags date sort at 24s.

Manila: At auction, 7,419 bags Taal unclayed, import 1868, were bought in at 24s. Privately 12,000 bags Zebu unclayed have been sold at 25s.; 3,000 bags brown at 26s. 6d., and 1,400 bags old Taal at 24s. 6d.

Java: At auction, 1,375 baskets grainy white (duty 6s.) were bought in at 38s. to 38s. 6d. By private contract, 1,000 baskets good strong quality (duty 5s. 3d.) have been sold at 35s.

CAMPHOR.—China: The recent speculative demand has wholly disappeared, and prices have consequently declined; there is only a small business doing at £3 15s. to £3 17s. 6d. Japan: No business; prices nominal.

COCOA-NUT OIL.—The market continues dull at the prices lately current; at public sale of 322 casks of Ceylon offered the greater part was bought in at £38 to £38 10s., but £38 was accepted for a small portion; privately about 50 tons have been placed at £38 to £38 10s. per ton.

CHINA GRAES.—Steady, but with only a moderate demand; 10 tons fine white have been placed at £55 per ton.

CHINA PRESERVES.—At auction 45 casks Ginger were partly sold at 6½d., 40 cases Chow Chow were withdrawn.

COPRA.—Good demand but no supply.

COIR GOODS.—Moderate supplies brought forward have met with a good demand at fully previous rates. Of 347 bales Ceylon Yarn about 200 bales sold at £33 15s. to £38 5s. for middling to fair, and £47 15s. to £58 5s. for fine; 26 tons, in dholls, sold at £28 to £32 15s. for common to middling; and 5 tons Cochin at £28 for common, and £16 per ton for very low; of 380 bales Cochin Mattress fibre 240 bales sold at £20 to £24 for ordinary to middling, and £28 for good; of 10 tons low Ceylon only one lot sold at £18 per ton; 418 coils (16 tons) Cochin Rope sold at £25 to £26 10s. per ton for 2½ to 5½ inch.

CUBERS have been dealt in to a considerable extent, mostly for speculation, and at auction as high as 30s. 6d. per cwt. has been obtained.

CHINA ROOT.—No change; holders are still firm for high rates.

COLOMBO ROOT.—Firm and scarce.

CARDAMOMS.—Large arrivals continue, and prices are 1s. 6d. to 1s. 9d. per lb. lower; 3 cases Ceylon at sale bought in; good Malabar sells at 8s. 10d. to 9s.

CUTCH.—A moderate inquiry has been experienced; and about 500 boxes fine Pegu have been disposed of at 24s. to 24s. 6d. per cwt. At auction 260 bags were taken in, and 470 boxes good fair Pegu sold at 23s. 6d. per cwt.

DRAGON'S-BLOOD.—Market steady; of 31 cases at auction the bulk was retired; only a single case lump sold at £7 2s. 6d. per cwt.

ESSENTIAL OILS.—Aniseed: The speculative demand recently prevailing has subsided, but still some little business has been done up to 13s. to 13s. 3d.; there are sellers now at the former figure, and afloat at about 12s. 6d. Cassia has again improved, and to a considerable extent, a fair trade having been done; closing prices, spot and afloat, 6s. per lb. Nutmeg: Of 10 cases offered 2 sold at 10d. per oz., the former value. Cinnamon very scarce and wanted; 2 cases rather bitter sold at 2s. 6d. per oz. Citronelle firm; of 257 cases offered about three-fourths sold at 1½d., with a few lots at 1¼d. per oz. for good. Lemon Grass steady; of 79 cases offered half sold at 2½d. per oz. for good.

EBONY.—Very fine figured Ceylon continues to command extreme rates, on account of continued scarcity; 27 tons offered at auction, and half placed at £12 7s. 6d. to £13 per ton, about previous value, the remainder being bought in at £16.

GALIS.—China: A fair business at 55s. up to 57s. per cwt. has been done, and at the close there are few sellers, except at an advance; afloat 60s. is asked; at auction part of 191 cases offered found buyers at 56s. per cwt. Japan: No transactions.

GUMS.—Benjamin: Sumatra is quiet. In public sale of 116 cases offered nearly half sold—fair second, £7 15s. to £8 5s. per cwt.; old break, £6 17s. 6d.; thirds, 75s. to 77s.; 33 cases Siam also offered, and retired, except 1 case sold at £20. Copal rather cheaper; 532 cases at auction, chiefly sold—good hard, 35s. 6d. to 36s.; mixed drossy, 18s. 6d. to 21s. Damar lower; private transactions at 57s. 6d. for fine. Gamboge: 36 cases offered half sold at £13 to £13 5s. for fair pipe, a little run; pickings, £10 10s. to £11.

GANBER has continued to meet an active demand, and prices have further risen fully 1s. per cwt. At auction, 340 bales block sold at 18s. 3d. to 18s. 6d.; and part of 608 bales 1,174 bags pressed cubes, at 20s. 6d.; 424 bags free cubes, taken at 23s. per cwt. Privately, on the spot, business has been done in block at 18s. 6d. to 19s. 3d., and free cubes at 22s.; afloat 600 tons, chiefly distant sailing, have been sold at 19s. ex ship.

GUTTA-PERCHA.—Rather cheaper, but large business done. At public sale, nearly all of 1,110 packages offered were sold at 2s. 6d. for good genuine; 11d. to 1s. 6d. ordinary white to fair reboiled.

HEMP.—There is no improvement in the demand for Manila, and only a small business has been done, at the decline of 10s. to 20s. noticed in our last report, the prices realised being, brown £37 15s. to £41 10s., barely fair to fair roping £46 to £47 10s., Boluzan £51 10s. to £51 15s. per ton.

ISINGLASS.—Market steady for fine; common still neglected. At auction 183 packages Penang were nearly all retired in the absence of bidders.

INDIA-RUBBER.—Market firm, especially for good quality; 39 baskets Borneo at auction retired; privately 25 tons realised 1s. 7½d. to 1s. 8d. per lb.

JAPAN WAX.—This import is scarce, and business is at present very restricted; of 69 cases offered at auction very few only sold at 90s. per cwt. for mealy saucers. Pending arrivals direct will probably cause a decline in prices.

MUSK.—Market steady, but quiet; of 3 caddies Cabardine at auction 1 sold at 15s. 6d. per oz.; 17 tins Grain also offered and retired.

PEPPER.—Black has been very inactive, with very moderate transactions on former terms; at auction prices have declined about ½d. per lb., fair Penang selling at 5½d. to 5¾d.; parcels offered on the spot at 5½d., and to be shipped at 4½d. cost and freight. White: A small speculative tendency has been apparent, and as high as 1s. 0½d. has been paid, which is the price asked now for fair quality; 235 bags dull Penang were sold at auction at 11¾d. to 11½d. per lb.

PLUMBAGO.—The market is very dull, and transactions have been extremely limited.

RHUBARB.—The declining tendency for China is still apparent; at auction, of 146 cases offered half sold—bold medium good fracture 2s. 4d. to 2s. 11d.; high dried good pale small 1s. 5d. to 1s. 8d.; dull wormy bold 1s. to 1s. 1d. The market continues to be glutted with arrivals of all kinds, and although present prices are stated to leave ruinous losses, yet freight per steamer seems to be the rule rather than the exception, thus adding to the cost very materially. Supplies must cease, or it is impossible to say how much lower the present exceptionally low prices may yet go; the supply is, in fact, far in excess of the demand.

RATTANS.—Without change; good demand, but scarcely any supply.

RICE.—The market is very dull, there being scarcely any demand. There are no sales to report.

SHELLS.—The periodical sales were held on the 12th inst. with the following results:—Mother-o'-Pearl: The better qualities, comprising Macassar and Manila, were held for extreme rates and bought in. A good supply of Bombay was all sold, good bold at dearer prices, inferior steadily; 230 cases good Macassar were bought in at £14, also 150 cases Manila at £9 7s. 6d. to £9 10s., except 5 cases small, which sold at £7 5s. Tortoise: Eastern descriptions went off slowly at easier prices; 14 cases (1,363 lbs.) Singapore were chiefly sold, middling to fair 16s. to 17s. 6d., a small lot good 21s. Turtle: 29 cases (3,808 lbs.) Singapore were all bought in at 2s. to 2s. 6d. per lb.; 2 cases (126 lbs.) Manila were withdrawn. Green Snail: Of 146 baskets and 46,300 loose offered about one-third sold, large 4½d., medium 3d. to 4d., small 2½d. each. Ear Shells: 400 packages and 40 tons loose Japan were all bought in at 12s. to 25s., 12 cases trimmed sold at 38s., and 33 mats do. at 27s. per cwt.

SPICES.—Cassia: There is a somewhat larger supply of Lignea; of 280 boxes at auction part sold at 113s. to 114s. per cwt., for middling, unsorted were bought in at 116s. per cwt.; Buds steady, and firmly held; 28 boxes at auction retired. Cloves: Penang have been offered freely, and sold at a considerable decline; of 89 cases offered a few only were placed at 1s. 3½d. to 1s. 4½d., 4 casks Amboyna retired. Cinnamon: Since the quarterly sales, reported in our issue of 1st inst., transactions have not been of sufficient extent as to influence prices. Chips are steady; about 1,000 bags have been offered at auction, and the greater portion sold—middling shavings at 3½d., bark, ordinary coarse, 1½d. to 2d. Mace: is rather cheaper; of 119 cases offered, one-fourth sold, middling to good 4s. 1d. to 4s. 7d.; middling reddish broken 3s. 10d. to 3s. 11d. Nutmegs firm; at sale 97 cases chiefly sold, 65s 3s. 10d.; 69s to 71s 3s. 8d. to 3s. 7d.; 74s to 80s 3s. 7d. to 3s. 6d.; 85s to 95s 3s. 5d. to 3s. 4d.; 100s to 108s 3s. 2d.; 115s to 120s 3s. 1d.; 155s 2s. 9d.

SAGO.—Market firm, but quiet; of 441 bags at auction half sold—fair small, 16s. 6d.; yellowish large, 17s. to 17s. 6d. Flour is rather easier; there are sellers privately at 16s. for fair; 1,347 bags at auction retired.

SAPANWOOD.—Manila and Siam: Good demand, but the supply has been small; no transactions to report. Ceylon: Scarce and advanced, no business done.

SOY.—Steady at last quoted prices.

STAR ANNISEEDS.—Prices rule very high, in consequence of short supply.

STICKLAC.—Siam continues scarce, and realises high prices; 144 cases offered at auction and retired.

TAPIOCA.—Market steady; of 1,418 bags at auction the greater portion sold, fair to good Singapore 2d. to 2½d.; ordinary grey to good white Penang, 1½d. to 2½d. Flour quiet at 1½d. to 2d.

TURMERIC.—Market dull; Java unsaleable.

TIN.—Prices for Straits are a little easier, some of the recent speculators having pressed their previous purchases on the market. The figures, however, are as favourable for the article as a month since, when there were buyers of Straits at £156. The current quotations are—Straits on the spot and adoot £147, Banca £148, Billiton £148 per ton.

VERMILION.—There is no stock, and 3s. 9d. would be readily paid for China.

MANCHESTER GOODS.

Since the 8th inst. activity in Liverpool has induced producers at Manchester to advance their quotations all round; the rates now asked check business, and few sales are reported in Goods. In Yarns sales to some extent have been made for Germany and Japan. Spinners and manufacturers keep well under contract, and show great firmness in holding for full quoted rates. At the close there is a strong market in face of the comparatively small business in progress, more especially in Goods.

CASUALTIES.

The Ardentinnay, which arrived at New York, Nov. 27, from Amoy, had lost foretopmast and split sails during a typhoon in the China Sea.

The George Treat, Ginn, which arrived at Boston, Nov. 24, from Ilo Ilo, encountered a succession of heavy gales after passing Bermuda, and sustained considerable damage to sails, rigging, and spars.

Advices from Cape Town, of Nov. 4, state that nearly the whole of the cargo had been discharged from the Landbou, Jansen, from Batavia to Rotterdam, which put into Simon's Bay, Oct. 16, leaky, and that on further survey it had been found that the vessel still made about 1½ in. of water per hour. Some copper, which was found to be very much damaged, had been removed, but the leak had not yet been discovered. A great part of the cargo was seriously damaged, and a number of the chests still on board were empty, and would be thrown overboard. 1,425 bags of coffee and 317 serons of sugar had been sold.

A later telegram has been received at Rotterdam, from Gibraltar, with reference to the Prins van Oranje (str.), Braat, of and for Amsterdam, from Batavia, which put in there, Dec. 2, with damage to machinery, stating that part of the cargo in the after hold had been discharged into lighters, for the purpose of replacing two screw plates which had been damaged during her passage through the Suez Canal.

Advices from Cape Town, dated Nov. 4, received at Rotterdam, state that the Annie S. had been chartered to take on the remainder of the cargo of the Aldebaran, from Batavia to New York, which vessel was condemned at Simon's Bay.

The Ceres, of South Shields, bound to Galle, with coals, had been assisted into Harwich, from off the Shipwash, leaky, and with loss of kedge and warp.

A telegram from Singapore, dated Sept. 18, states that the Banda, of Liverpool, from Ilo Ilo to the Channel, which struck near the island of Balaback, had discharged her cargo (sugar) undamaged, and the vessel had got off.

RONNE, Dec. 8.—The Saida (str.), London to Konigsburg, which went ashore yesterday about nine miles north of this place, will probably become a total wreck, as she lies in ten feet of water upon a rocky bottom, and is nearly full of water. About 500 chests of tea were landed yesterday and warehoused, but in the afternoon the wind freshened, and all hands were obliged to leave the vessel.

NEXOR, Dec. 12.—4,700 chests of sound tea have been got out of the Saida, steamer, from London for Konigsburg, wrecked nine miles north of Ronne. 3,500 chests are still on board and under water, and will be sold by auction. Salvage steamer arrived.

NOTICES TO MARINERS.

JAPAN.

Iwo Sima Light.—With reference to Notice to Mariners No. 76, dated 28th July, 1870, respecting the establishment of a temporary light on the north point of Iwo Sima, at the entrance of Nagasaki Harbour, until the completion of a lighthouse for a permanent light, the Japanese Government has given further notice that the lighthouse for the permanent light is now completed, and the light exhibited from it. The light is a fixed white light eclipsed landward from N.E. by N. (outside Mitsue rocks) to W. ½ N., elevated 205 feet above the sea, and in clear weather should be seen from a distance of twenty-one miles. The illuminating apparatus is dioptric or by lenses of the first order. The tower, 38 feet high, is hexagonal in shape, built of iron, and painted white. Position, lat. 32 deg. 43 min. N., long. 129 deg. 46 min. E. Also that the temporary light has been discontinued.

Simonoseki Strait.—Beacons on Yodaibi, Narusi, and Manaita Rocks.—Also that the following stone beacons have been erected on Yodaibi, Narusi, and Manaita Rocks, in Simonoseki Strait. Yodaibi beacon is cone shaped, painted red, 8 feet in diameter at the base and 20 feet high, with a plain rounded top. Narusi beacon is cone-shaped surmounted with a pear-shaped top, which is 20 feet above the base; the beacon is 8 feet in diameter at the base, and painted white. Manaita beacon is cone-shaped, surmounted by a ball 3 feet in diameter and 30 feet above the base; the beacon is 8 feet in diameter at the base, and painted with black and white rings.

Light-vessel in Hakodadi.—The Japanese Government has given notice that a light-vessel has been placed in Hakodadi Harbour, as a guide to vessels entering the port. The light is a fixed white light, elevated 36 feet above the sea, and in clear weather should be seen from a distance of ten miles. The light-vessel is moored in 7½ fathoms at low water spring tides, off the northernmost point of the spit which runs out from Point Anama (the north-western point of the town), with the mouth of Kamida Creek bearing E. by S. ½ S. and white bluff S. by E.; she is painted red, has two masts, and carries a red ball at the foremast head. Note.—It is advisable for vessels of large draught to go north of the light-vessel, as there is a bank of stones directly south of her. Also, that the light-vessel formerly moored in Hakodadi Harbour has been removed.—Hydrographic-office, Admiralty, London.

JAVA.

Light on the Zwantyes or Koko Reef.—The Netherlands Government has given notice that a lighthouse is in the course of construction from which a light will be exhibited, on the Zwantyes or Koko reef, Madura strait. The light will be a revolving white light showing a fixed light for one and a-half minutes, followed by an eclipse of ten seconds, a flash of ten seconds, and a second eclipse of ten seconds, the revolution being completed in two minutes; it will be elevated 54 feet above the level of high water, and in clear weather the fixed light should be seen 12 and the flash 14 miles. Position, lat. 7 deg. 28 min. S., long. 113 deg. 7 min. E. In foggy weather, or if any interruption of the regular working of the light should occur, a bell will be sounded. Also, that further notice will be given of the time when the light will be exhibited.—Hydrographic-office, Admiralty, London.

ART, PICTORIAL AND INDUSTRIAL.

An Illustrated Magazine.

THIS Publication was commenced on July 1st, 1870, in the belief that an ample field existed for a high class monthly magazine devoted to Art; and already the result has fulfilled this expectation. 'ART' is produced in a form eminently adapted to the drawing-room table. It is handsomely printed on fine paper, in super-royal quarto, and each Number contains four or more Full-page Heliotype Illustrations, being reproductions of Ancient and Modern Pictures, Engravings, Designs, Sculpture, and objects of Industrial or Decorative Art.

Among the contributors to 'ART' are Messrs. BLANCHARD JERROLD, CHARLES BURTON, J. CORDY JEAFFRESON, G. W. REID, HYDE CLARKE, GEORGE AUGUSTUS SALA, W. R. RALSTON, JOHN FORBES ROBERTSON, HENRY BLACKBURN, G. W. YAPP, JOHN PIGGOT, Jun., E. OLLIER, &c., &c.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

GOOD DIGESTION.—Holloway's Pills are universally acknowledged to be the safest, speediest, and best correctives of indigestion. With the weather alarmingly changeable, and the cold almost penetrating to the very sources of life, the skin will become inactive and the digestion impaired, unless corrected by suitable means. Loss of appetite, acidity, flatulency, and nausea are a few of the inconveniences which are remedied with ease by these purifying Pills. They strike at the root of all abdominal ailments, they excite in the stomach a proper secretion of gastric juice, and regulate the action of the liver, promoting in that organ a copious supply of pure, wholesome bile, absolutely necessary for digestion. These Pills remove all distension and obstruction.

Summary of News from the Far East.

YOKOHAMA.

Dates extend to the 5th Nov. The French mail of Sept. 1 arrived out Oct. 22; the P. and O. mail of Sept. 8 on Oct. 25; and the French mail of Sept 15 on Nov. 2.

The following summary is from the yapan Herald:

The right of export of native rice by foreigners, that we mentioned as probable, has been conceded by the Government, and if that grain can be bought at such a price as to leave a margin to the exporter, operations may be looked for, the quality of it always being such as to command sales at foreign ports; the crop of rice this season is so promising as to warrant the re-shipment of grain to China that has been brought hither.

It is reported that the sale of silver itziboos to foreigners has been prohibited by the Government, and that contracts already made by natives have been broken by them in consequence.

By order of his Imperial Majesty a levée was held on the 24th Oct. at Yedo; those princes at the time residing there were presented. At the conclusion an address was handed to his Majesty by the Prince of Satsuma, and was graciously responded to by the Emperor, who afterwards, accompanied by a few attendants, left the castle on horseback for the purpose of inspecting the site upon which the Naval College and Hospital are to be built. On the day following his Majesty, attended by four guards, drove to the Foreign-office. It is said that he will visit Yokohama, where he will inaugurate the railroad at the beginning of the Japanese New Year—in February next.

Of late several meetings of the Consuls have been held for the purpose of devising some means by which a check may be put to the robberies and burglaries that are daily taking place; the recommendations made have been referred to the Government at Yedo.

The yacht that was presented a few years ago by Her Majesty to the Tycoon was sent up as a gunboat to Hakodate, where it was run ashore and sunk. It was then purchased by a foreigner, raised, and sent to Shanghai to be overhauled and repaired; she has now come back under the name of Emperor, and presents a very respectable appearance.

Great activity is being displayed at the Mint in the coining of gold and silver yen and other coins. A few of the silver coins have been put in circulation, but nothing in comparison with the demand that exists. The silver yen is already at seven per cent. premium against Mexican dollars. It is said that coiners are at work at Macao on these coins.

Mr. Mutsu Munemitsu, the Governor of Kanagawa, has been elected a member of the Club here, being the first Japanese elected as a member of a foreign club.

A dinner in honour of the Mikado's twentieth birthday took place at the Government House here. It was given by his Excellency the Governor, members of the Consular corps, captains of men-of-war, and military officers only being invited. The foreign Ministers in residence at Yedo dined at Hama-go-ten in honour of the occasion.

Preparations are being made for the revision next year, of the treaties between Japan and foreign nations. It is expected that when the Japanese Government have fully considered the question its proposals will be submitted to the foreign representatives; meantime the committee of the Chamber of Commerce has the subject in hand, but have not as yet reported. Nothing less than the opening up of the interior of Japan to foreign intercourse will satisfy public opinion, and it is almost upon this point alone that public interest and discussion centres.

General improvement under the new regime of the new Governor of Kanagawa, Mr. Mutsu Munemitsu, seems to be the order of the day at the Saibansho. New and commodious buildings have been erected for the convenience of the officials, about two hundred and fifty in number now employed in the several public departments centering there.

Japanese rumour says that it has been decided by the Government shortly to close the Yedo Hotel, and that it is henceforth to be used for a Japanese school.

Mr. Strauss, late manager of the Compagnie Belge, and at present officiating Consul-General for Belgium, leaves for Europe early in December next; it is not probable that he will return to Yokohama.

An hospital for Europeans employed in the railway department has been opened on the bluff, at the quarters lately occupied by the British Legation Guard. Dr. Purcell, of H.B.M.'s 10th Regiment, is in charge of the hospital in Yokohama, and Dr. Wheeler, of the British Legation, in Yedo.

The steamship Malacca, recently disposed of by the late Messrs. Alt and Co. to the Japanese Government, has been refitted, and now lies at Sinagawa, where she will be employed as a training-ship.

It was formerly customary to burn the bodies of all criminals decapitated by the officials, but hereafter the relatives may obtain possession by application.

A very destructive fire on the Skidji Hatoba near to the Yedo Hotel destroyed over eighty houses, and the Yedo Hotel was in no small danger. The principal victims are poor fishermen, but we regret to hear that Messrs. Clarke and Lucy have suffered considerably; their schoolhouse has been destroyed, and much of their clothing and furniture burnt. It was an hour and more after the fire had broken out that the fire bell sounded the alarm. Not knowing how to work it, the Japanese firemen abandoned the engine. Messrs. Hartley, Freame, Crowninshield, Siebold, and Da Roza then took charge of it, and it was due mainly to their efforts that the flames were extinguished, and we are informed that the Custom-house in a letter thanked them for their services.

Captain Eyre, who commanded the mail steamer Bombay when she ran into the U.S. steamer Oncida, in Yedo Bay, is dead.

NAGASAKI.

NAGASAKI, November, 3, 1871.

I last wrote you on the 14th ultimo via San Francisco. The French and English mails of the 1st and 8th of September were delivered here on the 26th ultimo—55 and 48 days respectively. The London and China Express published for the latter mail reached here yesterday evening via San Francisco. The French mail of 15th September is expected here to-morrow from Shanghai. During the interval little news of any interest has transpired.

It seems pretty certain that the chief station in Japan of the P.M.S.S. Co. is to be Nagasaki, in lieu of Yokohama. Captain Phelps has been here for a considerable time making investigations, and his report, I hear, is very much in favour of this port, which no doubt arises in consequence of its natural advantages, not the least of which is its affording a very safe anchorage to vessels of any size.

The Japanese Government are about to establish a line of steamers between this port and Shanghai, and another steamer or so will run to Tientsin, but it is very doubtful whether they will run at any regular intervals. The object in doing so is to give encouragement to their own people to engage in trade with China. They intend advancing a certain percentage against shipments made, and a number of merchants at this port have formed themselves into a company in order to carry on operations, who have rented premises at Shanghai for the purpose.

H.B.M.S. Midge arrived from Shanghai yesterday, and the U.S. corvette Alaska left for the north this afternoon. H.M.S. Ocean left, as advised in my last, taking away with her the good wishes of this community, with whom Captain Hewett is very popular. The crew appeared to be a very superior lot; amongst whom were some of a very religious turn of mind who used to hold religious meetings on the hills near to this settlement in conjunction with some of the men from the Alaska.

The following is the cargo taken by the British barque Zohrab, which vessel sailed for London on the 22nd inst., viz., 547 packages tea, 1,336 bales tobacco, 1,794 boxes wax, 46 cases curios, 194 cases merchandise.

Freight to London £3 per ton of 50 feet nominal, but a vessel is expected to take the berth shortly. Exchange six m.s. 4s. 6½d. per $; Nebus 367 per $100.

Cargo per British barque Zorab, for London, despatched by Holme, Ringer, and Co.:—Tea, 547 packages; Tobacco, 1,336 bales; Wax, 1,794 boxes; Curios, 46 cases; Merchandise, 104 cases.

CHINA.

—o—
SHANGHAI.

Dates from this port are to the 9th Nov. The French mail of Sept. 15 arrived out on the 30th Oct., and the following P. and O. mail of Sept. 22nd on the 6th Nov. The following items of news are from the North China Herald:—

The principal event since our last issue has been the autumn race meeting, which commenced on Thursday and ended nominally on Saturday, though there was the customary "off" day on Monday. The meeting has been a most successful and pleasant one. The weather was particularly fine, visitors were more than usually numerous, and the running exceptionally good.

The Shanghai Yacht Club regatta for the Commodore's Cup, was sailed on Monday. The start was at eleven A.M., and there was a very pleasant day, and a quick race round the course. The Phantom and Emily were favourites for the race, but the cup was won by Pretender, by the time allowance made in the handicap. A ship's boat sweepstakes fell to H.M.S. Juno's pinnace. Captain Reynolds's new steamer the Hoeyen accompanied the race, and many availed themselves of the opportunity thus afforded of witnessing the event.

A meeting of subscribers to the Shanghai Library was held on Monday, when it was resolved to carry out the plan of occupying rooms in the Asiatic Society's new building, and a financial scheme was passed in the form of a resolution to provide for the necessary outlay. A third resolution empowers the Committee, if they see fit, to lower the subscription from Tls. 15 to Tls. 10. We trust that the wise and energetic action shown in these changes will have the desired effect of making the library more popular, efficient, and prosperous than it has lately been. The expenditure for house accommodation will have been reduced to an unavoidable minimum, and a larger balance will, it is hoped, be available wherewith to increase the supply of new books.

The fire alarm was rung for a few moments on Thursday night, on account of an outbreak in a house in Honan-road. Some tea was being dried in an ordinary Chinese bedroom, and the basket in which it was suspended over charcoal caught fire and spread it to some combustibles lying near. Fortunately two foreign policemen happened to be at hand, and adopted such prompt measures that in a very short time the fire was quite extinguished.

The deciding race in the sculling match between Barton and Glass, for the Banker's Cup, which it will be remembered was held over in consequence of a dispute occurring, came off on Thursday. Barton, giving Glass eight seconds' start, as before, overtook his opponent opposite Batt's bungalow, but from Glass's mode of steering a foul again occurred in the last bend. On referring the dispute to the umpire it was decided that Glass fouled Barton, and the latter was therefore declared winner.

We have arranged for mails to be forwarded during the winter to the care of the Customs at Shanghai, Chefoo, and Peking, for letters only, but under such circumstances a good deal may be intimated under one small cover, and news of every kind will be very welcome. The U.S.S. Palos takes down the present despatch of letters, on her departure after a three months' stay here, and she bears away two good men from the community—Messrs. McKean, of H.M.'s Consular Service, and T. G. Luson, late Commissioner of Customs at this port. No plate or address has been presented to them, although a song to the tune of "A Fine Old English Gentleman" was composed in honour of Mr. Luson; but it may be truly said no men deserved better of their fellow-residents than they. A void will be felt by their departure, all the more that winter is now closing upon us, and we shall miss the good hearts which cheered us with genial companionship and happy hospitality. If the good wishes which accompany them be but half fulfilled, their lot, where'er they go, must be a fortunate one. And for the officers and men of the Palos I can only say that Captain Rockwell has done his very best to earn lasting good repute for his ship, and the impression he has left here any naval officer might well be proud of.

Another correspondent complains of the removal of the light-ship at so early a date as the 1st November, while vessels visit the port up to the 12th and 15th. "Fancy vessels," he says, "coming here, meeting the light-ship going south, they may return also, and who will pay the loss to the charterer?"

The Presbyterian Synod of China has concluded its sittings at Ningpo, and does not again meet till August, 1874, at Chefoo. We refer our readers to our correspondent's letter for a summary of the subjects on which the attention of the rev. members was engaged, and it will be apparent that these meetings must be of much benefit to the Presbyterian missions in China, from the interchange of thought and development of methods for carrying out the ends they have in view. From statements gathered by the Synod, it would seem that there are connected with it six Presbyteries, viz., Canton, Foochow, Ningpo, Shanghai, Shantung and Peking. The total church membership reported is seven hundred and fifty, of which ninety-five were received during the past year. There are three hundred and twenty pupils in Presbyterian boarding-schools, and the native churches have contributed during the year, for benevolent purposes, 660,000 cash.

HONG KONG.

Our advices extend to the 15th Nov.; the French mail of Sept. 29 arrived out on the 8th Nov. The following items are taken from the Overland China Mail:—

Chief Justice Smale has laid the community under an obligation by his emphatic protest against the application to himself of the doctrine, as enunciated by the Colonial Secretary, that an official member of the Government must vote as the Governor dictates, apart from any conscientious scruples of his own. It would derogate from the honourable office which the Chief Justice holds if he could be made subservient on any point to the "powers that be" here.

We noticed some days ago that a site for a new Catholic Church had been granted by the Government at the eastward of the public gardens between the Garden Road and the Military Nullah. We are glad now to see the work begun, and we hear that the first stone will be laid as soon as the lease of the ground is made out. The subscription list for the erection of St. Joseph's Church is going on very satisfactorily. Besides the Catholics, who have very handsomely and generously contributed, several Protestants have kindly subscribed to it. We hail with pleasure the interest taken without distinction of creed. The plan is drawn by Mr. Salway, and the new church will be a fine ornament to the colony. It is made in such a way as to afford facility of enlarging the church by two aisles, which are intended to be added at a future time.

The following extraordinary paragraph has appeared in the Advertiser:—

We understand that the Acting Attorney-General has been heavily feed by the prosecutors in the Moussa conspiracy case, and must express our opinion against his acceptance of any such consideration in very strong terms. He is not only Acting Attorney-General, but (acting) Grand Jury as well, and it devolves upon him to find a true bill or no bill against those tried in the criminal court. If then, he be retained on one side, how is it likely that he will be able to exercise an unfettered discretion as to whether the criminals should be prosecuted or not?

A similar statement is current to the effect that the Hon. H. J. Ball, when coming into Court as "Her Majesty's own Acting Attorney-General," in Regina v. Saint, was also "heavily feed" by the Macao Government. But supposing both statements to be true, where's the harm? Mustn't an Attorney-general have privileges? Suppose the Hon. H. J. Ball, in his capacity as acting attorney-general, has directed that a man should be prosecuted; what is there inconsistent with professional honour or etiquette, or irreconcilable with the dictates of common morality in his accepting fees in order that the prosecution might be fully carried out? Can there be anything more reasonable than the proposition that the labourer is worthy of his hire?

Some uneasiness was caused on the 11th Nov. by telegrams from Shanghai, announcing that business was suspended, and interest among foreigners was 3 per cent. per month, and that natives were paying two taels per day per mille, or at the rate of 73 per cent. per annum. Letters by the mail give the reason, that intending tenderers for the salt monopoly had sent away three million taels of Sycee to be prepared to pay in at once, when it was known who had obtained the farm, and that the unsuccessful tenderers would return the amounts not required by them in a week or ten days. The amount to be returned was estimated at two millions and a-half taels, so that the pressure for money was likely only to be temporary.

From the Advertiser we learn that Admiral Kellett's health has greatly improved, and that the flag-ship may leave on the 24th Nov. The Curlew has left for Shanghai; the Thistle left for Nagasaki on the 9th; the Opossum is undergoing a thorough overhauling, and will probably have new boilers put into her; the Zebra will probably go into dock on Monday. The Adventure is at Aberdeen.

A silver tankard of elegant workmanship has been presented by the choir to Mr. Sangster, the cathedral organist, in acknowledgment of his distinguished services.

At a special meeting of the shareholders in the Indo-Chinese Sugar Company the resolution for the sale of the Bienhoa property to Mr. Kresser, passed at the extraordinary meeting held on the 7th Sept., was confirmed. The terms are that the company receive from Messrs. Wahee, Smith and Co. their four thousand cash shares and one thousand profit shares; that the contract for sugar between Messrs. Wahee, Smith and Co. and the company be cancelled, and that $105,000 be paid to the company—$25,000 in cash, and promissory notes for the remaining $80,000 in instalments at two, three, four, and five years respectively, interest to be paid at 6 per cent.; and Mr. Kresser further guaranteeing to pay the whole $80,000 if he succeed in forming a company to take over the Bienhoa property from himself.

—o—

SINGAPORE.

Dates extend to the 21st Nov. The French mail, with London letters to 13th Oct., arrived on the 14th Nov.

The following items are from the Straits Times:—

The Legislative Council has concluded its labours, and was formally closed on the 17th by his Excellency the Administrator. Though but few ordinances have been passed during the session, it has nevertheless been an important one, and its measures are likely to exert a great influence upon the future welfare of the colony. The lighthouse on the North Sands has been contracted for, and the money provided for its construction, and there is a prospect that it will before long be an accomplished fact. The Singapore Water-works, too, his Excellency assures the public, are receiving attention, the plans and specifications having been sent home to the Secretary of State. The most satisfactory statement, however, in his Excellency's speech is that there will probably be in hand at the end of the present year a surplus balance to the credit of the colony for $400,000, out of which the cost of the lighthouse is to be defrayed, and from which it is also proposed to pay for the waterworks, should the expenditure be sanctioned. The paupers of the colony have been provided for, and the principle of island asylums for lepers, recommended by the committee, has been acted upon; the hospital at Pulo Jerajah has been provided for by a vote of the Council is at last being given a trial, and a number of lepers from Penang have already been sent there.

During the late riots 153 rioters were flogged, and the total number of stripes administered was 2,859. The total amount of fines inflicted was $1,342, of which about $1,000 were paid. The number of persons cautioned and discharged was 127; and in addition to these a number of prisoners have been committed for trial at the sessions, and there are other cases pending.

From Bangkok Captain Sachsze, master of the British barque Burlington, has been sent to Singapore by H.M.'s Consul-General for trial, charged with the murder of a seaman on board his vessel, while at anchor outside the bar at Paknam. The men were numerous, and the captain claims to have shot the deceased in self-defence.

PENANG.

The following items are from the Argus:—

A meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, on Nov. 15th was called, for the purpose of discussing the proposed introduction of gas into Penang, and also for taking into consideration the question of landing goods from steamers at the Jetty, lately prohibited by the Municipal Commissioners. Resolutions in favour of both objects were unanimously adopted.

In the case against Mr. E. Bacon a verdict was returned of not guilty.

At the trial of the men connected with the late act of piracy at Salengore, the jury could not agree, and the prisoners will have to be tried again.

CEYLON.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

Reviewing, at the opening of the Legislative Council on 4th October last, the progress of Ceylon as a commercial country, the Governor stated that within the past fifteen years the average tonnage of shipping entered and cleared at our ports had increased 100 per cent.; that the acreage of land under cultivation had increased 100 per cent.; that our chief staple product—coffee—had increased 140 per cent.; that cocoanuts, another staple, had increased 33 per cent.; while cinnamon had increased 180 per cent., and plumbago had increased 800 per cent. He showed that in like manner our revenue, without any additional taxation, had increased 130 per cent., while £980,000, or close on a million of money, had been appropriated from general revenue towards the construction of the railway. The colony defrays the whole of its civil and military expenditure, has a revenue of £1,100,000, and its exports and imports now amount to £8,208,005. Sir Hercules Robinson quoted also many other exports of a lesser value, showing in all a considerable increase. When all are put together, however, coffee towers so high above them that it is equal in value to about four-fifths of the whole productions of the island. It is our Consols; and it will therefore suffice for our present purpose to go a little further back than the Governor has done to mark its rapid development. Had his Excellency dated back his review from 1845 instead of 1855, he would have included a quarter of a century, during which he would have seen that the coffee industry, instead of 140, had increased upwards of 500 per cent.; for in 1845 it was only in its infancy. In that year we shipped 178,603 cwt., while in 1870 we shipped 1,019,242 cwt., or more than five times the export of that leading staple twenty-five years ago. In 1845 we had two banks, and the business then seemed capable of supporting both. One has risen rapidly in wealth and importance; the other, from bad management in the letting out of its capital, lost it, and had to succumb many years ago. We have now three banks. The Oriental Bank Corporation, the oldest, has so well established her reputation for judicious management that she can pretty well afford to do as she pleases—to accept what she likes and reject what she does not like. This she does; and perhaps she has her favourites too; so that all her would-be customers may not have a chance. But in making these remarks it must be borne in mind that the O.B.C., though a strange bank, cannot do everything; and has to meet calls upon her funds from all parts of the East, as well as from this little colony, while small as this colony is, her growth in trade, commerce, and agriculture has of late years been enormous. Consequently her banking requirements have increased in proportion; but in like proportion they have not been met. The O.B.C., doubtless, has to refuse a great deal of good business, which the other two existing banks are either unable or too timid to take their fair share of. Indeed, if they did, they are not nearly equal to the amount of the island's business now. Just think that when we shipped of our staple export coffee less than 200,000 cwt. the business supported two banks, while now with five times the trade we have only three! There is a magnificent opening now for another bank, constituted on right principles—able and willing to do proper and legitimate banking business—both in local bills and exchanges. And any strong bank, occupying the field now, especially if conducted by a manager of local experience, would reap a rich harvest in business of a sound and profitable nature.

The marine engineer, Mr. Townshend, who was sent out by the Secretary for the Colonies to examine into the feasibility of a harbour or docks for Colombo, and also as to the practicability of deepening the Paumben Channel sufficiently to admit vessels of any size bound for the Bay of Bengal or the Red Sea, has given in his report on the various schemes of harbour and docks which were laid before him. It is a clear well-written document, in which he is very pronounced regarding all the different plans that have been placed before him; no fewer than eight different propositions have been brought to his notice for breakwater and docks. Each and all of them have able advocates, but all are ignored in favour of Mr. Townshend's own scheme of docks on the site of the Lotus pond and lake; and certainly for convenience these deserve the palm. They will be just at hand for the merchants' offices—most convenient for the railway—sheltered and so close to the fort that a merchant can step out of his office and in five minutes be on board the ship he is loading or discharging. A great cry is sure to be raised that this will mar the beauty of the lake—deprive Colombo of its lungs, &c., but this is a utilitarian age, when scenery must give place to necessity. It will be said, no doubt, that a harbour in the middle of the town will be unhealthy. I don't see why it should be so. London and Liverpool are among the healthiest towns in England, yet their rivers, full of ships, and their docks, crammed with them, are in their midst. Besides, only part of this lake will be required, and for recreation we must go further out. For £720,000, Mr. Townshend tells us, we can have docks with a sufficient breakwater to protect the approach, and preserve calm water for vessels in and outside the docks. My belief is that, once the docks are made, we shall have dry docks following, so as to attract shipping in want of repairs trading elsewhere than to Ceylon; and the trade that will spring up when Colombo is made a respectable port will be something enormous. The loss of the Rangoon at Galle the other day knocks on the head all chance of competition from that quarter.

Mr. Townshend's report on the Paumben Passage will not likely be out for a month or six weeks.

Commercial Report.

IMPORTS.

YOKOHAMA.—During the interval no great change had taken place, the principal operations being confined to Yarns Nos. 28 to 32. In Grey Shirtings the market for 8½ and 9 lbs. was weak, and no transactions of any moment were recorded, but 7 lbs. had ruled rather higher, owing to small stocks. A few sales of Blankets had taken place at prices previously quoted. Alpaca were in slight demand, as likewise was Cloth.

SHANGHAI.—Cottons: Since the departure of the last mail the business in Piece Goods had been only of a retail character, with little inquiry for the outports. 7 lbs. Grey Shirtings had changed hands to a small extent, other weights being in very slight demand. Quotations at the close were almost nominal. White Shirtings were difficult to move. T-Cloths, Drills, Jeans, and Sheetings were somewhat less depressed than other goods, at easier rates. Fancy Cottons inanimate. Woollens: With only trifling transactions in Orleans, Lastings, and Spanish Stripes, quotations must be considered nominal.

HANKOW.—Business in Piece Goods had been limited, and the market closed dull for most goods. 7 lbs. Grey Shirtings in moderate enquiry and quoted Tls. 1.7.0 to 1.7.4; other weights neglected. Mexican 7 lbs. T-Cloths in some request at Tls. 1.5.2 to 1.6.2. Drills and Jeans held for higher prices. Dyed Brocades, Spots, and Chintzes sold to a fair extent. Other Fancy Goods not enquired for. Woollens: Camlets, holders firm, but with little enquiry, SS., Tls. 14 to 15. Lastings, Tls. 10.2.0 to 11, trifling sales. Spanish Stripes, improved in demand; Assorted quoted 58 to 61 cents. Long Ells, Tls. 5.3.0 to 5.4.0 for Assorted; Tls. 6.1.0 to 6.2.5 for Scarlet.

HONG KONG.—Cotton Yarns: Values of Nos. 16 to 24 and Nos. 28 to 32 unchanged, enquiry still ran on the lower grades to the neglect of better descriptions; best chops Nos. 38 to 42, wanted at a further rise of 50 cents to $1. Piece Goods: Grey Shirtings but little dealt in and but slightly asked for: prices of 7 lb. unchanged, 8.4 lb. 2 cents lower. White Shirtings unaltered in value, but firmly held. Drills all quoted 5 cents higher; sales of English and Dutch. American nominally dearer, but none on offer. Prices of T-Cloths advanced 1 to 2 cents in best 7 lb. Mexicans; other weights not much asked for. Assorted Brocades and Spotted Shirtings 10 cents lower. Turkey Reds in demand at a rise of 5 cents. Chintzes saleable. Woollens: Not much business transacted, but holders very firm, and all staple fabrics advanced in value. Scarlet and Assorted Long Ells 5 to 10 cents higher. Scarlet Spanish Stripes easy of sale at a rise of 5 cents, and Assorted English makes wanted at an advance of 2 to 3 cents. Lastings in good request at an improvement of 50 cents to $1. Prices of Camlets well maintained though the enquiry was less active at the moment.

SINGAPORE.—There had been a fair demand during the interval both for Cotton and Woollen Goods at about the quotations given in our last report, and the market closed firmly.

EXPORTS.

TEA.

YOKOHAMA.—A fair amount of business had been done, settlements composed mostly of medium quality amounted to 80,000 piculs. Stocks of fine and choice leaf were small, and prices nominal, but for the lower grades rates ruled easier. Stocks at the close were small, as supplies had not come in so fully. The Mikado and Walton were still loading for New York, and the Miako had been placed on the berth for that port.

SHANGHAI.—Messrs. Drysdale, Ringer and Co. report as follows:—Black: There has not been much doing during the fortnight. Settlements amount to 5,600 chests and 3,100 half-chests. Arrivals have been about equal to the quantity taken, leaving on offer a stock of 13,000 chests. Common Shuntam kinds have been neglected, the settlement having, with but few exceptions, been made between Tls. 18 to 21. All the Tea now coming forward and the greater part of our stock is of very common quality, such as is almost unsaleable at home. It is to this want of a good selection that we attribute the limited nature of the business under report. We cannot quote any change in prices; the disinclination on the part of buyers to operate has, however, made tea-men rather anxious to sell, and a few parcels might be secured on more favourable terms; but any active demand would make holders firm for higher rates, the supply of useful tea being so limited. Export of Congou is 61½ millions against 52½ millions to same date last year, reducing the excess in shipment hence to 9½ millions. Green: There has been but little done for the English market, American buyers being still able to give prices much above home rates. The settlements are 28,000 half-chests and 7,500 boxes Country Tea at Tls. 35 to 39 for medium to fine Fychows, Tls. 40 to 51 proportion for fine to finest Teenkais and Moyunes, a few fine line realising Tls. 70 per picul. Prices are without change, although the demand is not so active as it has been for some time past.

HANKOW.—A very moderate quantity of Tea had arrived during the fortnight, and had been mostly shipped. Quotations were: Oopacks, common to fair, Tls. 14½ to 15½; Oonams, common, Tls. 8½.

KIUKIANG.—Black: Thirty-three chops had come to hand, which had all gone forward on native account, with the exception of two chops settled at Tls. 17 and Tls. 14 respectively.

FOOCHOW.—A fair business had been done in Congou, and other descriptions had been dealt in to a moderate extent, but quotations showed little alteration. Congou: Good demand for all descriptions of broken leaf at an advance of from half to one tael for ordinary to good common, and of Tls. 1½ to 2 for flavoury descriptions. Settlements had amounted to 36,387 chests, at Tls. 3½ to 20, and Tls. 21½ for boxes; arrivals, 19,550 chests. Quotations: Dust and siftings, Tls. 3½ to 8; broken leaf to ordinary, Tls. 8½ to 12½; fair to good common, Tls. 13½ to 16; flavoury to medium, Tls. 17 to 20. Souchow: Settlements, 3,199 chests, at Tls. 13½ to 24½; arrivals, nil. Quotations: Common, Tls. 14 to 18; medium, Tls. 19 to 26. Oolong: About 9,876 half-chests settled at Tls. 18 to 24½; arrivals, 7,270 half-chests. Quotations: Common to fair, Tls. 17 to 20; good cargo to superior, Tls. 22 to 27; fine to finest, Tls. 31 to 45. Scented Teas: 7,543 boxes settled at Tls. 6 to 17½, principally of dust, at the former rate. Flowery Pekoe: Settlements, 922 chests, at Tls. 22 to 54.

CANTON.—Only a moderate amount of business reported, but prices showed a slight advance considering the quality obtainable. The stock of Scented Orange Pekoe was very small, and holders had been able to obtain an advance of Tls. 1 to 1½. Tea-men were asking very full rates for the better parcels of Scented Caper, and though prices had been rather irregular, an advance of Tls. 1 was quoted. In Green Tea the demand had been only for Gunpowders, which commanded higher rates.

SILK.

YOKOHAMA.—Settlements had amounted to nearly 900 bales. This small quantity was doubtless owing to the high rate of exchange existing in native currency. Rates were unaltered, but holders demanded higher prices, which buyers do not feel disposed to give. Stocks, 1,500 bales. Silkworm Eggs: Some little trade had been done, and purchases amounted to 1,000,000 cards. Prices for the best quality were quoted $1.50 to 2, but other sorts were obtainable from 45 cents to one dollar.

SHANGHAI.—The following is from Messrs. C. J. Skeggs and Co.'s Circular:—We have to report a more moderate demand throughout the past fortnight, than has existed since the opening of this season; until within the last few days dealers have exhibited great firmness, but the tightness of money, and the high rate of interest has made many of the more needy anxious to sell, especially holders of common Silk; in classical chops we have no change to note, dealers for these descriptions holding out for last mail's rates; most of the business for the fortnight was done before the French mail left, so that we make no change in our quotations.

CANTON.—Messrs. Olyphant and Co. report as follows:—The market has been very quiet, but rates have again slightly advanced, especially for Silks that have any pretensions to superiority, the better classes being very scarce. Some of the sixth crop is on the market; but, although the late more favourable weather led to the supposition that the quality would be good, the musters now on show are coarse and nibby; and we hear from the country that the rest of the crop is expected to be the same: the total yield is estimated at from 600 to 700 bales. Several of the silkmen have been holding back their supplies in expectation of higher rates later on, but no further material advance is at present expected, although present quotations may be firmly maintained in view of the approach of the end of the season, and the small stocks on offer. Settlements for the fortnight are small, and are—247 bales for Europe, 50 to America, and about 30 bales to Bombay. Stock is estimated at 1,700 bales Tsatlee, 50 bales Loongkong, and 100 bales Re-reels.

LEGAL.

COURT OF QUEEN'S BENCH.—GUILDHALL, DEC. 19. (Before Mr. Justice MELLOR and a Special Jury.)

J. L. FRASER v. THE TELEGRAPH CONSTRUCTION COMPANY.

This was an action by a merchant against the company in their capacity as temporary owners of a vessel called the Hibernia for delay in the conveyance of goods for him from Singapore, by which he alleged markets had been lost, and so loss occasioned by the fall of prices.

Sir J. Karslake, Q.C., and Mr. A. L. Smith were for the plaintiff; Mr. Pollock, Q.C., and Mr. Cohen were for the company.

The company had a steamer at Singapore which had been chartered by them to carry telegraph apparatus to that place, and which they desired to turn to some advantage for the return or homeward voyage. They therefore received goods for conveyance home, and, among others, received a quantity of pepper and coffee for the plaintiff. According to his case, they undertook to carry at the steam rate of speed, whereas, according to their case, it had only what is called an "auxiliary/steam power," and was in a great degree dependent upon sails and therefore could not keep up the steam rate of speed. The result was that the plaintiff was not satisfied with the rate of speed kept up, and there was a delay in the arrival of the vessel, which he alleged caused the loss of markets for his commodities, and involved a fall of prices which occasioned him a loss of several hundred pounds, and this loss he claimed to recover in the present action. It was agreed between the parties that the amount of loss sustained by the plaintiff was £500.

In the result the jury found that the Hibernia had used reasonable despatch, though occupying 135 days in her homeward voyage, and a verdict was therefore entered for the defendants.

MARINE INSURANCE.—THE "BLACKADDER."—WILLIS AND SONS V. SAUNDERS, UNDERWRITER.

This was an action, partly reported in our last issue, to recover on a policy of insurance on the clipper ship Blackadder, and the defence was that the ship was not properly equipped, and unseaworthy.

Mr. Giffard, Q.C., Mr. A. L. Smith, and Mr. Ridley were counsel for the plaintiff; and Sir J. Karslake, Q.C., Mr. Butt, Q.C., and Mr. J. C. Matthews, for defendant.

The Blackadder was a new clipper ship, built for the London and China trade, and in the course of her first outward voyage it was stated that she encountered bad weather, and lost her mainmast. This caused serious damage to the vessel, and she had to put into the Cape to repair, and the plaintiffs now sought to recover upon the policy in question for the loss they had sustained.

On the part of the Underwriters it was submitted that the mast was not properly secured with the usual rivets in the cheeks, and that to this, rather than to the violence of the wind, the accident was owing. It was also urged that there was nothing in the ship's log-book to show that the vessel experienced such violence as would account for the mast giving way if it was properly secured.

For the plaintiffs, however, it was contended that the mast was properly secured, and the damage to the ship was solely attributable to the storms and perils of the sea.

Mr. Baron Bramwell summed up, and said the jury would have to determine whether the ship was seaworthy, and in a condition to encounter the ordinary weather which might be expected on a voyage of this kind, when she left England. They had heard the evidence as to the condition of the masts and the character of the weather she met with, and if they should be of opinion that her masts were properly secured, and that she was in a fit state to proceed to sea when she left port, and that the damage might be fairly attributed to perils of the sea, then they would find for the plaintiffs; but if, on the other hand, they should come to the conclusion that her masts were not so secured as to withstand the ordinary bad weather which might be expected to be experienced, and that their falling was the result of a defect in the way they were stayed and secured, then they would give their verdict for the defendant.

The jury, after some deliberation, found a verdict for the plaintiffs.

NAVAL AND MILITARY.

Her Majesty's troopship Orontes arrived a few days since at Portsmouth, from Nova Scotia. She will shortly go into dock to repair, and will embark the 80th Foot for Hong Kong early in January. As stated in our issue of the 27th ult. several changes are to be carried out in the garrison at Hong Kong and Singapore. The force stationed at these places in future will be as follows:—
Hong Kong:—1 battery garrison artillery, 1 regiment European infantry, 2 companies Gun Lascars. Straits Settlements: 1 battery garrison artillery, 1 battalion European infantry. The 1st battalion of the 10th regiment, and the battalion of native Indian infantry will be withdrawn from Hong Kong. After conveying the 80th Regiment to Hong Kong the Orontes will take the headquarters and wing of the 1st Battalion 10th Foot to Singapore to relieve the battalion of native Indian infantry, which is to be withdrawn. One battery of garrison artillery will also be withdrawn from the Straits Settlements and brought home in the Orontes. The Straits Settlements will in future form part of the China command, which arrangement will relieve the Imperial Exchequer of the charge for the two native Indian regiments above mentioned, now quartered in Hong Kong and the Straits.

The United Service Gazette says:—We regret to hear that the crew of H.M.S. Iron Duke, flagship of Rear-Admiral Shadwell, C.B., suffered somewhat severely from heat apoplexy during her tedious and protracted passage through the Red Sea, as by last accounts the ward-room messman and two others of the crew had died from this cause. It would appear orders were given, should it be necessary to use steam, that a speed of four knots an hour was not to be exceeded. This is certainly courting death, for the so-called economical saving of a few tons of coal.

A telegram from Vice-Admiral Sir Henry Kellett, K.C.B., dated Singapore, December 19, 2.35 P.M., and received at the Admiralty the same day at 4.25 P.M., announces that the Iron Duke, with Vice-Admiral C. F. Shadwell, C.B., on board, had arrived at Singapore on the 14th inst., and that Sir Henry Kellett had transferred the chief command in China the following day, and would leave by English packet on the 20th inst., and that his own health was excellent.

MR. HART'S MEMORIAL.

The Times this morning reproduces Mr. Hart's Memorial, which we published some weeks ago—we suppose the Christmas holidays have given our contemporary both time and space for the subject. It is accompanied by a leading article, in which it says:—

The Chinese, as Mr. Hart reminds them, have now for upwards of half a century accepted a policy of intercourse with foreign nations. This they have done reluctantly and under coercion; but still they can hardly conceal from themselves that further concessions on their part may have yet to come. Three great Powers have negotiated treaties with them—Russia mostly in the matter of boundaries; France in that of missionary privileges; Great Britain in that of commerce. Four-fifths, in fact, of the whole trade of China is carried on either with us or our dependencies; so that we are the people chiefly interested in commercial arrangements. To come at once to the point, we may state that what British merchants desire is not so much free trade in the European sense of the word as unimpeded commercial intercourse. They are willing to pay duties and make terms with the Government, provided that these duties can be paid once for all, and that the terms of the bargain are fairly observed. They do, however, besides this, very earnestly wish for such an improvement in the internal communications of the country as may enable them to reach the great centres of population with their goods. Considering that China contains 400,000,000 inhabitants, and that each of its eighteen provinces is as populous as a European kingdom, our trade with the country is very small. It could be immeasurably extended, there is little doubt, by the introduction of railways, telegraphs, and steam navigation on the great rivers, but these reforms the Chinese Government persists in refusing. According to Mr. Hart's view of the case, the real opposition comes from the provincial authorities, who live, and are forced to live, on a system of extortion and corruption to which the proposed changes might put an end.

The best solution of the question would be found in the gradual enlightenment of the Chinese themselves, but for this no fair opportunities are now given. Either the officials or the people, or both, persist in excluding us from effective intercourse as far as they can, and we must say we can draw no very favourable conclusions from Mr. Hart's description of the case as it stands. If the foreign policy of China cannot be based on judicious principles until its domestic policy is entirely reformed, and if this reformation is contingent on changes so radical and comprehensive as the Memorial suggests, we do not see when the consummation is to be anticipated. Our chief reliance we fear, for the present must be founded on that sense of inferiority in force on the part of its Government to which Mr. Hart does not forget to appeal. The Chinese, for good or evil, voluntarily or involuntarily, have committed themselves to the obligations of treaties; if they do not fulfil these obligations, they expose themselves to hostilities, and in the event of hostilities China would suffer.

CAPTAIN SHERARD OSBORN, C.B., having signified his desire to be relieved from the command of Her Majesty's ship Hercules, the Lords of the Admiralty have appointed Captain Dowell, C.B., to succeed him.

THE Forward Ho!, which left London on the 11th inst. for Hong Kong, was detained in the Channel, and did not sail from Portland Roads until the 22nd.

HOLLAND.

ROTTERDAM, Dec. 20.

The Bill containing the ratification of the Sumatra treaty, concluded between the Dutch and English Governments, in the Second Chamber, was carried by a large majority, viz., 54 yeas against 13 noes. The arguments pro and contra were for the most part the same as in the section report, of which I gave a summary in my last letter, and it is, therefore, unnecessary to enter into details. The Minister for Foreign Affairs gave some further information in answer to the interpellations and remarks made in the sections. He repeated that England was not favoured in any way to the prejudice of our country. No favours are promised or granted to Great Britain, which would not be allowed to other foreign Powers. The East India tariff—which, I regret to say, will not be examined in the sections before Christmas—is wholly independent of this treaty, as also are the stipulations about the admission of foreigners into Netherlands India. The members of the First Chamber will deal with the Bill at once, and of course there is not the least likelihood that the Lords will refuse to ratify the treaty, as well as that referring to the transfer of our settlements on the West Coast of Africa to Great Britain. The Lower House is now busy with the Bills for the redemption of the tithes, and the members will leave the Hague, probably, the day after to-morrow to spend the holidays. Mr. Thorbecke, the Premier, has been for some days ill and unable to attend the sittings. Mr. van Rosse has consequently been obliged to answer the famous interpellation of Mr. van Zuylen—whether the Ministers make themselves answerable for the Bills which the late Minister of the War Department laid before the members. His object was to overthrow the Cabinet, but in this he signally failed; on the contrary, the united Conservatives, Clericals, and the so-called Radicals were defeated, and obliged to retreat.

The Ministry is still seeking after another Minister of the War Department. Rumours have been current that Mr. Delprat would accept the portfolio, but the Nieuwe Rotterdamse Courant states to-day that one of the other Ministers will be charged temporarily with the department. Does this resolution mean that no Minister can be found? Or does it mean that political events of much importance are impending? Indeed, according to the statements of provincial papers, which are sometimes well informed, a complete reorganisation of the Cabinet is probable. I, however, need not add that these on dits are somewhat vague. The public is most anxious to know what the First Chamber will do with regard to the vote of the Lower House, refusing the credit asked for the maintenance of an Ambassador at the Papal Court. The Budgets have already been examined in the sections by the members, and the report has been published, but not much light is thrown on the question. The general opinion is that the Budget for Foreign Affairs will be approved of, and that some members will state their regret that the Second Chamber have taken so "hazardous" a step. In the meanwhile the Catholics are being whipped up in the papers and in the churches to forward addresses to his Majesty to induce him to maintain the Ambassador. Of course these addresses are signed by thousands, but nevertheless the manifestation is but of very little significance, because but a very small number of the petitioners know what they are requesting. It is not only this movement which makes a painful impression on our Protestant population. On the 1st of April next three hundred years will have elapsed since the town of Brielle was captured by the "Watergeuzen" (a cant word for the national party), and the first step thus taken to free the country from Spanish tyranny. On this date next year a memorial will be erected in that town to celebrate this event. Some well-known members of the Catholic party were invited to become members of the commission to carry out this object, but have declined the invitation, and say they think that not one Catholic can conscientiously share this national festival. These opinions of the ultras need no comments.

According to the Amsterdam Courant, a private telegram from Batavia has been received in that town mentioning that the new sugar contracts in Java have been fixed by decrees of the Government.

Advices from Gibraltar state that the steamer Prins van Oranje, bound from Batavia for Amsterdam, will proceed on her voyage on the 21st inst. Only 500 tons of the cargo were discharged, in order to fix the new screw.

I regret that I have to record the deaths of Messrs. Happe and J. M. Engelberts, both pensioned head officers.

We understand that Sir HERCULES ROBINSON leaves for England by the mail of 5th January.

NEW STEAMER FOR JAPAN.—Messrs. Cunliffe and Dunlop, ship-builders, Port Glasgow, have just completed a fine twin screw steamer, of about 150 tons B.M., for the Japan rivers. She is to be handsomely fitted up, and her engines, of 30-horse power, have all the latest improvements as regards economy of fuel, &c. In consequence of her light draft, she is being shipped in pieces to Hio, where she is to be put together again. This steamer, which reflects credit on the builders, has been built for Messrs. Kniffier and Co., under the superintendence of their Glasgow representative, Mr. F. W. Allan.

An important meeting has been held of the "Silk Committee" of the Macclesfield Chamber of Commerce, at which matters of great interest to the silk trade were discussed. The pressure upon our space compels us to defer a more lengthened notice of the proceedings until next week.

We understand that Mr. Medhurst, H.M.'s Consul at Shanghai, who is now in England on leave, will shortly deliver a lecture on "The Foreigner in Far Cathay," at one of the institutions in London.

ADMIRAL SIR G. RODNEY MUNDY, K.C.B., will probably succeed Sir James Hope as naval commander-in-chief at Portsmouth.

LITERATURE.

Birds and their Nests. By Mary Howitt. London: S. W. Partridge and Co.—This little volume is the perfection of whole-some childish literature, as well as the ne plus ultra of the typographer's, engraver's, and bookbinder's art. The name of Mrs. Howitt is a guarantee of the purity of style, the fund of information, and the constant under-current of moral reflection that distinguish the letter-press, and the illustrations—of which there are no less than twenty-three full page ones, and we know not how many smaller—are worthy of the reputation of Mr. Harrison Weir, which is the very highest praise we could give.

Bryant and May's Diary and Almanack for 1872 is so useful as well as so amusing, a production of these well-known manufacturers that the public will have some difficulty in finding its match in any rival publication. The illustrations are as bright and as parti-coloured as an illuminated missal; the letter-press, devoted as it is mainly to one subject, may fairly be deemed worthy of the name of light reading; and the almanack abounds with suggestive dates (such as the anniversary of Blasius, which occurs on the 3rd of February) and many other kindred subjects. Jest apart, the little volume before us is both useful and amusing.

Mr. Effingham Wilson, Royal Exchange, has issued a work entitled The Sewage Question Reviewed, which is very instructive on the subject of which it treats. The author, Mr. Kirkman, whose improvements in treating sewage are well known, reviews the discussions and facts connected with the subject from 1845 to 1871, establishes by irrefutable arguments the value of sewage manure, and treats of the improvements introduced to prepare the material for the soil. Agriculturists, politicians, and political economists may peruse this little work with advantage; and we think the theories it advances, and the system it describes, may be of great value in many parts of the Far East.

The following is a further extract from Mr. Lewin Bowring's Eastern Experiences, published by Messrs. Smith Elder and Co. :—

The Massacre at Tientsin appears to have arisen from a blind hatred on the part of the mob against all foreigners, rather than from purely religious bigotry, but both causes combined, no doubt, led to the outrage. It is to be lamented that certain daily prints took so little trouble to ascertain the real facts, but when allegations of petty larceny against an Emperor found admittance into the columns of a famous paper, it is, perhaps, not strange that Sisters of Charity should be deemed capable of imprudent conduct.

As regards the alleged arbitrary proceedings of French officials, it may be observed that, whatever may be their desire to push French prestige beyond due limits, their past history in the East does not lead to the conclusion that this is done in the interests of religion, to which, as is well known by those who have watched their actions, they are mostly very indifferent. Indeed it may be mentioned in confirmation of this view, that the Bishop of Canton in vain applied to the French Consul at that port to procure the release of a native Christian woman who had been unjustly condemned to death by torture by the Chinese authorities, and that his object was only effected by the timely and humane intervention of the British Consul.

Without discussing further whether the indiscriminate dissemination of the Bible in China, where the copies are often applied to base uses, is judicious, or whether the publication of numerous tracts directly attacking the superstitions of the Chinese may not have aroused religious fanaticism on their part, it is evident that the diffusion of the Scriptures by ignorant zealots like the Taepings, with the wild and distorted commentary put upon the sacred writings by their chiefs, was productive of great mischief.

"Elsie's Dowry, a Tale of the Franco-German War," by Miss Emma Leslie (Marlborough and Co.), is a story which we can unreservedly commend to our readers. Its style is pure, its interest well sustained, and its moral simply and purely pious. Among the mass of books of the season that have passed under our hands, we can think of none that we should put into the hands of young people with more confidence than this unassuming little tome.

The Phoenix for November opens with "The Casket of Gems," an interesting tale, translated by Dr. Birch. Mr. Howard gives a continuation of his "Origin of the Manchus," and Mr. Hodgson of his "Buddhist Philosophy." "An Episode in Japanese History" is a welcome extract from the "Illustrated History of Taikosama," by Mr. E. Satow.

Conspicuous among the ephemeral productions peculiar to the present season we have a brochure entitled Pleasure: A Holiday Book in Prose and Verse, published by Messrs. H. S. King and Co. The contents are varied, including both a prose and verse contribution by the Hon. Mrs. Norton, an essay on "The Critical Spirit," by the Rev. Canon Kingsley, sketches by Holme Lee, Godfrey, Turner, and Miss Edwards, and, mirabili dictu! a soi disant poem by Algernon Charles Swinburne, who has had the consummate assurance to select as his theme the subject of Tristram and Isolt—we presume in rivalry of the last Tennysonian idyll. Mr. Swinburne's production is free from the prurient nastiness which characterises many of his "poems," and is only remarkable for its utter inanity. It constitutes the only blemish in what is otherwise a collection of light literature of a quality above the average of Christmas books.

THE BLACKADDER INSURANCE CASE.

THE time-honoured fable of "blowing hot and cold" would seem to be as fable at all in marine insurance, if we are to judge from the case of "WILLIS and SONS," owners, v. "SAUNDERS," underwriter of the clipper ship Blackadder, reported in another column. No vessel ever put keel to sea in a better condition than the Blackadder, on the voyage of which the present contention is the result. She was built under LLOYDS' surveyor, and passed and classed by LLOYDS' agents as A 1. Every competent authority had pronounced her seaworthy—and no doubt she was so in every fair sense of the word; but, as SHAKESPEARE says—

"Ships are but boards, sailors but men," and the result of her first voyage turned out to be that she happened to lose her mainmast in rough weather off the Cape, where she had to put in for repairs, the consequence being some unavoidable loss. Hereupon the underwriters, forgetting that their own profession entirely depends on the occurrence of unforeseen and unavoidable casualties like this, repudiated the risk, and conveniently putting out of sight the fact that the ship had been inspected and classed by the authority which they justly regard as the highest in the world, challenged its seaworthiness on the ground that the mainmast was not properly secured, and that the accident was not accounted for by the log-book. Nothing could possibly be more shallow or futile than their arguments. Even assuming for a moment that either of them had any foundation—which we believe no more than the jury did—casualties arising from such causes are precisely the kind of accidents to which the underwriting profession owes its existence. For what purpose did Messrs. WILLIS and SONS pay the premium on this new ship, but to provide against such risks? As for the log, if it was not accurately kept, that must have been merely a failure of the officer whose duty it was to keep it, from which there might be good reason for his being reprimanded, but none whatever why contracts, entered into after due precautions, should be nullified. No Life Assurance Company in the world would have dared to dispute a policy if the same officer had died at sea from a disease which had escaped the observation of their professional examiner, unless it had been wilfully concealed, which was not attempted to be alleged in the trial before us. We are, therefore, unable to account for, or to excuse, the defence to the present action; and we rejoice that it broke down, as it deserved to do. The times will be bad, indeed, when such arguments find juries pliant enough to be influenced by them; but cases like the present have at least the good quality of showing to what pretexts some underwriters may be found to cling in the hope of getting rid of losses for which they are unquestionably liable. Merchants who are "fair and above board" in their dealings, and who can have no better guide than LLOYDS' surveyors for the seaworthiness of the vessels in which they trust their goods, will do well to note instances like the present, so that they may protect themselves against the unexpected repudiation of undoubted claims by the simple expedient of employing only such underwriters as never fail to acknowledge their responsibilities promptly.

A TELEGRAM from New York announces that according to the last news from Japan, "An Embassy, composed of five of the most prominent Japanese statesmen and a large retinue, leaves Yedo on the 17th December for America and Europe."

THE ENGLISH RAILWAY ENGINEERS v. THE JAPANESE GOVERNMENT.

TWO actions reported in our Legal Intelligence last week—LANE v. LAY, and BRYANT v. LAY—demand notice, in consequence of the unfavourable influence they seem likely to exercise on the spirit of progress so conspicuous in the Japanese Government, in adopting European inventions, and availing themselves of European skill. The plaintiffs in both actions are civil engineers, who have recovered heavy damages from the agent of the Japanese Government, with whom they had entered into engagements to proceed to Japan to assist in the construction of certain railways. The cases of both plaintiffs have many points of resemblance. It appears that when both gentlemen arrived out, some difficulties in carrying out their engagements arose between them and Mr. MOREL, the superintendent engineer, and that a new agreement was offered to them, which both at once declined to accept, and returned home to bring the present actions for breach of contract. On the part of the defendant it was shown that the alleged proposed agreement was merely a set of rules for the regulation of the parties in their several capacities—and that, when the plaintiffs refused to sign it, Mr. MOREL waived that condition, and did not insist on it. Under these circumstances we are at a loss to account for the verdicts; but we are still more astonished that gentlemen of education, experience, and high standing should have accepted engagements involving so much expense and loss of time to the Japanese Government without the firm resolution to carry them through in spite of the small difficulties which they should know are inseparable from intercourse on English principles with even the most enlightened people in the Far East. We should have expected no less of Messrs. LANE and BRYANT than that their pride in their profession,—to say nothing of the interests of progress in which civil engineering takes so large a part—would have compelled them to make any reasonable concession rather than forfeit their share in so great a work. The influence of these verdicts can hardly fail to be highly prejudicial to the confidence and liberality with which the Japanese Government have ever made their engagements with Europeans.

MR. EDWIN BALDWIN MALET, at present Acting Second Secretary at the Embassy in Paris, and who so distinguished himself during the Siege as to obtain the Cross of the Legion of Honour, has been appointed First Secretary to the Legation at Peking. He will probably take his departure early next month, calling at the Indian presidencies en route. By the Foreign-office List we find that the antecedents of Mr. MALET are as follows:—

Appointed Attaché at Frankfurt October 10, 1854, transferred to Brussels November 6, 1858, promoted Paid Attaché at Parana August 31, 1860, transferred to Rio de Janeiro, April 24, 1861, and to Washington July 16, 1862. Was appointed a Second Secretary October 1, 1862, and transferred to Lisbon February 2, 1865. Was temporarily employed in the Foreign-office for some months in 1865. Transferred to Constantinople August 15, 1865, appointed to act as a Supernumerary Second Secretary at Paris July 25, 1867.

IN consequence of Christmas-day falling on Monday representations have been made to the POSTMASTER-GENERAL that the passage of the India, China, and Australian Mails should be expedited by special trains from Brindisi in order to secure delivery on last Saturday. It appears, however, that the Post-office cannot interfere in their transit from Brindisi to London, beyond requiring them to be up to contract, which the snow in the Brenner Pass sometimes prevents.

M. DE GEOFFROY, whose appointment as French Minister at Peking was made some time before the war, will, we understand, shortly proceed by the French mail from Marseilles to take up his post as representative of the French Republic at the Court of his Majesty the Emperor of CHINA. M. GEOFFROY will probably be the first Minister to obtain an audience of the EMPEROR to deliver the reply of the PRESIDENT to the message delivered by CHUNG HOW at his late interview.

THE report of the POSTMASTER-GENERAL of the United States, which is given in another column, states that provision has been made in the Estimates for an increase in the subsidy for the mail services to China and Japan and to the Brazils, which are recommended to be made fortnightly instead of monthly, as at present.

THE CHINESE MANIFESTO.

(MORNING POST.)

The correspondence relative to China proves what a difficult and disheartening, if not an impossible task it is to deal diplomatically, internationally, or socially with that perplexing and anomalous country. We have in Mr. Wade a Minister liberal minded and anxious to treat the Chinese with all courtesy and consideration, and convinced that argument and diplomacy should supersede gunboats and military expeditions, and yet even Mr. Wade is driven to expose the hollowness, insincerity, nay, the positive deceit of the high officer of State's despatches he had to comment on. The Chinese Minister fears, and perhaps very reasonably, that troubles will again arise in his country through the action of the foreign missionaries. We have to share that fear with him. The principal dangers menacing the relations between China and civilisation are the zeal and the indiscretion of the missionaries of the several nationalities. The dangers are real, not imaginary. We have had proof as abundant as it is unfortunate of the fact. We should be, and we are, anxious to remove, or at all events reduce to the lowest limits, these dangers. We have given earnest of this desire. We have instructed and exhorted our officers and representatives in China to abstain from all manifestations of either overbearing conduct or physical force; we have formally and solemnly invited the Chinese Government to take their place upon the common platform of civilised diplomacy. How dispiriting the first practical experience of the working of the new system of policy is it is almost unnecessary to remark. It is impossible to read the correspondence without being impressed with the belief that as yet China has only nominally stepped upon that platform. It is true that we have happily been preserved from any hostile collision in respect of the Tientsin massacre. But then nothing is clearer from Mr. Wade's communications than that the action of the Chinese Government in the settlement of this affair was unsatisfactory in the extreme; so unsatisfactory that Mr. Wade, even in an official letter to the Chinese Minister, is led to complain of "the tardiness and incompleteness" with which the "fearful crime" was disposed of. With characteristic barefacedness the Chinese Minister had pretended that the action of his Government in punishing for the crime had been so thorough and rigorous that there was great danger of the Christians in China being encouraged to exercise a boldness that might lead to further complications or disasters. But knowing, as we know so well, that the very reverse was the fact, how can we be but depressed and discouraged by the absence in Chinese diplomacy of every principle which should pervade the international relations of civilised countries?

But it is in that part of the negotiations that relate to the future treatment of the missionaries in China that the most unsatisfactory features are to be traced. The Chinese Minister evidently, indeed pointedly, refers to the Roman Catholic missionaries as the very possible cause of some serious outbreak or complication. He may be right or he may be wrong in this view. But clearly he is not right in abstaining from discriminating between the nationalities to which the several missionary organisations, as a rule, in China belong, and also between the several distinct and well-marked sects of Christian missionaries. It is an old trick of the Chinese to affect to see little or no difference between foreign nationalities; to club all "outside barbarians" in one contemptuous whole. Mr. Wade points out that the Roman Catholic missionaries in China are so exclusively French that practically and really we have nothing to say to the matter. There is an accredited French representative at Peking, and it is of course to him alone that complaints and representations relative to the action of these particular missionaries should be made. The right course is abundantly clear. Chinese diplomatists are wonderfully acute. But now, as ever, they decline to see what they do not choose to see. However, if China is to enjoy immunity from the physical-force diplomacy of the past, if she is to claim the consideration and respect due to countries acting according to the rule of ordinary diplomatic usage, she must learn to conform to that usage. High officers of State must learn to discriminate between nations, and persons, and things, and religions, and even between the sects and subdivisions of religion.

MISSIONARIES IN CHINA.

(DAILY NEWS.)

The official correspondence on the Chinese Missionary question deserves the careful attention of all who are concerned in the mutually beneficial intercourse between the vast and ancient Empire of China and the Christian civilisation of the West. It discloses the secret of many difficulties, and clears up many dangerous misunderstandings. The Chinese Government admits that, so far as trade is concerned, the Treaties work well enough. On this point, as Mr. Wade remarks, the causes of dissatisfaction are to be found on the other side. It is in the regulation of the position of Christian missionaries towards the laws and authorities of the Empire, and in its effect on the foreign relations in general, that the operation of the Treaties is unsatisfactory to the Chinese Government. The grievances of the Government at Peking, as set forth in the several propositions which form a supplement to the official Memorandum, do not, as Mr. Wade and Lord Granville point out, apply in any way to any British Missionary establishment. They are evidently directed against the French Roman Catholic Missions, inasmuch as they refer to orphanages, to sisterhoods, and to property of which restitution is claimed by the French ecclesiastical establishments under a special convention with France. The Chinese Government demands the suppression of the foreign orphanages, or, at least, the exclusion from them of all but Christian children; registration of the children, and free admission of their friends; it protests against the appearance of women in the same chapels as the men, and the employment of women as missionaries; against the assumption by native Christians, under the guidance of the missionaries, of independence of the laws, exemption from taxation and rent, and the custom of betrothal in marriage; and against the pretensions of the missionaries to interfere in private law suits, to abet the alienation of property to their religious uses, to withhold offenders from justice, to insult the religion of the country, to misappropriate and transfer passports, and to receive rebels and other disreputable characters as converts.

Nothing can be clearer or more explicit than Lord Granville's exposition of the policy and practice of the British Government on the Missionary Question. "They have uniformly declared and now repeat that they do not claim to afford any species of protection to Chinese Christians which may be construed as withdrawing them from their native allegiance, nor do they desire to secure to British missionaries any privileges or immunities beyond those granted by treaty to other British subjects." This declaration covers the whole question, so far as England is concerned. With respect to the French Missions, the treaty rights of tolerance and respect for the free exercise of the Christian religion, and the reciprocal duty of missionaries and their converts to respect the laws and the feelings of the country in which they reside, should be sufficient to dispense with those supplementary and general regulations which the Peking Government has proposed. Mr. Wade appeals to the dictates of Confucius himself against the angry prejudices of the Chinese literati with regard to the admission of women to the chapels and the prohibition of female missionaries; he sees no objection to the registration of Chinese children received into orphanages, but defends those institutions from the charge (not unknown in Europe) of forbidding the visits of the parents when the parents are known. Lord Granville, too, declines to countenance any slur upon the Christian Sisterhoods of Charity. It is noticeable, however, that the French Minister at Peking considered the Chinese list of grievances "aggressive"—an epithet not adopted by his English colleague, in whose despatch to Lord Granville we find the number of Roman Catholic missionaries in China stated to be between 400 and 500 in all, three-fourths of whom are French. And it is remarkable that the antipathy of the Chinese governing classes to the Christian missionaries is very much a "dread of Romish ascendancy;" or, in other words, the fear that the French missionaries will gather all the disaffected population under the standard of the Cross, and then, when troubles ensue, throw themselves on the French Government for protection. It is only due to the Chinese Government to add that, according to the testimony of the French missionaries themselves, it is doing its best to prevent any collision with the Christians. Mr. Wade's assurances on this point are the more welcome, because he has complained to the Peking Government in severe and stringent terms of the tardiness and incompleteness with which the Tientsin Massacre was punished.

On the whole, this Chinese Memorandum has convinced our able and experienced representative at Peking that, "to secure the missionary against the hostility of the lettered class, one of two courses must be pursued; either the missionary must be supported, out and out, by the sword of the protecting Powers, or he must be placed by the protecting Powers under restrictions which, whilst leaving him always as much latitude of action as, if simply intent on Christianising China, he is justified in desiring, will yet enable the Chinese Government to declare to those whose conservatism chafes at the present pretensions of the missionary, that he, the missionary, is not authorised by the Power protecting him to put forward the pretensions objected to." Which of these two courses the British Government, sustained by public opinion at home, is prepared to adopt, the Foreign-office has more than once, through Lord Clarendon or Lord Granville, emphatically recorded. On our side it only remains for the missionary societies to select for their agents, among a population very different from Polynesian Islanders, such men as will be "simply intent on Christianising China," without presuming to set themselves above Chinese laws, in reliance on British men-of-war, and to withdraw Chinese subjects from the obligations of their national allegiance. In the precepts of their own faith, of its Founder, and of His first disciples, let them seek the proper rule of conduct for a Christian apostolate. Let them bear in mind that in China they find themselves in presence, not of savages or unlettered heathens, but of a highly-cultivated race, and a system of institutions compared with which the most ancient civilisations of the West are the growth of yesterday. On the other hand, it will be well for the Chinese Government to listen to Mr. Wade's excellent and friendly advice, and to accept "the conditions of official intercourse which are the sole guarantees against international differences." An interchange of representatives between the Courts of Europe and Peking would put an end to these incessant recriminations, and to the risks of intermittent wars and expeditions. "If," writes Mr. Wade, "China is wronged, she must make herself heard; and if she would abstain from giving offence, she must learn what is passing in the world beyond her."

A correspondent of the Standard, writing in reply to an article in that paper urging the suppression of missions in China, says:—"During the present year I have had the privilege of visiting ports in China, and venture to submit with confidence this one test. To what, if not to Christianity, are we to attribute the marked difference in the conduct of the people in those places where missions are really progressing? I regret I have no date at hand to confirm my impression that Amoy and Ningpo are two of the oldest, as certainly they are two of the most flourishing, mission stations. In the former, accompanied by a devoted Presbyterian, who has laboured there for well nigh thirty-five years without once returning to his native land, I walked through the narrow, crowded, dirty streets without the slightest molestation, almost without exciting observation. In Ningpo I have been saluted with terms of actual respect. That the progress is slow is but to say it is real. No one who knows anything of China could expect other than a very gradual change. Having been permitted to witness and join in the worship of hundreds of Chinese Christians, I protest in justice to them, no less than to the devoted labourers, whether Catholic or Protestant, male or female, who are toiling in a (spiritually) dry land, and to the memory of that revered prelate, the close of whose earthly career was recorded in your pages of yesterday evening."

PRESIDENT GRANT'S MESSAGE—CHINA AND JAPAN.

The Cunard steamer Albatross, which arrived on the 15th inst., brought New York papers containing the full text of President Grant's address to Congress. The following are the passages which relate to the Far East:

"The importance and to add to the efficiency of our diplomatic relations with Japan and China, and to further aid in retaining the good opinion of those people, and to secure to the United States its share of the commerce destined to flow between those nations and the balance of the commercial world, I earnestly recommend that an appropriation be made to support at least four American youths in each of those countries, to serve as part of the official family of our Ministers there. Our representatives would not even then be placed upon an equality with the representatives of Great Britain and of some other Powers. As now situated, our representatives in Japan and China have to depend for interpreters and translators upon natives of those countries who know our language imperfectly, or procure for the occasion the services of employes in foreign business houses, or the interpreters to other foreign Ministers. I would also recommend liberal measures for the purpose of aiding the American lines of steamers now plying between San Francisco and Japan and China and the Australian lines, almost our only remaining line of ocean steamers, and of increasing their services.

"With Japan we continue to maintain intimate relations. The Cabinet of the Mikado has, since the close of the last session of Congress, selected citizens of the United States to serve in offices of importance in several departments of Government. I have reason to think that this selection is due to an appreciation of the disinterestedness of the policy which the United States have pursued towards Japan. It is our desire to continue to maintain this disinterested and just policy with China as well as Japan. The correspondence transmitted herewith shows that there is no disposition on the part of this Government to swerve from its established course. Prompted by a desire to put an end to the barbarous treatment of our shipwrecked sailors on the Korean coast, I instructed our Minister at Peking to endeavour to conclude a convention with Korea for securing the safety and humane treatment of such mariners. Admiral Rodgers was instructed to accompany him, with sufficient force to protect him in case of need. A small surveying party sent out, on reaching the coast, was treacherously attacked at a disadvantage. Ample opportunity was given for explanations and apology. Neither came. A force was then landed. After an arduous march over a rugged and difficult country, the forts from which the outrages had been committed were reduced by a gallant assault, and were destroyed. Having thus punished the criminals, and having vindicated the honour of the flag, the expedition returned, finding it impracticable, under the circumstances, to conclude the desired convention. I respectfully refer to the correspondence relating thereto herewith submitted, and leave the subject for such action as Congress may seem fit to take."

The report of the Postal Service of the States for the past fiscal year has been presented to Congress. Reckoning the dollar at 4s., for the sake of convenience, it appears that the ordinary revenue of the Department was £4,080,000, and the expenditure of all kinds £4,880,000, showing a loss of £800,000, although as compared with the preceding year there was an increase of £223,000 in revenue, and of only £210,000 in expenditure. For the coming year the estimated expenditures are £5,500,000, with a revenue of £4,550,000, leaving a deficiency of £950,000, without including special appropriations in the nature of subsidies for steamship service amounting to £145,000. The new railroad routes put in operation during the year which ended the 30th of June, 1871, amounted to 6,107 miles, during 1870 to 4,190 miles, and during 1869 to 3,519—making in the aggregate an addition in three years of 13,816 miles to the 36,018 miles in operation on July 1, 1868. The increase in three years exceeds 38 per cent., and in the last year alone it reached the unparalleled proportion of 17 per cent. The Postmaster-General notes the gratifying regularity of the mail service between New York and San Francisco, and says that the average time, going east, was 109 hours 45 minutes, or 7 days, one hour, and 45 minutes—nearly three hours less than the average the preceding year. The shortest single journey, going west, was 102 hours; going east, 167 hours; against 144 hours 40 minutes going west, and 159 hours 10 minutes, going east, the preceding year. The total number of letters exchanged during the year with foreign countries was 20,295,998, an increase of 1,936,620 over the number reported for 1870. The total cost of the ocean mail steamship service for the year 1871 (including £145,000 paid from special appropriations for steamship service to Japan and China, to Brazil, and to the Hawaiian Islands) was £195,000. An increase of service from monthly to semi-monthly trips on the Brazil and China lines is recommended.

THE MONT CENIS ROUTE.

Further complaints are being made with reference to delays on the Italian railways. A letter has appeared in The Times giving details of a journey from Paris to Brindisi, performed by ten passengers to India. The letter says:—

We started for Brindisi from Paris by the 8.40 night train, Lyons and Marseilles Railway, booking through to Turin, registering our baggage to the same place, and, according to the published timetables, should have reached our destination at 9.4 on Saturday night. Our train, however, being three hours behind time in arriving at Culoz, we found the corresponding train from that place, which would have taken us on to Turin, had left, and that there was no other train through the Mont Cenis Tunnel that day. We had thus to wait twenty-four hours on the French side of the Alps. The passengers for India were naturally anxious to get forward, and next day, Sunday, it was thought there would still be time for them to reach Brindisi, as it is stated by Messrs. Lebeau and Co., the agents in London for the Alta Italian Railway Company, that a train leaves Turin on Sunday at 12.30 midnight to meet the mail train over the Brenner at Bologna. As with Saturday's train the Sunday train was also late; and on arrival at Modane, the frontier village, where the baggage is usually examined, all the passengers were detained quite half an hour after this before the train started, and we reached Turin about two hours behind time. The indignation of the passengers for India was great when we then learned for the first time that no train started from Turin at 12.30 midnight, that it had been withdrawn. There was nothing left to us, therefore, but to risk catching the mail at Bologna by taking the 7.45 train in the morning from Turin for that place, and we asked to have our luggage examined, to allow us to take it away. Here matters culminated. First we were told the luggage had not come on at all; then that it had arrived, but that it was in a van sealed by the Customs, and so could not be delivered until next morning at ten o'clock. To all our representations that we should lose the steamer at Brindisi for Alexandria the railway officials but shrugged their shoulders and refused to consider our case as in the least exceptional. Not to be baffled, if possible, early on Monday morning four of the party went to the railway station again, were referred to the Customs "Dock," three miles distant; went there; no luggage to be seen; returned to the station; were referred back to the Dock, where finally, after dancing attendance from eight to twelve o'clock, the luggage was passed. One passenger for India, rather than risk losing his staff appointment, went without anything whatever, except what covered him, by the 7.45 morning train, and was in time, I believe, for the steamer. The rest of us, nine in number, are now scattered over Italy, waiting for the next departure from Brindisi.

DIVING APPARATUS FOR SHANGHAI.—We learn that the Government of Shanghai have commissioned Messrs. Siebe and Gorman, the well-known submarine engineers, to construct several sets of diving apparatus, including all their latest improvements. Our readers may remember the raising of the treasure from the ship Hamilla Mitchell, but it is not generally known that it would have been impossible to have recovered any portion of it if the diver had not been supplied with an apparatus precisely similar to those now under construction for the Chinese Government. In fact the diver himself publicly stated that it was almost entirely due to the apparatus that he was able to descend through 144 feet of water. A remarkable feat, mentioned in the Liverpool Post, under the heading of "Diving Extraordinary," is interesting enough to deserve reproduction:—Mr. James Hooper, master diver (formerly diver to the Dock Board), was compelled to go in a steaming to Carnarvon Bay, to test a new diving apparatus by Messrs. Siebe and Gorman, there not being water enough in the Mersey. He descended twenty-six fathoms (156 feet), the greatest depth ever reached by any diver in England. Mr. Hooper, Captain Bell (overlooker for Messrs. Myers, Son, and Co.), and Captain Kemp (commander of one of Messrs. Myers's ships), and other eminent authorities who were present on this occasion, expressed a high opinion of Messrs. Siebe and Gorman's apparatus; and we believe that they have since been appointed sole manufacturers of diving gear to the Royal Navy, and are also commissioned to supply a large quantity of pumps and other appliances for the purpose of raising wrecks.

GERMAN POLICY IN CHINA.—A Berlin letter says:—"Some months ago another question was urged on here by England about the missionaries killed in China. England wished to promote an European understanding against China. A memoir, treating the question, was, I believe, delivered to the German Government. Prince Bismark, mostly absent, and residing at his country seat, was then rarely visible. The affair, therefore, did not progress, and it was dropped soon afterwards. A rather interesting explanation is given of Prince Bismark's apparent indifference to the Chinese outrage against the Chinese missionaries, who were mostly Jesuits and French. They are said to have aimed at usurping an arbitrary domination over all the Chinese whom they could get baptised. It was the same policy followed by Russia in Turkey, where, pretending a right to protect the Sultan's Christian subjects, she claimed to submit them to her own exclusive power. Everybody knows that this was the origin of the Crimean war. When the English memoir was to be delivered at Berlin, war was already raging between Bismark and the clericals. He was not minded to pursue in China any revenge for the benefit of a party which thwarted him in every way in Germany. This little failure of England in the China question was followed by a similar one in some other States. But at Berlin, at least, it was not caused by any unfriendly feeling against British Government."

MODERN GEOGRAPHY.—Reviewing the progress of science from the age of Noah and his early descendants, four thousand years since, when ancient languages and nations were but germinating into existence, downward to the brilliant era of Columbus, of Vasco de Gama, and Magellans, &c., scarcely a fourth part of the globe had become known to civilised nations. Four centuries of the age of discovery have nearly elapsed, during which space of time Western and Southern Continents and an ocean world have been added to the geography of modern civilisation. In fact, nearly the entire surface of the globe has been traversed and surveyed for the purposes of science, commerce, and philanthropy. Mercator's chart is an ingenious contrivance for mariners, &c., but misleads the uninitiated by the very disproportionate area given of the various continents, &c. The globular map severs the earth's surface into two parts, thus inconveniently breaking the connection between the Eastern and Western Hemispheres. The Elliptical Map of the World, designed by G. T. Edkins, represents on a plane, at one undivided view, and proportionately as to area or extent of continents, &c., the entire surface of the globe, inclusive of recent discoveries and explorations, and scientific researches and observations.

BREACH OF CHARTER CASE.—In the cross actions heard on the 21st in the Court of Common Pleas, Richardson v. Stanton, and Stanton v. Richardson, in the matter of the voyage of the Isle of Wight from the Philippines to England, the jury were discharged without a verdict, after three days' trial, in which the evidence was very conflicting.

Monetary and Commercial.

A case reported in our legal intelligence has just been decided against Messrs. J. and L. Fraser for a claim on the charterers of the steamer Hibernia in the conveyance of cargo from Singapore to London, the vessel having taken 135 days on the voyage. The plea set up was that the Hibernia was only an "auxiliary screw steamer," and as such would only use her steam power in dead calms and cases of emergency. The jury, which must have been composed of persons who did not understand the bearings of the case, were led away with this view, and disregarded the contract made under the bill of lading, the main evidence which should have guided their decision. This document is the usual steam bill of lading, and makes no allusion to the vessel being only an auxiliary screw. Some stress was also laid on the rate of freight—£2—being no higher than the current rates for sailing vessels; that also is a matter of agreement, and cannot be taken as a set-off against the use of steam power. The bill of lading is a contract, and should be carried out. At the present time, while merchants in the Straits and China trade are suffering so much by deviations and detentions, it will be a pity if Messrs. Fraser allow this verdict to remain unappealed. It is a clear case of a "verdict against evidence."

The Suez Canal Company officially announces that it will pay on Feb. 15, 1872, the coupon which became due upon its obligations on April 1, 1871, but which has not yet been provided for. The coupon of Oct. 1, 1871, is to be paid on July 1, 1872. There will then still remain in arrear the coupon which will have become due on April 1, 1872. It is again reported that M. de Lesseps is engaged on a scheme for procuring the purchase of the Canal by foreign Powers. His overtures are said to have been unfavourably received by the Porte and by the Khedive.

In accordance with the directors' report of the China Submarine Telegraph Company, passed at the meeting held on the 22nd ult. an interim dividend, for the half-year ending Jan. 1, 1872, at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, will be payable on the 4th proximo. The British Australian Telegraph Company (Limited) are about to issue warrants for the payment of interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum for the half-year. The directors of the British Indian Extension Telegraph Company have declared a second interim dividend at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum payable on the 5th proximo.

At the meeting of the Ceylon Company (Limited) an interim dividend was declared for the half-year at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, free of income-tax, and the directors' report was adopted.

A final dividend of 6d. in the pound (making in all 10s) to the creditors of Pile, Spence, and Co. (Limited) has been announced to be paid on or after the 21st inst.

The clipper ship Cutty Sark, from Shanghai, which left on Sept. 4, was reported off the Lizard on the 19th inst., having thus made the voyage in 106 days, an extraordinarily quick passage for the season of year, the month of September being the special typhoons and bad weather month in the China seas. Between the Cape and St. Helena she spoke the ships Woodlark and Eyrest, from China, about the former of which much anxiety has been felt, she having left China on July 25, and twenty guineas have been paid on her at Lloyds'. Her arrival has however been reported, and the Underwriters therefore make their "haul." The Lord of the Isles has left Penang for London, and we understand has not taken pilgrims for Jeddah.

We understand that the firm of Messrs. James Akroyd and Sons, worsted spinners of Halifax, is about to be reconstituted as a limited company, with a capital of £750,000, in 50,000 shares of £15. The purchase-money is £450,000, and the vendor, Mr. Edward Akroyd, is to take 40,000 shares in the new concern. The subscribers are—Edward Akroyd, Bank Field, Halifax, 40,000 shares; J. W. Child, Copley-wood, merchant, 500 shares; W. Akroyd, Ridgway, Woodlands, Halifax, 500 shares; John E. Champney, Bank-field, Halifax, 300 shares; John Richardson, 27, Harrow-road, Halifax, 110 shares; Thomas Hethlewaite, 12, Norfolk-place, Halifax, 100 shares; R. M. Stansfield, Savile-park, Halifax, 150 shares; C. E. Ridsdale, Savile-park, Halifax, 50 shares; and William Beddoe, Honey-lane, Cheapside, 300 shares.

The amount of bullion by the P. and O. Company's steamer Simla, from Southampton on the 23rd inst., was—in gold, to

TEA.

There is no change in the market, which, as usual at this period of the season, is very quiet. At public sale, on the 18th inst., 742 half-chests Moyune Green per steamer Burmah were offered without reserve and sold as follows:—No. 1 Gunpowder at 2s. 8d. to 3s. 1½d., No. 2 ditto at 1s. 11d. to 2s. 1d., No. 1 Imperial at 1s. 8½d., No. 1 Young Hyson at 2s. 3½d. to 2s. 4½d., No. 2 ditto at 1s. 6½d., No. 1 Hyson at 1s. 8½d. to 2s. 1½d. The sale was fairly attended, but prices, especially of common lines, were in the buyers' favour. Several invoices of new Pingsuey by the same steamer have been disposed of by private contract, and 3s. 1d. has been refused for No. 1 Gunpowder.

On the 19th there was a public sale of 2,872 packages China, which, being offered without reserve, were all sold. Few parcels of importance were offered; a break of half-chests of Congou with all faults sold at 1s. 1½d., and an invoice of new Pingsuey Green brought fully private contract rates.

SILK.

The market is without alteration.

COFFEE.

As advices from Rio confirm previous telegraphic reports of light supplies, a firmer tone has been imparted to the market for ordinary kinds, and slightly higher prices have been paid for Ceylon, both plantation and native, the current rates at the public sales being—Plantation triage 63s. to 65s. 6d., small grey to coloury 67s. 6d. to 70s. 6d., low middling 72s. 6d. to 73s., middling coloury 74s. 6d. to 77s. 6d., bold 78s. to 82s., peaberry 84s. to 85s. 6d.; native 67s. to 67s. 6d. At the auctions 200 bags Bonthyne Singapore were bought in at 71s., 548 bags pali-h Manila sold at 67s. 6d., a few at 68s. By private contract native Ceylon has been sold at 67s. to 67s. 6d., and for arrival about 4,000 bags at 67s. 6d. guaranteed good ordinary, and 120 tons December-January shipment at 68s., guaranteed good ordinary. Small parcels of Manila have been quitted at the rates realised at public sale, viz., 67s. 6d. to 68s. per cwt.

SUGAR.

Since our last report a strong demand has prevailed, especially for Manila, and large sales have been effected at an advance, prices not only showing a full recovery from the recent depression, but being slightly above the previous highest point. Other descriptions are also dearer, but owing to the continued scanty supplies business is small. At the close holders of Manila are desirous of establishing a further advance, and business is checked in consequence. The following are the details of the business done:—

Manila: The public sales have amounted to 73,000 bags, consisting of 10,000 bags low to fair Taal unclayed at 24s. to 25s., 40,000 bags Ilo Ilo unclayed (duty 4s.) at 26s.; 7,500 bags common clayed (duty 4s.) at 27s., 2,500 bags washed do. at 26s., and 13,000 bags low brown at 26s. 6d. Privately, 2,000 bags clayed have been sold at 27s. 6d., 5,300 bags fine unclayed, per Lord Macaulay at 25s. 6d., and 1,000 bags washed clayed at 27s.; the floating cargo, per Ystavat, of 1,000 tons unclayed Cebu, arrived off coast has been resold at 26s., landed terms for London.

Penang: At public sale 200 bags coloury (duty 5s. 3d.) were bought in at 37s.

Java, &c.: In auction 2,104 mats low dark Java of indirect import sold at 23s. to 23s. 6d.

CAMPHOR.—There has been an improved inquiry for China at the reduced rates ruling last week, and about 900 cases have been sold at £3 17s. 6d. per cwt.

CUTCH.—Privately 1,000 boxes fine Pegue Cock, mark WSS & Co., have been sold at 23s. 9d.

GALLS.—China still show an advancing tendency; business has been done at £2 17s. 6d. to £2 18s., and at the close holders refuse to quit their stock under £3 per cwt.

GANBER.—Market firm; at auction 410 bales block were bought in at 19s. 3d., and 910 bags blocky Cubes at 23s., also 124 baskets sea-damaged Cubes first class at 21s., 196 bales pressed Cubes being sold at 20s. 9d. to 21s., one lot 20s. 6d. For arrival 100 tons have been sold at 19s. ex ship.

HEMP.—The market for Manila is still quiet, but firm; prices show no alteration; 389 bales were offered at the public sales, and all sold at steady rates—chiefly brown at £38 to £38 10s., good fair at £48 5s., one lot £48 10s., fine £50 to £50 5s. per ton.

JAPAN WAX.—Still scarce, and firmly held; 30 boxes cake offered and bought in at £4 15s. per cwt., 231 boxes good and fine saucer of fresh import were bought in at 95s. to 105s., also 40 boxes from Amsterdam at 87s. 6d.

PEPPER.—Black has sold at lower rates; Singapore fair 6d., fine 6½d., very low dusty 5½d. to 5½d.; Penang common grey to fair 5½d. to 5½d. White: Prices unaltered; Singapore has sold, very common at 11½d., fair old import 11½d., good fresh 1s. 0½d. to 1s. 0½d., fine 1s. 1½d. superior 1s. 4½d.; Penang bought in at 11½d.

Rice.—No business reported.

SPICES.—Cinnamon: 102 bales Ceylon sold—first sort 2s. 9d. to 2s. 11d., second 2s. 8d., low do. 2s. 2d., third 2s. 6d., coarse 1s. 10d., fourth 2s. to 2s. 5d., low 1s. 4d., and 20 boxes China at 1s. 1d. to 1s. 1½d. Chips: 165 bags Ceylon sold—ordinary to low middling 3½d. to 4d., middling 4½d. to 5d. Mace: 5 boxes Singapore sold at 4s. to 4s. 1d. Nutmegs: 16 cases Penang, &c., sold at full rates—average 78 to 75 nuts to the lb. at 3s. 7d. to 3s. 8d., 82's at 3s. 6½d., 86's at 3s. 6d., 123 to 102's at 3s. 2d. to 3s. 3d.; 21 cases Java—81's at 3s. 7d., 102's at 3s. 3d.

TIN.—The demand for consumption continues good, but, as speculators have been pressing some parcels for immediate cash, the quotation is a trifle lower, closing at £146 for Straits the spot, £145 to £146 for Banca, and £146 for Biliton.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Priam, Jamieson, from Ilo Ilo to London, which put into Mauritius leaky, Aug. 17, has been sold there for $2,400.

The William III. (str.), from Amsterdam to Batavia, which vessel took fire in the Channel, May 19, and was afterwards towed into Portsmouth, is advertised for sale in London on the 10th January next.

CASUALTIES.

The Erasmus, Hulshoff, which sailed from Sunderland, Dec. 13, for Batavia, with coals, had been on Cromer rocks, but was assisted off by steamers and put into Yarmouth Roads on the 15th.

A telegram from Singapore states as follows:—The Rollo, Way, from Hong Kong to London, has put in here damaged.

The master, Cooper, of the Ceres (barque), of and from Shields, for Galle, which vessel was assisted into Harwich, Dec. 13, after being ashore, reported that on her arrival there she was making about four inches water per hour, and was of opinion that the cargo would have to be discharged; agreement £300. The vessel has since proceeded to London, where she arrived Oct. 17.

According to the latest advices received the position of the Saïda (str.), Carter, from London to Königsberg, with tea, which vessel went ashore 7th inst., about nine miles north of Ronne, remained unaltered; she had twelve feet water in her hold, 5,376 chests of sound tea had been sold and would be sent to Ronne, thence to be forwarded to Pillan; 1,200 chests have also been saved, but heavily damaged; a further quantity is still on board and under water, and will be sold by auction. A salvage steamer was in attendance.

A telegram received from Singapore, dated Dec. 17, states as follows:—The Radient (Am.), Chase, hence to Boston, has been beached in Rio Straits; fast breaking up; tin cargo only can be saved.

Advices from Rio Janeiro, received at Rotterdam Dec. 17, state that the Ball, V. Rossen, from Dordt to Batavia, which vessel put in there Nov. 15 for repairs, having struck on a wreck, and was afterwards docked, would proceed for her destination on completion of repairs to copper.

The Penang, of Bath, from Ilo Ilo to Boston, went ashore Dec. 4, at Nauset, Cape Cod, and had four feet water in her hold; the vessel laid in an exposed position, but with the assistance of a steamer she was got off, after partly discharging, and towed to Boston; neither the vessel nor the cargo appear to have received much damage. Three schooners with part of the cargo have since arrived at Boston, and the remainder on the beach at Cape Cod would be forwarded.

A telegram received from Nieuwe Diep, dated Dec. 19, states as follows:—“The Australie (Dutch barque), from Batavia to Amsterdam, with coffee, has put in here in a sinking state, having touched on the Haaks.”

Accounts from Mauritius, dated Nov. 16, received at Havre Dec. 16, state that the Marie Laure, Brechoir, from Sumatra to Marseilles, which put into Mauritius, Oct. 8, to stop a leak, having replaced several planks in her side, sailed for her destination, Nov. 22; she took on board a portion of the cargo discharged from the Porto Rico, which vessel was bound from Mauritius to Marseilles.

THE Gordon Castle took out for Foochow two pairs of horizontal direct-acting engines, constructed by Messrs. A. and I. Inglis, on the Clyde, for two vessels built at the Chinese Arsenal at Foochow. One pair is of 250-horse power, and one of 80-horse power nominal, with shafting and brass screw propeller complete, boilers fitted with brass tubes, telescope funnel. All the latest improvements have been introduced in these engines, and all packed, marked, and numbered to be put up in China. These engines are about the handsomest piece of work turned out of the Clyde.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS

PALPITATION OF THE HEART is frequently not only felt but heard, prevents sleep, and begets the utmost dread of impending suffocation. These Pills are particularly recommended for removing this affection, because they strengthen the nervous and the debilitated, who are much more liable to this malady than other persons. Holloway's Pills so improve the digestion, increase the action of the liver, and give activity to the bowels, that giddiness, headache, and nausea depart as the palpitation diminishes, and the sufferer at once experiences the most indescribable relief from anxiety. Holloway's Pills form the best alternative and aperient in all cases of convalescence from fevers, inflammations, neuralgia, and all chronic diseases which have impoverished the blood and brain.

THE MAILS, &c.

The French mail, bringing dates as above, was delivered, via Marseilles, this morning. The next inward mail (P. and O.) is due on the 10th inst., with dates—Shanghai April 22, Hong Kong April 28, Singapore May 6.

Telegrams, with dates from Shanghai and Hong Kong to the 26th May, report that "The ship Dolores Ugarte, from Macao to Callao, has been totally burnt, with 600 coolies on board. The accounts of the disaster are very conflicting, and the cause is at present unexplained.

A few private telegrams of yesterday's date have been received from Hong Kong by the direct China cable, but it is uncertain when the line will be open to the public, as it has not yet been handed over to the company by the contractors.

There is an interruption in the line between Singapore and Penang, and no messages have been received this morning.

CHINA.

NEWCHWANG.

The correspondent of the Courier writes from Newchwang that the steamer Yuen-tse-wei arrived on the 10th April. The English mail of Feb. 10. Until that day the two sailing vessels in port since the ice disappeared, when, however, one North-German vessel, the Matilda, a vessel, the Spray, entered the port; and six were in the river, although not yet in harbour. As far as the opening of the season has been very dull. Usually at the end of March or the beginning of April there is a rush of ships to this port. Now that North-German ships are again able to go to sea we hope to see a large number visit us.

SHANGHAI.

Dates by this opportunity extend to the morning of the 19th April.

A meeting of shareholders in the North-China Insurance Company was held on the 17th April. The accounts showed a total balance at the Company's credit of Tls. 79,782, in addition to the paid-up capital of Tls. 300,000, and after paying a dividend of Tls. 150,000 for the year 1869. A further dividend of Tls. 50 per share for that year was agreed to. Messrs. J. I. Miller, A. Schroers, and H. G. Pemberton were elected directors in the stead of Messrs. Bell, Mitchie, and J. T. Brand. It was announced that a meeting would be called for the 1st May, to prepare for the formation of the new company by receiving suggestions for any modification in the present deed of settlement. The expediency of raising the value of the shares was mooted.

Some temporary excitement was caused recently by suspicions entering the minds of a number of Chinese interested in a lottery that they were being done in the eye. The lottery in question was to have been for $2,000, but owing to the wet blanket put on these affairs by the Chehsien's proclamation, the $1 tickets were only taken up to the extent of $540, which was drawn for in amounts proportionately reduced. The drawing was attended by a couple of hundred Chinese, and had concluded when one or two made the discovery that tickets held by them were not entered in a list which was posted and which purported to contain all the numbers drawn. Another list, drawn out in English, however, was complete, and the omissions in the Chinese one only numbered three or four. But suspicion, once aroused, spread rapidly, and the discovery being made that the foreign manager of the lottery had left the premises, it increased till the shroffs, thoroughly alarmed, thought it prudent to retire. A complaint was made at the police-station by the aggrieved ticket-holders, a policeman sent at once to take charge of the concern, including a safe with the $540, and in a short time the foreign agent returned, having merely left to attend to other business. Confidence was restored, and payment of the winning numbers was promised at four o'clock.

A disturbance has taken place at Kein-Ping-Hein, an agricultural district about 300 li from Hoochow and 150 from Lee-yang. It appears that during the late rebellion this district suffered perhaps more than any other, most of the inhabitants having either been killed or died from starvation. Peace being made, and Tseng-kwo fan not wanting to retain his large army, which was composed of nearly all Honan men, he gave instructions that about 5,000 of the troops should be disbanded; and, as compensation for services rendered, small plots of land were given them in this and adjoining districts. The few inhabitants who had survived the rebellion and had returned to their homes murmured at this, as the ex-soldier wanted to take the largest and best portions of land for their use—hence the origin of the supposed insurrection. Some ten or twelve of the leaders of this disturbance have been killed, and a few troops from Soochow and Hongchow despatched to keep order. Things are now quiet, and no further trouble is expected from this quarter.

The News Letter states that the Rev. Dr. Yates has accepted the post held by the late Dr. Jenkins, of Interpreter to the U.S. Consulate-General.

The Daily News mentions the following singular boat accident, which occurred up country. A house-boat capsized, filled with water, righted herself, and sunk to a level with the roof of the house, on which the occupants were able to seat themselves, more the hero and heroine in Punch's tale of "Chikkin Hazard." What peculiar feature in the boat's construction kept it from sinking altogether is a problem which might be studied with a view to general imitation. The accident happened in a wide creek beyond Soochow, and as one of the two foreigners on board could not swim, they were in a rather helpless predicament. Pathetic appeals were addressed to passing boats to take them off, but uselessly, despite liberal offers of dollars made through the boatmen. The captain of a gunboat which was especially addressed, simply looked out through the well-known cotton curtains, and grinned. Eventually, a boat, more charitable than the rest, came alongside, and relieved them from their unpleasant situation, and helped to tow the half-sunk craft in shore. The next difficulty was want of dollars; these, of course, being submerged. Promise of payment when they could be got out, however, secured for the travellers quarters in a tea-house, and induced workmen to set about the work of salvage. By passing ropes under her the boat was eventually raised, emptied, and restored to her natural position in her "native element."

The new Taoutai of Ningpo arrived on the 12th from Hangchow, whither he had been to pay his respects to Futai before assuming office. The man who has been acting for the last few weeks is reported to be intensely disappointed. As a friend of the Futai's, he expected to get the permanent berth; but the new official was in Peking when news of the vacancy arrived, and made the running. He has been a Salt Commissioner somewhere lately, and is very wealthy. The Futai is said to have tried, on behalf of his protege, to dissuade him from taking up the post; but he did not see it. At present his Excellency is occupied in receiving calls; so has had no chance yet of showing his official character. He has a delicious case to begin with, in the shape of a disputed succession to Takee's estate. The outside relatives of the deceased claim the estate, denying the indentivity of Takee's son; and the case comes before the Ningpo officials for trial. In this country of squeezes, the prospect may be imagined—as bad almost as the English Court of Chancery.

The Courier announces that Mr. Lay, H. B. M. Consul at Tientsin, who has been Acting French Consul at that port since the death of the unfortunate Fontanier, has been relieved of the latter responsibility. M. Dillon, formerly deve Consul at Shanghai, having been appointed Consul for France at Tientsin.

The German corvette Medusa goes home, we hear, to be replaced by a new frigate named the Dantzig. Two new gun-boats, named respectively the Albatross and the Nautilus, have also been built by the German Government for service in the East, and may be shortly expected in Chinese waters.

The Shanghai Express of April 14th says:—The favourite clipper Sir Lancelot, which left London on the 12th Dec., has arrived at Woosung this afternoon. She has, however, been beaten on this trip by the Norman Court, which arrived in harbour this morning, having left London on the 22nd Dec.

The report of the China and Japan Marine Insurance Company, to be presented at the second ordinary half-yearly meeting, shows profits taken at Tls. 161,156. The balance at debit of working account amounted to Tls. 140,936, out of which losses to Tls. 64,516 have since been paid, while Tls. 20,744 will provide for all losses and claims made up to the time of the report. The estimated net premia amounted to Tls. 65,000; the ascertained losses to not more than Tls. 6,500. Since the last report was issued 64 shares have been allotted, leaving 148 still in reserve. Messrs. T. Probst and E. W. Little have retired, and Messrs. O. C. Behn, Framjee Hormusjee, A. J. Little and C. Emile Bade have joined the board since last meeting. The accounts have been audited by Mr. J. P. Bisset (acting on behalf of Mr. Wm. Mitchell and Mr. O. Brandt), and the directors recommend the election of Messrs. Wm. Mitchell and O. Brandt as auditors for the present year.

Some important evidence concerning the Tientsin Massacre is published in the new French paper, the Cycle. M. Coutrice says:—

For a fortnight notices placarded in the Chinese city, and which I had myself seen, announced that on the 23rd of the month—that is to say, the 21st June, 1870, the people would rise on the Catholic missionary establishment, and kill the missionaries, the Sisters of Charity, the Consul, and all the French. Several of these notices were taken away and brought to Father Chevrier, who had them read to me by a Chinese Father (M. Hou), and stated that he had sent one of them to the Consul. I did not place faith in these menaces; nevertheless, on the morning of the 21st I went to the mass at six o'clock, at which Father Chevrier had begged me to be present, adding that this mass ought to serve as a preparation for death. After the mass, Father Chevrier told me that the Taoutai was to come and see him at nine o'clock, and that he would bring with him a Chinaman who was kept in chains in the Yamen. This man, who was accused of having stolen children, pretended to have acted only on the order of the Missionaries. He added that he knew Father Chevrier, as well as many persons connected with the Mission, who he pretended were his accomplices. Father Chevrier asked him if he knew him and the other members of the house. The accused replied "No." The Taoutai then turned to Father Chevrier, and said, "I, and the other mandarins, do not believe these stories. The accused is an impostor. We are only doing all this to content the people." At this instant the accused pretended to recognise a Chinaman in the house, who habitually gave him money to purchase children. Father Chevrier then caused all the servants in the house to be confronted with the accused; but the latter, after having looked at them all, could not recognise any of them, and said that he thought the person of whom he spoke was not a man of the Tien Chu Kiaou (the Catholic religion), but of the Yesu Kiaou (the Protestant religion). At this moment the populace was massed on the other side of the river, in front of the Consulate on the left bank, and in front of Messrs. Livingston's house on the right bank. The crowd was very numerous, and seemed very excited. After the departure of the mandarins the crowd which was stationed on the quay of the Consulate dispersed, but, like the one which was on the other side of the river (right and left bank), continued to give forth cries of "Break, force open!" I returned to my house, and afterwards came back to the consulate, where I saw M. Fontanier, the consul. I asked him what he thought of this rising. He replied that he had informed Chung How (the Governor) of it and of what was going on, and that he had no doubt that the trouble would shortly be over. Mr. Fontanier and Mr. Simon, who was adjusting under his sword belt a girdle of yellow leather which held his revolver, left for the yamen. I then entered Mr. Fontanier's house. In the dining-room I saw Mr. and Madame Thomassin, who were taking coffee with Mr. Fontanier. The latter said that he had just sent a letter to the yamen to demand a guard, and that he was astonished that Chung How had not yet sent troops to put down the rising, which was becoming more and more menacing. He (Mr. Fontanier) had notified him three times of the danger of the situation. The Chinese continued to batter the church with bricks.

When I saw the Consul again he told me that he had sent back the mandarins because it was not them whom he had demanded, but some troops; that Chung How seemed to be mocking him by sending in lieu of troops three little mandarins incapable of preventing anything, and who moreover had the impudence to tell him there was no danger. Presently the boy belonging to the Consul who entered the yard came to me running and crying out, "Mr. Coutrice (Cou-Sien sang), quick, they are assassinating the Consul Fontanier (Fong-Laow-yeh)." He went on before me, I following with my rifle in my hand. I made my way into the small street at the side of the mission building, and at the end of it I came across Mons. Fontanier and Mons. Simon, assaulted by the crowd and fleeing before it. I tried to rejoin them, without succeeding in doing so, notwithstanding all my efforts, attacked, too, myself by the people, and dogged in all directions by the Chinese, who were trying to push me into the river, I turned back, and after great difficulty I at last arrived again on the quay by a transverse street. I then saw Mr. Fontanier and Mr. Simon before me, still followed by the people. I could hear the voice of Mr. Fontanier speaking to Chung How; but the only words I could catch were the following frequently repeated: "Woo pouh tein" [probably "W'o puh Hsin," I do not believe]. I then called out to Mr. Fontanier in Chinese, but without having any answer. At this moment I saw in the Court-yard the mandarin named Kwang, whom I knew personally. I went up to him and demanded my Consul. He replied, "Run away quickly, or you are dead;" but as I persisted in rejoining Mons. Fontanier, I was again assailed by the guards of the Yamen and the mandarins. Kwang immediately appeased the soldiers by telling them that I was not French, but English. "It is an Englishman, an Englishman—" and he conducted me into a chamber where he left me under the surveillance of several mandarins, always telling them that I was English. I remained in this room disarmed till the next day, when I was conducted to the European concession by order of Chung How.

DINNER TO MR. MEDHURST.

Previous to Mr. Medhurst's departure for England he was entertained at dinner by the foreign residents, the chair being taken by Mr. John Dent. A large number of guests were present, including all the foreign consuls. The toast of the evening was proposed by the Chairman in the following terms:—I beg leave to propose the health of our worthy Consul, Mr. Medhurst. You will, I am sure, not expect a long speech from me on this occasion, as it would take too long to go over the period of service of our estimable friend, and again, in a social reunion of this kind, all political topics might well be avoided. I believe we are met here to express a hearty and sincere approval of the conduct of our worthy Consul. We have met him in various ports in his official capacity, and I am sure I only say what you all would when I say that his career has been marked by strict justice and a hearty good will towards all. Gentlemen, these are the characteristics of our worthy Consul, and we are met here to express our thorough approval of his official conduct, to wish him a prosperous passage, and to assure him a hearty welcome when he returns to Shanghai. Gentlemen, I again propose the health of Mr. Medhurst.

Mr. Medhurst replied: Gentlemen, I heartily wish I possessed the aptitude for public speaking which has been exhibited by your worthy chairman in his remarks about me, for then I should be able to reply to his kind speech, and to acknowledge your friendly and abundant hospitality in a fitting style. But I am sorry to say I have always been a bad speaker; and my answer must be at best feeble as compared to the very great honour that has been done me this evening. I can only succeed in concentrating my ill-assorted ideas into the good old English word, "thank you;" and in that word I wish you to understand that I embody all the heartfelt sentiments of which I am capable. Mr. Dent has very handsomely spoken of my services during the time I have been Consul. Consuls in China, as you all know, are not what they used to be. Their power is more limited, and they act within restrictions which bind them to do very much what they are told. But I can say for myself and my colleagues, that we always try to do our best; and poor as my best has been, I am pleased to have been in a position to place it at your disposal. I shall be glad to come back to Shanghai, for I feel it a great privilege to represent an important section in such a community as this; a privilege which I am not ashamed to confess it has been my ambition to possess for the last twenty-five years. I thankfully accept your "God-speed" which Mr. Dent has just expressed. I assure you it takes away very largely from the pain of leaving, and adds very largely to the pleasure of going home, to know that I carry with me the goodwill of so many friends.

Mr. Rennie then proposed "The Consular Body," which was replied to by Mr. Seward, the American Consul-General, who spoke as follows. Mr. Medhurst has been associated with the conduct of public affairs at this port from the earliest days of the settlement. I believe that there is hardly a public question of much interest in the discussion and determination of which he has not had a principal part. For ten years I have been associated with him—for the most part of ten years—in dealing with these matters. I speak my own most sincere sentiments, and I speak the sentiments of my colleagues, when I say that I have ever found him just, discreet, active, and liberal. A demonstration of respect coming from representatives of commerce,—representatives of a commerce which forms no insignificant part of the commerce of the world—is a compliment worth having. It is a compliment which may make a man feel more kindly towards the people among whom he has been labouring, as he goes on his homeward journey; it ought to make him more willing to do what I hope our colleague will do—return to us at a very early day. You have been kind enough to propose the toast of the Consular Body. The members of this Body are heartily obliged for the toast which has been offered, and the manner in which it has been received. It will be their first charge, hereafter, as in the past, to promote commercial interests at this port, and to enforce conclusions of your experience which when carefully expressed must ever command the attention of the civilised world.

The toast of "The Guests" having been proposed and answered by Mr. Goodwin, the Acting Chief Judge, Mr. Medhurst proposed "Prosperity to Shanghai." He said: It is with feelings of peculiar interest that I rise to propose this toast, because I can truly say I happen to have been the first foreigner who landed with a commercial purpose on the wharves of the native city, after the conclusion of the treaty by which Shanghai was opened to trade, for I accompanied the first Consul who was appointed to the post, and he sent me ashore on arrival to establish a good understanding with the Chinese authorities. Since that time, which is a very great many years ago—more than I care to admit—I have been repeatedly associated with Shanghai, both publicly and privately; and I have had opportunities of watching the rapid and remarkable growth which it has made as a settlement. What was in those days a cotton-field and rice swamp has now become the focus of a trade which, as Mr. Seward has said, represents a large portion of the commerce of the world, and of vested interests which may be estimated at tens and hundreds of millions. We owe this progress, not so much to the fostering care of the Chinese, or of any Foreign Government, as to the pluck and enterprise of the merchants who have been labouring here for the last twenty-five years. Nor can it be said that this progress, remarkable as it is, has yet reached its culminating point. When once we are united by the lines of telegraph to the rest of the world, and whenever the Chinese can be induced to forego those prejudices which prevent the adoption of the sister appliance of railway communication, Shanghai will doubtless reach a point of importance, as the emporium of China and the Far East, which will place her even yet higher in the ranks of commercial cities than she now stands. Let us hope that day may very soon arrive.

The other toasts proposed were, "The Ladies of Shanghai," by the Rev. Canon Butcher; "The Committee," and, as a finale, "The Chairman." These having been duly honoured, the company separated.

FOOCHOW.

A letter from this port, dated April 17th, says:—

Little or no news at the Anchorage. Small-pox is rife, and three cases from H.M.S. Zebra have been sent on shore to hospitals in two days. A quantity of opium and piece goods valued at some $15,000 has been recovered from the Ockseu wreckers, and handed over to the Vice-Consul by the local authorities.

HONG KONG.

The present mail brings advices from this port to the morning of the 26th April.

The Daily Press says:—A graceful compliment was paid to Mr. Lemann by the Choral Society, in the form of a complimentary concert at the City Hall, on the occasion of his leaving Hong Kong. The room was well filled, and the programme very pleasingly and effectively performed. Mr. Lemann played one of Thalberg's fantasias with his well-known efficiency, his articulation of the innumerable short notes with which Thalberg's music is flooded being very pure, and his theme withal well pronounced. A violoncello solo was played with marked feeling and delicacy, and the part-songs of the Gesang Verein were given in a most masterly manner, the last, in reply to a recall, being a kind of German Christy's. The pianoforte performances of a well-known amateur were applauded to the echo, and the Society, albeit they have had so lately to accommodate themselves to a new conductor (efficient enough, but still new), sang their choruses with fair smoothness and steadiness. On the whole the concert left a very pleasing impression on the memory, and the whole audience appeared thoroughly to enjoy it.

The North German barque Sophia Rickmers, under the decision of the Prize Court, was sold at Saigon, on the 14th April, for £117,000, and another barque was sold for £80,000.

The China Mail has the following items:—

Our Canton correspondent writes:—Our Consul, Mr. Robertson, C.B., leaves us this morning, much to the regret of the entire community. We hope to see him back again as Sir Brooke Robertson, K.C.B., and we are sure that the honour so tardily bestowed has seldom been better earned. The last week has been a continual round of feasts and fetes in his honour, and a further testimony of esteem and respect is to be presented in the shape of a set of black-wood furniture and an address.

A Chinese of the name of George Chun successfully passed his examination on Thursday last for a certificate of competency as a second mate. The occurrence is significant from the fact of this being the first Chinaman who has so passed.

We hear from the North that Mr. B. E. Drew, Acting Commissioner of Chinese Customs, Kiukiang, has been specially requested by H. E. the U. S. Minister to accompany the projected expedition to the Corea. Mr. Drew was for some time Chinese Secretary to the Inspector General of Customs, Mr. Hart, and his knowledge of the Court language will no doubt enable him to render good service to the expedition. An account of Corea from a pen so able as that of Mr. Drew will be of much value and will be expected with much interest.

CANTON.

The following address was presented to H.M. Consul, D. B. Robertson, Esq., C.B., on his leaving Canton. The steamer Kiukiang was decorated for the occasion, and her saloon was fairly filled by the crowd of residents who came to wish Mr. Robertson good bye. Mr. Robertson made a reply, thanking the community for this and many other marks of their esteem:—

To D. B. Robertson, Esq., C.B., H.B.M.'s Consul, Canton.

Dear Sir,—We, the undersigned British residents in Canton, learn with most unfeigned regret of your approaching departure for Europe. Your long residence in Canton, the solicitude with which you have always watched over and fostered the interests of your countrymen in China, the uniform good relations which you have maintained with the native officials, the representatives of other powers and the community, all combine to enhance the regret with which we witness your departure. We are, however, confident in the hope that the invariable justice, courtesy, and firmness, which you have manifested during your tenure of office here, will bear good fruit in the future, and that the policy you have so consistently pursued will not fail to exert great influence in the cementing of harmonious relations between Western countries and the natives of the Chinese Empire.

Socially we have to thank you for many acts of kindness and cordiality, and we are assured that the memory of your administration in Canton will not soon be forgotten. We wish you God-speed on your homeward voyage, and we trust that every happiness may await your arrival in the dear old country which you have served so well during your long, arduous, and honourable career. We request your acceptance of a slight souvenir of our esteem and respect.

COCHIN CHINA.

SAIGON.

Dates extend to the 2nd May.

We are happy to learn from the Courier that the political and financial position of the colony is so satisfactory as to leave little to be desired. Everything is tranquil in the adjacent provinces, even those usually the most turbulent, and the roads made safe by the French have not since been disturbed.

The same journal announces the total sum raised by subscription for the wounded in Saigon as £71,150.

The other local journal, L'Indépendant de Saigon, bears saddening evidence of the vices which have eaten into the very core of French society, and have brought that unhappy nation to the pitch of degradation, which, while all must deplore it, few can pity without such an expression of contempt as amounts to disgust. "Liberté, Egalité, Fraternité"—this is the hateful motto of the Indépendant, and we suppose we ought in charity to imagine that the editor and his readers, who were probably "versants des larmes" into absinthe glasses—a la mode de J. J. Rousseau—were not, when the paper left Saigon, aware of the second and worse edition of the atrocities then being perpetrated in the fairest city of Europe under this hateful cry. Perhaps when they learn the facts they may alter their motto. Or is a Frenchman's sword the only place where he can blush?
